solved. For full proofs send postcard at once for my large book, "Parrot Prattle," now containing 168 pages. This is the most wonderful book ever offered free of all charge to all Parrot fanciers. (This "Parrot Prattle" is registered copyright, and all infringers and imitators will be proceeded against). It contains hundreds of testimonials from all parts with full names and addresses, many interesting facts, and gives valuable advice and hints to all parrot buyers. Full details of our original system of selling Parrots on four week's trial, at our risk, which we were the first to introduce. We sell Parrots of all descriptions on four weeks' trial, at our risk, before settlement. Cheapest and best in the Kingdom, and any Parrot sold by us, and not giving full satisfaction, will he exchanged any time within twelve months. Remember we lead and others try to follow. Write to other dealers as well as us, and judge for yourselves. Lists of Parrots for sale and above book post free on receipt of postcard

BOOKLET FREE.

Finest Talking Parrots. I only deal in Parrots that will make first-class talkers; no rubbish. I am willing at all times to send my Parrots on four weeks' trial and three months' talking guarantee. Why? Because all my Parrots are young, strong, and reliable. My lifetime has been spent among grey Parrots, both at home and abroad. I guarantee every customer every satisfaction. Grey Parrots are my special fancy. I have trained them, know their wants, and can give every purchaser a bird that will please him in every way. I can supply grey talkers, not thinkers, that will say almost anything, at reasonable prices. Before you purchase a grey or green Parrot, send for my Booklet, entitled "Talking Parrots." All my birds are sent on four weeks' trial, at my risk. Send postcard for catalogue.—Mrs. Forster, Princes Park Aviaries, Violet Street, Liverpool.

Notice will be placed up in the room. It is hoped that as many as possible will attend. The advisability of holding a club show will be discussed, besides other important items.—D. H. TEDSTONE.

SALE OPEN O.S.

At meeting held Oct. 28th, it was decided to postpone the smoking concert which was to have been held Nov. 2nd, till after the show on Nov. 9th. Mr. Proctor Pearson has given a challenge cup to be won outright at this show by a team of four Canaries of any one variety, members to compete with only one team. A washing competition was held: Judges, John Leigh and C. H. Smith. 1, G. F. Hardcastle; 2, W. Smith; 3, F. Wardleworth.—GEORGE HARDCASTLE, Sec.

L. AND L.F. ASSOCIATION.

The following is the table of the three highest for cup competitions, including Manchester Show:—Lancashires: Mr. John Garner, 31 points; Mr. J. Oldham, 27 points; Mr. J. Vickers, 23 points. Lizards: Mr. J. Dewsnap, 43 points; Mr. W. Lawton, 39 points; Mr. J. Hampshires, 31 points. Members are specially requested not to omit putting L. and L.F.A. at the end of their entries, as this is important.—H. OLIVER, Sec.

LONDON AND COUNTIES A.C.B.

A washing competition was held at the Bay Malton, on Oct. 24th. It proved an enjoyable display. Messrs. Shakespeare, Bell and E. Pretty entered as champions, and Messrs. Stacey, Orme, Hammant and Hawes as novices. Messrs. Sam Smith and Mr. Oldaker acted as judges. Mr. Shakespeare was declared the winner in champions, and Mr. Stacey in novices. The president announced that several more specials and medals had come in for the autumn show. With hearty votes of thanks all round the meeting closed.

Y.C.C. OF IRELAND.

Committee meeting held on 24th Oct., at Douglas Hotel. Mr. Devitt in the chair, also present eight members. Letters of thanks were received from Mrs. Reilly, of Arna, and Mr. Bray, of Dalky, for the votes of condolence sent. The patronage of the club was granted to Sligo show, to be held on 20th and 21st Nov. Judge, Mr. McLay, and the committee agreed to the classification for Dundalk show. A vote of thanks was passed to Mr. Barclay for his gift towards club funds. Meeting adjourned after a general conversation anent the show.—W. C. SHOLEDICE, Hon. Sec.

LONG EATON AND DIS. C.B.S.

Meeting held Oct. 26th, at the Blue Bell Inn, the chair being taken by Mr. Berridge, vice-president, who takes a great interest in the society. He gave us some valuable information in classing the cup and medals for the first members' show to be held Nov. 30. 120 birds have already been entered, and 26 medals have been given by patrons and fanciers; also one cup by our president, Mr. G. Smith, for the best Yellow Crest, which is to be won three times. Mr. Berridge then offered to give another cup for the best young Crest-bred, to be won on the same conditions. An enjoyable evening closed with a hearty vote of thanks to the chairman.—W. H.

REIGATE AND DISTRICT F.A.

A highly-successful smoking concert was held at Mutton's Hotel, on Oct. 14th. Mr. T. Penfold, hon. treasurer, made an excellent chairman, and there was a large attendance. The comic element was strongly represented, the artistes including Mr. Bert Sargant, Mr. Jack Lassah, Mr. E. Montague, and Mr. Reg. Mason, and an encore was demanded in more than one case. Mr. Sid. Beeklow, with dances and singing, grave and gay, provided fare of a varied character, while Mr. H. H. Hoad and Mr. Bacon, the able and indefatigable secretary were both in fine voice, the latter being a great success in "The Village Blacksmith." Mr. W. W. Oliver contributed a couple of banjo solos in skilful style, while Mr. G. E. Holman and Mr. Sid Simmonds presided at the piano with much ability. During an interval the chairman remarked on the flourishing condition which the Association, after 27 years' existence, was now in; while Mr. Green emphasised the fact that cage-bird breeding was no longer confined principally to low-class men, but that Her Majesty, the Queen, was among its many distinguished patrons. Mr. Bacon, in appealing for new members of the section, said that the subscription was only 4s. annually, and that it entitled the subscriber to exhibit at three shows.

CITY AND SUBURBAN.

At the last meeting of the City and Suburban, Messrs. G. B. Lewis, J. Hughes, and R. Allen were elected members. Messrs. Prior and Robson were elected to judge British and Foreign and Canary classes respectively. The quarterly statement of accounts ending October 1st, showing an income of £67 13s. 8d., an expenditure of £44 10s. 5d., and a cash balance of £23 3s. 3d., was confirmed as read.—VICTOR WYNN, Hon. Sec.

QUEENS PARK AND DIS. C.B.A.

A very successful first table show of the season was held Oct. 17th, staging 26 cages. Yorkshires were in the majority, the winners being Messrs. Lewis 1st, K. J. Rogers 2nd and c, J. G. Lawrence, 3rd, 4th, and vhc, and R. Hodges hc. Norwich: Messrs. Lethbridge 1st, 3rd and vhc, Eaton 2nd and c, Wiles hc. British and Foreign: Messrs. Creamer 1st, Wiles 2nd and 3rd. Messrs. Battison and Peverall acted as judges, the awards giving great satisfaction. They were accorded a hearty vote of thanks for their services. A vote of thanks to the Chairman for presiding brought a very pleasant evening to a close.—J. C. BIRCH, Hon. Sec.

PLUMSTEAD, WOOLWICH AND DISTRICT C.B.S.

Third meeting held at Trinity Schools, Oct 24th, about 40 members and friends present. Mr. Meades (treasurer) gave an excellent washing exhibition, first explaining all details with one Canary, and then quickly performing on a second. A washing competition for novices followed, Mr. Allison winning first prize. Mr. Newnham also washed a bird. Votes of thanks were given to Mr. Meades and the secretaries, who made the drying apparatus used. The following new members were then elected: Miss H. Smith, Messrs. T. T. Collins, D. Black, T. Horsfield, E. Jordan, W. Miller, H. Nunn, F. Putner, and L. J. Richardson, making total membership 41, and it is hoped to pass the half century before the end of the year. A vote of thanks to the chairman closed the meeting.—W. PAWLEY, Hon. Sec.

METROPOLITAN ASSOCIATION OF C.M. AND H.B.

Fortnightly meeting held October 10th, when Mr. Allen Silver gave his promised lecture on British Birds, which proved to be one of the most interesting and instructive ever delivered before the members. After his lecture Mr. Silver handed round a large number of plates illustrating the various British Birds in his lecture, which all present were delighted with. A long discussion then ensued on the subject, in which Messrs. Box, Martin, Head, Humphrey, etc., took part. Mr. Martin, proposed, seconded by Mr. Box, that a hearty vote of thanks be accorded the lecturer. Mr. Silver suitably replied. The society have resolved to hold their annual show at headquarters, the "Crown Hotel," Lavender Hill, S.W., on November 13th and 14th, and have been fortunate in securing the services of that well-known judge, Mr. T. Heath.—A. J. HEAD, Hon. Sec.

WIMBLEDON C.B.S.

Meeting held October 7th, when the chairman, Mr. W. H. Stoakley presided over a good attendance. The secretary reported that the committee had been hard at work fixing up arrangements for annual show at Queen's Hall on January 8th and 9th. He said the Society had got the patronage of the Novice Section of the Southern Yorkshire C.C., that the Crested C.C. had offered several special prizes, and that the Yorkshire C.C. had also offered special prizes for members of their club resident outside Yorkshire. The judges would be Mr. J. Robson and Mr. H. Knight. It was decided to support the proposed federation of London and district cage bird societies, and Messrs. Colman and Carson were appointed delegates. The most attractive feature of the evening was a very clever and interesting bird-cage making exhibition, given by Mr. A. W. Curtis, who was accorded a very hearty vote of thanks for the great trouble he had taken.—W. H. COLMAN, Hon. Sec.

WELSH CAGE BIRD CLUB.

Annual Report.

By the balance-sheet sent at the end of June, members will have seen that the Club has done far better during the past year than in any previous year, and that we have a brighter outlook for the present year, having two Challenge Cups, also Sandiford's Cup, and Hyde's teapot. But we feel convinced that if each member would do his best to get others to join the Club, instead of having fifty-four members on the books, by the end of the year, we should have double that number. This is proved by the fact that ninety per cent. have joined through seeing notes in the Fancy Press from time to time. Now is the time to get new members to join to enable them to have a fair opportunity to compete for the Club's Specials. You will see that we have altered the Show Rules to enable the novices to have a fair fight between themselves. This should enable us to enrol a good percentage of novices, undoubtedly the backbone of the Fancy. The Committee is drafting out a scheme for holding a Club Show, which will be brought before a General meeting for consideration. It is decided to hold the meeting at Swansea on November 6th or 7th, as will be announced in the Fancy Press. We should be pleased to receive Specials for competition at our Members' Show. The Committee expect every member to do his duty, as Nelson did years ago.—T. L. Castree, Chairman; D. H. Tedstone, Hon. Secretary.

The officers for 1907-8, are: President: Sir Alfred Thomas, M.P.; Vice-presidents: Sidney Robinson, Esq., M.P., J. R. Leech, Esq., Dr. G. P. Francis, J.P.; Chairman: Mr. T. L. Castree; vice-chairman: Mr. T. L. Meluish; Hon. Treasurer: Mr. J. H. Jones; Auditors: Messrs. E. A. Jones and D. A. S. Longden; Committee: Messrs. T. Oriel, E. J. Banks, F. P. Dymond, F. J. Eynon, S. J. Nicholas, J. Pritchard, G. L. Harber, M.R.C.V.S., B. Davies; Club Judges: Messrs. T. H. Meluish, D. H. Tedstone, T. L. Castree, L. Hughes, F. J. Eynon, J. Pritchard, D. S. A. Longden; Hon. Secretary: Mr. D. H. Tedstone, 4, George Street, Brecon.

BARROW AND DISTRICT C.B.A.

Supper held October 9th, at Gardener's Coffee Rooms, Paxton-terrace, the occasion being the presentation of cups, etc., to the members who won them at our young bird show. A good number of members were present, and partook of an excellent supper provided by Mr. Gardener. After supper an excellent concert was given. Mr. R. Willison, one of the oldest members of the association, occupied the chair, and gave the toast of the evening, "Success to the Barrow and Dis. C.B.A." The first item on the programme was the presentation of cups, and the chairman called on Mr. Price to make the presentation to the successful exhibitors. Mr. Price then called upon Mr. T. Galt, who won the Border Fancy Cup, remarking that he was glad to hand him the cup, especially seeing he was a novice, and he hoped he would win it again next year. Mr. Galt, in acknowledging the trophy, said that, although he was a novice, the association would have to breed some good young birds to take the cup away from him next year. The winner of the Association Cup, unfortunately, did not turn up to receive it. Mr. Price said it gave him great pleasure to call upon another novice, Mr. F. Henderson, who had won the silver medal, presented by Mr. Crosby for the best young Yorkshire, shown by a member. Mr. Henderson thanked them kindly, and said that it was his first attempt at showing Canaries, and he hoped he would win a few more medals before he had finished. Master Jones gave a few splendid selections on one of Mr. Barrett's noted gramaphones, which were greatly enjoyed by the company, especially enjoyable was the "Laughing Boon," at which Bro. Treadwell just about beat the gramaphone. Bros. Treadwell and Large gaven an exhibition of high kicking, Song, "You Can't be too Careful and Wise," by Mr. H. Cunningham; song, "While the Dance goes on," by Mr. G. Large; song, "Fireman Joe," by Mr. J. Llewellyn; "Cake Walk," by Bros. Treadwell and Large, and song, "Break the news to Mother," by Bro. G. Large. The concert concluded with some splendid selections on the gramaphone. Votes of thanks were passed to Mr. Gardener for the kind way he had looked after us, and the splendid supper he had supplied; to the chairman, Mr. R. Willison, for the able way in which he had conducted the business of the evening; and to Mr. Barrett for the use of the gramaphone. The singing of "Auld Lang Syne" brought a most enjoyable evening to a close. Members on departing expressed the hope that they might have a few more parties like that.—W. WILLISON, Sec.

THE YOUNG NATURALIST.

Prizes of 1s. and two of 6d. each will be given after next week for the best three anecdotes about birds written on postcards. Competitors must be children under sixteen years of age, and must state from where stories are taken.

Two stars indicate the Winning Contribution; one star the runners up.

*A Domesticated Blackbird.

A pair of Blackbirds built their nests and reared their young at the back of a residence not far from our house. They built in some thin creeping ivy growing over the back door, and so tame did the birds become that the inhabitants of the house would often call to them and the old bird would look over the side of the nest into the house. The old Blackbirds again lined their novel home and deposited a second set of eggs.—WILLIAM LEWIS (aged 12), 122, King-street, Kettering.

A Pleasant Walk.

About two or three months ago, while a friend and I were walking along a road leading through a meadow, we saw a Waterhen run across, so we went up to see where it went, and saw a pond with a lot of rushes, etc., in it. Thinking the bird must have its nest there, we went to look, and found an empty nest. It was quite new, so I got down to have a look at it, and out of the rushes tumbled three young ones. They were all black and fluffy like chickens, but not so pretty. They could float very well, but were so young that they could not go very fast, and kept getting stuck in the weeds:—H. RICHARDSON, Medina Cottage, Bridlington (no age given—Uncle Peter).

*A Ramble through the Country.

My brother and I went away for the week-end to Neston. While picking flowers we heard a noise in some bushes close by. We looked in and found a nest with three young chicks in it. Strolling along we came across some houses in which we saw about six small ws' nests made of mud as neat as any human being could make them. We saw the mother bird flying with something in her mouth for her young ones. How good they are to their young brood!—ANNIE HUMPHRIES (aged 15 years), 74, Cedar-street, Bootle, near Liverpool.

SINGING CONTESTS.

PENTONVILLE.

At the Bee Hive, Cynthia-street, the week brought a large gathering of the Fancy, "Tick," "Little Jack," and "Doctor" proving the winners.—PONY MOORE, Timekeeper.

LEWISHAM.

A strong muster turned up on Oct. 26th, at the Coach and Horses, High-street, Lewisham, to hear the singing contest. Result was not over satisfactory from a singing point of view, the scores being: Robinson, 2-15; Cartwright, 1-12; C. Austin, 1-2; Mayo, 11; Tiger Boy and The Doctor would not open at all; Larkinson, 1-2; Tary, 2; Imp, 1-3; Lob, 5; C. Austin, 1-11; Larney, 3; Ingram, 0; Barber, 2-11. Several other pairs were also put on the nail.

LEEDS.

Good number at usual week-end contest for quality singing on October 21st, when 16 birds competed for three good prizes given by Mr. J. R. Saynor. Some splendid singing heard; everybody delighted. Judges were Messrs. B. Jackson and G. Towers. Result: 1st, A. Binner; 2nd and 3rd, H. Allen. Mr. Binner purchased the winning Linnet from Mr. H. Allen; a very nice bird. Also a contest held on October 27th, when Mr. J. R. Saynor gave three special prizes for quality singing. The bird room was packed with visitors and friends to hear the birds sing. Eighteen birds entered, and some real good Linnet singing was heard to the satisfaction of all. Judges, Messrs. B. Jackson and G. Towers. Result: 1st and 3rd, H. Allen; 2nd, A. Binner.

GLOUCESTER.

This District C.B.S held its annual show in the Assembly Room on the 30th and 31st October. The room is an ideal one, free from draughts and well lighted. Mr. J. Houghton proved a painstaking and hardworking secretary. Gloucester was always a hot-bed for the Norwich variety, and on this occasion the local cracks more than held their own. Mr. G. Gwilliam had a strong team, and took six firsts, three seconds, and two thirds. He also annexed the Open Challenge Bowl for the best four birds in eight open classes, Challenge Cup and Medal for most points in show, and the members' points special. The Yorkshires were a grand collection, worth going a long way to see. The exhibits were well staged, and attended by a willing band of workers. Mr. H. W. Battye judged. NORWICH CLEAR YELL. PAIGNTON.

Torbay O.S. initial show was held Oct. 30th in the Public Hall, Paignton, one of the best buildings for a bird sbow we have ever seen. Exhibits were nicely staged round the room, the staging being nicely draped and at a convenient height. The centre of the room was taken up by some splendid groups of palms, ferns, and flowers very tastefully arranged, kindly lent by the President, Mr. H. Chithy. Several classes were cancelled, and we would advise the Committee another year to consiclerably curtail the classification. Quality was first-class, many well-known winners putting in an appearance. The exhibits were well looked after by a good body of keen and enthusiastic fanciers. Mr. C. Parnell was the hon. sec., and he carried out his duties as to the manner born. Mr. Pope, Plymouth, was present as the accredited representative of the C.B.U. Catalogues with marginal awards were on sale within ten minutes of the last slip being handed in. This was certainly a very smart performance. Mr. J. H. Payne judged. NOR. CL. YELL. WELSH NATIONAL (SWANSEA.)

Held Oct. 30th and 31st, in the Albert Minor Hall, a fine cosy place for holding a fixture of this kind, the light being very good in the daytime, and brilliant when lit up in the evening. Its natural advantages were made the best of by the hard-working enthusiastic fanciers who compose the Welsh National Society—only ten in number, but ten of the best, and ten determined to give only the best to the Fancy at large. They erected their own staging, on the most up-to-date plan, and covered it from top to bottom with red baize, so that the possibility of draughts was reduced to a minimum, and it was quite impossible for any cages to fall through the back of the staging to the floor—the great drawback to most of the staging found at shows. We have never, in short, seen birds made more comfortable anywhere, and their requirements in the matter of food and water were studied with every care. Fanciers should bear this in mind next season, and give the Welsh National the bumping entry it deserves. The response this year, though a fine one, was not what it should have been considering the very liberal prize money offered (35/- per class for a 2/- fee), and good specials. The officials think that probably this remarkable offer by a Society in the first year of its existence was misunderstood by fanciers. Anyway, many exhibitors missed a fine opportunity of annexing some spoil worth having, for several classes had to be cancelled. Probably another year the spirit of the promoters will be better understood, and they will have a "full house." They have plenty of money and plenty of enthusiasm at the back of them, and are prepared to meet their liabilities to the last penny. Mr. R. F. Browne is the genial president, with Mr. H. Creber, vice-president, Mr. W. A. Truscott, treasurer, and Messrs. W. H. Love, B. Prosser, W. Slade, W. J. Bancroft, and F. Scrine, the committee, many of the names here being of wide renown in other branches of sport. One and all are fanciers in the best sense of the word. In Mr. S. J. Nicholas they have an experienced and most able secretary, popular with all comers. In Mr. Longden they have also a popular show manager, and a more energetic worker we have never met. Things "get a move on" under his direction with a vengeance, and everything was in order, and the catalogues with marginal awards out in record time. Further, projects for the next show, with improvements even on the present one, were already being discussed. Coming to the birds, we must say that the quality was magnificent—no other word fits the case. The cream of the Fancy turned up, and many noted Scotch exhibitors also entered the lists. The Norwich and Yorkshires were all quality, and pleased the judge, Mr. North, immensely. Mr. Evans was also equally enthusiastic about the Scots Fancies and Borders, the former being far the best ever seen in Wales, in his opinion. Mr. Longden put down a tip-top team, and won in every class—a very fine performance. The Hybrids were also a wonderful collection. The Britisb found Mr. Weston one of the hardest day's work he has experienced. The strength of Wales in this section is well-known, and many noted English and Scotch exhibitors sent some hot stuff to do battle with the local celebrities. The attendance was excellent up to the time we left on the opening day, despite the none too favourable weather, and the visitors expressed themselves delighted with the feast put in front of them. Altogether, the Welsh National can congratulate itself on its opening venture. There should be a bright future before it. The judges were: Messrs. J. North (Norwich and Yorks), J. B. Evans (Bord., Scots, and Hybrids), and G. E. Weston (Brit. and For.), and their awards were well received.

The Canary Section.

The Hybrids.

CLEAR, ETC. (4): 1, spl., Duncan and Logan, the noted clear, real tip-topper, in grand form, fine size and shape, all quality, excellent blaze, much admired; 2, Walsh, almost six-pointed buff, good one, too, excellent size and substance, fine silky feather, nice tone of colour; 3, James, slight grizzle on wings, lovely quality and shape, good exhibit, looks like a hen, unfortunately; 4, Hocking, nearly 6-pointed, neat smart bird, trifle small, grand quality. VAR. ETC. (14): Splendid class: 1, Duncan and Logan, wonderful quality, tight as wax, big bold upstanding mule, we liked well; 2, Arrighi, another beauty for size and shape, mkd. eyes and right wing, tight and silky in jacket, nice rich colour, very smart one; 3, D. G. Lewis, head, wings and saddle hardly the substance of leaders, yet close up for quality and neatness, very shapely and stylish; 4, Beard, likewise loses size, but a good one for condition and shape, almost 6-pointed; 5, hc, Jeffreys, two real good mules, leader a hot one for colour and quality; vhc, Roderick; c, G. T. Jones: All winners Goldie Canaries. DARK YELL.

GOLD CAN. (11). 1, Duncan and Logan, not over large, yet big and shapely, grand in quality and colour, full rich blaze, well marked all over; 2, D. G. Lewis, bigger than leader, grand substance and shape, very nicely marked, loses in quality and colour to-day, apparently not quite fit; 3, Coffey, a beauty, A1 size and shape, neat and stylish, deep rich colour, a little short of bloom yet, some preferred it for second place; 4, vhc, and spl. hc, c, R. W. Jones, grand team, very typical and good in size and substance, mostly young birds which will render a good account of themselves another season; 5, Serme, trifle smaller than leaders, lovely quality, nice even rich colour, fit to win at most shows. BUFF (9): 1, Bald, real knock-out for size, and shape, all quality, too, fine tone of colour, big, rich blaze, wins well; 2, Walsh, also a grand male, fine substance and shape, hot, even colour, lovely face; 3, Thomas, trifle smaller, all there for colour and quality, tight as wax, very nice blaze; 4, Griffiths and Lloyd, fine bird for size and style, nice colour, looked a little loose in feather under throat, should improve; 5, Bancroft, on the small side, very typical and smart, tight as wax in feather, full of quality and colour; vhc, Slade; hc, Jeffreys; c, Harwood. DK. GREENIE (6): 1, Leigh, a particularly fine jonque, rare size and shape, lovely tone of colour, all quality, we liked much; 2, Longden, another really grand jonque, exceptional size and substance, equal to winner for colour and quality, will run him very close later, not quite fit yet; 3, R. J. Howe, a size smaller, clinker for condition and colour, fine shape and style; 4, Arrighi, lovely cinnamon, rare size and shape, all quality, could have gone up a notch, we thought; 5, R. W. Jones, real good example, has size, quality and colour, not quite fit yet; vhc, Jeffreys. DK. LINNET (11): 1, Duncan and Logan, the noted Palace etc., winner, wonderful size and shape, lovely quality and colour, in the pink, wins hands down; 2, Coffey, another rattling good exhibit, buff, fine size, shapely, rich in colour, grand condition; 3, vhc, R. W. Jones, jonque, smaller than leader, very fine quality and colour, excellent shape, well built, nice one; 4, R. J. Howe, very lengthy, shapely buff, nice colour, neat, well made; 5, c, Slade, another good exhibit, has quality and colour, nice shape; hc, Jeffreys. DK. SISKIN, ETC. (9): 1, Leigh, one of the best Siskin Mules we have seen for a long time, wonderful size, combined with the best of quality rich even colour, will want beating; 2, Nicholas, gem for colour and quality, very chubby and shapely, tight as wax, finely marked, loses in size; 3, hc, Jeffreys, bigger than second, excellent shape and markings, not quite the same colour and bloom; 4, D. G. Lewis, good one all round, fine size and quality, little bare ever beak; 5, Slade, paler in colour, nice bird for stylo and shape; vhc, Jenkins; c, Coffey; all the winners Siskin Canaries. A.O.V. CAN. HYB.: 1, 1, Duncan and Logan, a very fine Canary-Bullie, lengthy, shapely, deep and rich colour, in good form. HYBRID (8): 1, Walsh, rattling good Greenie-Bullie, plenty of size, full of colour and quality, excellent markings, nice specimen; 2, 1, Arrighi, splendid Goldie-Bullie at the front, grand substance and shape, fine head, nice expansive blaze, latter a very taking Linnet-Bullie, beautiful shape, fine size, exceptionally good colour; 3, vhc, Smallridge, very smart Go'die-Greenie, excellent size and shape; fine colour, tight in feather, some thought a trifle lucky to get this card in such company; 5, Jackson, another real good Goldie-Bullie, all there for size and shape, good in colour; hc, Jones and Son, c, R. W. Jones, promising "baby" Goldie-Bullie.

British and Foreign Birds.

GOLDFINCH (22): 1, spl., Prior, smart and shapely Finch, nice size, good chest, rich tan, very expansive, clean, deep-coloured blaze, full of bloom, very forward in condition; 2, c, Walsh, big, finely shaped bird, good sized square cut face, splendid chestnut body colour, in grand trim for the time of year; 3, Williams and Morgan, not quite ready yet, but will need beating later on, beautifully clean, wide, well-cut blaze, fine body, well marked, most promising; 4, C. J. Davies, another of the forward brigade, lovely quality and condition, nice rich, square face, not quite so expansive as the leaders; 5, Bancroft, rich, square blaze, shade narrow, fine body, splendid tan and markings, taking Finch; vhc, Prosser; hc, D. G. Lewis. If we mistake not, both 1st and 2nd at the Crystal Palace last season stood cardless here, badly needing time. GREYPATE (7): 1, A. Howe, promising bird, good big clean coloured blaze, very nice body, unsteady; 2, Griffiths and Lloyd, extraordinary deep-coloured blaze for a "Greypate," good size, nice shape, rare size, close up; 3, Taylor; 4, Slee; 5, D. G. Lewis; all more or less promising Goldies; No. 2, W. Lewis, wrong classed, has coloured wing bars and white legs. A very unsatisfactory class to judge. How can birds with full-coloured blazes be Greypates? BULLFINCH CK. (13): 1, 3, Walsh, two smart birds, winner in wonderful bloom, very nice breast colour, cobby shape, good cap, 3rd also forward in condition, little dirty in breast colour, otherwise a very nice one; 2, Prior best shape in class, typical, thick-set, well-rounded bird, fine cap, back and bars, close up, beaten only in breast colour; 4, R. J. Howe, fine, bold shapely Bullie, nice colour, inclined to be a little rough and unsteady; vhc, Harrison; hc., Norton; c, Jeffreys. HEN: 5, 1, Jeffreys, big, very steady, nice colour, sleek and stylish, good one; 2, Livingstone, nicely polished plumage, good colour, loses a shade in substance; 3, Bancroft, good type of bird, nice size, shape and colour; 4, Castree, big, bold hen, loose underneath. LINNET (17): 1, A. P. Hurst, a grand one, wonderfully rich in colour, sound as a bell all over, splendid size and shape, full of pencilling, bold head, good whites, a very taking bird, wins nicely; 2, hc, Prior, leader a remarkable Linnet for quality and polish, very distinctly pencilled all over, most shapely and stylish, not quite so warm in ground colour as winner; 3, 4, Walsh, two red-hot ones in chestnut, very sound all through, 3rd, big, good chested, upstanding bird, finely pencilled, close on second's heels; 4, in grand bloom, trifle blurred in markings; 5, R. J. Howe, big, shapely bird, beautifully marked, wants time yet, to get up in bloom; vhc, Treharne; c, Davies; a very hot lot to sort out; wrong class, No 1, a hen. CHAFFINCH (10): 1, 2, spl., R. J. Howe, brace of beauties, will take some stopping, lovely tone of colour, grand shape and polish, excellent markings, took some separating, either could have won; 3, 5, Prior, two more grand Chaffies; 3rd perhaps the best bloom in class, not the warm tone of leaders, though, 5th, a big promising bird, hardly fit yet; 4, c, Longden, rare size and shape, nicely contrasted colours, in excellent condition; vhc, Winter, hc, Bradford: No. 10, little "down" when judged; a splendid class. LESSER REDPOLL (15): 1, Prosser, fine specimen, nice size, rich colour throughout, good bib, chubby and shapely, grandly marked wings and back, perfect condition; 2, Arrighi, another clinker, fine size and shape, well laced, nice bib, lovely colour and condition, close up; 3, c, Nicholas, grand shapely little fellow, very distinct bib, well marked all over, beautiful bloom, loses a trifle in wings; 4, Bancroft, also a beauty for condition, shines like silk, well marked, shade rough at throat, but close up; 5, R. J. Howe, big, cobby bird, finely marked, shade short of polish; vhc, Osborne; hc, Walsh. SISKIN (coloured) (8): 1, Hurst, grand shape, tight as wax, good even colour, well-laced, bold cap, splendid lacing and wings; 2, Jeffreys, lovely bright colour, finely marked, very shapely and neat, fails only in bib; 3, Arrighi, fine, big, good shaped Siskin, nice head and wings, carries a grand polish, one or two tail feathers not quite down; 4, Bird, fine one for shape and quality, well polished, nicely marked; 5, Bald, fails a shade in cap, otherwise a very good specimen, in good trim, vhc, Serme; hc, Bancroft; c, Truscott. NON-FED (5): 1, Russell clinker, fine size and shape, excellent markings, very pure bright colour; 2, Beard, extra big sleek bird, trifle duller in colour; 3, Longden; 4, Bancroft; 5, Parry, all three of them very decent specimens. BRAMBLEFINCH (10): 1, spl., Longden, rare good one, splendid size and shape, big well-rounded head and chest, well cut markings, grand colour and spangling; 2, Hurst, another clasher for size and style, good markings and spangling, not quite so even and deep in colour as winner; 3, Prior, also a whopper, grandly spangled head rich-coloured chest, finely cut dense hood, bit unsteady; 4, Arrighi, gem for colour and condition, beautifully marked, beaten only for size; 5, R. J. Howe, exactly the same remarks apply; vhc, Coffey; hc, Jones; c, Pearce; another difficult lot to separate. GREENFINCH (16): 1, 3, Walsh, winner a beauty for size and shape, lovely bloom on plumage, grand wings and tail, fed a hot, even colour; 3, a little out in feather at throat, for polish, sound colour, shape and style, very bad to beat; 2, c, R. J. Howe, grand size and shape, very sleek in coat, bold, steady fellow, ran a tight race with winner, normal colour, trifle pale under beak; 4, Nicholas, our old friend, the "Silver King," rattling good, grand-shaped Greenie, not quite ready yet; 5, Livingstone, very sleek, well built bird, grand shape and style; vhc, Treharne; hc, Arrighi. BUNTING (5): 1, spl., Nicholas, Yellowhammer, a beauty, rare deep rich ground colour, grand chestnut, beautifully marked; 2, Walsh, very big, bold heavily pencilled Corn Bunting, in fine trim; 3, Prior, splendid natural-coloured Yellowhammer, finely marked; 4, Hurst, 5, Brown; two more clinking hammers. HEN (7): 1, 4, R. J. WOLVERHAMPTON.

This is the first exhibition held by this society, which is an offshoot of this fur and feather Society. The show was held Oct. 30 and 31 in the Co-operative Hall, which made an excellent venue The exhibits numbered 312. 19 exhibits competed for Cage Birds Competition; at this show were 4 Roller Singing Contests. We believe we are right in saying that this is the first of the Contests in connection with shows held in the Midlands, and Rollers were very strongly represented. The secretary and officers had the arrangements well in hand. Amongst the officers are to be found some of the well known names: President, Mr. Stavcley Hill; chairman, F. J. Weaver; vice-chairman, R. Willoughby, Esq., and J. A. Tonks, Esq., Treasurer, J. W. Thomson, Esq., hon. auctioneer, J. Bradley, Esq.; Committee, Messrs. J. Jones, F. Garfield, C. Steadman, E. H. Birch, G. Osborne, H. Turpin and Mac Jacquerniss; hon. sec., F. Howes. W. Whittaker (Bolton), judged Rollers; J. Robson (London) the remainder.

BARNSTAPLE.

The entry in this section was in excess of last year, and considering that the show was not held under C.B. Union rules, the number staged was very satisfactory. The Belgians were exceptionally strong and the quality of the best, and the judge had all his work to separate the winners. The Crests and Crestbreds were not so numerous as one would expect to find, but the quality was good. The Crests of Messrs. Bale and Piper deserve special mention. All Norwich and Yorks classes were cancelled, owing to the failure of the Society to obtain a licence from the Union. This was to be regretted. Mr. R. B. Tope (Plymouth) judged, and his awards were well received. BELGIANS, COCK (11): 1, sp, Rugg, Ticked, splendid Buff of excellent quality, well up in size, quick to get in position, wins; 2, 3, G. L. Baker, Yellow, well up in size, not so quick in action, third another Yellow, not so massive, does not draw so well; 4, Porter; vhc, Bennett; hc, Baker; c, Bennett, Horrill. HEN (8): 1, Rugg, Yellow, splendid quality, well on leg, with good reach; 2, W. Bennett, Buff, ticked in head, a grand hen, splendid size and quality, runs winner close; 3, Baker, Buff, in nice condition; 4, Baker; vhc, Baker; hc, Hovill; c Baker. A.V., bred 1907 (14): 1, sp, Horrill, Buff, grand size and quality of feather, well up on perch, quick in action; 2, sp, 3, 4, Baker, very nice trio, second Yellow, loses a little to winner, third, Buff, scarcely so quick in action; 4, Baker; vhc, Rugg; hc, c, R. J. Baker. CREST NOR. CL BODY (3): 1, Bale, lovely hen, nice broad Crest, with good droop, well shown; 2, 3, F. G. FAILURE IN THE SEED TRADE.

In the High Court of Justice an order in bankruptcy has been made against George Edwards, and Walter Thomas Seager, trading with Miss Mary Burns as G. Edwards and Co., Specialists in Bird Seeds, Medicines, etc., at Lambeth. According to the statement of accounts, there is a surplus of £23 1s. 8d. The assets are £1,084 6s. 11d., and the liabilities £1,061 5s. 3d. The public examination was held on October 2nd.

It appears from the statements of the debtors Edwards and Seager:—(a) That they describe themselves as "Bird Food Specialists," and that the business was commenced by the debtor Edwards in 1892, in which year he was joined in partnership by the debtor Seager and three other persons, one of whom retired from the business in 1895, and the other two in February, 1898. (b) That in July, 1898, two further partners, viz., Miss Mary Burns and another person joined the firm, each introducing £500 capital, but Miss Burns only becoming an active partner. (c) That in May, 1904, the fourth partner withdrew from the business, the continuing partners agreeing to pay him £182 by weekly instalments of 14s. (which were paid to the 28th May last), and that in 1904 Miss Burns went to and has since remained in South Africa, she having also received 14s. per week from the business to the 28th May last. And (d) That the business has been carried on under the style of "G. Edwards and Co.," since about 1893 at No. 39, Old Paradise-street, Lambeth,

The firm's failure is attributed by the debtors Edwards and Seager to loss by the death of 13 or 14 horses through glanders, to bad trade, to defalcations of an employee (loss about £40), and to outlay on the business

A SUCCESSFUL YORKSHIRE SOCIETY.

BRADFORD (EAST) O.S.

Geo Art Supplement.

There is nothing extraordinarily sensational about the advent of a new cage bird society in the Bradford district, swarming as it is with breeders who can be counted in hundreds. This city, noted for the high place it holds in the worsted and woollen industry, bids fair to outpace the world-famed city of Norwich in its production of Canaries. Long famed as Bradford has been in relation to the graceful Yorkshire beauties that have been turned out to do duty for their owners all over the country, there is no wonder that which ever way you turn, be it North, East, South, or West, you will find each particular district with its own society to back it up in its efforts to advance the cult of Canary breeding. Nor are these efforts lacking in results. Cast a glance over a representative list of exhibitors' names, and one will find that the whole cream of this particular variety is centred round a very small radius, which forms a veritable stronghold in itself.

Although societies were dotted all around the district from whence the Bradford (East) O.S. first saw light, still there had been a long-felt want that the few exhibitors scattered round about the West Bowling, Little Horton, and East Bradford districts had to go too far afield to obtain the advantage that a fancier does obtain, through being a member of a cage bird society. This idea, coupled with the fact that a fair number of them were shopkeepers, whose desire it was to have a society at hand, eventually led to a meeting of those being called, who were interested in its formation. A most whole-hearted response was made by the score of men who turned up at that meeting. The enthusiasm that has been one of the most important factors in the success of this society manifested itself at the first meetings, and so long as any society is the proud possessor of such, so long is "success" their guide and watchword.

Few societies have been launched with as much whole-hearted support as this one, and it has led the officials who hold the reins of office to take steps that would otherwise have been seriously left alone. Having decided to form a society, the next step was to see the trustees of Park Chapel Schools with a view to obtaining rooms in which to hold our meetings. They instantly removed all doubt and fear from our minds by granting us the use of two rooms, one in which we could hold our meetings and another for our members' shows. Thus, the first great difficulty was swept away at once by the trustees' generosity.

This difficulty being overcome, the next step was to get things into ship-shape order, and, thanks to a sub-committee that was formed to frame a code of rules to govern the society, we were not long before we launched out under the title of Bradford (East) Ornithological Society, a society which, it is hoped, will live long to foster the needs of the exhibitors under its care, and help them to realise to the full the benefits derived from this grand hobby of ornithology. These benefits are tremendous in their value, for each one of them tends to that which a man admires—character.

What is there grander than the study of birds? What is there more beautiful? What is there that tends to help a man to fight the battle of life better, when he meets with adversity, than the experiences he derives from the constant companionship with his birds? It helps him to be able to meet either success or failure when they come upon him. It gives him a better grasp of the things that tend to elevate, for each one of us knows that trials and disappointments we have to face in the bird room, each of which is bound to strengthen us inwardly. But I must keep to my subject.

Having formed the society, and given it a title, it was not long before the first annual meeting was upon us, and it was then that we were put on a formal basis, and took our stand as a society that each member hopes to make not only a strong one with regard to numbers, but morally strong. This was the idea that permeated the men who sought after the schools as our headquarters, for each of them were men who had had experience of such like work, and they were determined to try and work on sound moral principles.

The election of officers was the most important item on the agenda at the annual meeting, and the members are to be congratulated on their choice of the first president, for, in Mr. E. Suddards, they have a gentleman who is sound and practical in his methods, is a keen fancier, having kept Canaries for years, just for the love of the hobby, one who is always delighted to help forward good work, and takes a keen interest in the doings of this society. That the choice was a happy one goes without saying, for the applause that greeted his election to this important position at the head of affairs made it evident that in him the society has got the right man in the right place. In Mr. G. R. Rushworth and Mr. W. Cruise, who were elected vice-presidents, we were again fortunate, for each of them has had a varied experience in the cage bird fancy, and both are ardent and active fanciers. More could be said of these three officials, but I don't wish to flatter them in the least, suffice it to say that the society has three stalwarts to rely upon that any society ought to be proud of. The duties of secretary were delegated to Mr. H. Hill, with Mr. G. White as his assistant, and in this selection the members were again unanimous, as was also the case with Mr. J. Farrar, who was elected to fill the place of treasurer. These are a trio of younger fanciers from whom much good work is anticipated. The ambition of each of the officials is summed up in the words that the secretary uttered in the speech he made after his election. He said that he should leave no stone unturned in his efforts to make the Bradford (East) O.S. one of the strongest societies in the North of England. Each member is animated with the same spirit of enthusiasm, and they have given the officials most loyal support in their efforts so far, and made burdensome work light by their hearty co-operation. Messrs. W. Laycock and A. Wilkinson were elected as auditors, and here also the members feel that the work is in capable hands.

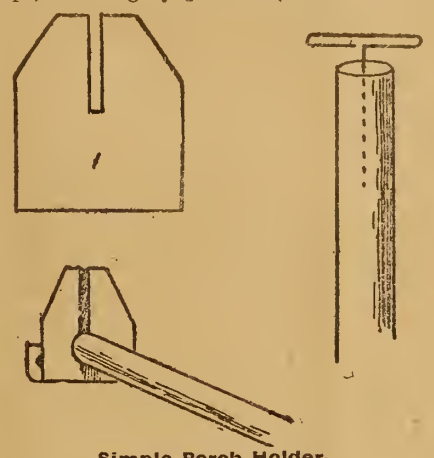
ILLUSTRATED IDEAS



Under this heading we shall illustrate weekly some ideas useful to the bird-keeper. Readers are invited to send us particulars of any novel and practical appliance of use in our hobby, either in cage, bird room or aviary, with a rough sketch of same where possible. Every "Illustrated Idea" used in this column will entitle the sender thereof to a postal order for two shillings and sixpence.

No. 149.

A SIMPLE PERCH HOLDER.

Sent by J. Haggard, Mount Street, Yullingar, Co., W. Meath, Ireland.

Enclosed you will find a rough sketch of an idea for a perfect yet simple perch-holder, which should prove a boon to fanciers, as it entirely does away with perches falling to the bottom of the cage, and also acts as a red mite trap. Fig. 1 is a strip of tin cut to shape, 1in. long by ⅝in. wide, with a narrow slit cut out of centre, half way down. It is fixed on the back of the cage, with slit downwards with two ¼in. carpet tacks (or fine tacks) and turned up into position (see fig. 4). Fig. 2 is a piece of cage wire bent into shape. Fig. 3 perch with wire holder fixed in it. Fig 4 perch complete. To prevent red mite from travelling along the perch, tie a small piece of worsted around wire holder, and dip in petroleum twice a week. Tin holder can be painted with blue enamel if desired.—JOSEPH HUGGARD.

No. 150.

A NOVEL SHOW CAGE PERCH.

Sent by E. Tyrrell (Address not given.)

I am enclosing a sketch of a perch which I use and find answers its purpose well. I think it a great improvement on the ordinary perch in general use, especially for birds, large or small, which sit fairly upright. There is no rubbing of the tail across this perch, as in the ordinary way, therefore it obviates the dirt one often sees on birds tails. For the smaller birds 1½ inches is plenty long enough for the top bar of perch; make it larger according to size of bird. Two can be fixed in the bottom of a show cage (or in the ordinary cage), and be removed with ease, when required, by making the lower part of perch at an angle, as illustrated.—E. TYRRELL.

THE FEEDING AND WASHING OF CANARIES.

Mr. J. H. Winn gave a lecture and exhibition before the members and friends of the Lancaster and District C.B.S., on October 5th, when he said that now that the moulting season and the birds are so far advanced through the moult, we begin to look the best specimens out and prepare them for the show bench. I single my best birds off in separate cages, and try to improve their condition by giving small pick-me-ups such as a little Parrish's Chemical Food in the drinking water, and a little watercress at intervals as green food. I believe greatly in mixed seeds at this time—staple food, Canary seed with a little mixture of hemp, rape, inga, etc.; the bath is also placed in the cage frequently on fine days only, for a bird in good condition is easily washed. We have here a good bright fire, two or three wash basins, a badger-hair shaving brush, a camel-hair brush or a nice sponge, a tablet of some good soap, and nice pieces of old, soft linen or thin cheese cloths—I prefer these to flannel as they dry easily and allow the vapour to come through. I only use a cloth, and do not advise to unfold the bird and put in a second cloth, as by so doing you are liable to ruffle the feathers whilst changing the cloths. After giving him twenty minutes or so before a bright fire, transfer him to the drying cage. I like them from this stage to dry slowly, and to the end I constantly spray them with lukewarm water, but I shall not do this to-night, as the birds will not get dry enough to take home. It will be understood that if the birds dry slowly they can preen themselves, and come out much better than by being dried quickly before the fire. After placing them in the drying cage (an ordinary show cage will do) with a clean cloth over them, they are practically done with, with the exception of the spraying process as mentioned. I put them on a bit of mixed seed and a drink of water when dry and leave them in a warm room over night. In the morning they may be removed back into the bird room, and care should be taken to place them in clean cages, or your labours will be fruitless. Place the bath at their disposal until the day prior to the show.

The birds that now had gone through the ordeal numbered half a dozen, and Darkies they were being kept in a smoky kitchen, which afforded a good lesson as to what a wash might do. The other birds were washed by novices, under the lecturer's supervision. They managed fairly well, saying that they had never handled a bird in water before. One of them will most likely carry off the prize, which is to be competed for at the next meeting, when a novice washing competition will be held.

Coloured plate this week is much appreciated.—F. W. WILLIS (Wood Green).

I have to congratulate you on the plate this week. It is beautifully finished, and very pleasing, indeed, for any lover of Foreign birds (or others, for that matter).—D. PETRIE (Dundee).

Your plate this week is grand. I already have it framed. It looks well in black and gilt Oxford frame.—C. P. ARTHUR (Melksham).

Your coloured plate of last week is a real "topper." I marvel how you could present it without any extra charge.—M. HARDY (Streatham).

TWITTERINGS.

Greenwich and Deptford are very short of entries, will accept Monday next. (Advt.)

I have advertised several times in your paper, and have always been lucky. W. Bowers, S.W.

Exhibitors should remember Sutton Coldfield, November 20th and 21st. Splendid classification. (Advt.)

Mr. R. J. Watts telegraphs entries for Watford Show are very short as yet. Exhibitors please note.

Fanciers should make a note of Preston, November 8th and 9th. Splendid classifications. (Advt.)

Mr. A. Dawson (Glasgow) writes: I have removed from 104, Cardross-street to 697, Duke-street, Dennistoun.

Mr. F. W. Heaton (Nantwich), writes Mr. A. Park, sec., will judge Leigh Show, held December 20th and 21st.

Mr. W. G. Poole is down to judge Evesham, November 13th; Penzance, November 15th; Brackley, December 3rd.

Mr. T. Carr wrote me re muling hens, but omitted his address; postmark Battersea, S.W. —F. Baxter, Attleborough.

Our cage bird entries number over 180, thanks to your advertisement medium.—G. W. Read (Weston-Super-Mare).

I congratulate you in getting out such a work of art in this week's edition, writes Mr. Henry S. Grahame (Camberwell).

My letter re extension of entries should read November 4th. Will you please rectify?—Geo. Sale, Hon. Sec. Greenures Show.

The British Roller Canary Club was inadvertently missed from the list of patrons for Leeds Show.—A. Wilkins, Hon. Sec.

At the recent Haddington Show the winning Selkirk Bearded Tit, shown by Messrs. A. and W. Linton, was found dead in its cage.

Mr. Sands, who sent us Illustrated Idea No. 147, would like it to be known that he lives at 3, Highfield-terrace, Somerby-road, Grantham.

The delegates of the C.B.U., Yorkshire section, have decided to hold a meeting at Bramley Show on Saturday next, writes Mr. Jas. Metcalfe.

M. Cooper (Batley) writes:—I may say I have scores of applicants from my advertisements in your valuable paper, of which I cannot speak too highly.

[illegible] Weston asks us to notify his friends that he has removed from 307, High Holborn, to 45, Clevedon-mansions, Highgate-road, London, N.W.

Schedules posted on Tuesday, October 29th. Any fancier omitted kindly write, and schedule will be forwarded.—A. Urquhart, Secretary Inverness O.S.

Sunderland. Schedules have been sent out this week. Any exhibitor not receiving one kindly apply to the secretary at once.—J. Gordon, Secretary.

A record of paying prize money. Dysart Show, held 26th; I got my prize money to-day, Monday, 28th. A credit to any show.—W. Watt (Dunfermline).

Whitburn Show.—Birds that can reach their destination same night as close of show will be despatched that night. Others will be kept till Monday first train.

The L. and P.O.S. Members' Autumn Show will be held at the Crystal Palace on November 6th and 7th. Same dates as the Chrysanthemum Show. (Advt.)

Messrs. R. J. E. and F. Howe will not exhibit at Swansea Show, November 6th and 7th, owing to Mr. A. Howe judging, writes Mr. A. Hitchings, the secretary.

The Altrincham C.B.S. are holding a members' show on Saturday, November 23rd, 1907, when Mr. A. G. Davis will judge, writes Mr. Harrison, the Hon. Sec.

I sent some prize money away, without stamping the envelopes. For such an error I am very sorry, and hope no offence will be taken.—J. Fowler (Leek).

I note you are getting into trim quick this year. Last number a big pennyworth. The plate is a perfect beauty. More power to your efforts.—J. Harris, Newcastle.

Greenwich and Deptford awfully short of entries. Please help us a little. State exhibit; will classify and forward labels.—Geo. Hill, 101, Barkworth-road, Bermondsey.

A special committee has been appointed to look after the exhibits at the Hucknall Torkard Show, and to see them safely returned at the close, writes Mr. A. A. Asbury, the sec.

Mr. J. H. Ireland, secretary of Morecambe F.A. writes: Entries are very bad, and do not average four per class; 42 classes and over 50 specials. Entries extended until Monday's first post.

Broughty Ferry Show. You gave Mr. Keill the credit of winning Cage Birds' 2nd prize, whereas I had that honour with my 2nd prize Crest hen.—William Watt, 108, Appin-crescent, Dunfermline.

Mr. Ernest Collins, of Barnstaple, had the misfortune to lose his Goldfinch Redpoll, which secured 1st prize at Exeter and Devon Show on October 16th, the bird dying a few hours after arriving home.

Messrs. Cornish and Adams, Exeter, write: Thanks for excellent report you gave us. Very smart work getting it in the same week. We have to face a deficit of between £15 and £20 owing to bad weather. All prize money has been sent out.

Mr. Thos. Chapman, of Newcastle, writes that it was his foul buff cock which won the special for the best Scotch Fancy at Newcastle Show, and not Messrs. Thompson Bros.' exhibit, as reported.

Kindly thank all applicants for pair Crests advertised in your last week's issue, writes Mr. John Grubb, Newcastle. A gentleman fancier in our district, seeing them advertised, came and purchased them.

All prize money in previous years was paid within four days. We have one of the best halls for light and ventilation, a good list of specials, and a popular judge.—Reed and Calam (Kirbymoorside).

In your review of our schedule, writes the secretary of Penzance Show, you stated that our entry fee was 2s., when it should be 1s. 6d. in cage bird classes. Kindly correct. —J. Pearce Sampson (Penzance).

Mr. John S. Napier, secretary of the Arbroath Scotch Fancy C.B.S., writes: Most of our members take in your paper. It is full of very interesting news anent cage birds, and no fancier should be without it.

Mr. J. Brown (Glasgow) writes tendering his apologies to those who, having applied for schedules re the Glasgow and West of Scotland Show, have failed to receive them; they will be sent out on October 30th.

Mr. Cruise, of Bowling, writes: Mr. John Kinder, secretary of Guiseley, Yeadon and District C.B.S., will lecture before the members and friends on November 4th, at 8 o'clock, at the Registrar's Office, Guiseley.

Clapham and District Members' Show, at the Avondale Hall, Clapham, November 8th. Record number of specials (66), including five cups and 12 medals. Sec., S. Baker, 11, Foulser-road, Upper Tooting. (Advt.)

Late Breeding Starlings.—We hear through Mr. W. Cullen that there is to be seen within a stone's throw of Rob Roy's grave, near Callandar, a Starling's nest with young. This is rather late in the season for breeding.

All schedules for Sheffield Show were posted last Saturday, October 26. No exhibitor can afford to be without one. Anyone overlooked kindly write.—T. Bishop, Sec., 69, Alexandra-road, Heeley, Sheffield.—(Advt.)

The prompt attention to birds, together with despatch of prize money, I think a credit to the Battersea Show workers and Committee. I received my prize money before I knew that I had won it.—C. Barwell (Northampton).

Mr. W. Pawley, secretary of the Plumstead, Woolwich, and District C.B.A., writes: We have obtained the large hall at Trinity Schools for the annual show on January 2nd and 3rd. This hall is splendidly lighted and free from draughts.

Be sure and obtain the Coloured Plate and Art Supplement given with this ISSUE.

At the recent Stratford and East London F.S. Young Stock Show, Mr. Gravestock won in the Norwich classes, Messrs. Mottram and Corby in the Yorks. clear, and Messrs. Mottram Fuller, Corby and Forse in the Yorks. Ticked or Variegated.

We have got 50 special prizes altogether for our show, writes Mr. T. Bowen, secretary of North Berks F.S., and a popular judge in Mr. T. J. Ambrose. Prizes are guaranteed to be paid within one week; we are particularly short of cage bird entries.

Continued success to the good old paper ("C.B."). I hope the new venture will supply the long-felt want Cage Birds did in its particular line. I myself always recommend "C.B." to all and sundry interested in the fancy.—Reginald Fell.

I have been elected Secretary of the Spen Valley C.B.S., in place of Mr. Whitehead (resigned), writes Mr. R. Bennett. Our President is Mr. J. M. Greig, vice-presidents are Messrs. J. W. Wharton and T. Smith, and the treasurer, Mr. B. Wood.

The Wallsend and Mid-Tyne C.B.A. have added a members' class for Norwich Natural Colour, cock or hen. Members wishing to enter a bird in that class should mention "Norwich Natural Members," as it is not in the schedule.—J. Johnston, Hon. Sec.

A small quantity of schedules of Warrington Show have been sent out without Rules of the C.B.U. inserted. Will those exhibitors who received them kindly note that this is an oversight, and that the show is held under Cage Bird Union Rules.—J. D. Leigh, Hon. Sec.

Exhibitors can send their best specimens, as we have engaged the Temperance Hall, which is capable of holding two thousand exhibits, and the best possible care will be taken of all of them, writes Mr. J. W. Lowes, Hon. Sec. of the Stockton-on-Tees and District C.B.S.

The Southern Yorkshire Canary Club handbook for 1907-8, a very neat and tasty production, reaches us from the hon. secretary, Mr. J. W. Rennie, Royal Hotel, Mile End Road, London, E. From the balance sheet we note the club had a busy time last year, medals and specials value over £18 being put up for competition amongst the members; and that the assets totalled at the end of the season £3 10s. 8d. An excellent programme has been arranged for the ensuing season, including an exceptionally good special list at the shows, and lovers of Yorkshires in the South should communicate at once with Mr. Rennie, who will be glad to put them up for election as members.

Some difference of opinion has arisen over the nationality of the winning Bullie at Troon Show. Our Border representative writes:—It is very difficult to determine nationality of Finches, more especially of Bullfinches, and to dogmatise on the point is absurd. Even in suspicious cases the birds should be given the benefit of the doubt or an injustice may be done.

Mr. J. Maddison gave a few very useful hints on Mule breeding, explaining how he bred the Canary-Siskin which had won the valuable challenge bowl. This bird, he told us, was produced from a Cock Canary and a Hen Siskin. Mule breeders take note.

Mr. Adamthwaite (London and Counties) desires us to state that he was misreported in connection with the recent London gathering in saying that he had instructions from his society to see that a novice should have a time limit. He merely stated it was the wish of his society.

Mr. Smith (Glasgow) writes: Mr. William Hart, 6, Ord-street, Paisley, and family, have sustained a severe loss in the death of Mrs. Hart, the beloved wife and mother. They have the heart-felt sympathy of a wide circle of friends. She took a keen interest in all that affected their welfare.

Fanciers in the vicinity of Leamington will do well to take advantage of the railway facilities afforded them for visiting the annual "Royal" Show. Cheap trains are being run from Leicester, Northampton, Birmingham, and district, so writes the secretary, Mr. F. T. Pritchard. The show is on November 7th.

The British Roller C.C., young bird competition will be held at the following shows:—Leeds, November 15th and 16th; club show held at the L.C.B.A., December 6th and 7th; Wakefield, December 13th and 14th; Bolton, January 10th and 11th; Crystal Palace, January 31st, etc.—J. W. Norris.

Mr. J. Dobson (City-road, London) will judge at the following shows:—L.P.O.S., Palace, November 6th; Clapham and District, November 8th; Tenbridge, November 20th; South London, November 27th; Folkestone, December 3rd; Canterbury, December 11th; Bermondsey, December 20th; Palace National, 1908.

The London and Provincial O.S. will hold their Members' Autumn Show at the Crystal Palace on November 6th and 7th. The L. and P.O.S. Committee hope that all members will make as many entries as they possibly can. Surplus stock entered in the selling classes is sure to command a quick sale. (Advt.)

Mr. J. H. Jones, of Merthyr Tydfil, writes: Mr. G. L. Harber, Mr. Ben Davis (of Scotch Fancy fame), myself, and a strong committee will attend to the wants of the cage bird section of our show, which will be in a separate room—heated if required. Fanciers can with confidence, therefore, send their most valuable specimens.

Messrs. Sissons Brothers and Co., Ltd.—the proprietors of "Hall's Sanitary Washable Distemper"—are willing to give secretaries of local pigeon and poultry shows prizes of "Hall's Distemper" in quantity, in exchange for advertisements in the catalogues of shows. Particulars will be forwarded on application to Sissons Brothers and Co., Ltd., Hull.

J. Logan, Dysart Show, writes:—A few lines to let you know that our show was a record one, 504 entries. All the champions of the S.P.C. competed. Mr. Goodfellow assisted with two selling classes, and Mr. Hogg with two others, which eased Mr. Ferguson a little. He had his hands full, and did his duty well. All prize money paid, and if anyone has been overlooked, please let me know.

I wish to thank all exhibitors, writes Mr. T. E. Easterling, the secretary, that supported me with entries in making Battersea Show such a grand success, and to those friends that helped me with the difficult task of putting labels on cages from Plymouth and Southend. All prize money was paid out by second day of show. Mr. Rennie wins Ramsden's medal; Mr. Webb Easterling's medal.

We deeply regret an unfortunate error which arose last week in connection with the authorship of an article on Yorkshires published by us last week. Mr. Crawhall informs us that although there are some points of resemblance between that and one he sent us, the article is not of his writing. Will the real author kindly communicate and accept our apologies, which we have tendered also to Mr. Crawhall.

Please convey my heartfelt thanks, writes Mr. G. F. Woolhouse, to the fanciers and exhibitors who have written me expressing their sympathy in our misfortune re the Hall at the Dulwich Show not being at our disposal at the time arranged, and for their promise of increased support at future fixtures. This sort of encouragement will stir Dulwich up to go ahead in the progress they have made.

Amongst the many well-known fanciers at Chesterfield Show, were Mr. R. Colton, of Mule fame, enjoying the "mixture" section, while Mr. W. Vardy, the noted Norwich breeder, was busy with the "short and thick" variety. Mr. H. Wilson, the hon. sec. of Langwith C.B.S., represented the Cage Bird Union. Several well-known Sheffield fanciers put in an appearance on the Saturday.

"C.B." for Sales.

I enclose my usual advertisement, writes Mr. J. J. Oates (Bradford). If I sell as quickly as last year I shall be more than satisfied. I could have sold twice the number of birds had I had them. What a circulation you must have! I sent birds into almost every county in England, besides Wales and Scotland, through your excellent paper, for which please accept my thanks, though rather late in the day to ask you to do so.

I must heartily congratulate you, writes Mr. C. Bussey (Bristol) on the fine picture of my winning Jay on the cover of Cage Birds last week. I may say that he is now in better condition and plumage than he was last year, and I hope that he will be successful in winning more prizes. I wish you every success with Cage Birds, and hope its circulation will grow more than ever.

A sample of "Pannassina," the speciality for the prevention and cure of diseases caused through damp or cold (asthma, wheezing, loss of song, etc.), reaches us from the maker, Mr. W. J. Hammond, of 19, Anstey-road, Coldharbour-lane, London, S.E. Many testimonials bear witness to its efficacy and usefulness with Canaries, Goldfinches, Linnets, Blackbirds, and other cage birds, while it is excellent for bringing them easily through the moult. It is very easily prepared, a little being mixed amongst the soft food. It is sold in 6d. and 1s. packets, and readers should give "Pannassina" a trial.

A grand old cock Black Redstart was unfortunately shot in the vicinity of Great Yarmouth on the 19th inst., writes Mr. W. Lowne.

I heartily congratulate you upon your splendid coloured plate presented with this week's Cage Birds, writes Mr. J. B. Waterman of East Dulwich. It is a very pleasing production, and will make a beautiful picture for the bird room. This week's number is a marvellous pennyworth, and I hope your enterprise will meet with its due reward.

Alleged Clipped Exhibit.

At Great Horton Good Intent Show, in Class 16, No. 23, H. Coates, the winner of 1st and special novice tick. Yell. was objected to by the officials of the society for tail feathers having the appearance of being clipped or cut. This is the wording of the notice sent to the Yorkshire Union secretary. The bird, our reporter advises us, has only nine full feathers in tail, one being apparently clipped close to root, the others being rather longer. The exhibitor, he understand, had received prize money before being objected to, and refused to refund it to the society.

Exhibitors Note!

We have heard from the respective secretaries that Warrington (November 8th and 9th) and Greenwich and Deptford (November 7th and 8th) shows were by some means or other omitted from the Cage Bird Union list of shows sent us by the secretary, Mr. Lythgoe, and published in Cage Birds last week.

Late Swallows.

Being a constant reader of Cage Birds, writes Mr. P. G. Fellowe, I thought it might interest your readers to know that a pair of Swallows were feeding their young last week, several bird fanciers watching them; but they have gone now. I thought it very unusual for Swallows to be here as late as October.

Presentation to W.C.B.C. Sec.

Kindly inform members of the Welsh Cage Bird Club, writes Mr. B. Davies, that the testimonial to Mr. D. H. Tedstone, our honoured secretary, will be presented at the Swansea C.B. Show on November 6th, the present consisting of a marble clock, suitably inscribed. It will be on view at the Show, and it is hoped all members will find it convenient to attend.

Wellingborough Show.

The Wellingborough and District C.B.S. have been obliged to postpone their show, writes Mr. W. Howe, secretary, there being such a small entry. We only averaged three in a class, which I suppose is due to its clashing with so many others. We have decided to hold our show on December 17th and 18th, providing these dates suit our judges, in which case we will announce it in a further advertisement at a future date. We are very sorry for those who did enter with us, and hope that they will still give us their patronage.—W. Howe, Hon. Secretary.

Yorkshire Fanciers in Newcastle.

Mr. Mundell kindly promised to meet our members November 9th, and have a general talk about Yorkshires, but as the night turned out to be the usual Newcastle monthly meeting, I saw the secretaries, and they were quite pleased to have Mr. Mundell at their meeting and extend a hearty invitation to all who are interested in Yorkshires (whether members or not) to be present to meet one of the best recognised judges of this variety. Will fanciers please make a note of the time and place? Thursday, November 8th, at Lockhart's Cafe, 65, Grainger-street, Newcastle, at 7 30 p.m.—T. C. Crawhall, Hon. Sec. N.Y.C.C.

Bristol Fanciers Show.

Owing to an accident, there has been an unfortunate delay in getting out schedules for Bristol Show, fixed for December 4th and 5th. I trust all will have received copies by now. May I remind exhibitors that although later than usual, this is the Bristol Show which has an established reputation. It will be held, as in past years, in the Rifle Drill Hall, Queen's-road, which is many times larger than any other hall in Bristol used for similar shows, and possesses the further advantage that it is beautifully lighted from the roof by day, and by electric arc lamps at night. Exhibits will be covered at night.—B. T. H. Maggs, Hon. Sec. B.F.A.

Through the Eyes of a Layman.

We have read some amusing reports of cage bird shows in our time, but the following extract, it will be generally conceded, fairly "takes the biscuit" for pure fun. It is culled from the "Manchester Courier":—

> "Lancashire Canaries were, of course, most numerous. They are clear yellow birds, very often with impressive topknots. Lizard Linnets were also fairly numerous, and they looked very well. The changing of the name of the Yorkshire Green is a triumph for the Lancastrian. Of late it has come to be known as the Liverpool Green, from the fact that Liverpool has almost entirely taken over the breeding of it. Then there were Norwich Plainheads, with a beautiful bird from Hyde among them."

THE AVOCET (Recurvirostra avocetta).

The Avocet is a handsome member of the large group of wading birds, though its curiously curved slender bill, and long, stilty legs, lend it a somewhat singular appearance. It can swim, but does not do so voluntarily. It walks in shallow water, "scooping" the surface with its beak as it goes, alternately from left and right, catching the small crustaceans, or larvae of insects, or tiny fish (probably) swimming therein. Once this species bred in England in considerable numbers, but now has been slaughtered into a somewhat scarce occasional visitor. The plumage is black and white, though the legs are a light blue. A pair of Avocets successfully bred in the London Zoological Gardens last summer—an interesting and probably unique occurrence.

QUESTIONS ABOUT YORKSHIRE CANARIES.

WITH SOME ANSWERS BY EXPERT BREEDERS AND EXHIBITORS.

A favourite method of providing interesting material for the meetings of members of Cage Bird Societies is to ask prominent fanciers to answer a set of questions relating to their favourite breed. The appended selection of opinions on topics concerning the Yorkshire Canary is culled from a "Question Night" recently held by the London and Provincial Ornithological Society.

THE LIST OF QUESTIONS.

PURCHASING AND PAIRING.

(1) If you were asked to advise a beginner as to the purchase and pairing of birds to breed exhibition Yorkshires, what advice would you give?

INTRODUCING FRESH BLOOD.

(2) In matching the following year, would you recommend the introduction of fresh blood? Give reasons for and against.

DOUBLE-YELLOWING AND DOUBLE-BUFFING.

(3) Are you of opinion that any advantage is to be gained by double-yellowing and double-buffing?

EFFECT OF DOUBLE-YELLOWING.

(4) There is a general impression that double-yellowing results in a reduction of size. Is this your opinion? Do you think that the difference is in feather only, or does it affect bone and substance?

CHOICE OF COLOUR.

(5) Do you prefer breeding with a yellow cock to buff hen, or vice versa?

WHAT SHALL WE DO WITH HIM?

(6) Do you recommend that the cock be taken from the hen whilst sitting? If so, when would you put him back, and what are the advantages or disadvantages of such a course?

TWO WIVES, OR ONE?

(7) Are you opposed to the use of two hens to one cock? If so, please state why.

FEEDING THE YOUNG.

(8) How do you feed from hatching up to six weeks old?

EARLY BIRDS OR LATE BIRDS.

(9) In your opinion, are the best results obtained in the latter part of the breeding season, or in the early part?

TOO OLD AT ——?

(10) At what age do you consider Yorkshires breed their best specimens?

THE CHICK IN THE SHELL.

(11) What is the longest period that fertilised eggs may with safety be kept from under the hen?

INFLAMMATION IN YOUNG BIRDS.

(12) How do you account for the so-called inflammation of the bowels from which so many young birds die? How may it be avoided, and what remedy do you recommend when it does occur?

TEACHING THE YOUNG IDEA.

(13) What, in your opinion, is the best method of training young Yorkshires to get them steady and used to the show cage?

WHO IS TO BLAME?

(14) Is it your experience that the hen is responsible for type and quality, and the cock for colour and size?

TO BE OR NOT TO BE?

(15) Do you consider that classes should be provided at all large shows for even-marked birds?

TICKLISH!

(16) What is your opinion of the present standard as laid down by the Y.C.C.?

THE VALUE OF PEPPER.

(17) Do you not think that a well-fed, even-coloured bird should take more than a five-point precedence of an unfed bird equal in other respects?

WE WONDER!

(18) How many years would it take, commencing with the Belgian, Norwich, and Lancashire birds, to breed birds similar to the winning Yorkshire of to-day?

A REMARKABLE HEMP PLANT.

Hemp Seed sown in the garden produces a very tall, handsome plant. A particularly fine specimen is shown in the above photograph. It was grown by Mr. W. Turvey, of Evesham, who kindly sends us this pictorial record. Last year's (1906) crop, this gentleman tells us, was not a particularly good one.

A NOTED NORWICH PLAINHEAD.

The difficulty of adequately depicting Canaries by means of the photographer's art is well illustrated by the above picture. It is quite a good one of its kind, yet few, we think, would take the bird behind the bars to be a champion of its variety. Nevertheless it is Mr. T. Seed's (Rishton) "Little King II.," winner of Firsts at Manchester, Leek, Great Harwood, Preston, Gateshead, Wigan, etc., in 1906, and scoring heavily all along the line this season, having won already Firsts at Accrington, Burnley and Newcastle.

A SELECTION OF ANSWERS.

Mr. W. Mallinson replies:

(1) Get two sets of good stock birds from two reliable breeders—i.e., a yellow cock and two buff hens from one, and a buff cock and two yellow hens from the other. Work them together the second year, thus building up your own strain. Let them be the best you can afford. With a good season and good judgment, a few choice birds should come out, but do not expect to breed winners first, or even second year.

(2) Not if the advice given above is taken. Fresh blood is only necessary when a strain has been worked for a good many seasons.

(3) No.

(4) Affects bone and substance to a marked degree; also birds bred from two yellows are generally very thin and scanty in feather. I only pair up yellows to gain a little colour.

(5) I have no preference.

(6) I am in favour of removing the cock after two or three days, letting him return for five or ten minutes at a time when the hen is wanting to nest again, before the young ones are able to do for themselves. They must be watched carefully as they are often very pugnacious. I find that if the cock is left with the hen all the time, and she is fed by him, she never comes off the nest or gives the youngsters anything, but simply sits until she has sweated them to the bottom of the nest.

A NOVEL FORM OF INDOOR AVIARY.

This photograph of a very novel indoor aviary comes from Mr. W. Weseler, of North Ormesby, Middlesbrough. It is made of wire, and bears the sign "Theatre Royal and Opera House"—a most appropriate style when feathered vocalists "hold the boards."

(7) I usually run two hens with one cock, though some young cocks I confine to one until I have proved them. When you have a very large number of hens to breed from, it is nearly impossible to match each with a separate cock suitable to your object. There would be also too much singing in the breeding room, and I like to keep breeding hens as quiet as I possibly can.

(8) I find that nothing beats a little egg food of home-made bread and fresh eggs, with a little maw seed added. If this is eaten, I give next day, in addition, a mixture of summer rape, inga, and crushed hemp in equal parts. Dandelion or lettuce when three or four days old. They must be well looked to when they leave the egg food and start cracking seed. Give them summer rape, with a little white canary. I have discarded soaking the hemp, as it soon turns sour, and is apt to cause diarrhœa.

(9) Neither early nor late is best. I prefer birds bred in May and June.

(10) First and second year.

(11) I have never kept them more than four days.

(12) Often caused by eating too freely of white canary seed; it may arise when first placed on colour food. I find the best remedy is a Beecham's pill, broken up in four and given on a small stick. Feed with a little milk sop. I do not recommend castor oil.

(13) Hang a Yorkshire show cage in front of them, and let them run through into it and get used to it while quite young. But leave them alone when in moult. Also have them out on the table and let them see as many strangers as possible, handling the cages invariably, to get the birds into position.

(14) Birds vary in this respect. I have seen birds take a good deal to the hen side in both form and colour. When you know how cock and hen are bred you can form some idea of what the results from them will be. Cocks and hens will gain both colour and size if bred for the same.

(15) No; even marked birds are so rare that whenever a class has been provided for them it has proved a failure.

(16) I think the standard is right, provided it is judged accordingly. But the illustration in the Y.C.C. Rule Book is out of proportion—too large a skull, too hollow in back, and by measurement it is 7 in. and not $6\frac{3}{4}$ in. as laid down in the standard. I call it a very poor illustration for anyone to breed to. It is no doubt a fairly good stock bird, but for a specialists' club's ideal it needs refining. The club's standard and their ideal do not correspond.

(17) No; colour in a Yorkshire ought not to count much, otherwise some of the smartest birds would have to take a back seat. But, of two birds equal in every other respect, except one being colour-fed and the other unfed, the coloured bird must take precedence.

(18) With these three crosses one would be lucky to get in twenty-five years a single bird equal in type and quality to a winning Yorkshire. The long, coarse feather of the Lancashire would always be breaking out, and the bad position always troublesome. Round backs and drooping tails are a great drawback in many Yorkshire birds. An old Yorkshire breeder used to tell me, many years ago, that the best way to get good Yorkshire birds was to cross a Lancashire cock and a Border Fancy hen, and in the following season to get a Belgian hen and run her with one of these half-bred Lancashires and Borders. But I do not advise breeders in the South to follow his recommendation, or they will wish the Lancashire bird back in the North before they are done with it.

Mr. J. Bailey (Bailey and Swanger) replies :

(1) Get, say, three pairs of Clears and the pair of heavily marked. The cock-birds should be 6¾ to 7 inches; but be sure to have them with clean fronts and round heads. Hens should be of A1 quality, and length not less than 6¼ inches. Thus you should produce a fair sample to work with for at least four years. If the birds are to give satisfaction as regards quality and style you might inbreed in the course of two years.

(2) If you find you are losing size you might introduce fresh blood, and I should prefer it on the cock side.

(3 and 4) I do not care about buff and buff; the young run too bulky and too long in feather as a rule. I have often bred yellow and yellow, but cannot say that I ever got much benefit from doing so. Of course if you should breed one or two buff hens from the yellow they in turn would throw some good quality and colour. I have obtained best results from a very large coarse-feathered yellow cock and a moderate-feathered hen.

(5) I prefer a yellow cock and buff hen, and have always bred with a double proportion of buff hens. I have had better luck with them as regards feeding.

(6) If running them in pairs I should certainly leave them together, for if you shut off the cock he sings all day, and where there is much singing there is little breeding. Of course if the cock molests the nest, or the hen, I should take him away. This seldom happens; still, there are scarcely two pairs but need differing treatment.

(7) No; I run them in "pairs" of two hens and the cock. I let the cock get No. 1 hen to nest, and set about six days, then put him with No. 2 and leave him with her through the season. He helps feed her young all the time. When No. 1 wants to nest again, I run the cock in with her about three times—once a morning for ten minutes. I never have any trouble with this method.

(8) Egg and home-made bread—plenty of bread, mind, or your hen will soon want to nest again. Along with the egg food I give dandelion, hemp, and now and again mixed seed, until the young leave their parents, when I give egg food and crushed seed (white) in separate glasses.

(9) In the early part I always prefer first round cocks and second round hens.

SOME ORNAMENTS OF A WELL-KNOWN NORWICH PLAINHEAD BREEDER AND JUDGE.

Mr. W. Vardy, of Hucknall Huthwaite, is known wherever there are fanciers of the chubby Norwich Plainhead. Above are depicted three youthful members of his family, a few of his winning birds, and some of the trophies the latter have secured him. The noble silver cup crowning the group is the 20-guinea Challenge Cup of the Norwich Plainhead Club, which Mr. Vardy won outright during the years 1899—1900—1901.

(10) I think there is no hard and fast line. I have bred tip-top youngsters that have beaten old birds at the Palace, with parents six years old. The age does not matter much if only your old birds are sound—that is the grand secret.

(11) I have kept them 14 days and they have hatched out all right.

(12) Over-feeding and over-eating, or drinking too much, or the third and chief cause—unhealthy parents. I never put young ones on water until they are from 30 to 35 days old, and then I add Board of Trade Fever Mixture to their drink about three times a week until they get well on seed. Do this, and keep cages clean, and there should be no trouble in rearing.

(13) I always run mine when they are about five weeks old. I hang a show cage in front of the ordinary one for a few days, and then run them out about half a dozen at a time. Put them frequently in runs on a table until well on in moult, and they will never forget it. Of course there are birds you cannot steady, and in many cases the fault lies with the parents. Do not forget that all the training cages in the world will not make a bird stand up unless he has it bred in him.

(14) I have had best results from cocks 6½ to 6¾ inches and hens 6½ inches long. I don't believe in extremes, i.e., cock over 7 inches and hen 6 inches. Have them near a size.

(15) I do not think classes for even-marked birds would pay. I doubt if there are half a dozen good ones throughout Yorkshire. They seem to have gone back these last few years.

(16) It could not be much improved upon. Judges are bound to give and take a little, as they don't find two birds alike, and all have their failings.

(17) I think five points plenty for extra colour. Yorkshires are not supposed to be birds of colour, but should be judged by position and style. But I am sorry to say some judges give 50 points—in fact overlook carriage altogether.

(18) A great number, I should say. I think crossing with these breeds is a thing of the past. I am not far out when I say that to-day we have Yorkshires finer in feather than the Norwich, and I feel confident we shall improve them still more if only we keep other breeds out. To my view we have enough of everything for a few years to come.

THE MAGPIE (Pica rustica).

The Magpie is a truly gorgeous bird, despite the fact that black and white alone make up its plumage. It is a wonderful velvety black, however; in certain lights marvellously irradiated with ever-changing tones of metallic greens and blues. Seen in the fields, his long tail and his graceful flight make so charming a picture that one regrets the Magpie should be so widely persecuted, and shot on sight, as a pilferer of game birds' eggs, and as associated with other deeds of a criminal nature in the eyes of the gamekeeper.

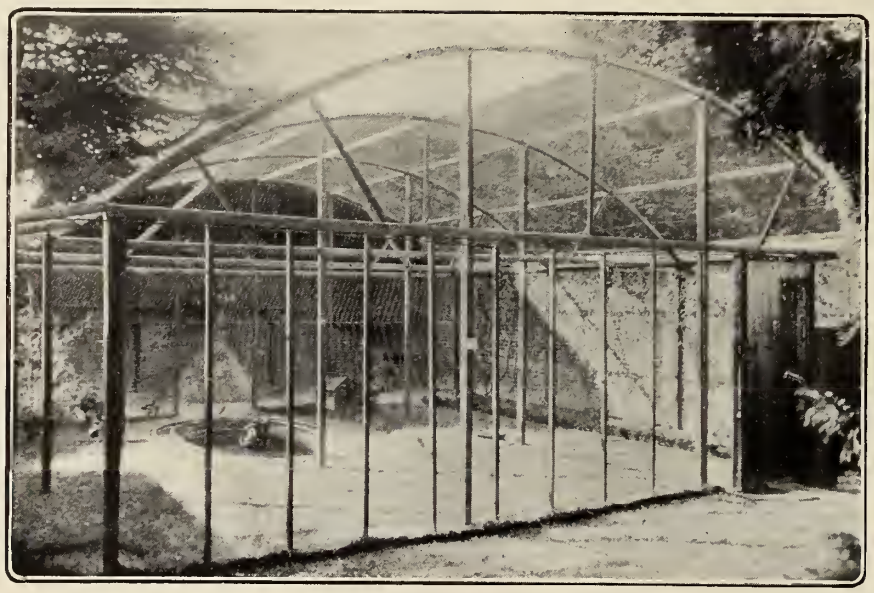
THE AVIARIES AT ELSENHAM:

WITH AN ACCOUNT OF SOME OF THEIR INMATES.

By G. E. WESTON.

An illustrated record of a visit paid to the palatial aviaries recently erected by Sir Walter Gilbey, at Elsenham Hall.

With photographs by A. Maxwell] [The Studio," Bishops Stortford.



ON a recent lovely October day, I had the good fortune to spend a few pleasant hours among the aviaries at Elsenham Hall, by the courtesy of Sir Walter Gilbey, their owner, who was also good enough to grant CAGE BIRDS permission to photograph them for the benefit of its readers. An account from the local press of the opening of the aviaries to the public recently appeared in our columns, and a perusal of this served to fill me with a lively anticipation of pleasure to come—and I was nowise disappointed. I learned, by-the-bye, that the local public accepted Sir Walter's kindly invitation so whole-heartedly that traffic on the Great Eastern Railway (never very wide awake, critics say) got considerably out of joint on the days over which it applied—hundreds attended, and evinced the utmost interest in the exceptionally fine collection of birds Sir Walter has brought together, and appreciation of the permission to roam as they pleased through the lovely grounds adjoining the Hall. Our "guide, philosopher and friend" in chief, Gilbert, the aviary attendant, remarked that it reminded him of old days at the Zoo on August Bank Holiday! And none was better pleased than Sir Walter Gilbey himself at the obvious enjoyment the visitors derived from his birds and his aviaries.

Elsenham is a quiet little Essex village some 35 miles from London, and within easy distance of Bishops Stortford. Sir Walter Gilbey is the "good spirit" of the place, and the earliest things to attract my attention as we drove along were the orderliness of the village generally, the substantial, comfortable look of the cottages it contains, and the charming displays of flowers in the gardens. In the centre, on the village green as it were, stands a gilt-domed pump-house, erected by Sir Walter to the memory of his wife. Away to the right one catches a glimpse of the huge aggregation of buildings, with the conspicuous central dome, that goes to make up the world-famous stud-farm, which has worked so unceasingly and to such splendid purpose for the improvement of the equine race, and will leave the name of Gilbey remembered in the annals of the horse long after that animal has been hustled out of the scheme of Nature—which the saints forbid!—by the airship and the motor.

Elsenham Hall is a charmingly situated place, and a delight to the eye in itself, as a photograph would convincingly show. The range of aviaries is situated at the back, and thence we made our way (my trusty photographer and myself), speedily striking up an acquaintance with the aforementioned Mr. F. Gilbert, a one-time keeper at the Regent's Park Zoo, who has charge of the aviaries. Gilbert is an enthusiast in everything appertaining to birds and their keeping, and a keen observer of their little peculiarities and idiosyncrasies, hence it follows that he is an entertaining personage to talk with, and that his charges, both birds and their homes, are in the best possible condition. It is but bare justice to say that a healthier, better-conditioned lot of birds I have never seen, while the extreme cleanliness and the arrangements generally were a surprise and a delight.

I was interested to discover that Sir Walter indulged in a little Canary breeding, a few breeding cages of the usual type occupying shelves in the room containing the bins, etc., used to store the seed and other necessities of the aviarist. But fortune had been fickle during the past season, and but few youngsters were on view.

About this time we were joined by Mr. Cass, Sir Walter's private secretary, who courteously favoured us with many interesting items concerning the inmates of the aviaries, being evidently a keen lover of birds himself. Sir Walter has not been visited with the best of luck. When the present range of aviaries was a building, something went wrong with the heating apparatus of the room in which the then stock was temporarily housed, the lamentable result being the loss of a very valuable lot of birds, among them some splendid talking parrots. One of these was an exceptionally gifted Grey, which Sir Walter purchased in France. This bird could speak reams of French, sing songs, and imitate a band, mimicking the various instruments one after the other with laughable fidelity. It was ever remarkably quick at picking up anything it overheard. A member of the household had the misfortune to contract a severe cold—and it was but a few hours afterwards when Polly contracted a very severe imitation, hawking and coughing and sneezing as though in the worst throes of influenza! It was indeed unfortunate so talented a creature should meet such a fate.

THE HOME OF THE WATER-FOWL AND THE WADERS.

Breeding operations have also ended disappointingly up to the present, though Sir Walter hopes for better things in the near future. When a true pair of some rare species has been obtained, one or other has failed to survive acclimatisation—if not the male, then the female, and vice versa. Or the hen has succumbed to egg-binding when things have reached a more interesting and promising stage. This happened to a female Red-wing Parrakeet. The couple were observed to mate on several occasions, and the hen laid one egg; then she incontinently died. It is a thousand pities egg-binding claimed her as a victim (everything possible was done to relieve her), as this species, I understand, has not yet been successfully bred in this country.

A pair of Blue Bearded Jays also turned their minds towards the domestic virtues, and set up housekeeping in a broom-head which had had a portion of the bristles removed for their special delectation. They made no attempt to carry any nesting material into this hollow, but Mrs. Jay eventually deposited an egg therein. Her spouse's passion for eggs au naturel got the better of him, however, and he made a meal of it. And Mrs. Jay marked her sense of the depravity of such a proceeding by steadfastly declining to pander further to his appetite. A male Pileated Jay also behaved in exactly the same manner with the egg, or eggs (number uncertain), his fond "missus" trustfully presented to him.

To turn to the aviaries, it is not our intention to catalogue the birds therein, but to make mention only of those of general interest. The "summer aviary" is a structure 24 ft. long by 12 ft. wide and high, at present divided lengthwise down the centre. The graceful lines on which it is planned will be readily appreciated from the accompanying photograph. It was designed by Sir Walter Gilbey himself, and exhibited at one of the Royal Agricultural Society's recent shows, where it was examined with interest by the Queen and other members of the Royal Family devoted to the keeping of pet birds. Its strong point is its adaptability, being of a form suitable for either a very large outdoor, or a small-sized indoor, aviary. The central shelter is a very novel and practical idea, and consists of four alcoves (very like sentry-boxes, roughly described) fitted with perches, and these (one or the other of the quartette) provide protection from the wind or rain, no matter from what quarter coming, as each opening faces a different point of the compass. The floor is grassed, except directly under the cross-perches, where are patches of sand. Next summer it is intended to turn a colony of Weaver birds into this aviary, and a charming sight they should afford, what with their striking colouring and indefatigable nest-weaving. At present it contains a few British birds and a true pair of Virginian Cardinals on one side with two Chinese Crested Mynahs and one Pied Mynah on the other.

In the background at the left of the photo of the "summer aviary" is seen another fine place, 24 ft. square and 9 ft. high, with a shelter (the summer-house-like structure) 10 ft. square and 12 ft. high. This is likewise divided down the centre. One half contains a Carrion Crow and an Occipital Blue Pie, the other two Lanceolated Jays, two Siberian Nutcrackers, three Rosy Pastors, and two Chinese Jay Thrushes. The latter are free and fine singers, and Gilbert is "sweet" on them as aviary birds. The Rosy Pastors, it is worthy of note, have never shown in captivity any sign of the colour from which they take their name. The Nutcrackers interested me immensely, and especially two performances with a nut they kindly favoured me with. Like the rest of the Crow tribe, they are crafty, greedy beggars, and never take one nut at a time providing only that a second lies handy. As they can't crack and eat them both at once, however, one is buried in the ground until such time as it can conveniently be interred elsewhere. It is remarkable with what dexterity and speed the hole is bored with the powerful beak, the nut dropped in, and the earth raked over the top of it with sideway sweeps of the bill. Gilbert says they always remember that spot, too—at least he has never been able to find nuts lying hid and forgotten.

At the back of the last-mentioned aviary lies the home of the waders and water birds, a truly splendid structure, as a glance at our illustration will show. It is no fewer than 40 ft. square, and 15 ft. high, and has a pond in the centre. At the time of my visit the inmates were not numerous. One or two gorgeous Carolina and Mandarin Ducks, some White-faced Whistling Tree Ducks and Californian Quails, a Purple Gallinule and a Cayenne Lapwing "held the floor," while some Crested Doves flew around the roof. A number of Bantam (Silkie) hens are being obtained next season, with a view to hatching out and rearing a few of the Quails.

In the background of the photograph is to be seen a novel, and apparently much-appreciated shelter, designed by Sir Walter. It stands under the roofed-in portion of the aviary, and comprises a thatch of straw arranged round a tree trunk "wigwam" fashion, leaving a goodly floor-space, with entrance facing the back wall.

In this aviary are lodged at times the Blue Pies and two Laughing Kingfishers (or "Jackasses"). The periodical appearances of the latter spread consternation and terror in the ranks of the sparrows that have squeezed their way in and been feasting sumptuously on stolen corn. Fat and juicy morsels, they are soon squeezed between the awe-inspiring jaws of our cachinnatory friends; every bone in their body cracks, the feathers fly in clouds, then comes a jerk of the head and a tender "mouthful" of sparrow is satisfactorily negotiated.

But it is only at certain times the Laughing Jackasses are permitted to perambulate at will. It is their pleasing custom to salute the dawn with fiendish chucklings and hoarse guffaws, varied with bursts of maniacal laughter and hair-raising shrieks. Even if they don't quite succeed in "waking the dead," they certainly meet with great success so far as the waking of the living is concerned. And as there are human beings in this world with conscientious objections to being forcibly aroused to hail the smiling morn—well, our Laughing Kingfishers have to postpone their own getting out of bed. Their usual domicile is a commodious roofed-in "flight," 18 ft. long, 10 high and 5 wide, situate near the waterfowl aviary. When we "looked in" the couple were in grand condition, as was an Occipital Blue Pie, their companion.

Opposite the Kingfishers' home is a very pretty rustic aviary containing Canaries, most of them "pensioners," living the last peaceful days of existence.

Next we come to the two very large ranges of lean-to aviaries seen in the photograph showing the aviary-keeper, Gilbert. The first (on the left-hand) is very substantially built, and somewhat on the lines of certain of the outdoor aviaries at the Zoo. Wired flights at the front communicate with large brick-built shelters at the back, in which the birds can be confined altogether if thought desirable. The flooring is of concrete, and kept thickly sanded. The food (both seeds and other kinds) and water are supplied in open dishes.

"JACKO" OBLIGES WITH A SONG—

AND BOWS TO THE APPLAUSE.

In this range are housed, among many other species, Hangnests, Troupials, Green Glossy Starlings, Sulphury Tyrants, Bleeding Heart Doves, Persian Bulbuls, White-eyebrowed Wood Swallows, Crested Jay Thrushes, Pileated and Blue Bearded Jays, Long-tailed Glossy Starling (an exceptionally fine specimen with perfect tail), and two extremely rare Red-bellied Mocking Birds (Cuba), believed to be the only living examples in England. They are handsome creatures (one being in lovely condition), Thrush-like in build and manner, dusky above, and with a vivid splash of red on the abdomen. They are one of the chief prides of the place.

The Blue Bearded Jays are prime favourites, too, and occupy the end compartment, nearest the Hall. A true pair (outward sexual differences are practically nil), they are a remarkably handsome couple, the colour scheme being deep intense blues above and on breast, contrasted with cream underneath. The high metallic gloss on the plumage and the alert, active movements of the birds combine to make a most striking whole. Our painstaking photographic artist managed to secure an excellent portrait of this charming couple. Then Gilbert appeared with a new-laid egg, which was deposited in a corner on the floor and the camera trained upon it. Although things must have worn a very suspicious appearance, something more than even the proverbial "fire and water" would, I fancy, be needed to keep a Jay from sampling a stray egg. So here readers have Master Jay's photograph as he is sucking in the luscious contents, after deftly breaking the shell. But though he seemed in so great a hurry to "put the egg away," I have to record that he behaved like a "real gentleman" towards his more bashful wife. We could see him a few moments afterwards letting the sticky delight trickle gently from his own bill into hers, while she, for her part, gazed as lovingly at him as the operation of swallowing the dainty permitted! Long may they grace the Elsenham aviaries.

The last range of aviaries is, like the aforementioned, lean-to in form, and has been thought out and constructed with much skill to accommodate Parrakeets and the like. It is seen at the left-hand back of the photograph showing the aviary-keeper. Its commodiousness may be gauged by the following dimensions: 46 ft. in length, 12 in width, and 10 in height. The five compartments it contains house at present Gold-fronted, Redwing, Ringneck, Blossom-headed, Stanley and Rosella Parrakeets, with some Cockatiels. A passage-way runs the length of the building, in front of these compartments, rendering sight-seeing easy, and the ventilation good. The outer front is glazed from the top to within a few feet of the bottom, where a wired space is left, thus admitting pure air continuously—an admirable arrangement. Indeed, the whole of the aviaries are above everything else thoroughly practical, though in no single instance has the ornamental side been overlooked. Seeing, however, that Sir Walter Gilbey—the organiser of the wonderful stud-farm—was personally concerned in the planning, this is perhaps no more than could be expected. Hot-water pipes run through this building, as they do through the building containing the Blue Bearded Jays.

Near the door is an extensive "entrance lobby," as it were, fitted with shelving. The latter held several cages, in which were a common Mocking Bird, a Military Troupial, a Giant Weaver, and several other species of Weavers. Gilbert told me that he had found Weavers (particularly the Masked) liable to fainting fits when out in the large aviaries. I also saw here quite one of the best Albino Starlings that has ever come under my notice—pure white, and very silky in coat. And I saw, too, "Jacko," the Australian Piping Crow. But he deserves a paragraph to himself.

Jacko is the "pet of the family," and the jester of Elsenham Hall. He is the up-to-datest, best-educated, and cutest rascal that ever called himself Crow—which is saying a lot. One of the great days of his life was when the hosts invaded his domain on the aviaries being thrown open to the public. He kept crowds of people interested and in a roar. And that he had by no means exhausted his antics he soon gave us proof. During the forenoon we were favoured with Sir Walter Gilbey's company for a time, and Jacko greeted his master with such a fusillade of whistles and cat-calls as would have put the proverbial butcher's boy to shame. Later on we made his closer acquaintance, when he honoured us by posing for his photograph—with what success readers will see.

Jacko is very excitable when human beings are about, and dances, and bows, and postures, all the while rustling his plumage like the leaves of a tree in a gale. Apparently he was charmed to see us, for when his cage-door was opened he came to our corner of the lobby and commenced to sing. His ludicrous "business" made us roar. This seemed to incense Master Jacko, for he suddenly charged down upon us. Luckily the photographer was the individual he selected to vent his spleen upon, and this genial "maker-of-images" was soon hopping frantically all over the place with Jacko's strong beak prodding viciously at his toes. After the keeper and myself had restored peace between our two friends, Jacko suddenly noticed the camera standing erected close by. Conceiving a violent dislike for the stupid looking three-legged thing, he advanced to the attack with a mad rush that any fanatical Dervish might have envied. Full tilt he went, slap into the bag containing the extra plates, etc., which collapsed with promptitude and not a little clatter. Then, however, he noticed the rubber ball dangling down from the shutter of the camera, and scented a meal, mistaking it for some queer sort of egg. To say that he was surprised is to put it mildly—he had never before made the acquaintance of an egg which swung back when he pecked it and hit him in the eye! Then we carried him off to be "taken." Nothing loth, he posed on top of his cage with the assurance of a "star" music-hall artist, and piped "Merrily Danced the Quaker's Wife" with the greatest possible gusto. His attitudes were faithfully recorded by our camera. I am sure the three people who participated in it will long remember that half-hour in the company of "Jacko."

Leaving the aviaries, and having a few minutes to spare ere my train departed, I went for a stroll by the large lake, a splendid sheet of water, tenanted by a large number of wild Ducks and other waterfowl. It was also tenanted, I learned, by some excellent trout, and my fingers itched for a grip of the few feet of trusty cane, then "resting" in the Metropolis. What I thought when told of a monster pike that pulled the ducklings under water may be left to be imagined.

THE RANGE OF LEAN-TO AVIARIES, WITH MR. F. GILBERT THE AVIARY ATTENDANT.

THE NUTHATCH (Sitta cæsia).

The Nuthatch is one of our most peculiar small birds. He runs over trees, either upwards or downwards, with the agility of a squirrel, and is quite a solitary creature so far as others of his kind are concerned. His strong bill easily pierces the acorns, beechmast and nuts which constitute his winter fare—he turns to insects in the summer. The nesting-hole, in a tree, usually has the entrance plastered up with clayey mud.

THE TYPE AND BREEDING OF THE NORWICH PLAINHEAD.

By T. TWIGG.

In this article Mr. Twigg, of Masboro, expresses some out-of-the-ordinary views concerning the Type of the Norwich Plainhead Canary, and Mating for Breeding, and our readers, of course, may differ in :: opinion on some of the points he puts forward. ::

THE Canary to which these few remarks refer is not one of the most remarkable of the varieties favoured by modern fanciers. It has not the giant size of the Coppy, nor the peculiar position of the Belgian or Scots Fancy, nor yet the curious markings of the Lizard; neither has it the extreme length and erect stand of the Yorkshire. It is simply a stouter, longer, and highly-coloured edition of the singing Canary. This rich colour is the leading characteristic of the variety. The history of the bird can be traced back over 200 years, and during that time breeders have been both breeding and feeding almost entirely with a view to improving its colour. It is supposed that the Flemish weavers who were driven from Flanders first brought the bird with them, and it is a curious fact that in any part of England where weaving is the staple trade there you will find a host of fanciers; Nottingham, Bradford, and all the large towns of Lancashire are cases in point.

ON MATTERS OF TYPE.

But to return to our bird. As 45 points out of a possible 100 are allowed for colour, it follows that whatever else you are short of you must have colour. I have seen birds win of bad type and also of bad feather, but it is seldom you see a badly-coloured bird get home, although this does sometimes occur. The next requisite of the bird is type or shape, and you seen them advertised as of "true Bullfinch type," and sometimes of "Robin type." To my mind the common House Sparrow is much nearer the shape we want than either of these birds, and I think if you get the yellows the shape of the hen Sparrow and the buffs like the cock Sparrow, you will be on the right track.

The head should be round and also broad across the skull, not pinched or narrow. By round I do not mean that the bird should have the head of a Tumbler or Owl Pigeon, but that it should have a sort of oval head, about the size of a small egg cut in half. The neck should be thick and set in a true line with the breast, and should also taper down to the back without showing any hollow. The breast should be plump, round and prominent, the back slightly rounded, and the wings short and meeting evenly at the tips. The tail should also be short and neatly closed—not spread out like a fan. The legs should also be short; in fact, the bird should be short all over except in colour. It should stand well across the perch, in quite the opposite position to the Yorkshire. The feather should be short and very silky.

Things not wanted in the Norwich are long, coarse feather, long wings and tail, overhanging brows, frilled breast, beak too large, and legs too long. Neither should he drop his tail as if it worked on a hinge. His wings should not cross at the tips—a very common fault in the Norwich, and especially in the biggest specimens.

Having given you my idea of what is wanted in the Norwich Canary, I will now give you my ideas as to breeding same.

IN-BREEDING AND PAIRING FOR SIZE.

As regards in-breeding, I am a very strong believer in it, and I would not hesitate to pair father and daughter or mother and son, providing that both birds were strong and healthy, but I should never in-breed with delicate birds—you can find plenty of trouble in Canary breeding without seeking it.

If you are desirous of crossing to improve size, there are three recognised ways of doing so, all of which will get you what you desire, and something you do not desire as well! The first is double-buffing with your own birds, selecting two of the biggest, shortest-feathered and highly-coloured buffs you have, and I should prefer one to be heavily marked, as less colour is thus lost than by pairing two clears. The offspring should then be paired back to yellows, discarding all small birds for that purpose.

ENGLISH GROWN CANARY SEED.

This photograph was sent us by Mr. G. Sargeant, of Northampton, and depicts a patch of canary seed grown in his allotment garden. Given favourable weather it ripens well. It is also very much appreciated by birds when given in the ear—they delight in picking out the grains of seed.

The next way is to cross with the Lancashire Plainhead, a gigantic bird which has been bred for generations for size and head properties without much regard for colour and marking. The heaviest marked of these birds have seldom more than a tick on them, and the majority of them are practically clear. It therefore follows that you will want a big, stout, and rather heavily marked Norwich to pair with the Lancashire. The produce will for the most part be big, rough birds, many of them heavily browed and too long in tail, also showing too much feather. In the two succeeding years, still pairing these and their offspring back to the pure Norwich, you should get some good birds, getting back to the right type with increased size.

The next cross for size is the Crestbred, which, although containing a large amount of Lancashire blood, has been bred for crest and nothing but crest, and you cannot get a long weeping crest without long body feather. This variety, too, has in many cases been paired for generations double buff, and usually both birds of a pair are heavily marked, as it is considered that plenty of green blood improves the quality of the crest. In pairing to the Crestbred, then, you will want a big-bodied, short-feathered, clear yellow bird, as neat as you can possibly get, to counterbalance the length of feather in the other, and the Crestbred itself should be selected as short-feathered as possible—just what a Crest breeder would consider a very bad one, and useless for his purpose. Of course, when you have once crossed this way, you must keep breeding back to the Norwich just as with the cross before-mentioned.

LOOK AFTER THE COLOUR.

As to colour, if you keep on pairing marked to clear, it will be a long time before you fail in that respect. But if your colour should weaken, you will have to procure a good yellow-green bird, or crossed with the Lizard. This variety is very little kept; it is a spangled bird with generally, but not always, a clear cap. At a little distance this bird looks like a Green Canary, except for the crown of the head, but it is a valuable bird for crossing, as it is simply full of colour. In shape, too, it harmonises well with the Norwich. It is smaller, so that when crossing you should pair it to a bird of good size, and as the Lizard is not a long-feathered bird you need not be so particular about his being a little feathery.

SUITABLE FOREIGN BIRDS FOR THE NOVICE EXHIBITOR.

REASONABLE IN PRICE, BEAUTIFUL IN PLUMAGE AND EASY TO CATER FOR.

By H. S. DAVIES.

This practical and straight-forward article was awarded the First Prize in our recent competition for essays dealing with Foreign Birds. It concerns three species which :: any beginners may with safety undertake to keep ::

BEFORE starting on the essay proper, I should like to point out whom it is really meant for. I have stated above it is meant for the Novice, and by "Novice exhibitor" I mean the person who, firstly, has Foreign Birds at heart; secondly, has not had any experience in keeping and exhibiting Foreign Birds, and, thirdly, intends going in for Foreign Birds for exhibition purposes.

In conjunction with the above three headings we will divide the different species of Foreign Birds into three classes, namely :—

Class 1.—Large Foreign Birds.
Class 2.—Small Foreign Birds.
Class 3.—Insectivorous or Fruit-eating Foreign Birds.

These are the classes (or something near) usually provided at the shows. We must, therefore, select three species, one for each class.

THE KING OF PARRAKEETS.

To start with Class 1—Large Foreign Birds—and to keep in touch with the avowed objects, reasonable price, beautiful plumage, and ease of feeding, I have no hesitation in advising the Novice to procure a King Parrakeet. He is a native of Australia, and is certainly one of the most beautiful of Foreign Birds. Clad in a brilliant dress of many colours he well deserves the name "King."

A description of the King Parrakeet in brief is as follows :—The head, neck, and breast down to vent are a deep rich scarlet colour, and when in good feather and condition this shines like velvet. Between the neck and shoulders is a deep blue patch; the back and wings are of very deep green, and from the shoulders, or near the butts of the wings, downwards, in a V shape, is a bar of delicate light green, making a fine contrast with the darker shade of green on the wings and back.

The tail of the King is of three shades; in general it is black, with shadings of green and blue which, in the sun, seem to make it glisten as if it were wet. Between the vent and the root of the tail are a few bars of red and black, which look well if the bird is in good feather. On the rump, when the King raises his wings, may be seen a very beautiful purple patch of a rich shade, but this is not seen when the wings are folded tightly. King Parrakeets vary in size, but a good length is from 14 to 16 inches. The bigger he is so much the better from an exhibition point of view.

The price of a King Parrakeet varies from about £2 10s. to £3 10s., and depends entirely upon the length of time he has been in this country, as well as upon his quality. If you have to pay a little over the price mentioned do not grudge it, for a good specimen will hold his own in any company.

HIS DIET AND HOME.

The King is a very easy bird to feed. A good stock mixture for him would be made up as follows :—Canary, hemp, oats and dari in about equal parts, and I like to add about two parts of sunflower seed. Fed upon these, your exhibit should look very fit and in good condition. As a tit-bit I would give him cayenne pods, monkey nuts, and tiger nuts, just a few alternately, as a change. Give him also any ripe fruit he may be fond of, such as a piece of banana, or ripe apple, pear, peach, or a slice of sweet orange.

Do not forget green food, as I have found out they are very fond of green stuff, such as dandelion leaves, milk thistle, chickweed, and shepherd's purse. Any of these given as a change will be readily accepted by "His Majesty," and by giving them to him you will be also bringing him into tip-top condition for the show-bench.

A good and useful stock cage when your bird is at home is one of about the following dimensions :—4 ft. 6 ins. long, 2 ft. high, and 20 ins. wide; if a little larger so much the better. There should be two perches, from back to front, a good thickness being that of an ordinary broom-handle, so as to give him a good grip. A show cage for showing off your King Parrakeet to the best advantage should be about 25 ins. long, 22 ins. high, and from 12 to 14 ins. wide. It should have one perch in the centre, from back to front, and should be enamelled. A good dark or holly green inside looks well and shows off the bird's brilliant colours to a nicety. The outside of his show-cage should be either black or a mahogany colour.

THE FASCINATING GOULDIAN.

We will now pass on to our exhibit for Class 2—Small Foreign Birds—and to again keep in touch with the three objects as stated at the commencement of this paper, I would advise my Novice friend to procure another Australian bird, or better still a pair, as most shows allow single or pairs to compete, and a good pair will naturally beat a good single specimen.

In my opinion a good pair of Red-Headed Gouldians is quite up-to-date for this Class, and a brief description of them is as follows :—The male has a rather thick beak, red at the end, a bold red head with a faint blue edging, and a back of two different shades of green. These Gouldians have a brilliant patch of purple colour, oval shaped, on the chest, and from thence downwards are a deep yellow, gradually paling to a buffish colour near the vent.

The tail is black, and is about an inch long. Projecting from the centre of the tail are two long feathers, about twice the length of the tail proper, and these come to a point almost as thin as a needle, giving the birds a very pretty finish.

The colours of the cock and hen Gouldians are almost similar, but in the former are always much richer and deeper than in the female. The length of the Gouldian is about 5 or 5½ ins., of which the tail takes 2¼ or 2½ ins. A good pair of Red-Headed Gouldians would cost about £1 5s. to £2, and I should advise the Novice to buy Gouldians which have been in this country about six or nine months—in other words, an acclimatised pair, as they are rather delicate for the first few months.

FEEDING AND CAGING.

Our exhibits, like most Foreign Finches, will be found fond of nothing in particular except canary and millet seeds. A spray of millet between the wires for them to pick at is good, while with regard to green food I have found that they are not very particular as to kind; if they will take a little green stuff or ripe fruit so much the better.

As a stock cage for the Gouldians, one about 2 ft. long, 16 ins. high, and about 10 ins. wide, would be just about right, with two perches from back to front. Do not have a smaller cage or they will not have enough room to get exercise, and use their wings, and thereby keep in good condition, an important item in present-day competitions.

A show-cage for showing your exhibits to the best advantage should be as follows :—About 14 ins. long, 12 ins. high, and 6 ins. wide, with two perches. It should be enamelled a nice shade of light green inside and black outside. If your pair be of good colour and shown in good trim, they are almost certain of catching the judge's eye when he is distributing those pretty red cards we are all so fond of.

THE BEAUTIFUL AND GRACEFUL SHAMA.

To proceed to our last, but not by any means least important bird, a really suitable exhibit for Class No. 3 is the Indian Shama, a bird which fulfils all the requirements of those for whom this treatise is intended. He is a beautiful and graceful bird, and, almost needless to say it, the best songster of the three we have selected to comprise our team of Foreigners. I admit he is not quite so brilliant in colour as the two previous exhibits, but I am sure no one will grudge keeping him. If he is in good feather and in good health, he will repay you with his song, for what he loses in brilliance of plumage he gains here.

I can strongly recommend the Indian Shama as an exhibition bird. A brief description of him is as follows :—He has glossy black colour, with a tinge of "rusty" on wings. His rump is of pure white and the under parts are of a deep chestnut colour. The tail is black, with white outer feathers. He is about 12 ins. long, and has a tail about 7 or 8 ins. long. Our "Softbill" exhibit is therefore a really elegant bird, despite his lack of gaudy colours. He somewhat resembles our Robin Redbreast in his movements and also in shape and size, except that the tail of the Shama is about twice as long as his body.

A good Shama may cost you somewhere about £2 or £3. You may get a nice specimen for less than that, although I should advise the Novice not to grudge giving the higher figure providing, of course, he gets value in the bird. He will readily get a buyer for him at a good price and at any time.

FURNITURE AND FOOD.

For a stock cage for your Shama, get one as big as you can afford the space for, but not in any case should it be smaller than 2 ft. 6 ins. long, 18 ins. high, and about 14 ins. wide. If you can give him a few inches more all the better, as he will keep in much better condition and feather, and you will be fully repaid when you pit him against the good exhibits now so often seen on the bench. Remember to do your utmost in all cases to show your birds in good condition, as this often turns the scale in keen competition. His show cage, which adds greatly to his beauty and gracefulness, should be 24 ins. long, 16 ins. high, and about 12 ins. wide. Have it enamelled a nice light shade of green inside, and all black outside. Put wide food and water utensils inside, accessible from the front of the cage, and have two perches, from front to back. You will find that in such a cage your Shama is shown to the best advantage.

The Shama is not a difficult bird to cater for, and if fed as herein recommended he will be found not at all difficult to manage. Get him a good stock insectivorous mixture, any good brand will do, and such are advertised regularly in our worthy helper, CAGE BIRDS. To that you may add, as a change, a teaspoonful of dried flake of egg, or the same quantity of minced hard-boiled egg. He will also enjoy a little raw or cooked meat. Give him anything in the way of insects, such as flies, caterpillars, spiders, or in fact anything that crawls or flies. Do not forget also to give him various kinds of ripe fruits, as Shamas are very fond of these.

In conclusion, I want to impress upon the coming generation of exhibitors three points in particular. Firstly, select and buy the best your pocket admits; secondly, look well after your exhibits, feeding and caging them well; and thirdly, stick to good old CAGE BIRDS and read, mark, learn and inwardly digest the various articles, items of correspondence, and answers to queries. You will not then be far off the mark on the show-bench.

THE OUTDOOR BIRD-ROOM OF MR. W. W. FREESTONE (Norwich).

MY bird house, writes Mr. Freestone, I had built last February. Having to leave my residence in Denmark Road in October, 1906, I had to dispose of my birds, cages, etc., as in the house I was going to there was no room suitable for them. It was with great regret that I parted with my pets, having, after several years of trying, got them fit for exhibition. I did not miss them much at first, but, after getting settled down in my new house the old longing kept growing on me until I got quite miserable. I tried to keep away from the shows. But it was of no use—I could not content myself until I had acquired more birds. I then made up my mind to have a place built outside. Having an open space 22 ft. long in my back garden, I had 12 ft. utilised for a bird-house, the remainder for a greenhouse for the wife's pleasure (she being a lover of flowers as well as birds). The next thing was to get the cages and then the birds. I claimed several at the shows, and got some from the best breeder that I knew, and having been fortunate enough to breed several very good youngsters, I shall be able to start with a few very decent pairs next season. The cat seen in photo was accidentally shut up in the bird-house for twelve hours, but did not touch a single bird thanks to the careful training given by my wife when he was a kitten.

BORDER FANCY CANARIES.

At the above Exhibition the largest gathering of Border Fancy Canaries (prime favourites of the fanciers of Northern England and the Border Counties) ever seen in the South was brought together. Our artist, Mr. H. NORMAN, has here sketched a half-dozen of the winners which came down from the North Country.

Upper Row (left to right)—Yellow Cock, 1st prize (Messrs. Reid and Phillips, Selkirk). Yellow Cock, 2nd prize (Mr. J. Blackie, St. Boswells). Even-marked Yellow, 1st prize (Messrs. Duncan and Logan, Coldstream). Lower Row (left to right)—Yellow Hen, 2nd prize (Mr. J. Calderwood, Dumfries). Buff Cock, 1st prize (Mr. F. Wardleworth, Altrincham). Buff Hen, 2nd prize (Mr. J. Gordon, Melrose).

OBITUARY.

Mr. J. REILLY.

At the last meeting of the the Y.C.C. of Ireland, the Chairman said it was with much regret he had to announce the death of one of the Vice-Presidents, Mr. Jas. Reilly, of Arva, who had been a member of the club since its formation, and was a very good member, too, and who would be missed very much. He (the Chairman) had had the pleasure of winning the very handsome "special" given by him at the last show, when he had made the acquaintance of both Mr. and Mrs. Reilly. He felt it was their duty when they had met there to pass a vote of condolence and sympathy to Mrs. Reilly, which he proposed, and which was passed in silence, all members standing.

MISS ROSE HANNAH BAKER.

Mr. H. Oliver, of Glossop, writes:—It is with the deepest regret I have to announce to your wide circle of readers of the death of Miss Rose Hannah Baker, the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Baker, of 52, Queen-street, Shaw, Oldham, who passed peacefully away on October 21st at the early age of 17 years. The mortal remains of the unfortunate young lady were interred at Crompton Cemetery on October 23rd. She had been ailing for the last 21 months, and had been bedfast for 28 weeks. It has been a great blow to Mr. and Mrs. Baker. She was a great help to her father in his bird rooms, ever willing to assist him with his large stock of birds. This bereavement will keep Mr. Baker from exhibiting during this season, but it is to be hoped we shall see his birds next show season.

MR. HOWARD SAUNDERS.

It is with unfeigned regret, says a writer in "Nature," that we record the death of Mr. Howard Saunders, after a long and painful illness. The deceased gentleman was known as the editor of the third and fourth volumes of the fourth (and last) edition of "Yarrell's British Birds," the late Prof. Newton, who had edited the two earlier volumes, having found himself unequal to the task of continuing the work, at the rate of issue deemed necessary by the publishers. This work is alone a monument to the extensive knowledge and unflagging industry of Mr. Saunders. In 1887 he published a list of the birds of our islands; and in 1888—9 "An Illustrated Manual of British Birds," which originally appeared in parts, and of which a second edition was issued during the years 1897—9. Terns, Gulls, and Skuas were a group of birds in which Mr. Saunders was specially interested. His papers in the "Ibis," in addition to those on the birds of Spain, are numerous, and, needless to say, valuable. His death will be felt as a personal loss by a large circle of scientific friends, both in this country and abroad.

UNDER THE WHITE ROSE.

THE washing exhibition at the Wibsey O.S. headquarters proved a very interesting affair. Mr. Hartley washed four birds in good style, and the novices present were delighted with the wrinkles given. Then Mr. Shaw, another old and experienced master of the art, put one through, as also did one of the novices, Mr. Taylor, who created much amusement by his liberality with the soap. A hearty vote of thanks was given Mr. Hartley for his exhibition, at the close of the proceedings.

THE show of the Great Horton Good Intent O.S. on Saturday last will, I think, create a record entry, 503 birds being on view in the 21 classes provided, and with one entry more would have given an average of 24 per class. A regrettable incident of the show was the objection to a bird in the novice class by the society for alleged cutting or clipping of tail feathers. This matter will be brought before the Yorkshire Union at a special meeting to be called at Sandy Lane Show on Saturday, November 2nd, when the subject will be thoroughly thrashed out. The owner disclaimed all knowledge of the matter, and both he and the society can rely upon justice and a fair hearing from the committee.

IN my notes last week I mentioned the subject of societies holding members' shows when another society was having an open show, and since then have been informed that two other societies were also having members' shows on the same day; one of these is an old society, and will doubtless know of the usual custom. The other two are new ones to the Union, and are probably ignorant of any such arrangement. There is, of course, no rule to this effect, but several years ago it was brought up by the societies themselves that members' shows should not be held on the same day as open shows as it was thought entries would suffer, and therefore most societies hold theirs at 8 o'clock in the evening. "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you."

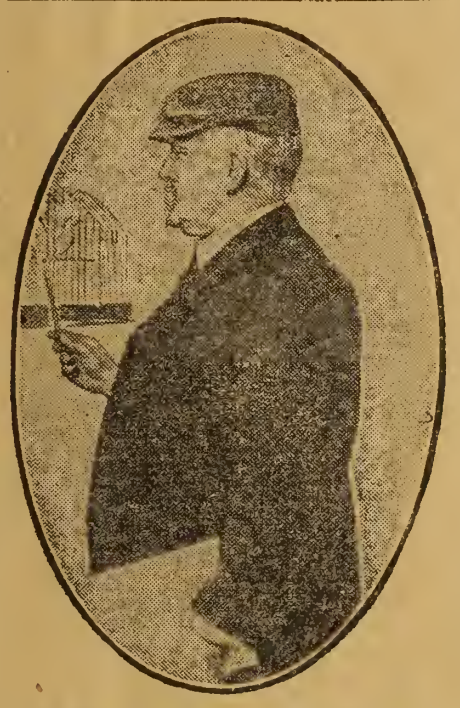
"THE THIEF."



An Account of a Favourite Parrot.

(See Photograph in Supplement.)

Among the commoner kinds of parrots usually kept as pets, writes Mr. Fred G. Palmer (Faversham), the green and yellow Amazon shares popular favour with the Grey Parrot. The bird in the photograph is affectionately called "The Thief" by his owner, and it is possible for anyone to do anything with him. He is so delightfully gentle that it is believed he would allow his feathers to be pulled out without biting! This, of course, is pure theory, for his owner is far too fond of him to permit any such cruelty. He is a gentlemanly, well-behaved little fellow as a rule, and talks very amusingly. But when a strange cat happens to be coming towards him, it is very obvious then that his early training in the home of a Lancashire miner has done him no good—the ladies of the house are sometimes obliged to close their ears to the remarks he addresses to his feline enemy.

A Champion Norwich.

Mr. T. Seed's clear Buff Norwich "Little King II.," a great favourite of the owners, attracted much attention at Accrington Show. This bird is, without doubt, one of the most notable specimens of the breed, and is acknowledged by many of the leading judges to be a perfect model. Mr. Seed may justly claim it to be a champion, as out of about 7 appearances on the show bench last season at all best shows, including N.P.C. Cup Shows, it was only defeated once, and at the Palace when it was dropped to 3rd. It started the season again at Accrington, and again headed the class.

Mr. W. Mundell, the well-known judge.

COCKERMOUTH versus THE C.B.U.

A budget of correspondence nearly 2,500 words in length concerning this dispute with Mr. Lythgoo has reached us from the Secretary of Cockermouth F.S. this week, but, unfortunately, we cannot at this busy time of the year spare the space to print same. We shall hope to give a resume in a future number.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

DOUBTS AND DIFFICULTIES SOLVED BY SPECIALISTS.

Queries will be answered under the following conditions:—

(1)—All questions must be clearly written in Ink (or typewritten) on one side only of paper, and must conclude with either the correct name of querist, or a pseudonym, or initials.

(2)—The proper name and address in full of querist must always be written on a separate sheet of paper and enclosed with the query. In no case must the address appear on the query.

(3)—Queries intended for different specialists must not be written on the same sheet of paper.

(4)—Queries must not include or be included in orders for books, instructions re advertisements, or any other matter for publication.

(5)—The department to which the queries refer must be stated in bold letters on the left-hand corner of the query.

(6)—If an answer in the same week's issue is desired, queries must be posted to reach us by Monday's first post at latest. Queries will be dealt with in the order in which they are received, and only as space permits. The earlier queries are received the better attention they are likely to have.

(7)—Queries relating to illnesses of birds, except enquiries as to cause of death (for which see Post Mortems) will be answered by return of post on receipt of a postal order for sixpence and an addressed stamped envelope. Queries of an ordinary nature will be answered by post, if desired, on receipt of a postal order for one shilling and a stamped addressed envelope.

(8)—All who require letters of compluint written to advertisers must state grounds for doing so clearly and fully, and enclose a fee of sixpence to pay postage expenses, &c., otherwise their letters will not receive attention.

(9)—All queries must be addressed the Editor, "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C. Only queries so sent will be answered. Postcards are not admissible.

NOTE.—Readers are requested to carefully study past numbers and current issue before submitting questions. By doing so they may save trouble and unnecessary repetition.

CANARIES.

Answered by J. H. PAYNE.

Daintiness.

Sammie.—The sample of seed you sent is fairly good, and I do not think the quality of the seed is the cause of their shelling it in the way you describe. If it were you would undoubtedly have had more than three go wrong, out of your large stock. I think the three birds shell their seed in the way you describe, simply because they are right out of sorts. Do not give any more Epsom Salts, as this will only weaken them in their present low condition. Let them have a half teaspoonful of egg food each every day for a week, to which add five drops of Parrish's Chemical Food. Then give instead, every other day for a fortnight, a piece of sponge cake, about the size of a walnut, over which put a few drops of good, old port. On the days they are not having this, give in the drinking water ten drops of Tincture of Quinine. Pleased to hear of your highly successful breeding season, and that you have found the columns of CAGE BIRDS so useful to you.

Sneezing.

Sillew.—Your birds are evidently suffering from colds, and as you say they are quite free from any draught, I think, with you, that the cause must be attributed to the changeable weather. To each wineglassful of drinking water put in ten drops of Acetate of Ammonia, and give fresh daily for a week; then every other day for another eight days. Whilst under treatment I should recommend you to take the affected ones away from the others, and at night time keep them covered over with a warm cloth.

ROLLERS.

Answered by "SCHOOLMASTER."

Sneezing and Wheezing.

Sillw.—Pleased to hear your Roller seems better. Persevere with the treatment, and I fancy he will eventually recover altogether. A well-established cold cannot be got rid of in a few days. That is where many fanciers make a mistake—they are too impatient, and stop treatment, thinking it is doing no good, just when the medicine would be about beginning to show its good effects. You are right to keep him in an even temperature. It is very easy to clean out mouth and nostrils with the glyco-thymoline, used warm. The strength is the same as recommended for catarrh in human beings—one in four, I believe, from memory. A tiny feather can easily be inserted in the mouth as he opens his beak to peck at it (the feather). And this is also a good thing to apply to the nostrils.

An Odd Case.

C.C.—Yours is a somewhat odd case. You don't say how you come to be so positive the bird is a cock. Personally, I should have been inclined to write it down a hen. Anyway, a simple and excellent remedy you can try for a fortnight is two ounces each (by measure) of best honey and glycerine, well stirred together—get them from a chemist. Of this mixture, stir a small teaspoonful into two tablespoonfuls of drinking water, fresh daily. If this brings about no improvement, write me again at the end of the period mentioned, and tell me on what you base your opinion as to the youngster's sex. I should certainly give the bird a little soft food (egg bread, or a good patent Canary food) every other day—or a small teaspoonful daily, if you like. Be sure it hangs in no draughts, and is below the level of gas, or whatever illuminant is in use.

Several Matters.

Willis.—The ordinary paints are not made to dry with a dead surface. But if you go to a working painter's place and tell him what you want, you will have no difficulty in getting such a thing. I believe the dead black on the outside of cages is not a "paint," but a kind of black size, which, on the front, is given a coat of hard varnish. The distemper you mention is perfectly safe, and one of the best things going for the insides of cages. A very light green is a most suitable colour. I do not think that you will find in any book such a lengthy account of bird diseases and their treatment as is given in the pages of CAGE BIRDS ANNUAL. Always pleased to try to be of use.

Canary Rings.

A Novice.—Canaries can certainly be exhibited with rings on their legs—it is not uncommon to see such on the show bench. There are two kinds of rings: one is closed, and must be put on the legs of the birds when they are seven or eight days old; that is, while they are still in the nest; the other can be opened, and placed on the legs of birds at any age. Any maker of rings will send you a sample on application They bear consecutive numbers (1, 2, 3, 4, etc.), and the year. It would never do to ring each bird of the same nest with a similar number, for any individual bird would then be difficult to trace whereas, with each having its own number, the matter becomes simple.

YORKSHIRES.

Mating.

Novice.—I should advise you to have a lightly marked buff hen with the clear yellow cock, seeing that he is bred from clears. To keep him in good plumage let his staple food be white canary seed, and give three times a week half a teaspoonful of the following mixture: Two parts best summer rape, one part good maw seed, and one part linseed, and give a slice of boiled carrot between the wires twice a week. Let him have the bath on two or three times a week during the forenoon, on nice, bright days.

Without Song and Mopey.

W.B.—Your bird would probably not have been in its present state of health had it been kept in a suitable cage. Get one of the box pattern, wired at the front only, and keep it free from draughts. Continue the plain white canary seed, giving a little egg food two or three times a week. Sprinkle a little maw seed over it, and give six drops Parrish's Chemical Food in its drinking water fresh daily.

Protracted Moulting.

M.F.—Give in drinking water ten drops of Syrup of Buckthorn, and ten drops of good Scotch whiskey, stirring well up. Give fresh every morning, and in addition to its seed give a little boiled milk sop, squeezing as much milk out as you can; mix a little honey with the sop and sprinkle a little maw seed over the lot. Take the drinking water away at night, and give fresh every morning.

Feet Diseased.

E. Lee.—Fill an egg cup with warm water, and put twenty drops of Arnica into it. Hold the bird's foot in the water for ten minutes, and wipe dry with a soft cloth. Take out the perches, and put a soft thick cloth on the cage bottom, with some seed and water in two heavy little vessels, such as salt cellars. Bath as above twice a day for a week, when I think your bird will get well, if not write again.

Sickness.

Alpha.—Your bird should have been in the moult long before you say it was, and from what you say, it is in a weakly condition. Mix with the egg food for three days eight drops of Syrup of Buckthorn, and give in its water ten to twenty drops of whiskey on the fourth day, and for the week following mix with the egg food in place of the Buckthorn six drops of Parrish's Chemical food. Try this, and if there is no improvement, write again. You might examine the bird's feet, and see if there are any signs of soreness. Keep the bird in a nice cosy corner, covering it up with a cloth at night.

A Cough Cure.

J. H. Laurence.—Get the following: ½ oz. of Oil of Eucalyptus, ½ oz. of Oil of Cajapat. Mix and give well mixed in the drinking water fresh every morning, taking the drinking water away every night, as the bird will not drink much unless it is thirsty. Try this for ten days, and then for another week go back to the Oxymel of Squills Ipecacuanaba wine and Glycerine. Keep warm, free from draught, and cover up at night.

MISCELLANEOUS CANARY QUERIES.

Answered by "OLD JUDGE."

Birds in Aviary.

Joan.—You certainly do seem to be a complete novice, and it is somewhat difficult to advise you as you would not understand the terms generally used. I will, however, do my best to assist you. In the first place I should advise you to send to the Manager of CAGE BIRDS for a copy of the Canary Manual, this will give you much useful information. As to sexing the birds, speaking generally, the brightest coloured, the boldest, and most perky, will be the cocks. You most certainly may breed with the birds you have, but another season it would be advisable to introduce one or two strangers. Further, it would be far better for you to gain some practical knowledge ere you expend any money in fresh stock.

Red Mite.

E.M.S.—The best thing you can do is to give all the birds a complete washing in the same manner as if you were going to show them, only putting a few drops of Jeyes' Fluid in the water. You should paint the woodwork of the aviary with a strong solution of Jeyes' Fluid. If you cannot manage to wash the birds, you might try dusting them well with Keatings' Insect Powder.

Birds Panting.

Anxious.—From the description you give of your bird, I am afraid it is too far gone for anything to bring it back to full health. You might, however, try the effect of putting thirty drops of Fellows' Compound Syrup in its drinking water every day. Give it a little egg food each day, or some milk sop fairly dry, the latter for preference, and sprinkle a little maw seed over it.

Books on Breeding.

No Name.—There is no better book on Norwich than the one you mention, but "House's Canary Manual" contains a lot of information on the subjects you mention, and moreover it is thoroughly practical. If you have this, which I presume you have, I can only advise you to study it very carefully; with that and Mr. Payne's book you certainly ought to be able to go ahead.

BRITISH BIRDS, MULES AND HYBRIDS.

Answered by G. E. WESTON.

What is a Green Linnet?

A Reader.—There is no such species as the "Green Linnet. That, however, is a name very commonly given to the Greenfinch. I have never heard fanciers apply it to any other bird. Still, it is quite erroneous to do so, for Mister Greenbird is not really even very closely related to the true Linnet (the Brown Linnet), the latter being by scientists ranked among the true Finches, whereas the former is a Grosbeak, the same as the Hawfinch. I don't know exactly what point your argument was about, but if you held that the Greenfinch and the Green Linnet were one and the same bird, you undoubtedly were correct. Wordsworth, in one of his poems, praises the song of a Green Linnet, but it is believed he was alluding to the Willow Warbler (a tiny greenish songster). A case of poetic license, I suppose—rather hard on those who quote his words when extolling the virtues and graces of the Greenfinch.

Bullfinch-Canary Hybrids.

Lucky.—Several people have claimed to have bred from the cock Bullie mated to a hen Canary. I don't think I have seen any of the progeny, however. One of the lots claimed to have been so bred were very light in plumage, but, so far as memory serves me, no judge awarded them prizes as real Bullie-Canaries. That cock Bullfinches sometimes successfully breed in captivity there can be no question, and I wish you luck with yours. They seem to be very uncertain, however, on the whole. So don't be disappointed if you don't succeed. You may not even breed any more Canary-Bullies. Success one year does not necessarily spell success the next. I know many who have bred Hybrids from a certain couple one season, yet had only clear eggs from the same pair ever afterwards. It is a curious business. I do not know anything to the cock Bullie's detriment so far as his behaviour in the breeding cage is concerned. I must confess I have had little experience of him. Certainly though, if I got fertile eggs and hatched out young, I should be chary of allowing any but the hen Canary with them, so long as she did her duty. You could give him a trial providing you could watch him closely.

Identity of Bird.

Sayers.—The bird you send a specimen corpse of is the Great (or Oxeye) Tit. None of the Tits is really suitable to keep in captivity. They seldom survive long, even under the best of conditions and treatment, and many birds with better claims on the bird-keeper are to be found. The general run of Tits are not even easy to "meat off"—that is, to get to take to the new food of captivity. They need plenty of live insects (mealworms, etc.), to begin with, and a good softbill food containing plenty of ants' eggs, and prepared in the usual way. The latter should be the staple diet of the Great Tit, being supplemented with a few sunflower and hemp seeds daily, also small cracked nuts. It is well to occasionally mix a little finely scraped raw lean meat amongst the stock food, while a small piece of the fat of meat, or suet, now and again is relished, especially in the winter.

Owing to unavoidable circumstances Mr. Weston has had to leave several answers over until next week.

A Varied Trio.

Ambitious.—1: You need not be surprised at your Redpoll losing its red colour after its indoor moult—they all do this. What is the cause of the loss of colour would puzzle a far wiser head than mine to tell you. It is one of the puzzles of bird-life that some species should markedly alter in colour, or fail to reproduce certain tints common to their wild state, when translated to a condition of captivity. The theory that change of food (or inability to obtain a certain food) accounts for this is far from entirely satisfactory, as occasionally a Redpoll moulted in an outdoor aviary has been known to assume the red head and breast tints, though in receipt of nothing beyond the ordinary every-day seeds. 2: It is always a difficult task to state the prices of birds—they vary so, according to the excellence of the specimens, whether newly-caught or accustomed to captivity, etc. A young Bullfinch might cost you 2/-, Linnet 6d., Siskin (you'll have a difficulty in getting a "young" one), 2/6, Chaffinch 6d., Nightingale 10/-, upwards. Of course, these are very elastic prices, for a young Linnet may cost, and be cheap at, 5/-. 3: Redpolls want no "persuading" to breed, as a rule, so long as they are in good condition. You have simply to let your cock bird make the acquaintance, during the winter, of the hen Canary, and then pair them towards the middle of March. February is very early for Redpolls, early, even for the majority of hen Canaries.—I doubt if you would get fertile eggs then. Much depends on the weather, and we now seem always to get our winter in what should be our spring.

Show Cage and Yellowhammer.

Doubtful.—Both for a variegated Goldfinch Mule and for a Yellowhammer, you cannot improve upon a very dark (holly) green enamel for the wires and inside of the show cage. The inside should have several coats, to give a deep, rich appearance. Yellowhammers eat freely little beyond plain canary seed, and this of best quality must be their staple food. Try them also with maw, cracked hemp and sunflower, coarse oatmeal, groats, small wheat and oats, wild seeds, etc. They may take a little and a change is always good. Some live food (mealworms, etc.), should be constantly supplied, if you want to guard against your bird "going light;" also a feed of good insectivorous food at frequent intervals. 'Hammers are also very partial to good ants' eggs moistened with new milk—just press them under with the finger, and then drain off the milk—likewise to live (freshly gathered) ants' eggs.

Show Cage and Thistle Seed.

Argyle.—For a Bullfinch's show cage I like the colour I generally recommend, viz., a dark (holly) green—inside and wires the same. See reply to "Doubtful" this week. Some fanciers show their Bullfinches in light blue cages. This suits them very well—but not, in my opinion, so well as the very dark green. You could try both, and thus discover your own particular taste. Thistle seed is certainly much the best, and far more appreciated, when given in the head. I rarely use it in any other form myself. I don't mind a bit of "fluff" in my own bird-room—I have seen my flight knee-deep in it at the corners—but if you or your good lady object to it blowing about the place, then cut off the down close to the top of the seed, and burn it, giving the "cropped head" to the birds. This reduces the litter to a minimum. To remove the seeds from the heads, a simple and effective way is as follows: Cut them as just described, pull them roughly open over the mouth of a big, tough, brown-paper bag, and then drop them inside. After-wards shake and twirl the bag vigorously about. Then turn out the contents into a dish or sieve. The seed will fall to the bottom, and the "chaff" can be easily removed. Much of it can be got rid of ere emptying out the bag, in fact.

Preserving Berries.

Berries.—There are many ways of preserving berries for a more or less considerable period of time. They should be cut in sprays (in the branch). Putting the stem in a bottle of water, and storing in the dark is one way. Burying them in dry sand, or in sawdust (like one sees grapes) are other ways. Another good plan is to stick the end of the spray in damp sand, keeping the latter wet. I have kept many berries a long time by the latter method, in a cellar or other cool place, covering them with a bucket, or a small tin bath, to exclude light. If you keep your eye open you can generally find a spot or two near allotment or other gardens, where berries are to be gathered to a much later date than elsewhere, owing to the wild birds not ravaging them, probably owing to their proximity to buildings.

Ill-Luck with Goldfinches.

H. Evans.—It is not surprising your fresh-caught Goldfinches died, seeing how you were feeding them. You want to put them in a long low cage, in a very quiet spot, and not go disturbing them every few minutes. Let them have niger, maw and cracked hemp (made afresh every day), as much as they will eat; also, in addition, canary, teazle, cracked sunflower and coarse oatmeal A few thistle and hard-heads thrown in daily will also help. An important point is to be sure and see the captives get at the water—both water and seed are better inside the cage, as fresh-caught birds can hardly be expected to understand putting their heads through holes to feed and drink.

Treatment of Goldfinches.

Frenchman.—The moult has more influence than the food in the turning out of a show Goldfinch. If a Goldie does not moult early, and quickly and well, no system of feeding or treatment will serve to put him in show condition. In addition to the good moult, a free use of the bath is also essential. A bird which refuses to bathe, or is shy at bathing, never comes out carrying the gloss of the bird that tubs himself frequently and freely. Judicious use of the spray, I should have said, can help one, but puts one to trouble which may become burdensome if a lot of stock needs to be looked after. Given a good moult and a good bather, then proper feeding becomes a power for good. Hemp and niger I should not give freely at the beginning of the moult, but only after the pen feathers have practically cleared out of the blaze, up to then giving restricted quantities only. Let the birds have teazle, linseed, maw, cracked sunflower, and canary seeds freely throughout, with thistle and hard-heads ad libitum. Also give a few small mealworms if they choose to eat them, and a little of a good insectivorous food, or ants' eggs, prepared as recommended in reply to "Doubtful" this week.

FOREIGN BIRDS.

Answered by WESLEY T. PAGE, F.Z.S., M.B.N.H.S.

Amazon Pecking Itself.

R. West.—The bird is either troubled with insects or its skin is in a very irritated condition. Give the bird one teaspoonful of Dinneford's Magnesia in its drinking water for one day, and repeat dose in a week's time, providing its bowels are not too loose; between times make its drinking water the colour of pale port with Parrish's Chemical Food. Spray the bird with quassia solution every other day for a fortnight, carefully protecting from draught till dry. Continue the glyco-thymoline till the trouble ceases. I presume you are dieting the bird as advised regularly in this column, if not, change over to same at once. Do not give tea, coffee or milk sops, or any kind of animal food whatever. Report progress a fortnight hence.

Outdoor Aviary Arrangements.

Aviarist.—Your aviary will answer admirably for the birds, but it has the disadvantage for the onlooker, that shy and retiring birds will be able to keep very much out of sight; nevertheless it is an enclosure which should result in successful breeding. I should advise the glazing of the front of the shed, leaving only a space in centre 18 inches wide, extending from ground to roof—you must glaze it, otherwise it would be too dark for the birds. (1) You have space for 60 or 70 birds, but 10 or a dozen pairs only would give best breeding results; note, whatever the number of birds, you must arrange for at least double the number of nesting receptacles, of varied size and style. Do not omit to provide ample perching accommodation, use natural branches for same—pea or bean sticks answer admirably. (2) Sec opening remarks—I should also advise a glass sash outside the netting over one-third of the roof of flight, such covered portion to commence from shed. (3) Willow, box, elder, privet, wild clematis, bramble, currant, gooseberry, and any kind of non-poisonous weeds, particularly coarse grasses and oats, rape, canary seed, etc. (4) The open part of flight should consist of ordinary garden mould, the portion under glazed light and shelter shed should have a good layer of coarse, gritty sand, and if you can get some old mortar (which must be crushed) to mingle with same, so much the better.

What Bird?

"Carlist."—It is a Blue-fronted Amazon; I am surprised the bird has lived, but, the malady having abated it may now recover. For a week at least put five drops of aromatic sulphuric acid to each ounce of drinking water; also give three drops of tincture of opium direct to the mouth each morning. Keep the bird in some warm position and quite out of reach of draught. Remove its coverings as soon as possible, and if possible burn them. Continue the boiled maize, bananas, nuts, and green food; also give plain biscuits, and a stale crust of household bread. Keep a tin of the following mixture in its cage: canary, wheat, oats, hemp, dari, maize, and sunflower seeds in equal parts. Clean its cage out twice a day while the trouble lasts. At the end of a week or ten days, discontinue the acid in the drinking, and then make the drinking water the colour of pale port with Parrish's Chemical Food. Hope the bird will soon improve.

Hard Breathing.

M. Wright.—The bird is in a very bad way, and I am very doubtful as to its ultimate recovery. Spray its nostrils with diluted glyco-thymoline twice a day, and for a week put in its drinking water, Chlorate of Potassium, at the rate of 15 grains to each ounce of the water, and if the bird will permit you to handle it, dissolve 20 grains of Chlorate of Potassium in two drachms of glycerine, and wipe out the bird's mouth with same, using a small camel-hair brush for the purpose, cleansing same, and also using a fresh portion of the mixture for each occasion. Do not give table scraps, slops, or any kind of animal food. Diet: A mixture of canary, oats, wheat, dari, hemp and sunflower seeds in equal parts; ripe fruit, plain biscuits, nuts, greenfood, little boiled potato (dry), or raw carrot. It will be necessary to keep the cage and vessels strictly clean, they must have special attention while the trouble lasts. You had better report progress, with full particulars, in a week's time.

Silverbill with Swollen Foot.

"New Year."—Catch the bird, and bathe its feet in warm water, afterwards immersing them in a weak boracic acid solution. If there should be any humour round the joint, it must be exuded by gentle pressure. If it appears at all distressed or rushed about by its companions, you had beter cage it separately, till the trouble is got rid of. Of course, if it is a dislocation, the joint must be set and kept bound up for a time. It is always better to let a vet. attend to such cases, as an unskilled hand may cause intense suffering to the little patient.

Budgerigar with Swolling.

"Budg."—Cage this bird up separately, and keep it so for a week or two. Lightly paint the centre of the swelling with tincture of iodide daily; if this does not make any impression in a week or ten days, it will be best to get the advice of a vet. In conjunction with the above, give one teaspoonful of Dinneford's magnesia in two teaspoonsfuls of water, and let it have only this to drink for one day, repeating the dose after an interval of three days. As to diet, let it have canary, millet, oats, green food, and a piece of cuttlefish to nibble. As to your other birds, leave the husks in the aviary, and the birds to their own devices. So long as they appear well and strong and healthy, leave them alone; if they get out of condition at all, well colour their drinking water with Parrish's Chemical Food (you can also give this to the sick bird, when not giving the magnesia), keep a supply of cuttlefish in the aviary, and also supply daily grass in flower. This latter, if gathered at mid-day, should be quite free from frost; it must not be given in a frosted condition.

Waxbills and Foreign Finches.

Ambitious.—(1) I should certainly advise you to bring these birds into your sitting-room for the winter, as I fear you will lose them if you keep them in the unheated stable. Birds that will live out of doors in an aviary with room for flight and exercise, will often perish miserably when kept in a cage in an unheated room. All you can do is to supply the shelters, push a little moss into them, and leave the birds to take to them of themselves; I think you will find they will do so later. It will be much better if you can let them have the whole C.P. aviary to themselves, removing the divisions. Diet: canary, millet and spray millet, a little crumbled sponge cake and a few ants' eggs, with a little ripe apple or tender and fresh lettuce as green food. (2) You would find any of the following handsome and interesting birds, which would thrive on the same diet as given above; they would also agree well together, and not cost more than the price you name:—Golden-breasted Waxbills, Green and Common Avadavats, Grey, St. Helena, and Zebra Finches. A pair of each of these pretty little birds would make a showy and pleasing series in a C.P. aviary-cage.

Show Cages for Foreign Birds.

"Defender."—I find that pale sage-green suit almost all species of Foreign birds as well, if not better, than any other colour, and I prefer a cage of the semi-box type—that is, a cage having back and ends of wood and the top half wood, with the wire of the front of cage bent round to meet same. Get an illustrated list from one of our advertisers, you will find described above and others. A cage 12 to 15 inches, by about nine inches deep and high, would about meet the requirements of all the birds you name. Such cages as described above, enamelled black outside and pale sage-green inside, have a really neat appearance.

Budgerigars, Blood-rumps, &c.

"Inquirer."—(1) Yellow Budgerigars mostly throw the bulk of their progeny yellow, though it is not an uncommon occurrence for them to throw back to the original stock. If your birds have produced several broods of all Greens, I should say one or both of them is a sport from a pair of Greens, or the progeny of a crossed pair of Yellow and Green, and are not bred from the pure Yellow stock. It seems to me the only thing is to procure another pair from an entirely different source to your present pair. (2) The male Blood-rump is principally bright emerald-green in colour; rump crimson; splashed with blue on the wings; and centre of abdomen yellow. The female is a much greyer and duller bird than the male. Some individuals are pugnacious when breeding, but if not overcrowded I do not think they would interfere with either Rosellas, Cockatiels, or Budgerigars. Vulgar names of birds is not one of my strong points, and such fancy ones are given from time to time as to make them most unreliable, for the same name is not by any means kept to one species. At the moment I do not know what species "Box Beaked Cardinal" refers to, and have not time to look it up before going to press. Will try and give you the information next week. (3) Budge-ri-gar.

Sneezing Parrot.

D.J.C.—Keep the bird warm and out of draught. Spray the bird's nostrils with glyco-thymoline, diluted with an equal bulk of water; also wash the nostrils with same, using a small camel-hair brush for the purpose; it will do no harm if a little is swallowed. If this will not clear the nostrils, you must then dip a small feather in olive oil, and gently pass up, then any obstruction will be removed and the bird relieved. By means of a quill give it four drops of tincture of opium morning and evening. Only let it have water to drink three time a day, and I should put five drops of brandy to each tablespoonful of water. Report progress in a week or ten days. It is important that the bird be kept warm, and yet not in a vitiated atmosphere. Continue to feed as regularly advised in this column. If there should be any constipation, half a teaspoonful of Dinneford's Magnesia in a tablespoonful of water will give relief. Its bowels should be kept moving freely, but not loose.

Budgerigars Dying.

G. A. Meyer.—Avian cholera has been very rife among birds this year, and I take it your birds have died with this complaint. The cage should be disinfected and thoroughly cleansed before being used for others. In any similar case, put five drops of aromatic sulphuric acid and iron sulphate in the drinking water, and the patient should be protected from damp and cold. It is very important that they should be kept in quarantine for some weeks, that strictest cleanliness be observed, and that all cages that have been occupied by ailing birds be promptly disinfected. The above prescription is that of a veterinary friend.

Birds for Cage.

"Shama."—I consider three birds ample for a cage 20 inches long; if you add another, put in an Alario Finch or Green Singing Finch. The White-throated will need a little watching, as some individuals are very pugnacious, though, as he is doomed to single life, he may not give much trouble in this respect. I do not advise the Pintail, as these birds are difficult to keep for any length of time, many of them only living a few weeks, some only days; if you make the attempt, supply paddy rice (rice in the husk) and oats, as well as the other seeds for the Singing Finch, etc. Yes, you could so keep a Shama; this bird would soon get sufficiently tame to come out of its cage, and take its bath outside, so keeping its cage dry. A cage for an active handsome bird such as this ought not to be smaller than 2½ by 1 by 1½ feet high. Diet: Soft food, insects and water ad. lib. My bird will not eat fruit, but thrives on the above diet, and is in the best of condition. As regards soft food, several good ones are advertised in our pages; or the following is one of the best: ants' eggs, dried flies, sponge cake (crumbled), crushed Osborne biscuits, and boiled potato that has been passed through a masher; use equal parts of each, and make crumbly moist. The bird is about 12 inches long, of which the tail measure nearly half. Its upper surface is glossy blue-black, except the rump, which is pure white; throat and breast as upper surface, remainder of under surface golden-chestnut. Its song is very fine, though at times marred by a few harsh notes.

POST MORTEMS.

Mr. J. North, 435, Oxford Road, Reading, will examine cage birds for a fee of 1s. 6d. each bird; for a reply direct, 2s. 6d.; analysis, 21s. Subjects for post-mortem examination must be sent packed in a box direct to J. North, with fee. Any sent to the office of this paper will be thrown away, and if a fee is enclosed the loss will be the sender's.

Canary (M. Riddle).—Your bird died of liver disease and inflammation of the lungs. I suspect it is infectious, and if you have lost any other birds you may take that as confirmatory evidence, and go in for thorough disinfection as advised to "B.J.J.," end of page 273, in last week's issue.

Canary (Mrs. Moles).—Chronic inflammation of liver and acute pneumonia, ending with apoplexy. These are indicative signs of bird fever. Please read and apply answer above.

GENERAL.

Answered by THE EDITOR.

S.B.B. and M.C. (R.F.).—The names attached to the letters which have appeared do not in every instance appear on your list. That is all we can tell you.

Something Seriously Wrong? (G.M.W.).—The ups and downs of prize birds is truly astonishing. We do not attach any sinister importance to the see-saws of prize lists, but perhaps you are aware of something which is withheld from us.

Addresses (No Name).—(1) Yes, a letter so addressed would reach Mr. Barnett. (2) Yes; both are still alive to the best of our belief.

Cuttings (Peter J. Greck).—Thanks. Can't use just now, though, owing to show matter.

Obituary omitted (W. C. Sholedice).—Something has to be put on one side in these days of pressure, and in the rush on Thursday morning this was inadvertently overlooked. Sorry.

C.B.U. Shows (J. D. Leigh, G. Hill).—We gladly make the omission known, though, so far as we are aware, the list was inserted exactly as received.

Cuttings (E. J. Langford).—Thanks for clippings, which we hope to use in the near future.

Brahma Class (S. C. Wilkins).—We do not publish poultry items in CAGE BIRDS, or would have been glad to oblige.

Judging at Hyson Green (Robt. Holmes).—We must regretfully decline to publish your letter. You will never get any two judges in this world to agree. If, in your opinion, the judging was bad, probably in the view of some other exhibitor it was good. All judging is a matter of opinion, and the only sensible attitude for you to take towards a judge with whose awards you disagree is to avoid sending your birds under him for the future. We never permit dissatisfied exhibitors to criticise judges whose decisions they have agreed to accept.

LIZARD CANARIES.

(See Coloured Plate.)

The plate of Lizard Canaries given away with this double issue of CAGE BIRDS will serve as a chart to many a budding student of the variety besides attracting the old hands by its accuracy of portraiture and faithfulness of colouring. It has always been to us a matter of astonishment that from a simple process of transposing three colours one on top of the other such a marvellous result could be secured by the process engraver. Yet so it is. And in this plate of Lizards only three printings have been employed to bring about the desired picture, apparently consisting of seven colours, all more or less difficult of manipulation. Of the birds portrayed, what can we say beyond stating that Mr. Norman (now acknowledged by all to be without a peer in the delineation of Canary life) has as usual, surpassed himself and given breeders of the Spangle-back something they can look at and admire for many a day. The striking extent and symmetry of the spangling in the best birds may be noted. They have evidently been coloured, and are gracefully typical examples of the Lizard breeders' art. The somewhat ephemeral character of the Lizard is sadly evident in this plate. What a popular variety the Lizard would be to be sure but for the fact that it is practically only a one-season bird. Look at this dejected specimen of a three-year old in the corner. To quote the bard, we may say to the crack Lizard of the day, "Go, get thee to thy Breeders' Cage. To this complexion thou must come at last."

OUR RECENT CANARY BREEDING COMPETITION.

The Winners Tell How They Obtained Their Results.

The First Novice.

I am very pleased to send you a complete statement of my bird breeding. I have surprised the members of the local Society in breeding Canaries this year, for everybody else has had very bad luck. This is the first year I have ever tried my skill in bird breeding, but I thought I would like to try, as I have plenty of spare time, and am very fond of birds. I bought a German cock and a Norwich hen, and put them up for breeding on the 14th February, my cage being in my kitchen. The hen laid an egg ten days after I put them up, laying 4 eggs the first nest, bringing out 4 birds. When these were three weeks old she went to nest again, and the cock finished bringing the birds up, and this she has done every nest. She laid 6 eggs in each of her 5 nests afterwards, laying in all 28 eggs. I accidentally broke one egg of the last nest, leaving 27 eggs, she sat on, and brought out 27 birds, and reared 26, one dying about a week old. I am sorry to say that the last nest was not in time for the competition, they only being 3 weeks old when the competition closed, or I could have put 26 youngsters in it.—J. A. WILKINSON.

The Second Novice.

I am glad to hear I am entitled to a prize, and will do my best to tell you all about my results. Having made up my mind to breed Canaries, the first thing I did was to take in CAGE BIRDS, which I found very useful, and I am never without it. I kept my birds in one room in separate cages, and watched them till I saw the hen carrying a feather about, and knowing my cock was in full song I put them together in a breeding cage. They soon mated up, I then put in the nest bag, and within a fortnight I found she had an egg. I took the eggs away till she had three, and then put them back. I watched the hen, and the first time she came off I looked to see how many eggs she had, I found she had six. When I thought it was time for them to come off, I got a new laid egg, boiled it hard, and crushed it up with 3 Osborne biscuits, with this and a little greenfood (lettuce) they got on well. It was four days before I knew how many there were, the whole lot hatched on April 27th. The next nest she had 6 more young ones on May 28th. The third nest she had 6 more young on June 24th. The first nest were all cocks, the 2nd 3 cocks and 3 hens, the 3rd 4 cocks and 2 hens. I don't intend keeping all my birds as I have no room to keep them. I shall keep my first lot for stock. When my young birds were five or six weeks old, I turned them out in an aviary which I built in my back yard, and they have done well. When they were 8 weeks old I thought I would try a little Colour Food, so I got a 2lb. tin of Ramsden's Pure Pepper, and I gave some regularly every day. I put my success down to careful attention and cleanliness, which I think most important. I am sorry I cannot give you any more news of my results. My advice to young fanciers is, study CAGE BIRDS, read it carefully, and you cannot go wrong—G. T. HALLS.

The Equal Third Novices—Mr. Howell.

I am very pleased to offer my explanation as to how I obtained the results. This was my first year for breeding, and as I had one cock Canary, I also obtained a hen. As a beginner I was naturally over anxious to make a start, so I put my two birds together on February 17th. Before putting my two birds together, I fed them on nothing but Hyde's mixed seed, with a cold water bath in the cock's cage for fully two months previous (every day) of which he took very freely. My two birds were in the very pink of condition, for on the 24th February the hen laid her first egg, and never missed a day until she laid five, then she started to sit on them. I at once took the cock away, the hen fetched all the lot out, only they were not all out together. Three or four were born between the 11th and 13th, and the last bird was born on 14th March. Out of these five I only managed to rear three, but this was owing to the hen treading on them in the dark. Since my first nest I have never lost another bird, as I removed the eggs as laid, and then put them back on the third day. At this early date the nights were dark early, and it was also dark till late in the morning, but my business did not take me out until a late hour in the morning, and I did not return until late at night, sometimes half-past twelve, and in order that my young birds would not have long to wait for food I used to sit up until two or half-past, and very often three o'clock in the morning, during which time the hen bird and the cock as well would feed them. I always let the cock go to the hen when the young ones were coming out, not before, then again after the young ones had been fed. I used to draw the window blind up and pull the curtains well back, so that the stock birds could have light as early as possible in the morning. Their diet consisted of half a new laid egg to three solar biscuits, Hyde's mixed seeds, and a small piece of raw cabbage. I also used Parrish's chemical food in their water. These were all changed three times every day, morning, noon and night. This was the diet I used in my first nest, and continued the same right through the season, with the exception of the green food. When I gave up the cabbage I started with watercress, and dandelion, and made no other changes. My second nest the hen laid six eggs, of these she fetched four out, and I reared them all, in exactly the same way as I did the other three in the first nest. In the third nest the hen laid five eggs, and fetched them all out, and I reared them all in the same way. In the fourth nest my hen laid five eggs, fetched them all out, and I reared them in the same way. My hen was down on another nest on every occasion before the young ones were able to fly out of her last nest, and the cock bird fed them while she was sitting, and I always shut him away from the hen while sitting. The measurement of my breeding cage, which also acted as my flight cage, is 4ft. 2ins. in length, 1ft. 4ins. in height, and 1ft. wide, so you see the young birds had plenty of exercise. With regard to the egg food, I never took it away from the young ones until I saw them eating plenty of seed, and I knew that egg food was absolutely not wanted. After they were about a fortnight old I put six biscuits to half a hard-boiled fresh egg, instead of three as at first. In addition my success was largely due to your valuable paper, CAGE BIRDS, out of which I have received very valuable information, and I think no beginner should be without it:—H. T. HOWELL.

Mr. Goodall.

I have had a cock Canary for the last three years. Early this spring a friend asked me to try my luck at breeding, if I would he would give me a hen, so I took it. It was then about the 16th of February. I hung her in a cage close by the cock, and he went very near wild trying to get at the hen, so I made a breeding cage and put them together. She was not long before she started building a nest, laid five eggs and hatched all five on March 27th. When they were ten days old she was pulling feathers out of the young ones, so I had to put them in a nest cage I hung them at the front of the breeding cage, and the cock fed them through the wires till the hen had built another nest, and laid again (five more). Then I put the young ones and the cock in another cage till she had hatched again, April 29th, and then I put him back again. I have had four nests altogether, five eggs in each, and only one addled egg in the lot, the last lot was hatched on July 11th. I have lost two young ones with having to take them away from the hen so soon, that leaves me with 17, and they are all doing well yet. When I started I said I knew nothing about Canary breeding, so my friend told me to take CAGE BIRDS and I should learn a thing or two. I saw your breeding competition, and my friend said if he were I he would send for a form, as he said I was sure to get a prize with having so much luck. I had the misfortune to lose my cock bird a week last Monday, he was singing on Sunday night and I found him dead in the cage on Monday morning. I should like some officials of some of the societies to see my birds and give me their opinion of them:—F. GOODALL.

"Bird Notes," the journal of the Foreign Bird Club, is always an interesting magazine, but the October issue offers unusual attractions. It opens with an agreeably written and instructive article on the Nightjar, from the facile pen of Mrs. E. Warren Vernon, whose portrait appears as the frontispiece. Mr. W. E. Taschemaker, B.A., gives an excellent contribution on the "Nesting of the Black Tanager and the Violet Tanager," which is aptly illustrated by two fine photographs taken by the writer. Mr. Wesley T. Page, F.Z.S., the editor, ably deals with the subject of feeding and acclimatising of foreign birds, and "Aviculturist" gives the result of some experiences with the Green Singing Finch. A really representative number is completed by the Hon. and Rev. Canon Dutton, several items of correspondence, and the usual editorial notes.

The most serviceable, striking, yet tasteful and economical

CHELTENHAM.

The Cheltenham C.B.S held their annual show on October 26th and 28th, in the Oddfellow's Hall; quite a nice place for a bird show, as the light by day is very good, and it is free from draughts. All the exhibits were nicely staged, and were well looked after by a good body of fanciers. We regret to have to chronicle the fact that entries showed a big drop from last year, and we attribute this partly from clashing with other shows and to Sunday intervening. The quality in most sections, however, was very good, many exhibits being put down that could hold their own in any company. The show was opened by W. Theobald, Esq., in a few well-chosen remarks. Mr. A. S. Treasure, the hon. secretary, had everything in good order, and, as usual, was the personification of tact, affability and courtesy. The assistant hon. secretary, too, is a good helper, while the stewards are all the best of fanciers, and it is a pity they were not found more to do. Messrs. Child, Collis, Hayling, Hills, Hands, Hamlin, Harvey, Kilminster, T. N. King, Lewis, Pounsett, Stevens, and Williams did everything required of them in first-rate style. We trust fortune will smile more favourably on this deserving fixture next year. Messrs. J. H. Payne and Robson judged.

MIDDLESBRO'

The above C.B.S. held its second annual exhibition October 26 in the Oddfellows' Hall. The room was large and lofty. Mr. A. Wake, the hon. sec., worked hard during the day, and his assistants worked splendidly after the wants of the birds. The room was packed during the day with visitors. In the Yorkshire section some fine birds were staged, Mr. G. W. Cuthbertson, of Heighington, winning in the first three classes, with a clear yellow, clear buff, and yellow ticked, three very typical Yorkshires. Mr C. Thornton won in buff ticks and the hen class, with his gems. In the Norwich section some real good birds were staged; Mr. G. Harland's clear yellow was full of quality; Mr. D. Hope winning in cl buffs, and taking 1st and 2nd in unflighteds, with a couple of good ones. Mr. Marwood secured both 1st in the Mule classes, with two toppers, a Siskin Canary and Goldfinch-Bullfinch. Mr. W. Mundell, Bradford, and Mr. F. Marwood, Thornaby, were the judges, the former taking the Canary Section, the latter British, Foreign and the Mule Classs.

ARBROATH.

Scotch Fancy C.B.S. organised the finest ornithological show ever held in Arbroath, in the Wine Hart Hall, Kirk Square, on October 26. Since the inauguration of the Scotch Fancy Society a few years ago energetic efforts have been made to raise this annual exhibition, and the efforts of the members have been crowned with success. Considerably over 200 entries were staged, including three of the best known exhibitors at Scotch Shows. Besides the various Canary sections there were classes for British and Foreign Birds, which were all well filled. The hall is an ideal one for such a show, and the birds were well staged. The judges were—For Scotch Fancy, Mr Charles Berwick, St. Andrew's, for Norwich, Mr Alexander Wilson, Montrose, and for British, Foreign Mule, and Hybrid classes, Mr. Pellegrew, Glasgow; they had their work cut out for them, as a large number of the birds had been prize winners at earlier shows, but every bird was carefully handled, and their individual points fully weighed up; several of the earlier winners found themselves without a ticket. The judges' awards seemed to give every satisfaction. SCOTCH FANCY: YELL. FOUL COCK: 1, Black, good bird, well up, wants finishing; 2, Strachan, fair bird. 3, 4, Strachan; 3, a model, but too small. Cl. OR FOUL YELLOW COCK: 1, Merrilees, good hen, well shown; 2, Keill, good hen, but looking rusty, when we saw her, make a good stock hen; 3, Black; 4, Steven; vhc, and hc, Strachan. BUFF: 1, 3, Low, 1st, old winner, often described, looking well; 2, Black, a good exhibit, always ready, and looking well; 4, hc, Keill and Thoms. BUFF HEN: 1, Keill, well up, fine substance, free worker, and pronounced drive; 2, and 5, Strachan, good models of Scotch Fancy; 3, 4, Black, good birds, nice necks, and good reach, both work well; 6, Bowman. YELL. PIED OR GREEN COCK: A few clinkers here: 1, Carmyllie, a gem for style, free worker, throws body well back, grand shoulders, and reach, a gem of the first water; 2, Thoms, another good bird, in rare bloom; 3spl. and 5, Merrilees, two good birds, grand quality; 4, Shanks, good old bird, looking well; 6, Strachan, a nice hird, but small. HEN: 1, Black, grand style, rare driver, gets to work freely, nice reachy bird, well-known winner; 2, Low, nice active hen, plenty of substance, and fine style, good driver, in rare order; 3, spl., Carmyllie, good hen, looking well but not so well as when we saw her last; 4, Thoms; 5, Muir; 6, Strachan. BUFF PIED COCK: 1, Black, good bird, grand shoulder, in rare bloom, throws body well back, in right place; 2, Carmyllie, another good bird, pressing winner hard; 3, Strachan, good bird, nice head and neck; 4, Sadler, nice quality throughout, beaten in substance; 5, Shanks; 6, 7, Ross, two good birds, ought to be handled more. BUFF PIED HEN: 1, Keill, grand all over, rare depth throughout, throws body well back, grand shoulders, and reach, a gem of the first water; 2, Merrilees, good second, but scarcely so determined in drive, grand substance and quality, in rare bloom; 3, Strachan, small, but grand quality; 4, Thoms, good set of bird, but lacks style. SELL. COCK: 1, spl., Carmyllie, good old stager, might have won easily in own class; 2, Strachan, good buff green cock, in rare bloom, 3, Merrilees, another good bird at priee; 4, Ross, good bird; 5, Lowe; 6, Blair. HEN: 1, Merrilees, a good bird, in rare trim; 2, Kenneth, good stock bird; 3, 5, Strachan; 6, Ross; 7, Sadler. NOR. CAN. (10): 1, Davidson, grand substance, rare colour, deep level tone throughout, heads a good class with something in hand; 2, Lyall good bird, grandly fed, good showy exhibit; 3, spl., nice one in frame, good carriage and full of vigour; 3, Mitchell, another good bird, well staged; 4, McFarlane, lovely shape, put down in rare trim; 5, Brown; 6, Souter, two good birds, should be heard of yet. YELL. HEN (9): 1, Macfarlane, a champion, well shown, deep, level tone throughout, well finished; good front and wing carriage, head a good class; 2, Martin another lovely bird well shown, runs the first one hard; 3, Marr, nice size and good frame, put down in rare trim; 4, Harris, another good bird, well shown.

LEITH.

Leith O.S. annual show, held 26th Oct., in Liberal Club Hall, Hope Street. Entries numbered 240, a very satisfactory total. The hall is a nice place free from draughts, exhibits being staged along each side. Judges: Messrs. F. Dewar, and Thos. Knight. The Scotch Fancy classes were a little disappointing, only 23 entries in eight classes, but the Norwich, Borders, etc., were well above average both in numbers and quality. In the Border Buff Cock class it gave Mr. Dewar a hard nut to crack to spot the winner, which ultimately secured the B.F.C.C. medal. At close of show, the special prizes were presented by Mr. John Dobbie, one of the society's patrons, in place of Mr. W. Graham York, who had agreed to do so, but who was unable to be present. Mr. Dobbie, in a neat little speech on birdy matters, interspersed with a good deal of humour, thereafter presented the marble clock, given by Mr. Graham York for most points, to Mr. Wm. Alcorn, who had 100 points over the show, Mr. Wm. Finnis being runner up with 97. At the conclusion, Mr. Jas. Lumsden, president, moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Dobbie for his services. HADDINGTON.

The Royal Burgh of Haddington, held their 21st Annual Show of Cage Birds, October 26. The Corn Exchange Lesser Hall, in which Cage Birds were staged, is in every respect an ideal building for a show. Mr Mark Binnie, President, Mr. Wm. Kirk, Vice President, and Mr. T. M. Douglas, Chairman. The duties of secretary and treasurer were ably carried out by Mr. D. Cockburn, who was well supported by the following well known fanciers, who composed the committee: Messrs. T. Young, J. Cockburn, T. Wilson, W. Spark, W. Murray, D.C. Murray, J. Black, R. Stewart, M. Gibson, J. Tinline, and A. Tithah. Entries totalled up 200, a little in excess of last year's. Quality throughout the show was of a high class, and many notable winners were on view. Scotch Fancies were well represented, and were carefully handled by the veteran, Mr. J. Hogg (Oakley). Borders were well handled by Mr. Peter McKenzie (Kelso), and he had a choice lot to deal with. Mr. A. Cochrane, Edinburgh, had the handling of the Norwich, etc. SCOTS YELL. GLASGOW SOUTHERN.

The Glasgow Southern (Confined) held their fourteenth annual show and competition of Scotch Fancy Canaries in the Grand National Halls, Mainstreet, Gorbals, October 26th. Hon. Vice-President, Mr. Ex-Councillor Audrew Motherwell, J.P.; President, Mr. G. Gray; Vice-President, Mr. Renwick; Secretary and Treasurer, Mr. James Fleming. Judges: Messrs. John Arnot Sauchie, Wm. S. Greenock, Wm. W. Greenock, John Park Goran, David Black Goran, John Knox Springburn. There were 12 classes of Scotch Fancies, some close competition taking place, which gave the judges plenty to do in making their decision for the best bird in the hall, cup, and gold medal, and the best bird (opposite sex) gold medal. The much coveted cup and gold medal winner was a most popular one, it being Mr. James Calder's Yellow cock, first in its class, a grand bird, not been seen for some time, being a bird of no ordinary merit, and in its present form being as near as possible faultless. There was a large attendance. A few of the exhibits changed hands at good prices. In the unavoidable absence of their much respected Hon. President, A. Cameron Corbett, Esq., M.P., the Hon. Vice-President, Ex-Councillor Andrew Motherwell, J.P., very kindly consented to distribute the prizes to the successful winners in a few well chosen remarks. Secretary Fleming and members of committee are to be complimented on the excellent arrangements. The judges did their task to the entire satisfaction of all. YELL. STOKE NEWINGTON.

This pleasing little North London fixture was held in the Devonshire-square church schoolroom on October 29th and 30th, and was a most successful function. Entries came up fairly well, and the quality certainly showed an improvement on some previous shows. The exhibits were very nicely staged, and their wants well attended to by the committee. The Stoke Newington fanciers are a happy brotherly lot, and the officials mostly old stagers, in whose hands the society has made good progress. Mr. Morris (the chairman), Mr. Churchman (the vice-chairman) the secretaries, Messrs. Dowden and Niblett, all are staunch and true workers, and, with the committee, evidently have the best interests of the society at heart. The committee include such sterling fanciers as Messrs. H. A. Cooper-Bagley, G. J. Bone, J. H. Fox, C. L. Hatchett, W. Penton, A. Preston, E. G. Rhodes, G. Soame, J. C. Spence, and H. Sweetman, and a real good lot they are. Crests were not a big lot, but they furnished the winner of the challenge cup for the best youngster, and the special winner for best bird in the show, both falling to Mr. Farmer, Mr. Sweetman's Yellow Yorkie capturing the special for best of opposite sex to the Crest. Yorkshires and Norwich were each good, some excellent exhibits being shown by Messrs. Mead, Ford, Penton, Langridge, Williams, and Dowden. British too, were good, especially the Linnets. Mr. J. Robson judged.

CHAMPION YORKS (6): All from Mr. Sweetman, and a really nice team, combining length, shape, style, and plenty of colour; winner takes special best opposite sex to Crest. GREAT HORTON.

Held annual open show of Great Horton Good Intent O.S., in the Church Schools, Southfield Lane, Oct. 26th, and was the fourth held under the Yorkshire Union rules. 21 classes were provided, and these attracted the enormous entry of 503, giving an average per class of 24. This is an entry that will take some beating, and the officials are to be congratulated on the success of their venture. Mr. Holden, the secretary, is very obliging, and was ably assisted by Messrs. Brook, president, Schofield, vice-president, and Hollas, treasurer, as well as by the strong committee. Mr. R. Halliday (Shipley), judged, but in consideration of the magnificent entry, Mr. James Hartley's services were called into requisition. Mr. Halliday took all the open classes, the two Cock Selling classes, and the Novice Buff Hens; Mr. Hartley judging the hen selling classes and all the novice classes, with the exception of the buff hens. This we believe, is Mr. Hartley's first venture at judging an open show. The placings of both were well received. The morning proved very foggy and dark, many classes having to be judged by artificial light. CL. YELL. YORKS. COVENTRY.

Twenty-seventh annual show of the Coventry O.S., on Oct. 26th, proved a most attractive exhibition. The number of entries was up to the usual standard, whilst the quality of the exhibits was exceedingly good. In addition to the show of Canaries, Mules and British and Foreign birds, the pictures of a drawing competition (the work of boys attending the elementary schools of the city) were shown. The exhibition was opened by Mr. Ald. A. H. Drinkwater, before a good attendance. On the proposition of Mr. G. Peters (President of the society), seconded by Mr. F. W. Harris, Mr. Drinkwater was thanked for his kindness in opening the show. I must heartily congratulate the energetic and hardworking secretary, Mr. G. Turrell, and the Committee, Messrs. J. Corral, B. Lawrance, J. Tipping, J. Adkins, G. Coates, W. Davis, E. Reasby, and Geo. Clarke, for the able way in which they carried out the arrangements. Mr. J. H. Roe judged. NORWICH CL. YELL: 1, Sandiford, J., grand type and quality, hot even colour, nice level back, good wing carriage; 2, Mitchell, good type and lovely colour, in splendid condition, fails slightly in head and neck to winner; 3, Symonds and Son, good colour, nice wing carriage, hardly so typical as winner; vhc, Gilbert; hc, and c, Davis. BUFF: 1, Walton and Noakes, grand typo and quality, good head and neck; nice wing carriage, shown splendidly; 2, Mitchell, another clinker, good colour and quality, run the winner very close; 3, Jones, good type, large bird, hardly the quality of winners, inclined to cross wings at times; vhc, Whetstone; hc, Gilbert; c, Mrs. Jeacock. TICK, ETC., YELL.: 1, Sandiford, grand type and quality, good wing carriage, nice even colour throughout, hard to find the tick; 2, Davies, cap and wing mkd, very fair type, clean cut, grand colour; 3, Gilbert, very similar mkd., good type, grand colour, winners all red "hot 'uns"; vhc, Mason, hc, Lawrance; c, Davis. HOUSE'S
CANARY MANUAL
Price ONE SHILLING. Post Free 1/2.
Superbly illustrated by the Champion Canary Artist Mr. H. NORMAN. EVERY BIRD DEPICTED IS A VERITABLE MODEL, and shows the breeder what to aim for. Some idea of the popularity of this Practical Manual may be gathered from the fact that under the title of "The British Canary," it has passed its Third Edition, entering upon a Fourth Edition of 5,000 copies under the new title of "HOUSE'S CANARY MANUAL." MR. HOUSE has thoroughly revised and brought this work up-to-date and incorporated a chapter on the "Roller or Singing Canary."

CHESTERFIELD.

The Chesterfield F.A. held their All England show on October 25th and 26th, under C.B.U. Rules. The Market Hall provided a magnificent room, grandly lighted, spacious, and free from draughts. The staging of the exhibits, which numbered upwards of 350, was carried out in masterly fashion, and every bird could be seen at a glance. The show-room was tastefully decorated with palms, ferns, etc., and looked very attractive. This is the first occasion on which cage-birds only have been on view. In past seasons they have been amalgamated with the poultry, etc., a good move, we think, especially judging by the entries. The schedule was good, and the response gave every satisfaction to the officials, entries being a long way in front of last year. The President, Dr. J. K. Goodall, is a well-wisher of the society, and supports most liberally. The committee are a band of most willing workers, viz., Messrs. E. D. Gladwin, Black, Brown, Bradley, Chandler, Clarke, Dent, Dixon, Drake, T. H. Furness, B. C. Furness Fox, Housley, Hawkins, Hulley, Hibbert, Lodge, Lowe, Neal, Parker, Rawlins, Smith, Turner, Worne and Wilson, while the hon. auctioneer, Mr. Jos. Botham, and hon. treasurer, Mr. C. P. Short, are a couple of very useful officials. Mr. E. D. Gladwin, the chairman, is the right man in the right place, being a good fancier, ever ready to help. Messrs. J. J. Dooley and W. Hartley, act as secretaries, and are a couple of most energetic, courteous and obliging officials. The work they got through was done quickly and correctly. The stewards were Messrs. Worne, Drake, and Gladwin, a trio of excellent and enthusiastic workers. The catalogue opened with the Yorkshires, and a lovely lot they were. The Clear Yellow cock owned by Mr. Greenfield pleased greatly. The Yell. tick, the property of Mr. W. H. Walsh, was also voted a topper. Other exhibitors who had on view birds far above the average were Messrs. Drabble, Parkes, Hoyes and Barnes, Edmondson, Cockill, Hardaker and Sample, Lane, Stringer, Knowles, Hodgson, Goucher, Beard and Taylor. Norwich were well up in nnmbers, and for quality really superb. In several of the classes two sets of winners could easily have been selected, so even was the merit. The Clear Yell. cock, the property of Mr. H. E. Wilkinson, is a gem, and the Cl. Buff shown by Mr. W. Vardy found many admirers, and well it might, being a real "good 'un." Lovely specimens were also benched by Messrs. Sandiford, Sherrington, Robinson, Taylor, Critchley, Adnitt and Driver, Till, Hemming, Wilson and Fox, Hope, Hunt, and Woodhouse, and Lee. British made a grand display. Special mention might be made of Mr. Harrison's Bullfinch, Mr. Lockwood's Linnet, Mr. Henshaw's Twite, Mr. Hake's Hawfinch, and Mr. Walsh's Wryneck, five topping exhibits, and staged for all they were worth. Grand birds were also put down by Messrs. Hunt, Crowston, Milne, Gratton, Mason, Anderson, Edmondson, Dean and Jowett, Pitt, Bishop (T.), Bishop (H.), Holt, Smith, and Roslyn. The special winners were as follows:—Best York, H. W. Walsh; best 1907 York, W. Hodgson; best Nor. and best 1907 Nor., H. B. Wilkinson; best Nor. by member in open, Messrs. Wilson and Fox; others, Messrs. Seagrave, Wilson and Fox, Harrison, Lockwood and Abdy. Judging over in good time, and cards up promptly. Mr. J. C. Barnes (Sheffield) judged, and his awards seemed to give general satisfaction.

The Plainheads.

YORKS CL. YELL. (10): 1, Greenfield, lovely feather and quality, very lengthy and of capital position, rare back and wing carriage, Hoyland winner; 2, Drabble, magnificent quality, nice tone of colour, capital position, grand wings and tail, well on leg, close up; 3, Hoyes and Barnes, good stand and length, well-filled back, and of neat wing carriage; 4, Edmondson, superb feather, stands nicely, good front and wing carriage; r, Parkes, A1 quality, very stylish, full of nerve; vhc, Wood, true Yorkie, splendid quality; hc, Goucher; c, Beard. TKD. YELL. (15): 1, Walsh, marked left wing, red hot in colour, slashing quality, capital position and length, looking as well as at the Palace, where he stood first, real topper; 2, Hodgson, thigh tick, unfi., beautifully drawn specimen, neat and narrow, stands like a guardsman, another year, with luck, should make a gem; 3, Drabble, thigh tick, superior quality and colour, grand back flights and tail, long-sided, good third; 4, Edmondson, thigh tick, unfi., promising youngster, A1 feather, lengthy and leggy; r, Knowles, very lengthy, grand type and quality; v, Hedworth, neat throughout; h, Lane; c, Greenfield. BUFF (12): 1, Hodgson, thigh tick, unfi., magnificent feather and colour, finely frosted, rare position and length, will be heard of again; 2, Knowles, marked left wing, A1 quality, slashing length and position, grand back and wing carriage, not quite ready, will improve; 3, Lane, ticked back of head, great length, stands erect and of capital feather, when tightened up a little more, should do some winning; 4, r, Beard, couple of very stylish specimens, former marked left wing, latter marked right wing and head, both well staged; v, Truman, good quality and type; h, Baxby and Presley; c, Hoyes and Barnes, good one, well shown. YELL. HEN (17): 1, Walsh, cl., ablaze with colour and of most excellent quality, beautifully drawn, and of rare length, perfect wings and tail; 2, Edmondson, marked right wing, tight as a Java, superb feather, shining like satin, delightful position, well on leg, very lengthy; 3, Drabble cl., stands as straight as a rush, feathered like glass, best of wing carriage, neat all over; 4, Hodgson, marked right cheek, exceptional length, slashing feather, A1 position, we much admired; r, Goucher, cl., stands finely, capital quality, will improve; v, Spencer, nice position and length; h, Taylor, good type; c, Lomas. BUFF (9): 1, Hodgson, cl., delightful salmon-hue colour, teeming with quality, straight as a pencil, magnificent damsel; 2, Edmondson, grizzled right wing, another really choice specimen, shown in lovely bloom, capable of doing well at any show; 3, Knowles, cap marked, slashing quality and colour, full of style, A1 position, beaten a little in length; 4, Drabble, cl., grand quality, good length and position, when handled draws shade thin in neck, still, a good one; r, Taylor, cl., beautiful colour, stands well; vhc, Goucher; hc, Emery; c, Bennett. No. 4, Hatton Bros., W.C. cl., Yell. NOR. CL. YELL. (20), grand class: 1, Wilkinson, hot in colour, silky texture of feather, very chubby, fine width of chest, best of wing carriage, Hoyland winner, a topper; 2, Sherrington, another lovely quality specimen, capital colour, size and shape, jaunty in carriage and all front, clean cut away very close up; 3, 4, Sandiford, couple of bonny exhibits, former fine depth of colour grandly moulded, well up in substance, in fine trim, latter full of colour, silky texture of feather, well across perch; r, Robinson, grand colour and feather, nice shape; v, Wilson and Fox, all type; h, Stead; c, Hope, fine size and shape, bit down, or would have been higher. CL. BUFF (20): 1, 3, Vardy, couple of topping specimens, winner, a bouncer, magnificent feather and colour, finely moulded and as tight as wax, broad chest, clean cut away, third red hot, and of superb feather, splendid type and of rare carriage, best of heads, neck and chest, both well staged; 2, Hope, looks like the Grimsby winner, hard to find fault with, pressed the winner, very little between them; 4, Taylor, soft, silky feather, capital colour and shape; r, Sherrington, shone like satin, nice substance; vhc, Till, nice colour and type, well put down; hc, Williams; c, Revill. TKD. YELL. (8): 1, v, Adnitt and Driver, two very typical specimens, former marked both wings and eyes, grand in colour and feather, fine shape, good in wing carriage, clean-cut, vhc full of quality and colour, nice type; 2, Vardy, marked neck, rare colour and of rich quality, well up in substance, shade longer in build than the winner, good wings, very bonny; 3, hc, Sandiford, former Var., all type, smooth as glass, not one of the biggest, but one of the best; 4, Till, marked right wing, ablaze with colour, nicely feathered, good substance, rather long in barrel, well worth its place; r, Critchley, capital shape and quality; wc, Bettinson, mkd. buff. TKD. BUFF (11): 1, Wilkinson, marked head, lovely feather, exceptional colour and beautifully frosted, fine substance and shape, unfi., should make a topper another year; 2, Wilson and Fox, marked left wing and head, for shape all that one could desire, tight as wax, not quite the size of first, yet a taking specimen; 3, Hope, grizzled root of tail, nice shape and substance, superior feather, well mealed, lovely wing carriage; 4, Adnitt and Driver, grizzled cap, gem for type, capital feather and colour, clean under; v, Walker, nice shape and feather; h, Moakes, not big but sweet; c, Elliott. YELL. HEN (10): 1, vhc, Sandiford, winner a magnificent clear, model for type, smooth as a bottle, delightful carriage, not a monster, but all there otherwise; 2, Till, cl., teeming with quality and colour, very shapely, well across perch, close up; 3, Adnitt and Driver, cl., another bonny damsel, jaunty in carriage, rare feather and colour, A1 type; 4, Hunt and Woodhouse, cl., capital colour and feather, well up in substance, well shown; r, Critchley, grand one, well staged; hc, Vardy, very shapely; c, Revill. BUFF (12): 1, 4, Vardy, couple of sweet specimens, former marked both wings and eyes, noted International winner at Preston last year, looking grand, should do well again, fourth cl., slashing quality and colour, rare shape, nicely frosted, clean cut; 2, Sherrington, magnificent cl., gem for type, lovely quality, colour and meal, neat in wings and tail, smooth as a bottle, pressed hard; 3, Hemming, massive, heavy var., grand shape, and of capital feather, clean cut, valuable stock hen; r, Lee, cl., beautifully feathered, fine colour and meal; v, Hunt and Woodhouse, nice colour and shape; h, Ingram; c, Wilson and Fox.

EBBW VALE.

The initial show of the Ebbw Vale and Dist. Canine F. and F. S., was held Oct. 23rd, at the Market Hall and Assembly Rooms, Ebbw Vale. The Committee is composed of a number of enthusiastic fanciers, who are not afraid of working all night, as must have been the case. The cage birds had the Assembly Rooms to themselves, the room being snug and free from draughts, but the light and ventilation might be better. In the interests of the society it is suggested that another time the cage birds might with advantage be staged in the Market Hall, either at one end or in one of the galleries. The honorary secretary, Mr. Richard Anthony, worked with heart, hands, and brains, and his efforts, and those of his colleagues were crowned with success. Shows get champion "gates" in these parts, £50 being taken at a Members' Show. Mr. J. North judged, and no grumbling was heard. YORKS. YELL. OXFORD.

The Oxford F.S. held their annual show in the Corn Exchange on October 23rd, and it was a grand success in every way, except in the number of entries, which came up rather poorly. The cage birds were tastefully arranged in a row down one side of the hall. Norwich classes were not large, two having to be cancelled, but there were some very good birds staged, especially in the unflighted Yellows. The Yorkshire classes were fairly well filled, and some very good birds were on view. Mules and Hybrids were an extra good lot, the light Mules, especially. Mr. J. A. Lees, winning the cup for best Canary or Canary-Mule exhibited by a member, with a good four-pointed Buff Goldfinch Canary, Mr. W. White winning cup for best British bird or Hybrid, with a grand young Siskin-Greenfinch, a bird that will make a good one. Crests were good, also British birds, but many of them will do better later. Mr. Moody, M.R.C.V.S., makes a most able and obliging secretary, and he was well supported in the cage bird section by Messrs. White, Levett, Lewin, Hemp, Cripps, and Lees, who gave the exhibits every care and attention. Mr. Roe judged, and gave entire satisfaction. NOR. CL. YELL., cancelled. BUFF, cancelled. TKD., ETC.: 1, spl, Wootton, fine Var. Buff, good size, colour and condition; 2, vhc, Lees, saddle-marked Yell., grand colour and type, not so large as winner; 3, Mullis, Good Var. Buff; hc, Yates; c, Mrs. Stock. HEN (8): 1, spl, Wootton, large, clear Yell., good colour, shows herself grand; 2, Mullis, cobby Var. Buff; 3, Lees, Buff of good type and quality; vhc, Lewin, real nice Holt; hc, Benthin unfi., will make nice one; c, Hull. UNFLI. YELL (9): 1, 2, Lewin, leader a slashing clear, good front, beautiful colour and quality, we thought was worth the spl. covering the two unfli. classes, second another good clear, but not quite the quality or type of winner; 3, Kilby, good bird, tail damaged badly; vhc, Hall hc, Wootton; c, Smith. BUFF (8): 1, spl, Mullis, good clear, fine size and colour, well in front of perch; 2 Lewin, tkd. on neck, not quite so good in front as winner, but all there; 3, Lees, wing tkd., smaller than winners, but grand quality and shape, very short and well-cut away behind; vhc, Wootton; hc, Hall; c, Smith. YORK. YELL. (9): 1, spl, c, Hawes, excellent shape, beautifully drawn, very stylish and quickly claimed; 2, Burke, grand shape and length, good carriage and style, not quite so finely drawn as winner; 3, J. Hawes, slimmer than second, but crosses wings; vhc, Yates; hc, Smith; c, Horler. BUFF (6): 1, spl, J. Hawes, good shape and length, tight as wax, stands like a soldier; 2, Burke, better colour than winner, not so tight in feather or so finely drawn; 3, c, Hawes, a nice tkd. bird, but beaten here; vhc, Smith; hc, Horler; c, Cripps. CREST (5): Wilks, large bird, crest of good size, radiation and droop; 2, Grant, not quite so large, but a good one; 3, Fellowes, another good one. CREST-BRED (5): 1, Wilks, very big skull, wide entrance, head feather long and dense, in rare form; 2, Fellows, another big bird, but some way behind the winner; 3, Grant, good size and plenty of feather, of good quality; vhc, hc, Fifield. A.O.V.: Cancelled. A.V. (Novice): 1, spl, 3, Maisey, rattling good Buff, very stylish, good length and quality, put down in grand form; 2, Miss Gibbons, real good Yell. Nor., hardly ready, will do better later on; vhc, c, Hawes; hc, Benthin, nice Nor., shown in good form, but not quite through moult; c, Holiday, another good Nor. CAN. MULE (10), hot class: 1, 2 spls., 3, vhc, hc, Lees, winner grand four-pointed Buff Goldfinch-Canary good size and colour, nice flush face; 2, Andrews, eye tkd. unfli., another bird of exceptional merit, 3 very light Linnet-Canary, rather wild, not used to the game yet, vhc even wing, mkd. yell Goldfinch-Canary, these four took some separating; c, Fellowes, good six-pointed Goldfinch-Canary, put down in good style. DARK (6): 1, Poole, large Greenfinch-Canary, good colour and bloom, shown well; 2, vhc, Andrews, Linnet-Canary, grand colour and size, put down in grand form; 3, White lovely Siskin-Canary, a youngster, with another moult will make a topper; hc, Tonks; c, Grant. HYBRID (7): 1, spl, Tonks, good, large Greenie-Goldie, grand blaze and colour, wins; 2, Andrews, good Goldie-Bullie; 3, White, a beautiful Siskin-Greenfinch, in lovely feather, and shown in grand form; vhc, hc, Levett, former good Goldie-Greenie, second nice Linnet-Bullie. GOLDFINCH (10): 1, spl, Mays, very smart bird, nice, rich face, good body colour, in good condition; 2, Andrews, good blaze and colour, also in good condition; 3, Smith, paler in blaze, not quite so forward; vhc, Prior; hc, Gough; c, Elkerton. BULLFINCH (5): 1, spl, Mays, grand shape and breast colour, good cap, in grand condition; 2, 3, hc, White, three grand Bullies, will be heard of later; vhc, Andrews. LINNET OR GREENFINCH (5): 1, spl, Levett, grand shape, nice size, beautifully pencilled, shown in capital trim; 2, 3, Cripps, Linnet and Greenfinch, two sweet birds, also put down in good condition; vhc, Prior. SISKIN REDPOLL OR TWITE (9): 1, Bird, good-coloured Siskin, well staged; 2, Prior, grand Twite, nice, rich colour, three cocks, nice Redpoll; vhc, White; hc, Andrews, one of the best Mealy Redpolls we have seen for some time; c, Cripps. CHAFFINCH OR BRAMBLEFINCH (13): 1, spl, Mays, Bramble, lovely colour splendidly mkd., rare substance, in the pink of condition; 2, Palmer, Chaffinch, good in colour and markings, nicely shown; 3, vhc, Cocks, another good Bramble; hc, c, Levett. DARLEY DALE.

The fourth annual show in connection with the Darley Dale was held on Oct. 24th, in the large and well lighted pavilion of the Whitworth Institute, an admirable room for the purpose. The secretary, Mr. W. Eliott, with a good working committee, had everything well in hand. Mr. Gentle made a most painstaking steward of the Cage Bird Classes, which, although somewhat poorly filled in some cases, made a very attractive show and were the most admired section of the building. Mr. Roe placed the cards. YORKS. CK. (10): 1 and 4, Wall, leader good, yell., long, reachy bird, his 4th bird being a nice positioned buff, but hardly fit; 2, Hodgson, very neat buff, loses in length; 3, and spl., Slater fine quality, yell., but apparently past the prime of life; r, Foden, another buff of good mould; vhc, Simpson, nice exhibit, but wants a little more size; Mr. S., hc; and C. Wilson close up. HEN (8): 1, Hodgson, yell., nice position and colour; 2, Slater sweet buff, mealed like gossamer; 3, Simpson, long, reachy yell., loses in colour; 4, Wall, buff as tight as a Java; r, Foden, hard lines; vhc, hc C. Wilson, nice trio again running close. NOR. P.H. CK. Hen, CREST OR C.B. MULE: All cancelled. FINCH (except Goldfinch) (8): 1, Cooper and Son, prettily mealed buff Grenie, but wee and small in head, still a taking bird; 2, nice Hawfinch, shown by Mr. Gentle, and steady; 3, Capennell, another Greenie; 4, Dallman, good coloured Bullie; r, Wilson, Bramblefinch; vhc, Capewell, another Bullie of good colour; hc, Cooper and Son, Chaffinch; c, Gregory, another Bullie. CANARY (radius of 8 miles): 1 and spl. 3, Gentle Bros; 2, W. Fawley; 4, Slater; vhc, Gentle Bros.

MANCHESTER.

The Twenty-fifth Annual Event.

Years roll on in ceaseless flow, and as they pass we scarcely realise how time is fleeing. It is only when some event of great importance is brought before us that we stop to think of the years that have flown. What has led us into this train of thought? The announcement on the catalogue that the show which was held in the Hulme Town Hall on October 25th and 26th was the twenty-fifth annual fixture of the Manchester and Northern Counties Ornithological Society. Many are the changes which have taken place since the first show was held, changes in the personnel of its officials, changes in its methods, and changes in the character of its exhibits. We can remember the time when Manchester always led off with a large number of classes for Belgians nd Scots, and how the judge for the same used to be brought down from Scotland to officiate. What a change is to be seen on comparing then and now! Not a Scot nor a Belgian in the show! Then, so far as Manchester is concerned, we have seen the rise and fall of the Crest Fancy. In the dear dead past we have seen class after class filled with Crests and Crest-breds of the highest quality, and great in numbers. To-day only a dozen members of the family are to be seen in the show. Not half of what one used to see in a single class, and we had no Crested Canary Club in those days. Cinnamons, too, were great in the days of yore, and even now they are fairly good in numbers. Lancashires and Lizards, the birds of the county, seem to have fallen on evil days. Why? They used to be popular. We remember the introduction of the Greens into the Manchester schedule. It was, at the time, thought to be a daring innovation. It succeeded, and the Greens have made their position in the schedule very secure. Yorkshires and Norwich are each far more popular in Cottonopolis than they used to be. Year by year they come in battalions, till now, were the Yorkshires and Norwich, including the Greens, taken out of the schedule, half the show would be gone. British have always, within our recollection, been a strong force at Manchester, and oft has it been given to us to congratulate the popular judge of the present upon his winnings. To-day he scores triumphs as a judge on the scene of his victories as an exhibitor.

The Pruning Knife of Time.

Leaving the past and dwelling upon the present, we find there is one thing never changes in connection with the great Manchester bird carnival, and that is its good management. At Manchester things always work with a smoothness and celerity which tell of splendid organisation and attention to detail. It was ever thus. Manchester lives and flourishes upon its good name in this respect. The executive has suffered from the pruning knife of time, some old and familiar faces greet us no longer, yet the old traditions are maintained, and the honour of the Manchester and N.C.O.S. most worthily upheld by the young hands who in days gone by were wont to sit at the feet of those who are now in the sere and yellow leaf, and not so active as of old. Even yet there are many amongst the Manchester officials who for more years than we like to count have assisted in its good work As we name the men of to-day, many of our readers will recognise amongst them the veterans of whom we speak. Mr. Bladon at the head is, notwithstanding his years, more keen and enthusiastic than many a youngster; the worthy Chancellor of the Exchequer still likes to be amongst the birds, but business and other cares prevent that great devotion to the fancy which characterised his work in other years. Then there are Messrs. A. G. Davis, F. W.Heaton, and T. Pease, all of whom have played a big part in the past, whilst such names as these and others who follow are connected with Manchester Show it must succeed. Amongst those responsible for this year's fixture were Messrs. Bleach, Burton, Booth, Nelson, Ashwell, Aspinall, Baguley, Cook, Coulson, Clarke, Fryer, Graham, Hindley, Steele, Stringer, and Walker, and they did not fail. Messrs. Lythgoe and Jones, the secretaries, and Mr. Raynes, the show manager, each played a big part in the carrying-out of the work, and to their tact, courtesy, and desire to please their patrons was due the great success which was again achieved. Manchester men know their work, and they do it. We were pleased to greet an old Yorkshire friend, Mr. Hardcastle, at one time secretary of the Shipton Fanciers' Society, but now holding the same position in connection with the Sale C.B.S. He was working like a Trojan.

The attendance, as usual, was great, and many were the fanciers who greeted us, complimented us upon the headway CAGE BIRDS has made, and wished us still further success. The one drawback in Manchester is the circumscribed space at the command of the committee, but they do their best with the resources at command, and locomotion was fairly comfortable.

Lancashires, with ten classes scheduled, only totalled thirty-one, and this after the previous week's grand display at Rochdale. Lizards also were down, only thirty-seven toeing the mark. There was much comment upon the paucity of entries in these two sections. Many were the guesses hazarded as to its cause, but no one could really say why the birds of the county were so few in number. The L.L.F.A. had its cups and medals in competition; why was competition so scarce?

A "Champion" Section.

Yorkshires were, as they say in the county of broad acres, "champion." The entry was good, the quality equal, and the competition very keen. The Yorkshire Canary Club's Challenge Cup, and other trophies, together with those of the Cinnamon Marked Club, had doubtless a lot to do with this big gathering. Messrs. Bailey and Swanger were the most successful exhibitors, they gaining a trio of firsts, besides other awards. The brace of Buff hens shown by the Bradford firm were the talk of the show. That good old fancier, Mr. Wilcock, scored with a gem in the Clear Yellows, whilst Mr. Binns's Buff is one of the best. Mr. Shackleton put down a grand team, but had the tantalising fortune to just miss first in no less than five classes. A wind's breath might have turned the scale the other way. Some remarkably fine exhibits were shown by Messrs. Haigh and Son and Spencer. The Cinnamon-Marks were hardly so satisfactory as the other classes, many of the birds being soft and slack in feather, and this influenced the awards considerably. Another week would possibly make a lot of difference. In the amateur section the exhibits of Messrs. Galling, Schofield, Wilkinson, Blackburst, and Davies were of high merit, and would have given a good account of themselves in keener competition.

The square-feathered variety, both of Yorkshire and the Norwich type, came up well, and a truly grand lot they were. This being the first big show of Greens since the sensational episodes of last season, there was much speculation as to what course events would take. So far as the judging was concerned, there was no putting of the fat in the fire, but we heard several fanciers rather warmly discussing these square-feathers. What a difference there is in the birds of to-day and those of good old Tom Rooney's time! In place of those big, slouching, coarse-feathered birds we have exhibits as graceful, as smart, as fine in feather, and as true to type as the Yorkshire and Norwich themselves. Maybe that deep grass-green tint, so beloved by the old school, has not been preserved in its original purity. Yet the Greens are still Greens, even if they have been through the refiner's hands. Very choice were the exhibits of Messrs. Gill and Pickup, Tempest, Clayton, Doughty, Dixon, Menson, Moss, Hadwin, Wright, Butterworth, Thomas Davies, Hawkes, Deacon, Walker, Ryno, Truegrove, Harrison, and Abbott.

AT THE HELM.

The triumphant trio here represented bore the principal brunt of Manchester Show worries.

Wonderful Norwich.

Of the Norwich, what can we say? Truly they were a show in themselves. Talk about "blazes of colour," "balls of fire," etc., we had them here, and with this great depth of colour we had also size—size which, however, was not altogether unruly, but went hand in hand with type and quality. We are not going so far as to say that all the Norwich staged at Manchester were beau ideals of what the variety should be, and that no coarseness of feather or size was to be seen, because if we did we should perjure ourselves, and not speak the truth. The open section afforded friend Payne plenty of scope for his judicial capacity, and he came through the ordeal well. Mr. Bootb's handsome pair of Yellows were greatly admired, as was Mr. Hindley's Buff, which secured Messrs. Hyde's special. Amongst the Ticks, Mr. Evans's handsome pair came in for the most notice. Speaking of the winner, we heard one old-time fancier say—"You can't praise that bird too much. It's a wonder." Yet the other day it stood cardless at a show of far less importance than Manchester. The leaders in the Unflighted classes were beauties, and the name which headed the Buffs made us think of the time when another Lancashire Mercer was such a power in Norwich. Mr. Shaw's brace of seconds were unlucky in meeting two such top-sawyers as the winners, nevertheless their day will come. The hens were wonderful, the pick of the lot being genial Teddy Fox's Buff. Amongst the amateurs were some of the hottest we have seen for many a day. Colour evidently caught Mr. Roe's eye in several instances, at the expense of type. Taking the section through the quality was superb. Grand birds were put down by Messrs. Davies, Leeming, Connor, Walters, Massey, Marlow, Aiven, Sutton, Critchley, Turton, and Slater.

Of the Crests what can we say? The least said the better, so we pass them, and sigb as we think of the past. All that is best in the Cinnamon world was on view, and competition between the exhibits of Messrs. Dormer and Godley was very keen in the champion section. There is evidently hope for the Cinnamon yet. A little judicious fostering of the amateurs by the Cinnamon Canary Club will work wonders. Some of the exhibits in the amateur section here would not have disgraced themselves had they been in the open. Mr. Hargreaves put down some exceptionally nice exhibits, birds of good sound colour, with nice type and feather. Messrs. Yates and Walker's winners also were of rare merit, and the exhibits of Messrs. Massey, Wilson, Rukin, Wagstaffe, and Handt were of such a character as to show that all the good Cinnamons are not located at Rishton.

Grace and Style.

"The wee sma' yins" made a nice display, averaging over fifteen per class, and amongst them were some real gems. Colour feeding is not supposed to prevail in Border circles. "Not supposed to prevail." At that we had better leave it, as some of the exhibits got left here for being too warm. A Border is a bird of grace, style and type. Colour is merely a finishing point. What struck us most about the Borders was the lack of feather finish, many rare-shaped, stylish birds having to stand down because they were slack and puffy in feather. Mr. Aberdeen's sweet little hen, which won at Bolwich, scored again here, and well, too. Messrs. Hopper, Wilson, Poole, Lenthwaite, Wardleworth, Parkinson, Cribly, and Drinkwater staged some most exquisite exhibits.

A most charming collection were the Hybrids. British and Foreign, and Mr. Boulton fairly revelled in the task of allotting the prizes. In the Light Mules Mr. Williams had matters all his own way with a charming team. A very high degree of excellence was seen in the exhibits of Messrs. Coffey, Hindley, Leigh, Cherry, Howe, Gerrie, and Pryce-Jones in the Darks. Goldfinches were a very fine collection, and Mr. Axe's little charmer won cleverly, as did his Bullie. Markings and colour were to the fore in Mr. Boulton's selections in Linnets. Redpolls, Siskins and Twites were a very smart lot, and the three leaders well selected. Greenies were not strong, but the Brambles and Chaffinches came up well, and Mr. Hurst may shake hands with himself for securing the two top notches in such a class. Doncaster was to the fore again in A.O.V. Seed-eaters with a topping Hawfinch, whilst Mr. Woodall's Yellow Bunting, which came second, was very choice. Quality was well represented in each of the other classes, and the winners were noticeable for the magnificent manner in which they were staged. Very interesting were the Foreign classes, in which several of the Rochdale winners scored again. A good show was wound up by a strong members' section.

We cannot leave our review of this year's fixture without giving a special note to the new staging. It is a great improvement on that of past years, and the innovation was most heartily appreciated by visitors.

The total entry was 1,486, and not 1,350, as given in our columns last week. It was divided amongst the five judges as follows:—Mr. J. Bexson, Lancs, Lizards, Crests, members' Yorks, 137; Mr. C. A. House, Yorks, Yorks Greens, and Borders 398; Mr. J. H. Payne, Nor. Greens, Nor., members' Yorks and Nor., 355; Mr. J. H. Roe, amateur Nor., Cinns., Sell., members' Nor., 353; Mr. C. H. Houlton, Mules, Britisb and Foreign, 220.

Mr. House's Classes.

YELL. (15): I, Wilcock, very neat head, rare shoulders and back, finely braced wings and tail, rare quality of feather, and stands like a soldier; 2, Shackleton, quite equal in shape, full of nerve, very nice carriage, very smart, clean and neat about the thighs; 3, Spencer, splendid shape, lovely quality of feather, but rather wild, rare head and back; 4, Bentley, capital shape, splendid carriage, nice colour, not so well put down; vhc, Broughton, good head, capital style and feather, capital in tail; hc, Slater; c, Bailey and Swanger. BUFF (17): 1, Binns, beautiful silky feather, which fits close to a neat tapering body, and is carried on a good pair of legs, capital head, back, wings and tail; 2, Shackleton, very nicely moulded, with most exquisite feather, but does not get into position like the winner; 3, Wilcock, grand style, neat head, wings, and tail, rather stouter; 4, Haigh and Son, looked like the Rochdale winner, a topping Yorkshire in all points except head, which is a trifle too flat; vhc, Fortune, splendid shaped body, grand quality, needs length of leg to show off his other good points; hc, Pease; c, Broughton. TICKED YELL. (14): 1, vhc, Bailey and Swanger, a regular swell in every respect, lovely head, neck, and back, wings and tail well braced, stands as straight as a gun barrel, said to be the Palace winner; vhc, very sweet nervy bird of rare shape, bit open in front; 2, Wilcock, rare shape, plenty of style, stands well up, hardly so tight in feather, in form will take a lot of beating; 3, Biuns, rare swagger and style, beautiful shape, well carried wings and tail, fairly good in hand; 4, Shackleton, grand quality and style, rather stronger in build; hc, Riley; c, Gill and Pickup. BUFF (15): 1, Bailey and Swanger, for finish of feather and carriage, one of the best Yorkshires in the show, champion head, wings and tail, if anything a bit on the strong side, but his quality and nerve landed him ou top; 2, Shackleton, a wonderful bird when worked up, superb shape and quality, lovely silky feather, but is hardly tight enough yet; 3, Binns, rare shape and carriage, capital legs, hardly the quality of feather of leaders; 4, Broughton, beautiful carriage and lovely feather, neat body, needs just a bit more tail; vhc, Wilson, stands remarkably well, and is nicely finished, trifle wide at shoulders; hc, Slater; c, Coffey. HENS, YELL. (16): 1, Haigh and Son, much the neatest head and most erect carriage of any bird in the class, lovely colour and quality of feather, very neat wings and tail, needs a bit more length for her body; 2, Shackleton, longer, lovely quality of feather, rare nerve, but not so erect in carriage or so neat in head; 3, c, Bailey and Swanger, a topping bird in every respect, except that she was too shy to show her good points, and objected to being handled; 4, Higham, grand body and carriage, capital feather, fairly smart in wings; vhc, Broughton, grand length and shape, but drops tail slightly; hc, Gray, splendid body and style, bit flat on head. BUFF (15): 1, 2, Bailey and Swanger, two of the best hens we have seen for a long time, very neat in head, with the best of backs, wings, and tails, as erect as a couple of Guardsmen, as tight as wax, winner shows just a bit more polish than her mate, first clear, second wing-ticked; 3, Shackleton, beautiful body, splendidly carried, rare quality and sheen, neat in tail; 4, Dooley, a real tip-top Yorkshire, superb shape and carriage of body, very high quality, grand legs, not quite ready, when fit should be heard of again; vhc, Broughton, grand shape and quality, just a trifle soft; hc, Haigh and Son; c, Nelson. CINN. TICKED YELL. (10): 1, Wilcock, very handsome head and wing marked, nice tapering body, well carried on a good pair of legs, capital colour and feather; 2, 3, Cooper, eye, neck, and wing, capital shape and feather, not quite so clever with his wings; third eye, check, and wings, rare shape and carriage, not so fine in feather; 4, spl best, 4th, Sutcliffe, beautifully modelled eye and wing marked, the best of feather, but not tight enough in wing carriage; vhc, Hirst, about the best bird in the class, but could only stand on one foot, having injured the other; hc, Brayshaw and Jowett; c, Dobson. BUFF (14): 1, Hirst, eye and wing marked, magnificent feather and carriage, nice shape and length; 2, Shackleton, eye and wing, lovely feather properties, and a good pair of legs, his wings are hardly ready yet, when fit will be a gem; 3, Taylor and Haigh, head, neck, and wing marked, wonderful shape and style, loses in marking, and a wee bit in feather; 4, Cooper, eyes, cap, and wings, another wonderfully finely drawn bird, well up on leg, good colour, neat in feather; vhc, Denton, rare shape, style, and feather, very hot in colour, and heavily marked; hc, Brayshaw and Jowett; c, Wilcock. HEN, YELL. (13): 1, Cook and Son, head, neck, and wing marked, very neat and tapering in body, rare carriage of wings and tail, splendid finish of feather; 2, Ogden Brothers, neck and wing marked, fairly clean and smart in feather, a trifle stouter in waist, very stylisb and nice head; 3, Neylor and Haigh, head, cheeks, and wings, a champion for stroke, feather, colour, and nerve, but she does not use her wings well; 4, Dobson, takes spl best 4th hen, cap, cheek, and wing marked with same fault as third, otherwise a beauty; vhc, Knowles, well drawn cap marked, nice quality, would not handle; hc, Wilcock; c, Bentley. BUFF (10): 1, Sutcliffe and Son, eye and wing marked, most lovely quality and finish, grand shape and style, hardly as neat in head as we like, still her most excellent body pulled her through; 2, 3, Blackburn, eye and wing marked, better head than third, but not so clean cut at waist, capital carriage; third eye, head, and wing marked, grand shape and style, not put down in the best of trim; 4, Cook and Son, cap, cheek, and wing, nice shape, style, and feather; vhc, Ogden Bros., heavily marked, rare shape and style, needs burnishing to bring the gloss up; hc, Shackleton; c, Dobson. YORKS, N.C. (5): 1, Fortune, neat, stylish Yellow; 2, Burgess Bros., nicely feathered, showy Buff; 3, Nelson; 4, Neill; vhc, Gray. AMATEURS YELL. (16): 1, Galling, very handsome cheek ticked, well drawn body set on a long and stylish pair of legs, lovely wings and tail; 2, Schofield, a real topping Clear, and only wants preparing by a master hand; 3, 4, Blackhurst, a Clear of wonderful shape and feather, but is inclined to drop tail a trifle; fourth very handsome wing marked, lovely body and carriage, spoilt by a somewhat flat head; vhc, Wilkinson, rare shape, not so tight; hc, Dewsnap; c, Burgess Bros. BUFF (18): 1, Galling, a most worthy mate to the Yellow, stood well away in this class; 2, Wilkinson, eye and wing marked, a topping Yorkie, somewhat pale in colour; 3, Davies, nice shaped, stylish Clear, fairly good in front; 4, Burrows, shapely, nice feathered body, bit short on leg; vhc, Fitton, rare quality and style, rather too stout; hc, Farrar; c, Blackhurst. GREEN YELL. (30): 1, 3, Gill and Pickup, rich bright green colour, grand shape, full of style, capital feather; 3rd another picture for shape, colour, and feather, but would not stand; 2, Trimpest, wonderful type and nerve, capital colour, except on thigh, where it runs a bit light; extra 3, Clayton, grand shape and style, fairly good colour; 4, Doughty, capital colour and shape, and silky in feather; vhc, Helliwell, very handsome front, rare shape, colour, and quality; hc, Parker; c, Handley. BUFF (32): 1, Doughty, rare shape and style, capital legs, neat wings and tail, capital colour and feather; 2, Clayton, a real good body, but a trifle flat in head, splendid colour, shape, and quality; 3, Dixon, wonderful body, feather, and colour, but wings hardly ready yet; extra 3, Benson, real grand colr. and shape, nice silky feathers, needs tightening up; 4, Moss, capital shape, good carriage, bit bronzy on back; vhc, Wright, rare body and colour, but crosses wings; hc, Carlile. HEN, YELL. (23): 1, Dixon, beautiful even colour, carried well through, rare shape, carriage and quality, a gem; 2, Hadwin, very nicely shaped in head, and all there otherwise, a real champion hen; 3, Wright, grand tapering body, sweet head, rare colour, crosses wings a bit; extra 3, Moss, foul wing and tail, a model for type, colour, and quality, full of go; 4, Meadows, foul tail, lovely body and feather, just a little unsteady; vhc, Thomas, rare colour, shape and style, little rough at waist; hc, Benson; c, Eales; a wonderful class of hens. BUFF (19): 1, Butterworth, very sweet and neat, not a feather out of place, rare nerve and carriage, capital colour; 2, Thomas, splendid shape, feather, and colour, not so steady on perch; 3, Walker, for shape, feather, nerve, and style a real good Yorkshire, fairly bright in colour; 4, Folland, capital shape, rare feather and colour, also unsteady; vhc, Hadison, very neat and capital colour, but needs training in the art of deportment; hc, Casswell; c, Stewart. BELGIANS AND SCOTS cancelled. BORDERS.—YELL, (19): 1, Hopper Bros., very slim in shape, erect in carriage, and feathered like a Java; 2, Wilson, rare bodied bird, grand style and feather, hardly so well finished in head; 3, Poole, very neat head, grand wings and tail, grand shape and style, just a wee bit open in throat yet; 4, Moore, bonny wee bird, rare shape and style, fails just a bit in top skull; hc, Waters; c, Wardleworth. HEN (21): 1, Aberdeen, very sweet little lady, as fit as wax, possesscs a lovely figure, and carries it like a duchess; 2, Roberts, very sweet body, lovely feather and carriage, hardly so neat in head; 3, Wilson, grand shape, plenty of style, tight in feather, but needs sheen; 4, Harrison, bonny shaped Variegated of grand quality, not so clever on perch; vhc, Poole, capital body and feather, spreads tail a trifle; hc, Clinch. BUFF (21): 1, 4, Wardleworth, first a gem, rare quality of feather, neat, sweetly drawn body well posed on a nicely set pair of legs; fourth, capital type and pattern, loses in style; 2, Hopper, quite equal to winner in every point, except that he was not quite so well put down; 3, Aberdeen, ticked head, grand little bird, rare shape and feather, hardly so steady as he should be; vhc, Bulmore, grand shaped clear, needs tightening up; hc, Roberts; c, Davies. HEN (24): 1, 2, Hopper Bros., a real clever win, two most exquisite damsels, beautiful figures with the daintiest of carriage and clothed in garments of fine tight-fitting silk; 3, Leuthwaite, grand head, wings, and tail, rare legs, beautiful feather, neat and level in back; extra 3, Aberdeen, very smart little bird, grand shape and quality, but wants training; 4, Roberts, capital shape and style, not quite so clean cut in front; vhc, Bayley, shapely and stylish, not so fine in feather; hc, Hawkins; c, Poole. Mr. Houlton's Classes.

This section of the show contained some lovely specimens of hybridisation, and competition in the Variegated and Dark classes was very keen. In the Clear, Ticked, etc., class, the two champion Clears of the day turned up looking grand. The Var. class produced three gems of the Gold-Can., Linnet-Can., and Green.-Can., all in A1 form. The Dark Goldfinch or Linnet class was very strong, and very keen competition resulted, the very finest points had to be looked for to separate them. The A.O.V. Yellows saw a really fine Yellow Greenfinch Canary winning very handsomely. The A.O.V. Buffs were led by an excellent Cinnamon Greenfinch Canary in the pink of condition. The A.O.V. Hybrids were once again led by that wonderful Gold Bull from Liverpool. The Canary-Bullfe had to play second fiddle to-day, but not disgraced by being beaten by such a wonderful Hybrid. A very good Linnet Bull secured third honours, with a pretty Green-Bull fourth. Quality in this section was paramount. The British classes, as usual, made a powerful display, and some marvellous exhibits graced the benches. Goldfinches are coming on apace, and a fine class of 18 resulted. Very good so early on, and I may say all the ticketed birds ran a tight race for their various honours. A little condition more or less made all the difference in their positions. Bullfinches were few, but they were ably led by the Newcastle winner in fresh hands; the runners-up are really very neat and pretty, but the leader is a treat. Linnets were very high class for quality, and the leader is a typical all-round gem, very evenly balanced throughout in all points. Siskins, etc., were very strong, and again that wonder of wonders, the Newcastle winning Redpoll, led a fine lot of birds to success, a good Twite and Siskin were second and third respectively. Greenfinches are not so numerous this year, but those turning up here were some of the best, and one with a tender foot threw its chance away, and this was Mr. A. Howe's well-known crack. The stewards said the bird arrived in that condition when onpacked. The Bramble, etc., class brought together a magnificent collection, and all the leaders were superb. A capital Hawfinch won in a strong A.O.V. class, followed by a splendid Yellow Bunting. The large British produced very keen competition, a fine Chough leading, with a grand Throsh second. The small Soft Bill class was a treat, some most charming exhibits appearing, a fine Hoopoe winning over the Newcastle winning Wryneck, whilst a perfectly conditioned Grey Wagtail secured third and another beautiful Wryneck fourth, running the second a very tight race for leading honours. The Foreign birds were not so numerous as usual, but the winners were in more exhibitors' hands than heretofore, a sign that new life is being grafted into this very attractive section. This is just as it should be. Many were disappointed at the Lytham Crack Tanagers being absent. Let us hope they are well, and that nothing serious kept them away after being entered.

WINNERS of specials were: Best non-colour-fed Brit. Seed-Eater, H. W. Axe; best Soft Bill, R. J. Howe; second best, H. J. Chick; best Foreign O. Millsum; best British (members), W. Downing; club medal, best Border, Hopper Bros.; best members' Norwich, S. Hindley.

YEL. AND CAN. HYBRID: 1, 2, Williams, with the two crack Clears. Where are all the evenly marked birds? Not ready yet is it? VAR. A.V. (9): 1, 2, 3, John Williams, a very large, brilliantly coloured 5-pointed Yell. Goldfinch-Can., leading, a gem in all respects; second, the crack Light Linnet-Canary, without a fault; third, pretty Var Greenfinch-Can., a Yellow, but just outclassed to-day by first and second; a fine trio still; 4, Hampson, a dark Var. Redpoll-Canary of good size, shape, feather, and lovely condition; vhc, Davies, a very neat, lovely feathered Var. Gold-Canary; hc, Jas. Williams; c, J. Williams. These Williamses are multiplying here surely; three of them! DARK GOLD. OR LINNET (19), very fine class: 1, 2, Coffey, first very fine, splendidly feathered Linnet-Canary, great size, and of the very best shape. In A1 condition; second, very nice sized Yell. Gold.-Can., wins his place to-day on condition; 3, J. Williams, smart shaped Yell. Gold.-Can., stoutly built, bright in colour, bit smaller in head and blaze than second, very promising; 4, Beswick, another very fine Linnet-Canary in splendid order, runs winner well up for leading honours; vhc, Best, very fine Buff Gold.-Can., grand face and good size, shape and condition; hc, Ridley, probably the finest Yell. Gold-Can. in the class, not quite ready yet; c, John Williams, decent Linnet-Can., a bit short yet. A.O.V. YELL. (10): 1, 4, Leigh, first is about the largest and most typical specimen of a Green.-Can. seen out for years, condition is wonderful; fourth is a rather pale Yellow Siskin-Can., very fine quality of feather; 2, Cherry, very smart, beautifully pencilled Siskin-Can., good cap and colour, quality and condition very neat indeed; 3, R. J. Howe, a charming conditioned Yell. Green.-Can, beaten in size only by winner; vhc, John Williams, Siskin-Can., not at its best yet; hc, Coffey; c, Lauder; a capital lot. BUFF (6): 1, Pryce-Jones, superb Cinnamon Green.-Can., perfect in shape, feather and condition; 2, Gurrie, fine Siskin-Can., big bird, a bit off in thigh feather, but a good bird withal; 3, John Williams, very large Green.-Can., full of quality in feather and condition; 4, Taylor, chubby Green.-Can., beaten in condition of feather; vhc, Marsden; wrong class No. 5. A.O.V. CAN.-BULL. (6): 1, 2, 4, John Williams, Gold-Bull, Can.-Bull, and Green-Bull, a fine trio, but the leader excels in all points; 3, Ward, very pretty Linnet-Bull, nice size, colour, shape and feather; vhc, Johnson. BRITISH GOLDFINCH (18): 1, Axe, very fine, well defined blaze, deep blaze, large well-balanced moons and bars, broad back, well tanned, good level breast, steady and silky in feather and condition; 2, Williams, equal to first in all points, except breast condition, well deserves his place; 3, Walsh, smart coloured Finch, bit narrower in skull, otherwise a good one and bad to beat; 4, Holt, fine face, well cut, broad back, well tanned, moonings well up, and in nice condition of feather; vhc, Jackson, beaten in breast a little; hc, King; c, Adams. BULLFINCH (6): 1, Axe, the Newcastle winner in fresh hands, is a fine specimen, and needs no comment other than it is a real gem; 2, 3, Walsh, pair of beauties when the leader is away, smaller than first, but very neat all over, second best body, third best head; 4, Howard, beaten in thigh, feather, and solidness; vhc, hc, Coffey. LINNET (15): 1, 4, Tams and Son, both typical of each other, first excellent in colour, head, markings, and satin condition of feather, steady as a rock, fourth nice condition but beaten in other respects; 2, King, capital chested bird, more of a Grey Linnet, beaten in head, rather larger body than first, splendid condition; 3, Walsh, nice size, colour, shape, and markings, hardly the body of leaders; vhc, Pickles, fine bird, splendid shape, of the greyer stamp, lovely feather; hc, E. Weedall. SISKIN, ETC. (16): 1, HURST, monster Redpoll, Newcastle winner, fit to fight for a kingdom; 2, Hill, fine Twite, nice size, good shape, colour, and markings, and steady; 3, Howard, rare good Siskin for size, quality of feather, and markings, short of bib only; 4, c, Walsh, Siskin and Redpoll, in good feather; vhc, Weedall; hc, Kilner. GREENFINCH (8): 1, 3, Walsh, first immense size, grand colour, fine head, shoulders and body, rare feather, third smaller, grand colour and condition; 2, Beaty, Buff, unfed, magnificent feather and condition; 4, c, Coffey, beaten in condition, good size, etc.; vhc, Pickles; hc, A. Howe; No. 5, same owner, looks like the crack Greenie, sitting dumpy with a tender foot, which unfortunately spoiled its chances. BRAMBLE, ETC. (21), a fine lot: 1, 2, Hurst, first an excellent Bramble, size, shape, colour, markings, and condition all there, second we'l known Chaffinch, in pink of condition; 3, Axe, splendid Bramble, only very slightly beaten in size; 4, Walsh, smart Chaffinch, beaten only in head properties; vhc, Coffey; hc, Hill; c, Matthews. A.O.V., SEED-EATER (16): 1, 3, Axe, grand Hawfinch leading, beautiful bib, fine size, shape, colour and bloom excelling; 3, lovely Yell. Bunting as tight as wax, well marked, and grand colour; 2, Weedall, most perfectly marked Yell. Bunting in grandest form all through; 4, Beatty, bonny Hawfinch, just beaten a little in the peach bloom; vhc, Chick, grand Yell. Bunting, runs former winners very close up, all three are grandly marked, etc.; hc, Jones; c, Hingley. A.O.V. LARGE (11): 1, 3, Chick, fine Chough and a very smart Magpie, both in grand feather and condition; 2, Axe, well-known champion Thrush, looking splendid; 4, Weedall, very pretty Redwing, rich colour, fine feather and condition; vhc, Pryce-Jones, nice sized Ring Ousel, bit open in feather when we saw it; hc, Mort, Thrush, grand shape, very tight; c, Howard, deep coloured Blackbird, medium size. A.O.V. SMALL SOFT BILL (13): 1, 2, R. J. Howe, first takes special best British, Hnopoe in lovely feather and condition, looks charming when erecting crest, second well-known Wryneck, travels well to now; 3, Hill, very tight conditioned Grey Wagtail; 4, Walsh, very pretty Wryneck, slightly smaller than first, but wonderfully tight in condition; vhc, c, Beaty, pretty black Redstart and Yellow Wagtail in nice form; hc, Mackwell, Gold Crest, bit off form. FOREIGN.—PARROTS, ETC. (9): 1, F. Howe, King Parrakeet, wins in tightness of condition and colours all through; 2, Cooper, name not given, grand condition pair of birds all through; 3, vhc, Millsum, good pair White-eared Conures, and a pair of Barnards, hen fails a little in plumage over beak; 4, Hollins and Son; hc, Beaty; c, Davies. FINCHLIKE, ETC. (11): 1, 5, Hollins and Son, leaders a grand pair of Black-headed Gouldians, large, lustrous in colour, and in superb condition; 2, F. Howe, perfect conditioned Paradise Whydah; 4, Davies, pair of Ruficaudas, tight as wax; vhc, Creasey, smart small Zebra Finch; hc, Leach, Red-headed Gouldian, good feather, beaten in tight condition by pair of Black-headed Gouldians; c, Millsum. DYSART.

Third annual open show on October 26th in the Norman Memorial Halls, under the patronage of the Provost and Town Council of Dysart, the Scottish P.C., the Scottish B.B. and M.C., and the B.F.C.C., and they received their complement of entries. Scotch fanciers were first on the schedule, but unfortunately these were down in numbers a little. The quality throughout, however, was of a good order, the winners in many cases being outstanding specimens. They were under the jurisdiction of Mr. Hogg, and his awards were well received. Norwich followed, and were a show in themselves, such a collection of Plainheads being very seldom seen at a country show. The two outstanding classes of the show were the Unfighted, 33 cocks and 24 hens, and some coming champions were to be spotted among them, the winning cock being a gem, a Clear Yellow with a blaze of deep level colour, lovely shape, grand carriage, and the correct size—a beauty, and no mistake; and leading somewhat comfortable. Crests and Crest-breds, although not so strong in numbers as the Plainheads, were forward in quality, the leaders in each class being outstanding birds. The most notable defeat in this section was Mr. Reid's Green Crest hen, which has been clearly everything in front of her lately. A nest, Mr. R., would do her no harm, as they are bound to get run down if moved every week-end. Mr. Ferguson made the awards in these classes, and found the winners in the majority of cases well. One special feature of the judging was that Mr. Ferguson went for type and quality throughout, many of the monsters taking a back seat. We noticed that the birds having splendid round heads and tight feather and type were leading, and very little in his awards could have been found fault with, everyone being unanimously of the opinion that he had made a fine job. Borders were also under his eye, and were strong in numbers and full of quality. He again found winners to the general satisfaction. Many good birds were on view, some taking a back seat to new faces now appearing on the show bench. This variety in Fifeshire is going ahead by leaps and bounds, and the Border Kings will in a short time have to look to their laurels. Mr. Goodfellow judged the British and Foreign in his usual faultless manner, and also the selling classes. He had a grand entry all round, many good birds being on view in the various classes. Mr. McQuiston had present a grand team, and succeeded in beating the Glasgow winning Linnet with a gem for colour and well marked. Mules were large classes, and contained some good specimens, the winners being outstanding birds of their variety. The hall is a good one for a bird show, but the Scotch fanciers might have been in a better corner, we thought, as they were rather too near the draught of the doorway. The committee is composed of the right sort, Messrs. J. Davidson, H Bisset, J. Black, G. Harris, J. M'Gregor, R. Traill A. Kerr, J. Cook, P. Burt, D. Ness, T. Curran J. Hutchison, D. Baird, A. Watson, D. Walker, J. Williamson, G. Burt, A. Kerr, sen., A. Black, all genuine fanciers and hard workers withal, doing everything in their power to assist their affable secretary, Mr. Logan, a gentleman of sterling quality, who supervised the show, and had the satisfaction of knowing it to be a great success. The president is Mr. David Walker; the treasurer, Mr. John Hutchinson; and the vice-president, Mr. James Davidson.

SCOTCH FANCY YELL. COCK (9): 1, Nairn, fine quality, nice size, good style, rather hollow in back, inclined to be a little straight on side, good all round Yell. cock; 2, Auchterlonie, in better feather, deeper across than winner, nice drive and good action, not such a large-framed bird, but grandly lilled on top; 3, Douglas, slimmer, but good style, neat shower; 4, Thomson, good showy bird; 5, Barrie; 6, Nairn. COCK (13): 1, spl for Norwich Club Medal, Chalmers, hot one for shape, very chubby, as round as possible, put down in rare bloom, gem for quality, lovely colour and grand style; 2, McInally, hot fed one, great colour, stronger made than winner, but fails in style; 3, Sloan, nice shape and good quality throughout, grand carriage; 4, Chalmers, larger made up, good feather, and well cut; 5, Watson; 6, McLay; 7, Hampton. YELL. HEN (14): 1, Watson, beauty, lovely colour and grand quality of feather, good wing carriage, nice size and shape; 2, Chalmers, good sturdy bird, grand carriage, very stylish, beaten in front by winner; 3, Wylie, good all-round, fine, full-fronted bird, grand back and wings, fails a little in finish; 4, Winter, plenty size, grand full-chested one, bouncing style eye tick; 5, Calderwood; 6, Howie; 7, Dempster. BUFF COCK (15): 1, Chalmers, good one, lovely quality for a Buff, grand size, and not a bit of loose to be seen, rare head, grand front and wing carriage, shows to perfection; 2, Jaffray, another good one, close up, hotter if anything in colour, but very little between them for type, good exhibit; 3, 6, Watson, well up in size and shape, nicely feather, but lacks the noble chest of winner; 4, Hampton, good bodied bird, fine carriage and feather; 5, Cameron, grand shape; 7, Carson. BUFF HEN (15): 1, 7, McLay, nice quality of feather, grand colour, well up in substance, looked a shade thin on neck, but grand front and back, well cut, nice and clear; 2, Sloan, well filled up, grand stamp, hot in colour; 3, Young, rare body and lovely feather, grand carriage, wants taper; 4, Smeaton, good one, lovely shape, grand wing carriage, well rounded, nice full front and well cut, worth her position; 5, Jaffray; 6, Wylie. YELL. OR BUFF VAR COCK (16): 1, Watson, heavy Var., a topper, as round as possible, rare head and body and lovely carriage, well cleaned out and teeming with quality, wins; 2, Harris, Buff, good shapely body, full and free, and grand style, shade narrow in head; 3, McLay, Vnr. Buff, grand shape, rather inclined to be heavy in head feather, but well rounded; 4, Muir, large Buff, a little plain compared to winner; 5, Gowans; 6, Howie; 7, McAnally. HEN. (12): 1, Watson, again leading with a beauty, great substance for a hen, not too large, but full of quality, very well rounded bird in grand trim; 2, Cameron, Buff Var., good stamp, fine feather and size, thin in front compared to winner; 3, Ireland, another Buff Var., good feather and size; 4, Smeaton, good all-round exhibit, well shown; 5, Chalmers; 6, Howie; 7, Thomson. UNFLI. COCK (33): 1, 3, 6, Ireland, first gem, Cl. Yell., blaze of deep pure colour, a masterpiece in colour feeding, grand shape, lovely size, full in front, well drawn and very stylish, heads a grand class nicely; third, grand size and style; 3, 5, Young, Var. Yell., good body, well rounded, plenty of substance, fails in style to winner; 4, Cameron, topping Var. Buff, grand shape and lovely feather, fails in wing carriage; 7, Muir. HEN (24): 1, 5, Young, first Cl. Buff, good one for a lady, gem for size and sub., lovely style, grand front and wing carriage, teeming with quality, well shown; 2, Muir, good Var. Yell., full face and well rounded, grand head and well filled up all round; 3, Mitchell, Var. Buff, grand shaped body and nice carriage, beaten in head; 4, Sloan, Var. Yell., good stamp, rather soft when taking notes; 6, Smeaton; 7, Howie.

COCK NON-FED (16): 1, Chalmers, buff, not the largest, but grandly built, very compact, showing all the properties of a good Plainhead, well put down; 2, 4, Smeaton, stronger made one, but fails somewhat in style to winner; 4, Buff marked, plenty shape; 3, Roberts, yell. var., good body and fine style, rather narrow in head; 5, Howie; 6, Sloan; 7, Hatton. HENS (22): 1, Harris, var., yell., grand shape, very round, fine and full in front, nicely tapered, good one all over, rare substance for a hen; 2, C. McLay, large yell., grand wing carriage, lovely headed, fails slightly in cut to winners; 3, Winter, var. yell., good all round well up in substance, teaming with quality; 4, White, another var., grand shape, splendid front; 5, Watson; 6, Trail; 7, Burt. SELL. (£1) (12): 1, Brown, Yell, cock; 2, Duncan, buff; 3, Loggan, yell.; 4, Mitchell, var. buff; 5, Calderwood; 6, Jaffray; 7, McLay. BORDER YELL. COCK (14): 1, Spence, head marked yell., in grand bloom, as clear and tight as wax, splendid front, lovely position, grand wing carriage, wins; 2, Clark, longer in shape, but grandly tapered, very nice feathered bird, good quality throughout; 3, Hamilton, wing tick, great style, but draws in front a bit, well put down; 4, Craig, good body, rather unsteady yet, will improve; 5, Morris; 6, Welsh; 7, Forrest. HEN (7): 1, Bickerstaffe, check mark, grand position, very well drawn, stylish taking exhibit, all round, rare back and wing carriage; 2, McKenzie, in grand bloom, feathered like wax, shade drawn on neck, but lovely body, well placed; 3, Welsh, nicely tapered, good body and style, just fails in feather; 4, Matthew, small, but good stamp, nice front; 5, Hislop; 6, Harris; 7, Arnott. BUFF COCK (17): 1, Hutchinson, nice shape, grand body well tapered lovely position, correct stamp of a buff; 2, Linton, grizzle on back, might be improved a little, but a gem for type, grand moulded bird in fine condition, tight as a drum; 3, Spence, fair all round bird, rather inclined to draw, but grandly shown, rare wing carriage; 4, Walker, grand type and quality, just a shade soft; 5, Harris; 6, Deach; 7, Hislop. No. 12, Alexander, a topper passed for being suspected of having tasted the forbidden fruit. HEN (12): 1, Cargill, rather on the small side, but a gem for shape, grand headed bird, lovely wing carriage, neat body and finely drawn, nice order; 2, Forrest, nicely moulded, again rare round head, fine front and well cut, good 2nd; 3, Craig, stronger got up bird, not quite so neat in head and front as winners; good feather; 4, Kay, rather slimmer made—but grand shape, in fine order, good; 5, Kerr; 6, Smith; 7, Spence; No. 5, Johnston and Young, looks like a cock singing when taking notes. EVEN MARKS (4): 1, McKenzie, neat well balanced buff, grand type and quality of feather, wins easily today; 2, Bickers, nice stylish one, grand shape, fails somewhat in eye markings; 3, Hutchinson, good all-round made yell, again a little behind in eye marks; 4, Walker, buff, just fails in type and markings. UNEVEN (19): 1, McKenzie, buff, gem for quality, in rare bloom, lovely size, well drawn, fine front and taper shows well, wins; 2, Hunter, yell., nice shapely bird, good body and grand wing carriage, shows to perfection; 3, Cargill, grand type, splendid rounded body, well tapered, again in rare feather; 4, 7, Spence, var. buff, fails in style and finish; 5, Baird; 6, Alexander. (6): 1, 2, 3, Black, trio of Belgians; 2 yells. leading, and buff 3rd, all well up in size and substance, in grand condition; winner best in reach and side; 4, 5, Fortune, pair of good lengthy Yorks, put down in grand trim, outclassed here; 6, Boocock, Jonque Lizard, nice cap and lacing. COMMON (10): 1, 2, McGregor, var. yell. and var. buff, respectively, very typical specimens; 3, 6, Duncan, cin. hen, good colour; 4, Fisher, cin. mark; 5, Boocock; 6, Duncan. DARK MULE VAR. (14): 1, McQuiston, Jonque Goldie, fair size, but demon for colour, good deep blaze, in grand trim; 2, Pendrigh, Jonque Greenie, grand size and plenty colour, shade light underneath, in lovely order; 3, 4, Mather, 3 well fed Siskin, nice size and good markings, well staged; 4, good yell. Goldie, should make up; 5, Chalmers Bros.; 6, Bisset Bros. LIGHT (11): 1, 3, 4, Arrighi, leader Linnet Bullie hybrid, grand size and well up in colour; shows cross well; 3, Goldie-Bullie, wins on grand colour, deep blaze and front; 4, large buff var., Goldie mule, grand size and teaming with quality, lightly mkd.; 2, Mure, yell, var. Goldie, nice size and grand colour throughout; 5, Mather, Goldie-Bullie, fails in colour as yet, but a grand head and front, will improve; 6, Ness. LINNET (10): 1, McQuiston, topper for colour, grand tone and deep nut-brown throughout, nicely pencilled, fair size, in grand feather, rather low set; 2, Arrighi, the Glasgow winner, bouncer for size and markings, but completely in the shade to-day for colour, grand shapely Linnet; 2, Brown, neat one, shade pale in front, but well marked; 4, Calder, good pencilled bird and nice tone of colour, fails in chest to winners; 5, Boyle; 6, Kerr. GREENFINCH (5): 1, Kelly, gem for size, great depth of colour, splendid shape and position, shade rough in neck yet, easy winner; 2, Paton, nice tone of colour, well made bird, grand feather, fails somewhat in size to winner; 3, Calder, shade larger, nice type, beaten only in finish; 4, Cargill, good coloured one, fair size, but very wild; 5, Kerr, good natural colour, nice body lacks tail feathers. SISKIN (5): 1, Arrighi, the Glasgow winner leading easily, needs no comment; 2, Brown, nice size, well laced in side, dense cap, just fails in bib; 3, Paton, fine deep tone of colour, nicely marked, good laced cap, again failing in bib; 4, Calder, light conditioned bird, of good tone throughout, well laced; 5, Mitchelson, fails colour and condition, but well marked. REDPOLL OR TWITE (12): 1, McQuiston, superb Twite for size and colour, grandly mkd., teaming with quality, well put down; 2, Mather, large mealy Redpoll, bouncer for size, grand feather; 3, McGillivary Bros., good in every way, excelling rather in bib, but fails in quality of feather; 4, Ross, nice Twite, well laced, good size, beaten in colour; 5, 6, Calder. GOLDFINCH (8): 1, McQuiston, good one, dense sized blaze, grand collar and checks, nicely tanned, well up in size, in tip-top form; 2, Thomson, little behind in size of blaze, but a lovely tanned bird, also fails in size of front, in good trim; 3, 6, Ness, grand sized Finch, nice shape, and steady, rather dull in colour yet; 4, Wilson, and Campbell, good all-round Finch, beaten to-day; 5, Arnott. BULLFINCH (9): 1, Duff, nice one, lovely shape, full chested one, good dense cap, well up in colour, in very fine order; 2, McDonald, better in breast colour, but not so stoutly built, good cap and wings, could be shown to better advantage; 3, Thomson, nice type and quality, rather behind in colour yet; 4, Colville and Forsyth, grand shape and lovely cap, in rare trim, fails in size only; 5, Mackie; 6, Wilkinson. GOLDFINCH FOR. (8): 1, Davidson, teaming with quality, rare sheen throughout, dense blaze, of good size, very clear cut and well up in tanning, a beauty; 2, Winter, grand colours on body, well mkd. and nicely cut, fails to winner in face; 3, Arrighi, nice size, well up in colours; 4, Bisset Bros., plenty size; 5, Chalmers Bros.; 6, Chalmers Bros. BULLFINCH FOR. (5): 1, 3, Pendrigh, 1, topper for quality, as tight as wax, grand colour and markings, dense cap, and rare wing bars, in A1 bloom; 3, another hot-coloured one, plenty size, just a little soft; 2, McDonald, good one, lovely order, and very steady, only beaten in density of breast colour; 4, Nicolson, fails in size to winners; 5, Black. BRIT. LARGE (4): 1, 2, Brown, leading with his well-known Missel Thrush, the stormer in tip-top order; 2, good coloured, steady Fieldfare, both Glasgow winners; 3, Gilmour, clinking Hawfinch, nice size and colour, teaming with quality, worthy of its place; 4, McQuiston, Cornish Chough, in first rate order. SMALL (11): 1, McQuiston, good corn Bunting, as steady as a rock, in superb condition; 2, Malcolm, sweet little Willow Warbler, in grand form, well staged; 3, Gray, Yellowhammer, nice one, the best in head markings, good colour and lacing throughout; 4, Storrar, well coloured Chaffinch, steady and in fine feather; 5, Kerr; 6, Paton. FOR. (6): 1, 2, 4, 6, Bisset Bros., leading with good yell. SHEPHERD, Sec.

BELPER.

This year the Belper F.A. again added Cage Birds to their annual show, owing, we believe to the efforts of Mr. Geo. Elkins, who offered (if the committee would add a few classes) to take the sole charge and care of them; and right well did he discharge his duties. Although the classes were not large, none had to be cancelled, and some good quality turned up, and it should be encouraging to the committee to provide classes again next year. The exhibits were nicely staged and formed quite a nice little show of themselves. The secretaries, Messrs. J. W. Waterfall and M. M. Stillmann, carried out the arrangements with every credit to themselves. Mr. J. N. Harrison judged, his awards giving general satisfaction. NOR. A.V. COCK (9): 1, A. Fox, grizzle headed buff, deserved his place, nice quality, well cut away; 2, J. W. Fox, cl. buff, loses in type and general quality; 3, Nutt, Yellow, little rough when we saw him; r, Shaw, clear buff, wants a little more colour; vhc, Nutt. HEN (5): 1, 3, Nutt, Yell., a bouncing dame, full of type and quality; 2, A. Fox, another undeniably sweet hen; r, Alton, var. buff, well up; hc, Shaw; vhc, Ribbit, junr. CANARY, A.V. (except crested) (4): This class should have been worded A.O.V.; consequently Norwich were entered, but the committee allowed the class to stand—wisely we think; 1 and spl, Elkins, cin.-mkd. yell. Yorks; 2, buff Yorks, shown by a young fancier, J. Hibbitt, junr.; 3 and r, Walker, well built buff Nor. and yell. Nor. respectively. MULE (8): Most interesting class; 1, Hodgkinson, Goldie-Bullie, nice little bird in fine form; 2, Poole, Siskin-Greenie, an attractive exhibit, showing a pretty pair of greenie wings; 3 and r, Swift, former sweet little Siskin-Canary, pretty as paint and steady as a rock, latter Goldie-Canary; vhc, Alton, Poole; c, Kinch; all Goldie Canaries. A.V. BRIT. (5): 1, Poole, Black cap, good cap and size, very steady; 2, Gentle Bros., Hawfinch, the Darley Dale winner; 3, Poole, Tree Pipit, well mkd. breast and good colour, but seemed unsteady; r, Hibbett, junr. Bullie, the first attempt by a wee boy, and very creditably shown. SELL. (10s.): 1, Smart, 4 point, Nor., surely not dear; 2, Gentle Bros, yell. Nor; 3, Cliffe, Grey Crest, we took to be a hen; r, Cliffe, Green Crest. NOVICE (limit 20s.) (5): 1, Elkins, yell. Yorks; 2, Spencer Bros, buff Nor; 3, Mrs. Elkins.

TAUNTON.

This annual show was held on October 23rd and 24th in the Corn Exchange, a very suitable building for a show. Only four classes stood, and two of these were amalgamated. The cause of this is not far to seek—no C.B.U. licences and no advertisements in CAGE BIRDS. We trust another year a little more consideration will be given to the cage bird section. The energetic secretaries, Messrs. Scott and Lodge, worked with a will that did them great credit Judge, Rev. Joyce. NOR. CREST AND P. HEAD (amalgamated) (11): 1, 3, Luxton, couple of good Plainheads, winner best shape and carriage, good quality feather, and fairly well cut away behind, staged very neatly, and deserved their cards; 2, Bale, a very useful Variegated Crest-bred, good body and skull, fine texture of feather, in excellent trim; 4, hc, Burgess and Son, very nice Crest-bred, about equal in size and quality of feather, capital head properties; c, Bohhett. YORKS. (8): 1, 3, Webber, winner Yellow, fair head and neck, nice carriage, and splendid feather, we preferred the third exhibit, sweet head and body, lovely feather and style, perhaps hardly so well put down as former bird; 2, Thomas, pretty Yell., fair length and stand, nice carriage of wing and tail, little loose in feather; 4, Broomfield, Tick. Buff, worthy of its card, staged about the best in the class; vhc, Cattle, grizzle mkd., of very fair merit; c, Gelling. A.O.V. cancelled. GOLDFINCH, BULLFINCH, OR MULE, A.V. (13): 1, Paul, Goldfinch Mule, not over large, but sweetly mkd, and in the best of feather and condition throughout; 2, 3, Jupe, Goldfinch, nice size, good square cut blaze, neat buttons, very steady; 3, pretty Bullfinch, nice cap and bars, good breast; 4, Doble and Bennister, light Goldfinch Mule; hc, Panting, Goldfinch; vhc, hc, Fellows; hc, Bowen; c, Richards. BRIT. A.O.V. cancelled. FOREIGN A.O.V. cancelled. CANARY LOCAL (14): 1, Bowerman, prettily marked Nor. Plainhead, good size and shape, neat head and full neck, and capital carriage, inclined to brow, hardly tight enough in feather; 2, vhc, Luxton, another good quality Nor. Plainhead of good size and equal merit throughout; 3, Broomfield, tkd. Yorks, of good length and style, nice feather, and good colour, rather slack at thighs; 4, hc, c, Bourne, dark Crest, not over large, but neat shaped Crest with good centre, very useful specimen, well shown; vhc, Watling.

BATTERSEA.

Compliments and congratulations were ripe on occasion of the second annual open show of the Battersea and Dis. C.B.A. held in one of the splendid rooms at the Town Hall, Oct. 24th and 25th. And those compliments and congratulations were deserved. Luck or ask, a splendid classification had been arranged; next, the list of specials was a long one and the division of them judicious; and thirdly, the entry was about 200 in excess of the previous year. Even these reasons did not constitute the basis of the chief praise bestowed on the worthy secretary, Mr. F. Easterling. It was to be found in the fact that the whole of the prize money was actually dispatched to the winners of the name on the first night of the show? One thing is quite certain, exhibitors at least, will not fail to note this excellent fact. Some had flatly stated that it could not be done. But it was done, and the effects will be felt in the future. The arrangements as to staging were excellent, and the light good. The Secretary acknowledges with thanks the help rendered by Mr. Rennie and other gentlemen, as well as by the Committee and other members, who one and all worked like Trojans to achieve success. The Committee consisted of the following gentlemen:—Messrs. Allen, Beard, Patter, Baker, Goodridge, Goodey, Gooch, Mabey, Lall, Maddison, Honeysett, and Tatt. As an instance of the herculean work accomplished at the last moment, it may be mentioned that after the date for closing, over 500 entries were taken, and Mr. Easterling accepted all fish that came to his net. Mr. Easterling made a special journey to Southend show on the Tuesday to whip up entries, and his persistent and well sustained efforts were rewarded with brilliant success. Birds from Plymouth and Southend were got up in time for the judges, and only one answered too late. During the evening of each day there was a large attendance of fanciers and of the general public. As to the exhibits themselves, it may be said that quality was to the front as well as quantity. In many of the classes competition was very keen, and the duties of the judges were not light. Crests and Crest-breds were not so strong in numbers, but some high-class birds were staged. Norwich Plainheads were a very level and good lot. As to the Yorkshires, they were numerous, stylish and fine in quality. Mr. Mundell may feel satisfied with the entry which faced him—upwards of 200 birds in eleven classes! Is not this evidence of the popularity of the Yorkshire in the South? Southerners have not had many years to wait before making a successful fight with the men of the County of Broad Acres. Some of the specimens shown at Battersea were Al. British birds were fairly large classes, and in many cases the quality was of a high standard. Males were few, and fairly good, and the Foreign class contained some very choice specimens. In the members classes exhibits were to be found so meritorious as to give ground for the belief that many of the members could whip outsiders. Mr. W. Mundell judged Yorkshires, and Mr. Robson the remainder.

Mr. Robson's Classes.

CRESTS (12): 1, hc, Slade, var. dark crest, large and leafy, not yet in full pomp, scarcely full length at sides, trifle open in centre, but smart; 2, Gale, Grizzie Crest, very neat and dense, well formed; 3, Horton, nearly green scarcely so heavy or massive in headgear as first, good bodied, just a little open in crest at centre; 4, Mitchell, cl body, crest of prevailing feather with cl. bodies neat; vhc, Mrs. Haysome, we thought must have pressed 4th hard; c, Radford. CRESTBRED (8): 1, Gale, nearly green, big bodied, rather long than stout, long flights and tail, grand head covered with dense long and wide feather; 2, Horton, heavily vargtd, wide at entrance, nice shape head, but scarcely so long in head feather as winner; 3, Scott, evenly mkd, very attractive in this respect, beautiful body feather, hardly so long in head feather or so dense as leaders; vhc, Mrs. Haysome, very neat vargtd., very fine build, if a hen a good one; hc, and c, Slade. NOR., YELL. CK. (15): 1, Boydon, vargtd, lovely feather and pleasing variegation, nice eye, neat head, feather fitting closely at chest, level in colour, short wings and tail, good one; 2, Miles, another charming bird, good head, bold chest, and all round smart exhibit; 3, Hodder, full of colour, looked like the Southend winner, nice quality, neat head, good chest, might be just a shade shorter in flights and tail; 4, Spall, good chest and head, rich colour; vhc, Hodder, neat, shapely, and possessing high quality of feather; hc, Rennie; c, Mrs. Elsmore. BUFF (18): 1, Hodder, fine type, cobby, well packed feather, good in under colour, flights and tail not too long, taking exhibit; 2, Priestley, shapely, rare head and neck, good quality; 3, Cooper, smaller, grand quality, not so rich in colour, but best quality of feather; 4, Wheeler, for quality and shape as good as any, soft, bloomy feather, rich under, perhaps a bit open at chest, may have kept it back; vhc, Ellis, sweet all round; hc, Marshall; c, Battison. YELL.HEN (10): 1, Ellis, grand shape, somewhat flat in that respect, but good one all round; 2, Rennie, fair for quality of feather, typical, good carriage, neat head and level back; 3, Miles, as well up in colour as some cocks, high quality of feather, trifle strong Norwich in beak; vhc, Matthes, possesses fine carriage and flow, just the quality to breed 'em, good one, we liked; hc, Eastering, rare type; c, Hodder. BUFF HEN (16): 1, Cooper, very chubby, full of quality, will be better yet; 2, Griffin, different stamp of feather, not so full of colour, good type; 3, 4, Hodder, two fine hens, either of which might, without injustice have gone up a peg by reason of their all round feather properties; vhc, Griffin, shapely, rich in quality, and deserving of all it got; hc, Jupe; c, Miles. UNFLI. (13): 1, Rennie, yell., large for that colour in an unfl. bird, very deep and rich in colour, when tightened up ought to make things hum; 2, Cooper, fine colour, beautiful feathers, shone like satin; 3, Bellamy, very neat, hardly so thickset, good colour, just a trifle pinched on head; 4, hc, Hodder, full of quality, wants time; vhc, Marshall; c, Wheeler. OPEN NOVICE. NOR. YELL. CK (6): 1, Barnett, lovely quality and colour, chubby body, neat head; 2, Schofield, good body, possesses quality and colour; 3, Hart, hardly so chubby, but nice feather all through; vhc, Baker and Gooch; hc Lack; c, Colman. BUFF. NOR. (10): 1, Kate, chubby body, fails trifle in head, rich under colour, nice one; 2, Schofield, a bird of fine feather, good in colour; 3, Rogers and Mazzoni, very smart, shorter flights, hardly full yet; vhc, Miss Croft; hc, Yeoman; c, Hart. HENS (9): 1, Barnett, yell., good quality, shapely in body; 2, hc, Hart, again of fine quality and colour; 3, Kates, bonny buff, typical, silky in feather and rich in colour; vhc, Lack; c, Mrs. Litchfield. UNFLIGHTED (8): 1, Kates, buff, typical, good colour under, well mealed; 2, Rees, silky feather, hardly so chubby as might be yet, nice under colour; 3, Acland, possesses colour and quality; vhc, Lack; hc, Mrs. Litchfield; c, Schofield. SELL PAIRS (30s.) (13): 1, Wall; 2, Marshall; 3, Jupe; 4, Green; vhc, c, Sedgwick; hc, Easterling; (20s) (13) 1, Green; 2, Marshall; 3, Easterling; 4, Sedgwick; vhc, Mabey; hc, Rennie; c, Jupe. GOLDFINCH (11): 1, Wickham, repeated its Southend triumph here. Not had—two firsts in three days—really pretty all through, rich in face, best of bars, buttons placed neatly, distinct in whites, steady, burnished; 2, vhc, Maxwell, hardly so rich in colour as yet, but a clean cut well defined little Finch; 3, Sidney, another full-faced Finch, with nice bars and body colour; hc, Francis; c, Vale. BULLFINCH (7): 1, Vincent, very lustrous and pure in colours, fine poll, nice breast, clean beak; feather well packed at rump and thighs; 2, Wyse, similar bird, just a trifle larger, but lacks the colour and lustre of leader; 3, Acland, quite another sort, as large as some natives of other climes, rich in colours, fine poll, dense and lustrous; vhc, Rouse; hc, Brooks; c, Wickham. LINNET (21): A hot lot that needed some sorting, 1, Hurst, rich nutty colour, shone like silk, close and waxy, well mkd, very steady and in fine pomp; 2 and 3, Lovell, two beautiful Linnets, not so rich and nutty as first, but fine shape and well mkd; 4, Vale, darker than 3rd, full of real Linnet character and nicely mkd.; 4, hc, Maxwell, trifle pale, distinct in marking, rare shape and very steady; vhc, Marshall, Prior; c, Prior. REDPOLL SISKIN, OR TWITE (12): 1, vhc, Hurst, beautiful little Siskin, very distinct in markings, rich in colours, and fine cap; 2 and 3, Goodall, grandly mkd, rich nutty coloured Twite in fine feather leading; 4, Maxwell; hc, Francis; c, Prior. A.O.V. HARDBILL (16): 1, Barwell, topping Bawfinch, large well mkd. and in fine feather; 2, 3, Prior, former grandly mkd. lustrous Brambling, latter richly coloured well pencilled yell. Bunting; 4, Miss Brammer, bonny Chaffinch, pert and lustrous, well sheened, nice breast colour; vhc, Vale, rattling Greenfinch; hc, Francis; c, Wickham. SOFTBILL (19): A heavy class to adjudicate upon; 1, Brett, great grey Shrike, real beauty, plumage magnificent, the black was dense and lustrous, the other colours soft and shimmering, lovely eye streaks; 2, Underwood, equally lovely Waxwing; 3, Jones, lustrous Cornish Chough, with rich toned beak colour; 4, Askew, well spotted, steady Song Thrush; vhc, Miss Hopwood, Lewis, Pool, Wither's Bros., hc, Cook; c, Carter. MULES, LIGHT (6): 1, Lamb, 6 pointed Goldfinch-Canary, best of feathers; 2, Beard, very good light Linnet-Canary, well shown; 3, Heppel, Goldfinch-Canary; vhc, McMarnes; hc, Shaik. DARK (13): 1, Marshall, lovely dark Goldfinch-Canary; 2, and 4, hc, c, Lamb, Siskin-Goldfinch, very pretty; 3, Cutting, Redpoll-Greenfinch; vhc, Wyse; hc, Marshall. FOREIGN: 1, Maxwell; 2, vhc, Townsend; 3, vhc, Dewhurst; 4, Conway-Gordon; vhc, Cook; hc, Hodkin, Brammer; c, Wakeford. POTTERIES.

Potteries and Dis. C.B.A. held their sixth annual show on October 23rd and 24th, at the Red Lion Hotel, Stoke-on-Trent. The show room is a capital one, well lighted, and free from draughts. Special staging was provided, enabling visitors to see the birds to the best advantage. Entries did not come up to expectations considering the excellent schedule sent out, but the quality throughout was very good. Norwich classes contained some excellent specimens, staged by Messrs. Hall, Sandiford, Rathbone, Barker, and Abbot, Lingard, Pitchford, Roberts, Weaver, Clunn and Croucher. The winning Yellow hen was voted a clinker and Mr. Vardy said the unflighted classes would compare for quality with any he had seen this season, the winning Yellow (a member's exhibit) taking special for best Nor. in the show. Yorkshires were hardly so good as usual, still, a few good ones turned up, the most successful exhibitors in this section being Messrs. Hawley, Simcock, Dykes, Howes, Timmis and Goldstraw. Mules or Hybrids were a warm lot, and attracted considerable attention amongst visitors. The winner, a Goldie-Bullie, has a lovely face, and grand feather. British were also nice classes for quality, the winning Goldie and Linnet being much admired. The winner in 12/6 selling class fetched 22/-. Members classes contained many choice specimens, and the quality surprised not a few. In these classes was found the winner of CAGE BIRDS Competition, a very fine unfli. Yell. Yorkshire, shown by Mr. J. Simcock, the best second to Mr. J. Pitchford's unfli. Yell. Nor., and best third to same owner's Linnet-Bullfinch. Mr. J. Sandiford won spl. for most points in show, Hyde's fell to Mr. Pitchford, and Sandiford's to Mr. Hall. The management was everything that could be desired. The Chairman, Mr. T. Hawley, was in charge, and was assisted by a hard-working committee, including Messrs. J. Rathbone, J. Pitchford, R. Hall, W. Roberts, G. E. Goodall, T. Ibbs, H. Oakes, T. Evans, J. Edwards, W. Key, C. Birks, G. Hughes, H. Perrins, and W. Yates. Mr. J. Simcock fulfilled the duties of secretary in a most able manner. Yorkshires were judged by Mr. F. Bate, the remainder by Mr. W. Vardy. NOR. YELL. DUNSTABLE.

A highly successful event was Dunstable and Dist, F.S. 14th annual exhibition, in the Town Hall, on October 24th. To the energetic and fancier-like spirit of the committee, and the untiring efforts of Mr. E. F. Ball, the hon. sec., this result is mainly due. But then, Mr. Ball is an experienced fancier and knows the secretarial ropes to perfection. The Town Hall was taxed to its utmost capacity to hold all the exhibits, which included poultry and fur in addition to cage birds, but the stewards of our section made the best possible provision for the cage birds. Judging was carried out in an excellent light, and everything passed off satisfactorily in that respect. The list of specials was a good one, and the competition very keen. The members' cup was won by Mr. F. Webb, with a rich coloured Ticked Yellow Norwich Plainhead, of rattling shape, lovely quality, and well staged. The runner-up was Mr. F. J. Webb, with a very nice Yorkshire. For Hyde's special there were not enough competitors, so it fell through. Specials for best cage bird in the show and for best members' cage bird (cup winner barred) were won by Mr. E. Bloomfield with a very promising Crest that should improve as time goes on. This bird has a leafy, veiny crest of nice shape and good substance, well formed. The quality throughout was good, and considering the glut of shows just now, and the fact that Dunstable was limited to certain counties, the entry was a good one. Mr. Geo. Gardner judged, and his awards were well received. NOR. CL. BUFF CK. (9): 1, Webb, good shape, fine feather texture, nice under-colour, well staged; 2, Goodall, close on the heels of first, and very much like it (a close race this), beautiful feather, nice colour and mealing; 3, Wilmot, typical bird of lovely flowing feather, neat head, very silky, but lacks the under-colour of the leaders; 4, Ward, fine type again, and nice quality, but inclined to be open just a little at shoulders; vhc, hc, Ward; c, Spall. A.O.V., CK. (13): 1, spl, 2, c, F. Webb, the leader a grand shaped Cl. Yell., fine head, high quality of feather, not the hottest, but all round a bonny bird; second another Yell., vgtd., full of quality and very warm and level in colour; third Gentle, Tick Buff, typical, nice under-colour and meal, a good one; 4, Pedder, Vgtd. Yell., a gold mine in a breeding cage; vhc, c, Ward. NOR. HEN, A.V. (9): 1, Goodall, Yell., charming, fine shape and ladylike deportment, feather very silky and colour good; 2, Gentle, Yell., tick on wing, not quite the substance, but equal in quality, a good one; 3, F. Webb, Buff of fine shape and nice quality; 4, Wilmot, another Yell., good body, but seems to fail a trifle in head to leaders, yet a sweet bird; vhc, hc, c, Ward. CREST or C.B. (9): 1, 2 spls. 3, 4, vhc, Bloomfield, rattling team, the winner taking specials as noted above; 2, hc, Kilpin, the former very stylish oval-crested bird with nice lay and droop, well packed centre, not so massive as some or leafy, but put down in rare order, and gave the winner a good race for honours to-day. YORKS. (14): 1, c, Sweetman, the winner a slashing Yorks, nice quality, colour, and style; 2, 3, 4, F. Webb, a good team, birds of style and quality; vhc, Sapwell; hc, Young. BRIT. A.V. (15), and a difficult lot to judge: 1, Osborn, Chaffinch, of the correct colours, not quite steady, but very beautifully mkd. and sheened, not yet at its best; 2, Timmis, very steady Goldfinch, not yet in full colour on blaze or up in bloom, but a good one when fully fit; 3, Smith, Pipit, nice markings and tame; 4, F. Webb, Yell. Bunting, steady, not quite so rich as some in colour; vhc, Goodall; hc, Eling; c, Wilmot. NOVICE (8): 1, Rhodes, very nice Buff Nor.; 2, no name, ditto; 3, Thring; 4, Dillingham; hc, Dr. Rose; c, Dillingham. CUP CLASS A.V. (members) (10): Cup, 3, hc, F. Webb, winner already described; 3, another Nor., but not the quality of first, yet good; 2, F. J. Webb, very smart Yorkie, good in quality and nice stand; 4, Sapwell, also a smart Yorkie; vhc, c, Ward.

SOUTH SHIELDS.

The fifth annual exhibition of the above Society was held in the Congregational Hall, on October 25th and 26th, and with the single exception of light, which is not over good, the room is a very suitable one for the purpose, being lofty, well ventilated, and spacious. The staging was well arranged, so that most of the birds on show could be examined without inconvenience to visitors, of which a goodly number, both local and from many of the Northern towns, were in attendance. The show was held under the patronage of the Northern Crest Club, Northern Yorkshire Canary Club, Border Counties, Norwich and Cinnamon Club, Northern British Bird, Mule, and Foreign Bird Club, and had the patronage, as well as the support in the way of handsome subscriptions of many of the leading gentlemen of the district, and this, along with a capital entry of 050 exhibits and a splendid gate should put our South Shields friends on the best of terms with themselves, as the show was in every respect a grand success. Mr. Duke, the courteous, obliging, and hard-working secretary, had his part of the duties well in hand, whilst the staging and feeding were well carried out by a hard-working and enthusiastic committee. Where all did so well, it is hardly necessary to single out any individual, as all seemed determined to do the best possible to care for the birds under their charge. In the Norwich Plainhead section, six classes were provided, the response being 85, just over 14 per class. These classes, thought not so strong numerically as one would have liked to see them, contained quality of the highest order, many of the birds being splendid in type and brimful of quality, especially was this the case with the teams put down to Messrs. Grey, Godley, and Harland, the winners being capital specimens of the variety, while Messrs. Haigh and Son won with a typical youngster in the unflighted class. The Crest section was only moderate in numbers, but quality was of the best. Special mention might be made of the young Crest exhibited in the 1907 class by Mr. T. Taylor, which won the open special given by Messrs. Hyde. We were informed that having won the N.C.C. medal, it was not eligible to again compete until the club show. Had it not been so, it would have been quite capable of repeating its Newcastle performance. It is indeed a marvel and a credit to the skilful breeding. It carries an immense crest with no trace of the coarseness sometimes seen in this variety, good in shape all round, and particularly strong droop and frontal; it is well worth a long journey to see. Many other birds in this variety were magnificent specimens; the winners of Messrs. Armstrong, W. J. Taylor, Stoves, and Lister were all birds of great merit, and were worthy of much better competition. Cinnamons came up fairly well. Messrs. Godley and Dormer put down teams of splendid colour, and caried off most of the spoil. The Borders, with their neat and natty appearance, were fairly well represented with 31 in three classes. Messrs. Bennet, Currah and Son, and Hopper Bros. being well to the fore. Yorkshires, with 64 in five classes, were a nice lot, good birds being staged by Messrs. Ambler, Whiting, Wilcock, Cuthbertson, Stewart, Ellis, Richardson, and Groundill. Mules were only fair, Mr. W. J. Taylor capturing most of the prizes. Hard-billed British came up well, with the exception of Goldfinches and Greenfinches, Mr. R. J. Howe putting out a fine team, and standing first in three out of the five classes. Soft-bills were only fair, Mr. Howe again winning in both classes. Foreign were a nice lot, and greatly admired. The judges were Messrs. H. W. Battye (Canaries), F. Marwood (British, Foreign, and Mules).

SCOTTISH METROPOLITAN O.A.

The Scottish Metropolitan O.A. show was held in the Shepherd's Hall, Victoria Street. The entry was far short of what it has been, but this was compensated for by the quality of the exhibits, which was most excellent. Mr. McClure, of Glasgow, deservedly won the chief honours for the best young birds with his foul Buff cock, and the Yellow hen—admittedly the best young birds bred this season. The size of the exhibits was most satisfactory, that being a marked feature in the old birds shown. The hall was too obscure and small for an open show; the cages had a packed appearance, and the floorage accommodation was limited. The Clear and Foul specimens were classified together, which arrangement was received with disfavour, and was considered a mistake, both classes being strong in quality; the result was that many were unable to put in an appearance. The President, Mr. Wright, did his best for the interest of the society. Mr. McDonald is a first-rate secretary, and could, with ease, have managed a much larger entry. He is most courteous, and his good lady and household took an active part in the show. He deserves great credit for the admirable arrangements, and the one regret is that he had not a real open show to handle. A better committee than Messrs. Hope, Gorrie, Ballantyne and Meikie could not be brought together; they are all genuine and enthusiastic fanciers. The entries (including 14 Belgians) were 168, or an average of 10 per class. The judges, Messrs. A. Hamilton, Thos. Braid, D. Brown, J. McLennan, got through their work smartly, and almost without exception the awards seemed to be all that could be desired. YELL COCK, CL. OR FOUL (14): 1, King, champion, massive frame, erect, decided drive, nice droop, prominent shoulder, beautiful front and feather, long rib, wing and tail, graceful in movement, an easy win; 2, Hope, grand size, decided drive, good shoulder, side and wing, beautiful condition; 3, Allan, another beauty, correct type, fine action; 4, Graham, erect, fine drive, droop and shoulder; 5, McAdam, again nearing grand rolled-over type, in the best of company; 6, Brown and Whippet, splendid shape and substance; 7, Roger; 8, McClure; 9, Thornton; 10, Whitefield; 11, Wynnes. HEN (17): 1, McClure, perfect gem, erect, decided drive, grand free neck and droop, sweet body, good shoulder and front, smooth in feather, a beauty in lovely plumage; 2, McMillan, erect, decided drive, grand shoulder, body wing and tail, fine action; 3, Carlaw, beauty, fine size and style, really good all round; 4, Forrest, superior type, smart, good body, drive and droop; 5, McAdam, very stylish, good body, wing and tail, quick in movement; 6, Hope, in excellent company, good all over bird; 7, Blair, grand type; 8, McVie; 9, Dalgleish; 10, Young; 11, Wynnes. WIMBORNE.

Cage birds were staged in the balcony of the Victoria Hall, with good top light and free from draught, just the hall for a cage bird show. This should be borne in mind another year by cage bird exhibitors, also that the committee paid full prizes money where there were only five entries in a class. The energetic secretary, Mr. W. St. Bell, is to be congratulated on the manner in which he carried out the arrangements for the show, backed up by the efforts of a hard-working committee, consisting of Messrs. E. Whitley, Baker, H. Mead, C. Cree, E. N. Driver, J. Fair, H. Goodland, W. T. Hoare, W. J. Jebbitt, F. S. Miller, H. Prosser, S. Thomas and A. H. Brown, assistant secretary. Mr. G. Bond judged, and we heard no adverse comment. NORWICH CL. YELL: cancelled. CORRESPONDENCE.

ROLLER CANARY BREEDING.

SIR,—Seeing a letter in CAGE BIRDS from Mr. H. Hailey on hatching in October, I write to say that I can break his record. I paired a couple of Roller Canaries together—Variegated hen and a Yellow male—in April, 1906. First setting of eggs was in September (never despair!); second setting, October. Both lots died a week old, I think through taking the male bird away each time. The third setting came off November 13th, two birds being hatched. I left the male with them, and two strong birds they have grown up to be. Does this break the record?

SOFT MOULT.

SIR,—Having read the paragraph in last week's issue of CAGE BIRDS respecting the cause of the above complaint, I felt that I must write a few lines stating my own experience, having been a breeder of Crested Canaries for nine years. I leave home at eight o'clock in the morning, and do not return until nine o'clock at night, so am unable to feed my birds until after that hour. I can say that I have never had a bird go into soft moult, so that I cannot quite agree with "Old Hand," although I do not wish to infer that his suggestion is not good. This season I have reared 25 young birds, all of which are strong and healthy, cold-room bred. JAS. BROWN.

BORDER FANCIES IN SOUTH WALES.

SIR,—Will you kindly permit me to draw the attention of Border Fancy breeders to the effort of the Swansea and District C.B.S. to popularise our little pet down in South Wales? After the excellent support we received last year we have extended the classification, and by the assistance of a few breeders of the wee gem we have been able to get a good list of specials together, hoping that our friends in the North will give us their support. I can assure them their most valuable specimens will have my greatest attention, and by the courtesy of our show managers I have secured permission to raise all birds for the North in time to catch the North express which leaves here 7 p.m. and arrives at Glasgow 6.45 a.m.

SEX OF THE ROSEATE COCKATOO.

SIR,—I notice in "Questions and Answers" columns of your issue of October 19th, your Mr. Page states that "sufficient data is not yet to hand, even at the British Museum, to form a correct opinion as to the outward sexual distinctions of this species." Now, if the Roseate Cockatoo is not the Rosy or Rose-breasted Cockatoo, I humbly apologise for interfering. But if they are all one and the same bird, Mr. Page and the British Museum must be about 23 years behind the times. Although Mr. Gedney bred the Rosy Cockatoo, he does not seem to have noticed the difference in the sex. It is 25 years ago that I had a pair in one of my aviaries go to nest, and I then noticed the difference in the sex, and, being frequently corresponding with Dr. Greene at that time, I told him about it He mentioned it in his "Parrots in Captivity," but did not state whence he got his information. I have found in my long experience with birds that practical experience is left unnoticed, unless a man has a string of letters after his name.

THE RIGHT CLASS FOR TANAGERS

SIR,—In your issue of October 5th Mr. Page told a correspondent that a Scarlet Tanager should go in a class for "Foreigners larger than a Cardinal." I have exhibited Scarlet Tanagers for many years, but never heard of such a thing before. In fact, if you refer to any of the old catalogues of the Crystal Palace Show you will find them entered in class "Not larger than Blue Robin," and there is a very considerable difference in the size of a Blue Robin and Red Cardinal, or Virginian Nightingale. I have always shown a Scarlet Tanager in class "not larger than Cardinal," and think Mr. Page must have written that answer without giving it that careful consideration which I am sure he usually does, for I find his answers week by week one of the most interesting parts of CAGE BIRDS. I may say I have over 30 Scarlet Tanagers now, every bird of which has been in my possession over six months, and some of them several years. I have seen it stated in print several times that these birds change colour with the seasons. Whatever they do in their wild state, they certainly retain their brilliant colour in captivity. I have kept one seven years, and it has never gone out of colour.

ALLEGED SHOCKING TREATMENT OF SHOW BIRDS.

SIR,—I sincerely hope no other fancier's birds shared the same fate as mine did on the return journey from Plymouth Show (held October 22nd and 23rd). On the 24th I sent my man to the station to meet the 10.40 and 11.43 a.m. trains, and I went myself to meet the 2.50 p.m. train, but no birds arrived. Having to go on to Bristol on important business I left a lad with a trap at the station to wait for the 3.22 p.m. train, by which the birds arrived. On opening one case, containing four cages and five birds, my wife was horrified to find all five of the poor birds dead, and the cages smashed all to atoms, lying on top of the birds. The birds had been dead some time. One bird had a splinter of one of the cages stuck into it. Of course, I at once took them to the stationmaster, who was as much horrified as my wife and self, as also were several of the railway officials at the sight. One Buff bird had won seven prizes for me. What I cannot understand is how on earth the cages were smashed and the birds all killed (the cages full of feathers), when the case containing them was intact. In fact, it was not scratched. It certainly looks to me like wilful damage. I can only say I should like to have been near my pets when it was going on. I hope my Bristol friend, Mr. Lovell's, birds reached home safe.

PROTECTION FOR CAGED BIRDS.

SIR,—Kindly allow me to speak in the interest and welfare of our caged pets. Your correspondent, "On the Watch Tower," set me thinking hard on the subject of small cages, as used for Linnets and the like. Many times I have wondered if nothing could be done to stamp out the evil, and "On the Watch Tower," by his able remarks of condemnation against small cages, roused me to action. I sent a letter to the "Scarboro' Post," and I trust, Mr. Editor, you will copy it for me in your widely circulated paper, "C.B.," in the hope that someone will take the matter in hand and do a good work by bringing about the much-needed reform. Here is the letter:—"Sir,—Kindly allow me a little space in your paper to bring before the Scarborough Branch of the R.S.P.C.A. that it would be well for them to take in hand, and take steps to stamp out, a long practised form of cruelty—that of caging Linnets and the like in small cages. Surely to cage a bird in a space of 8 x 7 x 5 inches, and in many cases less, is an act of cruelty. I have a linnet in a cage 15 x 10 x 9 inches, and I'm sure that with the addition of freshly-gathered wild seeds and green stuffs I get him in season, added to his staple food, he is as comfortably off, and, during the winter months more so, than he probably would be in his wild state. What is wanted to remedy the evil of small cages is a Caged Birds' Protection League, formed by a body of Christian workers. Such a League could use a lot of influence in urging the Wild Birds Protection Society to extend their powers and fix a minimum size for Finch cages at 15 x 10 x 9 inches. And make it a fineable offence for anyone using smaller. This is a work that all who have the interest of bird life at heart could do their part by giving information to such League of any or all cases that come to their notice."

I would like to ask if there are any readers of "C.B." who could give their opinion as to the practicability of such a League as I suggest. If one is formed, I will do all I can in helping it on.

GOOD MANAGEMENT AT BATTERSEA SHOW.

SIR,—I think great credit is due to Mr. Easterling and his helpers for the able manner in which the Battersea Show was conducted last week. It was a pleasure to visit the show and see how well the birds were staged and cared for. There was a most agreeable temperature kept up throughout the show, which must been very beneficial to the birds, and prize money paid out on the first day of the show. This admirable way of conducting a show will conduce, I feel sure, to the lasting success of the Battersea Society.

THE TESTIMONIAL TO MR. T. SMITH (GLASGOW).

SIR,—Kindly announce that the following additional subscriptions have been received:—Walter Gibb (Wishaw), 5s.; J. A. Stewart (Glasgow), 5s.; J. Avunot (Sanchie), 5s.; W. Menzies (Johnston), 2s. 6d.; C. Bell (Mayhill), 2s. 6d. It has been settled to have the presentation in the Bank Restaurant, Queen Street, Glasgow, on Friday, November 15th. Tickets 6d. each, which includes one refreshment. Tickets can be had from the joint secretaries. This takes the form of a smoking concert, and we shall be pleased to have a full audience. Any who still wish to subscribe to presentation will yet be in time.

THE JUDGING OF NOVICE YORKSHIRES.

Just a Reminder to the Judge.

SIR,—When he starts in the open with the Clears, about eight in each class, what pains he takes to see that none have a tick. Oh, how minutely he examines them; then he goes on to the ticked or unevenly marked class. Here he looks to be sure that no Clears go through, and he is so intent on the tick that he forgets that the unevenly marks are in the same class. Then he goes on to the next class at which he works with all his might and main. At last he comes to the novice classes, about twenty or thirty in each class. The Cream! The classes which make the show pay. Here he walks round them and picks about seven birds out, and, methinks, he says to himself, "I'll stick those seven anywhere, just as I pick them up," and in this way he judges the six novice classes, with twenty or thirty in each class, quicker than he judges the first two classes in open, with only eight or nine in each class. That is, he can judge 120 birds in novice sooner than he can judge 16 birds in open class. It seems very strange to me, but I have known birds win nearly every time out in open class, under different judges, then be shown in novice, and not get a card. Very strange indeed. Then, again, I have known birds shown in the novice class, and never get higher than a third prize, and oftener out altogether, but the very first time they are shown in open, where judges pay strict attention, or more so, to their duties, there they get first, and are claimed at catalogue price. Oh, how different things are now. That bird, which has been shunned and buffeted about in novice, and called too small for anything, now is exalted in open. The size is not to be compared to his gentlemanly appearance. Sir, on behalf of the novices, may I say we should be better satisfied if the judge would pay a little more attention to our specimens.—HENRY KAYE.

PROPOSED NEW SOCIETY FOR LEWISHAM, LEE & DISTRICT.

SIR,—I have been approached by several birdy friends that to fill a long felt want a Cage Bird Society is needed in Lewisham, Lee, Catford and district. Will any fanciers in these districts meet on Monday evening, November 4th, at eight o'clock, at 202, High Street, Lewisham, to see what can be done to form such a society?

CAN PIGEONS SWIM?

SIR,—I have taken your interesting paper for a considerable time now, and have read very many strange doings of birds in it; perhaps the following will interest your readers, for what I saw was quite a surprise to me. A few days ago I was passing between two reservoirs near Stockport when I saw a Pigeon hovering over the water, and near the centre of one of them, at a height of five or six feet. I watched the bird for a minute or two, and it gradually got lower and finally settled on the water, put its head down as though drinking or picking something up, and then jumped up and flew away. It seemed quite accustomed to this sort of thing. At the time there was a breeze blowing and a nice ripple on the water. When the Pigeon settled on the water it placed its wings together in the usual way, and was carried on the top of three or four wavelets before it flew away. I shall be pleased to know, through your paper, if anyone can tell me whether this is an uncommon thing with Pigeons, as I have never seen anything like it before.

HYBRIDS AND TAMING WILD BIRDS.

With Some Tales of the "Good Old Days."

SIR,—Surely the years 1886 and 1887 must have been glorious years for Hybrid breeders, according to some writers to your valuable paper and others, for during the last two years I have read of Chaffinch and Canary, Yellow Hammer and Canary, and many other crosses never seen or heard of nowadays. This week I read of the Robin-Canary cross having been got, but, again, that happened twenty years ago. A gardener I know tells me that when he was a youth he caught a winged Chaffinch in the garden and took it home, putting it in a cage with a hen Canary. This was in September, 1886. In the following May there were four eggs; all turned out clear. The following nest had four eggs, and three young were hatched and reared—very pretty, two fairly light. The first died at three months, the last two at eight and ten months old. Neither himself nor his father ever showed birds in their lives. I also know an old man who says he put two Yellow-Hammer's eggs under a sitting Canary and hatched a male and female, which were reared. The following season he again paired the male to a Canary. Result, four young reared, which he sold at 25s. each. Why then and not now? This year, from two pairs, Chaffinch-Canary, I have had 43 eggs, only one fertile, with a fully-formed chick, I would say, of twelve days' growth. Last year I had 47 eggs, and two fertile, but both died in the shell. I never separate them throughout the year. I also had a Yellow-Hammer cock paired with a Canary a dozen times in front of me, but the mating produced no fertile eggs. I notice one reader of your valuable paper anxious how to tame British wild birds. I find no trouble with nineteen out of twenty. Most people believe in a small box cage, and hanging it low where the people are frequently passing. My system is quicker, and saves them wasting their feathers. A newly caught bird I take home and provide with a cage 2ft. long, 15ins. high, 10ins. back to front, with plenty of sand and various seeds in small tins inside, and water also inside, and hang it up in a light corner for two days, where it can't see the outdoor surroundings. By that time it has settled from fright and shock. Then place it in an old cage of equal size, and, with the use of a spray, gently but thoroughly wet it, especially the wings and tail. Run any remaining water out of the cage, and place one of your tamest Canaries in along with it. Then, putting the cage on a table, or such like, spend 15 to 30 minutes talking to the bird, near by. It soon gains confidence, seeing no harm befell it when it was helpless and at your mercy. This treatment repeated for six or eight days generally tames the wildest of birds. Then hang them with the Canary in a position where they see the members of the family passing, which keeps them very steady. But don't forget to give them a bath or good spraying. The bath or spray should be used in the morning, not later than midday at this season of the year.

EGGS IN SEPTEMBER.

SIR,—I have been very interested in reading the correspondence on eggs in September in your valuable paper, CAGE BIRDS, and I thought perhaps my experience might interest some of your numerous readers. First of all, I must congratulate you on the rapid progress that CAGE BIRDS has made since I have taken it, just over three years ago, through a specimen copy coming to a brother bird fancier. I have lent some of my papers to others, and now they take them in regularly, and, like me, look forward to them every Friday. I paired up at the end of March and the beginning of April eight hens with three cocks. They are Norwich Crests, Crest-breds and Plainheads, and from the eight hens in the first round I had just forty eggs, from which 38 young ones were hatched and two died in the shell. I only had one bad feeder, and she was a Crested hen; she laid the smallest lot of eggs, only three, hatched three young, and let them die. Another hatched six young, three of them staying in the nest after they were feathered; so I took them out and found that they had their feet turned back the wrong way. I fixed their feet in cardboard, but they did not get on fast enough for me, and as I don't believe in having cripples in the bird room I killed them, getting the other 32 safely on the sticks. Out of the three cock birds I only had one feeder, and he would only feed the young from one hen, although he was paired to three of them; six of them therefore brought up their own young alone, and one let them die. My worst trouble was feather-plucking, with a few of the hens. As soon as the feathers began to grow they pulled them out for their second nest. I put the cock birds back to them, and gave them fresh nest boxes, together with building material, but that made matters worse. One hen, I noticed, was feeding a young one on the perch, and the cock flew straight at it and knocked it to the bottom of the cage, and started pulling it about.

I tried hanging them in front of the breeding cages, but the hens neglected them; so I took the cock birds out, except the feeder, and left the young ones to chance. The result was I had several birds without tails and with back feathers pulled out, and a lot of eggs laid in the bottom of the cage. Some of the hens brought up their young splendidly, and never pulled out a feather. In the second round I did worse, owing to the hens laying too quickly, dropping their eggs in the bottom of the cage. I had a lot of clear eggs, however, and the young ones came chiefly in twos and threes, with the exception of two hens, which had five and six. The Crested hen allowed hers to die just as in the first nest, but altogether I managed to rear 21.

On the third round I was served just the same with the plucking and clear eggs, although the Crested hen brought up two young ones from four. I then fixed a round piece of wood in the bottom of the nest box, so that she could not get down tight on them, and she brought them up. I believe nervousness was the cause of her letting the others die, as she was very young. Altogether I managed 18 in the third round, and two hens brought up nine of them, some of the hens having only one in a nest; but I let them bring them up as they hatched them out. This was about the middle of July, and all my large cages were overcrowded with birds, so I killed off my fowls and built a wire flight, turning about 40 of the young ones into it, together with six of the old hens. Two of those that had bred the most young were on with their fourth nests, and brought up 11 young ones between them, making me a total of 82 birds I was sorry then that I did not join your canary breeding competition. Out of the 82 birds the hen (with the cock bird to help her feed) brought up 20. They had two nests with six in each and two of four each, and on the third round she laid her three eggs, and started sitting when her young were just a fortnight old; so that I had two nests of young hatched in a month from one pair of birds. The cock bird finished feeding the young, and used to feed her while she was sitting, and her sister brought up 18 out of the total, two nests of five and two of four in each. It was the end of August when she finished her fourth nest, and then she was determined to have another, so I put a large Yellow cock Greenfinch with her, and she laid four eggs. I let her sit about a week and found they were clear, so I caught her and put her with the young ones in the outside aviary, and in the fourth week in September I found her with a nest and three eggs on a ledge behind the door. I caught her, threw her eggs out, and pulled out her tail feathers one at a time, and that started her off moulting. It was her sixth nest for the season, so one with the other they have not done so badly.

TROUBLES OF THE WANDSWORTH & DIST. F.A. OPEN SHOW.

SIR,—We announced some time ago that the above society would hold its annual open show at the Town Hall, High Street, Wandsworth, but on the Town Hall Committee of the Council sitting after the vacation, it declined to let the hall for the purpose of a fanciers' show. Application was then made for the Baths, but was again refused; a similar application for Munt's Hall, Clapham Junction, followed, but the proprietors declined. We also tried for our last year's hall, the Assembly Rooms, Wandsworth, but as they were let on a year's tenancy, we were again disappointed. We then sought the Assembly Rooms, Putney, with a like result. A very large borough like Wandsworth without a suitable place to hold a fanciers' show is a lamentable fact. We are inclined to think the Council are treating us very unfairly, particularly as they let the Town Hall for flower shows, and I do not think that we should make any more mess than a flower show. Other Town Halls are let for the purpose, then why not Wandsworth? We do not want to move out of the borough of Wandsworth, as it is called, but shall be compelled to if we cannot get a suitable place to hold our show. At our last meeting it was proposed to let an open show drop for this year, as the dates given for the holding of it, December 3rd and 4th, being so close, there would not be time, and a thing only half done is better left alone entirely.

THE RECENT DULWICH SHOW

SIR,—I was never more surprised and disgusted to read of the alleged bad management at the late Dulwich Show. Mr. Reeves says in his letter that some of the birds were dead, and that he would not be surprised to hear of more dying after reaching their owners. I can say in one case he is quite right. Mr. Brundel (Norwich) entered three birds in the Lancashire classes, one of which arrived home in a very bad state of collapse, and died a few hours later. This was a young bird, which left Norwich in the pink of condition. I may say these birds did not reach home until late Saturday evening. I think every fancier should join with me in thanking Mr. Reeves for his letter.

ALLEGED LACK OF MANAGEMENT AT DULWICH & PECKHAM SHOW.

SIR,—Your correspondent, J. E. Reeves, must have been in a very excitable and ungenerous mood when she penned the epistle of abuse and exaggerated statements re the late Dulwich and Peckham Show, published in your last week's issue, but my surprise and indignation were somewhat modified when, on referring to the list of exhibitors, I found our antagonistic critic was of the feminine gender. I felt inclined to ignore her brilliant effusion, but the charges brought, I venture to think, were the promptings of some disappointed exhibitor who, not wishing to gain the prominence that Mrs. Reeves now enjoys, persuaded her, and perhaps not unwillingly, to enter upon a war of words with the officials of the above Society. Hence my hesitation in replying to the same, knowing full well from experience (being a married man) that it will be quite impossible for me to obtain the last word in what I fear will be a lengthened controversy. But to the point. Your correspondent states that she saw hundreds of birds packed under the staging. Does she mean that these birds were not unpacked from their cases? I feel sure her eyes must have tremendous magnifying powers; why not have said that there were eleven hundred birds on the floor more than were entered? I can name several who personally saw that every bird was watered and fed when unpacked, and who were continually going throughout the show on the look-out for any bird that might have been overlooked. I might here mention that on the second day several fanciers, including myself, were in the hall early, and every bird attended to; and far from hearing that many birds arrived home dead, I have received numerous letters stating that the birds arrived home none the worse. Of course, as every exhibitor knows, occurrences such as that of a bird raving, or in a fit, or even dying, during a show do crop up, but, sweet madam, you cannot blame the officials for that. For the information of all, it may be said that four birds died during the show, two foreigners, one British (a Nightingale), and a Border, which arrived soft. Every attention was given to these birds; in fact, two were taken home by members, who used every effort to save them, but without avail. The bad light your correspondent refers to is what, if she is going to be an exhibitor this year, she will have to contend with at most shows held in the dark days of the forthcoming months. That our judges gave satisfaction I gain from the little adverse criticism heard. I can scarcely bring myself to believe that the C.B.U. representative said any such thing as stated, for he knows full well that whatever he suggested was carried out, and, having had the pleasure of knowing this gentleman for a considerable period, I feel sure that as a fancier, if he had seen any birds without water, he would not have waited to ask me or anyone else; he would have given it them himself. The Mr. C—— Mrs. J. E. Reeves refers to is quite capable of looking after himself; at least, that is my opinion, and he requires no lady champion. Further, if Mrs. Reeves can prove her statement that there were twenty birds absent from judging I will give, although not a rich man, £1 to the Lord Mayor's Crippled Children's Fund. I don't wish to infer that there were not one or two overlooked through someone's carelessness in one class, but the owners will be compensated in this case. Instead of an officer for the prevention of cruelty to animals being present, as your correspondent suggests, I think the officials required an officer for prevention to cruelty to human beings to protect them from being worried to death by irate exhibitors like your correspondent. However, I trust that if she has anything very bad to say against the Dulwich and Peckham C.B.S., when she attends her place of worship next Sunday, and asks for forgiveness for her sins, that our Society will be foremost in her thoughts when she repeats the words, "Forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those that trespass against us."

G. F. WOOLHOUSE.

P.S.—I have missed one point, namely, the statement that a female knocked over seven cages with her skirt. It seems most remarkable to all concerned that, despite exhaustive enquiries, no one else saw this catastrophe.

COLOURS FOR SHOW CAGES.

SIR,—This will be a question of moment to many fanciers just now in cases where the choice of colour to be used is not limited by the rules of cage bird societies. In every case where a regulation exists concerning the colour it should be observed by all right-thinking men, but when the individual is left freedom of choice, one is certainly justified in adopting a tint that will show up the colour of the exhibit to the greatest advantage, providing always that one avoids striking peculiarities which may give rise to charges of fraudulent motives. There is no question as to the wisdom of adhering as far as possible to uniformity of design and colour of show cages, but at the same time it cannot be denied that the regulation blues, which do duty for most, if not all, varieties of Canaries, fail to secure the same effect for the varied type and colours of British and foreign birds. Let one try the effect of a light neutral blue-grey for very dark plumed birds such as the Blackbird or Starling; for light grey-green, sometimes called a sage green, from the fact that it nearly resembles the colour of the under-surface of a sage leaf, for birds with light brown or cinnamon coloured plumage, of which the Thrush or Hawfinch may be given as a convenient type; and for birds with light, delicately pencilled greys harmonising with white portions of plumage a warm shade of autumn green will give a fine effect. One needs only to prepare a cage of each type and compare the effect of a bird of the variety it is intended for with the effect of the same bird in the ordinary type of cage to appreciate the difference. It is not easy to describe the exact tone of colour to use, but by giving the class to which a colour belongs it will not be very difficult to tell the exact tint which is most suitable by examining a colour card, which is issued gratis by any large firm of paint and enamel makers.

HATCHING IN OCTOBER.

SIR,—Kindly insert the following in CAGE BIRDS and add to the records of hatching in October. I have two pairs of my breeding stock of 1906 Norwich still breeding, thus making the sixteenth round this season. On September 24th the hens were set down on five eggs each, and on October 8th they hatched four and two youngsters respectively, the remaining four eggs were all fertile, but the young died in the shells. Both cocks are full in moult, and they are feeding the young splendidly on various kinds of seeds and the usual fare. When you take into consideration the long nights—6 p.m. to 6 a.m.—to be without food in a room full north, with no artificial heat, it is really wonderful how they survive, under such adverse conditions.

Norwich. J. W. KINGSMILL.

BREEDING IN OCTOBER.

SIR,—I should like to know whether the following is unusual. I finished breeding about two months ago, and put my old birds (Canaries) in an aviary together. Last week a couple started pairing up, and have laid, and the hen is sitting on three eggs now. I am a constant reader of CAGE BIRDS, but have not read anything like this.

W. KING.

FOREIGN BIRDS BREEDING IN WINTER.

SIR,—How best to prevent foreign birds attempting to breed during the winter months is often a vexing question to aviculturists of all grades of experience, and one which has, so far, little, if any, satisfactory solution, save and except the method of making the best of an undesirable circumstance by heating the quarters occupied by the breeding birds to a temperature that will ensure the safety of at least the parent birds, whilst the breeding operations are going on, or removing the birds to comfortable quarters indoors if they should happen to be in an outdoor aviary. Needless to say, where this latter plan is adopted, the utmost precaution should be taken, and every effort made to employ a system of heating which can be relied upon for safety. Or rather I would say a system upon which the greatest reliance can be placed, for I would strongly urge one and all not to place absolute trust in any system whatever. Practically every system of heating is accompanied by risks, more or less, whatever might be said to the contrary, but in the best systems, amongst which a properly installed hot-water pipe apparatus must be given a foremost place, with ordinary care and attention the risks are very slight indeed. Notwithstanding this fact, I would treat every system with suspicion, remembering the terrible losses which occur from time to time in connection with heating. No doubt many who have never yet suffered from a catastrophe in this connection will think I am treating the subject too harshly, but still it is the only prudent and right view to take of the matter if one would wish to always avoid unlooked-for disaster. But this is digressing. The chief difficulty in controlling the breeding of foreign birds doubtless lies in the fact that the sexes are invariably kept together, often with plenty of congenial society, and under circumstances which are largely in favour of the species most affected setting about efforts to reproduce their kind; abundant food supply, cover, suitable nesting sites, and, of course, mates. Added to this in the case of newly-imported birds, it often happens that they have just passed through their natural period of rest, and the beginning of winter in this country is contemporaneous with the time when they should in the natural course of events begin to nest. This is a combination of predisposing causes which cannot be easily overcome, nor yet altered to any appreciable extent. In the case of newly-imported birds, especially where the species is valuable, and consequently experiments and running unnecessary risks is not to be thought of, to use heat as suggested as soon as the birds show signs of beginning to nest in earnest is the only safe solution of the difficulty. The birds themselves would suffer little or no ill result from their efforts, even though nothing tangible came of them, and by the next winter there is a fair chance that they may have partly, if not wholly, adapted themselves to the change of season, and may not give any further trouble on that score. In most cases this adaptation will take place, with perhaps a few exceptions, in the course of a very few years. Some of the hardier species that breed freely in aviaries have practically no definite breeding season at all, but just go on breeding at irregular intervals all the year round. The moult is about the only thing that deters them. Thus I have known the Java Sparrow with young in October and November; the Zebra Finch nesting at Christmas, or at any mild interval of a week or two during the winter they will begin nesting; and young Budgerigars I have known leave the nest in November in the midst of frost and snow, and this, too, in an outdoor aviary. These cases will usually occur among birds that are quite acclimatised and that have been bred in captivity, and the risk of losing the old birds is not so great. On the other hand, the young bred under such conditions, even if they do not succumb before leaving the nest, not infrequently make their appearance scantily feathered and puny creatures, which fail to make up into really strong and vigorous birds. It is not a bad plan to make a wholesale clearance and change of the nesting and roosting boxes in the aviaries occupied by these birds at the beginning of the winter, and once or twice repeat the change during the cold weather. This little disturbance of the receptacles the birds use for nesting very often unsettles them for a time, and deters them from nesting until they feel the tenure of their quarters more secure. Where such a method is feasible, changing the quarters of the birds at the end of autumn will also often suffice to put an end to breeding operations for the time being.

PREPARING BIRDS FOR EXHIBITION.

ON Tuesday, October 8th, Mr. W. A. Cowgill delivered an excellent lecture before the members and friends of the Bingley O.S., his subject, "Preparing Birds for Exhibition," being very appropriate for the time of the year. It was greatly enjoyed by the fanciers present. Mr. Cowgill gave his ideas of treatment from the time that the birds were just nicely getting through the moult, and advised hanging on the show cages as soon as the moult had got up to the head, and more particularly so in the case of old birds, who, if they were run into the show cage and taken towards the light too suddenly were very liable to faint, whereas by letting them run in and out at will for a few days, this danger was very materially lessened.

FOR the first show or two, Mr. Cowgill likes to send the birds out without washing, if possible, as many birds were spoilt by being put through this process before being in dry feather—he preferred to be a week too late rather than a week too early. The lecturer then explained his methods of washing, and laid particular stress on the fact that for drying purposes he only used one cloth for each bird when being rolled up to dry before the fire, to be left in this for about twenty minutes, then placed in a clean cage to finish drying. But great care must be used so that they do not dry too quickly, as this, in Mr. Cowgill's opinion, is the cause of curled feathers, the blame for which is usually put on to the soap. The reason why one cloth only is used, is because it is impossible to wrap up the bird a second time without disturbing the feathers. Some birds, the lecturer stated, required to be washed a week before a show, others only two or three days, and some judgment had to be used here, as it was useless to put birds down except they were in good bloom, to show off their quality to advantage.

BROKEN flights next were dealt with, and here Mr. Cowgill's ideas are not in favour of wholesale flighting, but only in cases where absolutely necessary, such as a good bird for show having one or two flights badly damaged. Then a few on each wing should be taken out. Sometimes, he said, when a bird is nearly through the moult you will notice the length of wing is out of proportion to the size of body and length of tail. Such a one should have all the long flights taken out, and when this is done the perches should be placed very low down in the cage to enable the bird to get on to them easily, and so avoid danger of accidents. To flight a bird is no very easy matter, and requires much skill. The bird should be taken firmly in the hand, with the wing to be operated upon held firmly yet gently between the two middle fingers, and then the feathers be removed one by one with a quick pull.

THE lecturer dealt at some length upon the faults of birds, saying that many fanciers took too much notice of one fault only. Some, if a bird had a flat head, would look with disdain upon it, even if in other respects it was perfect, and would let it go at a ridiculous price, when at the same time, if well put down it would probably beat any other bird in the room. Further, sometimes a bird might have a fault, yet with proper treatment would be made into a good bird. He gave as an instance a yellow ticked bird purchased for 10s. This bird was a good one, except that down one side the feathers had nearly all grown the wrong way, causing the bird to have a rough appearance. These feathers, Mr. Cowgill said, he pulled out in an upward direction, and kept the bird on colour feed during the time they were growing. When through it was as smooth as could be wished, and won prizes at Huddersfield, Derby, etc., and was sold for £6.

ANOTHER good piece of advice given was upon condition. Breedy birds naturally are apt to show bare thighs and to be drawn in neck, and frilly at chest, and birds of this type should be kept moderately low in condition, as, if they get too high in condition, these defects are intensified. Stout birds require to be kept in much higher condition than the breedy ones, for the better condition they are in, the more racy will they look. Mr. Cowgill rattled on for about an hour, keeping the company of fanciers highly interested, and many will benefit by the advice so generously and freely given.

Nests of Birds, Poultry, etc., should be regularly sprinkled with KEATING'S POWDER, especially when hens are sitting. Don't forget to do this just previous to the eggs hatching, to destroy the Red Mite. It kills all insects, harmless to everything else.

The Popular Parrot

So far as is known, the first introduction of Parrots into Europe occurred in the fourth century B.C., when, it is related, one of the generals of Alexander's army, returning from India, brought with him specimens of the Ring-necked Parrakeet. These Parrakeets, which were called "Alexandrian Parrakeets," after the monarch in whose reign they were introduced, are still very popular with bird-fanciers and are so common in India that sailors continually bring them to Europe and America. They are docile, and while slow in acquiring speech, finally make excellent talkers. Roman writers inform us that they were not eaten in India, but were held sacred because of their ability to reproduce human speech.

African Parrots were brought to Rome in the time of Nero, from beyond upper Egypt, where they had been discovered by explorers. They were highly prized, both as pets and as table delicacies, by the Romans, who kept them in cages of tortoise-shell and ivory with silver wires, and often paid more for one than for a slave.

The earliest knowledge we have of the keeping of West African Parrots as pets in Europe dates back to 1455, when Senegal Parrots were first introduced. American Parrots owe their introduction into the Old World to Columbus, who carried a few back with him on his return from his first voyage to America. They were among the objects of interest when he made his formal entry into Seville on March 31, 1493. Five years later the Portuguese circumnavigated the Cape of Good Hope, subjugated a part of India, and reintroduced the Indian Parrots into Europe.

The most popular Parrots are the little green Australian Parrakeets, variously known as Shell or Grass Parrakeets, Budgerigars, or Love Birds. These birds, familiar on the city streets in the capacity of fortune-tellers and performers of tricks, are retailed in this country at 4 dols. or 5 dols. a pair. They are among the easiest of all foreign birds to breed and are raised in large numbers in Europe, from which source come many of the birds brought to the United States. In the year ending June 30th, 1906, we imported 5,387 to supply the demand, including a few of a yellow variety produced by the breeders of Belgium and France. Shell Parrakeets are easily transported from Australia, owing to their ability to exist for long periods without water, and have frequently been carried to Europe in sailing vessels, making a three or four months' voyage, without being supplied with water.

The Talkers in Chief.

Cuban Parrots have recently risen in favour and several thousand were needed to meet the year's demand. These medium-sized green, red, and blue birds with whitish crowns, make fairly good talkers, and sell at wholesale at 24 dols. to 27 dols. a dozen. Amazons from Mexico and Central and South America, which average 6 dols. apiece at wholesale, are favourites among the larger Parrots. They are known as blue-fronted, red-fronted, yellow heads, double-yellow heads, etc., according to the markings of the head. The Blue-fronted Amazons seem to be preferred in Europe; but the double-yellow heads make the best talkers, and when well-trained command prices ranging as high as several hundred dollars apiece.

The African Gray Parrots are unrivalled in ability to reproduce human speech, and have been popular pets in Europe since the Middle Ages. Unfortunately they do not stand transfer very well, and the great majority of the few imported die soon after arrival. The larger Parrots have not yet learned to talk when they arrive, and, as a rule, are disposed of at once to retailers. By these they are often taught by means of specially constructed graphophones, which automatically repeat for hours at a time, selected words, phrases, or songs.

Parrots often attain great age—Gray Parrots have been known to live ninety years. They display affection and intelligence, and make very interesting, albeit somewhat noisy pets. They should be allowed frequent liberty from the cage for exercise, where it is feasible; and they are much pleased and benefited by simple toys with which to relieve the tedium of confinement—an empty spool, a piece of tape fastened to the wire of the cage, or some similar object.

Macaws, large birds with glaring reds, blues, yellows, and greens in their colouration (and with voices to match) are secured in tropical America; a few Lories are brought from the Pacific regions; and many Cockatoos from Australia and the neighbouring islands. Of the last the Rose Cockatoo from the Moluccas seems to be preferred. Nearly three hundred were imported during the year. Both Macaws and Cockatoos are difficult to handle. Their powerful beaks are weapons not to be despised, and are used so freely that specially strong cages and perches are needed to withstand their destructive attacks. Macaws were greatly prized as pets by the Peruvians before the Spanish conquest.

The little Yellow-crested Cockateels from Australia seem to win less favour here than in England, where they are fairly common in aviaries, while but thirty or forty seem to be enough to supply our annual needs. They retail here at 8 dols. apiece and in England at about 2 dols. 50 cents a pair, a difference in price that may partly account for the difference in favour.

Some English Names.

The European birds ordinarily imported are sold at wholesale for 9 dols. a dozen, with two exceptions—Siskins, plain-coloured birds, which are usually secured for crossing with Canaries, and which bring only 6 dols. a dozen, and trained or "piping" Bullfinches, which command 15 dols. each. The handsome Goldfinches are easily first in popular estimation, as is shown by the fact that 5,000 are annually brought in. Of Bullfinches, 1,500, mostly untrained, entered during the year. More than a thousand each of Siskins and Linnets are imported each year and several hundred Skylarks and Chaffinches.

Song Thrushes, Blackbirds, and Black-caps show some degree of popularity; and so doubtless would the Robin Redbreast—the true Robin of our nursery tales and jingles—were it easier to keep alive in confinement. Nearly a hundred Nightingales are annually brought across the ocean, but very few ever again utter the song that has become so famous. Their silence is a mute but eloquent protest against their captivity, and serves to remind us that in caging a bird we do not necessarily cage its song.

Birds from the Orient.

The Orient furnishes several of the most popular cage birds—Java Sparrows, of which we imported 6,285 in the year ending June 30, 1906; Japanese Robins, of which 4,539 were brought in; Japanese Nuns of various kinds, which aggregated 1,780; and Strawberry Finches, of which 1,280 were needed to supply the demand.

Java Sparrows, also known as Paddy or Rice-birds because of their destructive work in rice fields, are hardy and breed freely in captivity. Their general colour is a soft bluish gray, set off by the red bill and conspicuous white marking about the face. A white variety has been produced in the Orient. These retail for 3 dols. 50 cents each, while the grays bring only 1 dol. 50 cents each. Pure Whites are not very common—in most white birds more or less of the blue-gray appears. Java Sparrows were among the earliest foreign birds imported both in Europe and the United States, and those procured for the trade are, like Canaries, chiefly cage-bred birds. The Japanese now breed these birds in large numbers. In order to increase production they raise the young by hand, feeding them with a sort of spoon cut from a thin bamboo splint. The old birds, thus relieved of the care of their young, are free to breed again at once.

Japanese Robins, usually called Pekin Nightingales by English aviculturists (who know our Cardinals as Virginia Nightingales), were imported to the number of 4,539. They are peculiarly coloured—dark and greenish with distinctive yellow and orange on breast, bill, and wings. They are easy to keep, possess a sweet and musical song, and have a song period of ten months, which contrasts favourably with those of most cage-birds—the Nightingale, for example, which, when it sings at all, is in song for only two months. (Our author has obviously never kept Nightingales or he would know that the majority of those that sing at all in captivity sing over the greater part of the year.—Editor, "C.B.") They are native in China, Japan, and India, and were first brought to England about 1866 and to the United States ten or fifteen years later. They retail at 4 dols. each.

Nuns are small birds of different species, such as black-headed, white-headed, and tri-coloured Nuns, the Spicebird or Chestnut Finch, and others. Most of them have more or less dark brown in the colouring. A pure white variety and a buff and white variety of one species—the Japanese Nun, also known as Bengalee or Mannikin—bear testimony to the assiduity of Japanese breeders.

An attractive singer that seems to be growing in popularity is the Shama Thrush from India. Its song suggests by turns those of Catbird, Bobolink, and Brown Thrasher, but contains some clear mellow tones not in the repertoire of those singers. A few Bulbul's are brought from India, mainly Red-vented Bulbuls, but including other kinds. These do not include, however, the famous Bulbul of Persia, the Oriental counterpart of the European Nightingale, and they add comparatively little to the total number of songsters imported. The Hill Minas of India, like Parrots, can be taught to talk, but very few are imported. These retail at 17 dols. apiece.

WILD BIRD NOTES AND QUERIES.

Swallows and their Young.

When hand rearing birds we frequently find a difficulty in getting some species to peck. In the case of the swallow it looks to us that there can be no actual teaching unless the parent bird flies beside a young one, and catches insects while they proceed. The young ones are quite fully fledged (excepting the forks of the tail) when they leave the nest, and are apparently as large and almost as agile upon the wing as the adult birds, and so as they are so far advanced they may need little tuition, and the fact of a winged insect dancing before their eyes may cause them to snap at it in the same way and for the same reason that a perching bird will peck at a small beetle, simply because it is something alive and moving.

Nesting of the Marsh Tit.

The Tits build in holes, usually in trees, old walls, or buildings, but it is not generally known that the Marsh Tit will excavate a hole for itself, in the same manner as do the Woodpeckers. These little birds are very constant to one nesting site, and will return year after year to the same place. As they burrow a fresh hole each season, a tree that they patronised will, in course of time, become riddled with them. For lining, these birds appear to prefer the fur from wild rabbits, but vegetable down is often made use of. The sitting bird will hiss and bite at one's finger in quite a spiteful manner, and so closely does she sit that she can only be removed from the nest by force.

The Ancient Owl.

This is how the ancients studied the habits of the Owl: "Crafty is the mode in which the Owls fight other birds. When surrounded by a great number, they fling themselves on their backs, and fight with beak and claws, their bodies being closely contracted, and thus protected on all sides. The Kite will help them, from a natural kinship in robbery, and shares the combat." And again: "The great-horned Owl is of mournful import, and more to be dreaded than all other birds in auspices connected with the state. It inhabits waste places, and those not merely deserts; but dreadful and inaccessible localities, being a prodigy of night, making its voice heard in no manner of song, but rather groaning. So whenever seen in cities or in daylight it is a direful portent. It never flies where it lists, but is always borne along in a slanting direction."

Autumn Notes.

The woods in autumn are glorious. The leaves are remaining upon the trees longer than usual, and are gradually changing to autumnal hues. No two trees are alike, some one colour, some another, and so the whole makes the woodland beautiful. Acorns and berries are plentiful, and the Ring Doves, Pheasants, Jays, and Magpies are reaping an abundant harvest. Thrushes and Blackbirds search diligently among the fallen leaves, so engrossed in their work that one is upon them before they are aware of it. Among the smaller birds, roving parties of Tits are most conspicuous, flying from bush to bush, searching every leaf and twig, a noisy, merry lot. Many of these will make their way to the shrubberies and gardens surrounding houses, but the long-tailed Titmouse keeps mostly to the woods; he is quite the roving gipsy of bird land.

The Thievish Crow.

The Crow is an enemy to other bird life, and whether roaming the sides of the Scottish mountains, beating along the Welsh coast, or frequenting some isolated English farm, he is a bird to be dreaded for his daring thieving habits. He is particularly fond of eggs, and will patiently watch a sitting game bird until she leaves her nest, when he instantly carries off as many as he can. He does much damage round the poultry yards, clearing off a brood of promising chicks in a few days. Some birds, such as the Peewit, are careful always to leave one upon guard, and this watchfulness saves the contents of the nests, for although he is less powerful than the Crow, his cries bring other Peewits; these quickly unite, and by numbers and superior wing power drive the intruder from the district.

Albinism and Melanism.

Try as we will, we are quite unable to fix any definite rule regarding the occurrence of albinism and melanism in birds. It must be evident to the majority that some such rule must exist in nature, because these changes take place so frequently in certain directions that chance alone cannot account for them. From black to white is the change so frequently seen in the common Blackbird, while a white or mottled bird is more often seen than any other colour. Melanism occurs mostly in Bullfinches and Skylarks, the latter bird being also frequently found with plumage of cinnamon colour of various shades. In fact, this cinnamon colour occurs much more than we are aware of. I have often been told of such birds being observed by workers in the fields. Although one is inclined to think there is some affinity between cinnamon colour and white, we are unable to associate black with white, so that we remain as far from any definite line as to the cause of these variations as ever. Scientists tell us that the absence or presence of certain pigments are the direct cause of [illegible] should exist in certain birds [illegible] is a matter quite beyond us.

IN MY OPINION

satisfied customers are the best possible advertisement a man can have, therefore my sole ambition is to give every customer the fullest satisfaction possible, and to do this I send everything I sell on approval entirely at my own risk, and refund every penny of your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with goods I send you. If you would have the best catching appliances, as used by all the leading professional bird-catchers, I earnestly solicit a trial and as I am supplying all the large catchers throughout England and Continent, I am certain of pleasing you; clap nets made from genuine thread, ¾ inch mesh, 3 yards long, 4/- pair, 4 yards 5/-, 5 yards 6/-, 6 yards 7/-, 7 yards 8/, 8 yards 9/-, 9 yards 10/-, 10 yards 11/- per pair; all are 5 feet 6 inches deep and fly 4 feet. Each pair clap nets have two nets to the pair, and are complete with birch, stave, poles, beech pegs, hemp lines, geared all round to hang level and work true, and are fitted with every requisite ready for immediate use; bat folding Sparrow nets, fitted on 19 feet bamboo poles, 6/6 pair complete; loose netting, made from genuine thread, specially for bird nets, ¾ inch mesh, 7 feet deep, 3d. yard, 9 feet deep 4d. yard, 12 feet deep 5d. yard, post free, This netting must not be confused with the thick American cotton netting now being sold as bird netting; mine is very fine, but strong, and does not show on ground. Pure hemp pull lines, strong as boat lines, 65 yards long, 1/4 each, carriage paid. Stave poles, pegs, store cages, etc., all in stock, real Japanese bird-lime, absolutely strongest made, guaranteed to hold a Hawk, or Rook, and will hold birds in frost or rain, ¼ lb. 6d., ½ lb. 10d., 1 lb. 1/6; sample 3d., all post free. Self-acting spring net traps 24 inches long, 1/- each, 18 inches long, 9d. each. These net traps are by far the largest and best traps on the market, and are guaranteed to catch and hold any bird from a Wren to a Rook. They cannot get out of order, and a child can set them. Single trap cages 6d. each, 4/6 dozen; double ditto 10d. and 1/- each, 7/6 and 8/6 dozen; treble ditto, 1/3 each, 12/- dozen. All have separate compartment for call bird, in addition to the traps. Patent self-setting and self-acting trap cages, guaranteed to reset without any attention immediately a bird is caught, 1/6 each. Round or square topped call cages 3d. each, 2/6 dozen; 27/- gross. Goldfinch and Linnet cages, 6d. each, 4/6 dozen; Lark runner cages 6d., 8d., 10d., and 1/- each, 3/6, 4/-, 4/6, and 6/6 dozen; singing box cages, 10d., 1/- and 1/3 each, 8/6, 10/- and 12/- dozen. Bright all metal drawing-room canary cages, with cut glass round, 3/6 and 4/6 each. Solid brass ditto, with ruby glass round, 5/6, 6/6, 7/6, and 10/6 each. Parrot cages from 4/6 to £10 each. Penny tin drinkers, absolutely neatest and most durable made, three doz. 1/3, six doz. 2/3, or 4/- gross; zinc ditto, same size, 9d. doz., three doz. 2/-, six doz. 3/6, or 6/- gross. Black enamelled drinkers for show cages, 1/- doz., post free, halfpenny tin drinkers, three doz. 10d., or 3/- gross. Dealers should send stamp for trade list of cages, prices and sizes will astonish them. See following testimonials. Little Eaton, near Derby, October 10th.—Sir,—Received netting this afternoon; many thanks for same; it is stronger than I expected.—Yours, F. Moss." "Milton, near Northampton, October 10th. Sir,—Please send ½ lb. lime, as I cannot get any good about here.—Yours, John Green." "19, Victoria Street, Buckland, Dover. October 8th. Sir,—I am very well satisfied with the nets, they are far better than I expected. Yours, R. Buddle." "2, Hollingdrake Yard, off James Street, Doncaster. October 7th.—Sir,—I received netting, and think it is the best netting I ever had, and I have tried all the other firms, as I should know. Please send another 12 yards.—Yours, A. Croxford." (On October 14th Mr. Croxford orders another 20 yards.—W.G.) "23, Clarence Square, Gosport, October 7th. Sir,—Birds, cages, nets, etc., to hand, and I am very well satisfied with all, thanking you for promptness.—Yours, W. Buxton." "47, Bells Road, Gorleston. Dear Sir,—I like my nets very much; indeed, they work splendidly, they are so light and fine they enmesh the birds so well, it's a pleasure to use them.—Yours, E. Morley." "1, Field Cottages, Rassau, Mon. Sir,—Please send following netting, etc. The last netting I had from you was grand, I caught a number of birds with it, and then sold it for treble the price I paid you for it.—Yours, W. Hayward." "Gedney, Holbeach, Lincs.—Sir,—Your netting is as superior to other firms' stuff as gold is to copper.—Yours, C. Cubley." "46, George Street, Altofts, Normanton. Sir,—I am very pleased with nets you sent me, and I only wish every other advertiser would be as honest as you have been to me. Please send on the following.—Yours, Ben. Siddaway." "Greenfield House, Bedwas, Mon. Sir, —Received netting and am quite satisfied with it; please send 3 more yards same as last.—Yours, A. Davies." "89, Cumberland Road, Reading. Sir,—I am very pleased with netting received from you before; it gives every satisfaction, and I recommend it to all my friends. Please send on the following.—Yours, H. Bowyer." Please note some of the above letters are from expert catchers, who probably catch more birds in one season than most men see in course of their lifetime. For full printed list of all catchers' appliances, send stamp, and don't forget that everything I sell is guaranteed exactly as represented, and sent on approval, entirely at my own risk, either cash or deposit system, and money fully and freely refunded if every satisfaction not given. See British Birds, and also Roller Canary columns, for further advertisements.

MATTHEWS, LINNET KING.

To exhibitors, Mule-breeders, and contest singers. I have a larger stock of English birds than any man in England. All large, healthy birds; been carefully selected from hundreds of dozens which passes through my hands every week. This enables me to send you the largest and best-coloured birds you can possibly get. Have supplied winners in open All-England shows for the last five years at working men's prices, and patronised by all the leading exhibitors, Mule-breeders, and contest singers. All fanciers who wish to obtain a fierce-singing Linnet or a few show birds would call and inspect my British bird buildings, specially built for British. Everybody is delighted who goes through them, as they receive my best attention. Always keep 500 in stock. I keep every variety, so anyone who wishes a first-class team of British should state their wants. I have the finest and largest selection of Linnets in England; some big, fine, healthy Linnets with nut-brown backs, spotted like Thrushes, nicely-pencilled Norwich type, 2/- each. I have a few massive Giant Linnets beautifully pencilled and marked, ready for the keenest competition, 2/6 each. These specials are the best you can possibly get, and are worth double. I have a large stock of clean-moulted, fierce-singing Linnets, been specially trained under my noted champions, and are all in grand song, sacrifice 2/- each; or with beautiful large singing cage and packet of my special mixture, secrets how to feed, 3/-; bargains. Every intending contest singer should send at once for one of these special trained birds; also a few good noted stop birds, been used to catching, 2/6. Goldfinches, Goldfinches. Real Peartree Goldfinches, the largest, best-coloured birds you can get; all guaranteed to have been properly netted from the Cheshire orchards and fruit gardens, not so-called Peartree Finches, but guaranteed real Peartree Goldfinches. Being a constant advertiser for the last few years of these special birds, I have a grand lot of big, fine, healthy Peartree Finches, large, good coloured, well huttoned, and mooned, nicely tanned with feathers, like silk, 2/6 and 3/- each; also a few specials in perfect show condition, good square, deep blazes, buttoned, mooned, tanned, etc., 4/- and 5/- each; real bargains. Also a few good call birds, used to catching, 3/- each. Bullfinches, Bullfinches. Real Cheshire Bullfinches, through their moult, with blood-red breasts, good black cap, good wing bars, in show condition, 3/6 each; large Yellow Greenfinches, 1/6; large Redpoll, well marked, good deep bibs, 1/6; splendid cock Chaffinches, in full colours, 1/6. All birds sent out exactly as described, and are sent on seven days' approval. Gentlemen, could fairer terms be offered? Others are copying me, so beware of worthless imitations, as you get the real birds from me. "241, Princess Gardens, London. Sir,—The two Linnets arrived quite safe. Well pleased with them; one alone is worth the money I paid for the two. Thanking you for your straightforward dealings. Shall encourage everyone I know to deal with you. Shall send for more before long. Use this as you like, for the class of birds you send out is extra good. From Mr. Turner to Matthews, Linnet King." "34, Lydia Street, Accrington. Sir,—The team of British birds arrived quite safe, and am highly pleased with them all. They are real beauties. Send me the following at once, as I am perfectly satisfied. Use this as you like. From Mr. Walsh, Mule Breeder and Exhibitor to Matthews, Linnet King." If you want some real good large birds, send at once; all on approval; cash or CAGE BIRDS deposit system.

BIRD CATCHERS.

Buy from Maker, and get best value obtainable; it would never pay me to send out cheap and blown together goods. I have been in the trade for years, and still sell more nets than all other so-called makers combined. Every article is sent out on approval; cash or deposit system; if not thoroughly satisfied return them and your money will be refunded; not a single article has been returned this season, but testimonials come in, by every post, although I seldom publish them. Here is one selected from scores, guaranteed unsolicited:—"Great Baddow, Chelmsford, Essex. Dear Sir,—Please send me a pair Clapnets, as per CAGE BIRDS, 18ft. by 4½ft.; amount enclosed. I had a pair of a Birmingham man which were practically useless.—Yours truly, S. G. Crisp." You can't afford to keep buying, but take my advice and buy a genuine article. HARRY ALLEN,

THE ORIGINAL LINNET KING.

Champion of all Champions, and winner of more prizes than any three men. Patronised by all the leading exhibitors, mule breeders, and contest singers, I claim to have the finest strain in the world, bar none. Kindly note I never copy anyone—they all follow me. If you want the finest 3/6 worth in the bird world, come to me. Beware of spurious imitations, they will not give you satisfaction, mine never fail to please. I have the finest selection of Linnets in England; to prove it, please give me a trial order. Big, healthy cock Linnets, well pencilled, very tame, sure winners, 1/6 each; extra picked birds, real gems, not rubbish, 2/- and 2/6 each. I have a few show specimens, tight as wax, grandly pencilled, the right stamp, A1 condition, 3/- each; please try one of them, success guaranteed. Mr. King keeps on winning with the bird purchased from me last year. See the description of the Newcastle winner, a bird purchased from me.—A capitally shaped bird, markings, head, cheeks, wings, etc., properly defined, of good size, shown for all he is worth. If you want a bird to moult out similar to this one, send for one of my 3/- ones, and you will never regret it. I have some big fine cock Linnets, picked specially for singing, with singing cage, a packet of my special mixture, and instructions how to feed, 3/6 the lot. These birds are being taught by the finest quality singing Linnet in the world, owned by me, which is termed by CAGE BIRDS as a veritable champion. Come and hear him sing some of his wonderful notes; everybody welcome. House-moulted Linnets, singing hard and ready for contest, with contest cage, 10/6 each. Redpolls as large as Linnets, the best I have had for years, 1/- each; Greenfiches, real gems for size, good rich deep colour, very tame, ready for show, and can win, 1/- and 1/6 each; beautiful Chaffinches, Bramblefinches, 1/6 each; cock Larks, nicely on song, the largest ever seen, 1/- each.

GOLDFINCHES, CANARIES, MULES.

Grand Yorkshire specimen Peartree cock Goldfinches, with square-cut blaze, well buttoned and mooned, good broad heads, and impossible to get larger, 2/6 to 3/- each; extra picked birds, real beauties, steady as rocks, can win in good class, 3/6 each; typical long, leggy yellow Yorkshire cock Canaries, all on full song, and standard length, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6 each, some extra good yellow hens 3/6, 4/6, 6/6, each; Norwich cocks, large Bullfinch type 7/6, 8/6, 10/6 each, all on full song. I have the finest selection of Goldfinch-Canary Mules ever seen. Cocks singing hard night and day, very large, good colour, the talk of Leeds, 8/6 and 10/6 each, real bargains; send at once for these to save disappointment, as they are real Pit Paints; hens, same strain, 2/6 and 3/6 each; 4 packets of my special mixture, 1/-, once tried always used. If you want your birds to sing at one another with their wings down, send P.O. 1/6 for my book of secrets. I have my birds singing daylight and gaslight at empty cages; £5 to anyone if not true. I have had a large number of fanciers come to take the £5, but all have failed; they say it is a treat to see them. 38, Carlyle-st., Abertillery.—Sir,—Received birds, quite safe; am well satisfied; they look very good birds, have instructed Editor to pay over deposit for same.—H. Richards to H. Allen, 155, Lord-st., Park, Sheffield.—Sir,—Pleased to inform you of the Goldfinches' safe arrival. I think them good value for the money, and gives every satisfaction.—W. Pugh to H. Allen, 1, Ash-grove, Recleshill, Bradford. Sir,—Received Goldfinches quite safe, and am well satisfied.—W. Markwell to H. Allen, 4, Hudden-sk., Tibshelf, Derbyshire. Sir,—Bird arrived safe, and he is a beauty; thanking you for your straightforward and honest dealing.—R. Coates to Original Linnet King.—Gentlemen,—I am the originator of packets of mixture and Linnet cage, instructions, etc., none genuine but mine; so beware of worthless imitations. All my birds are on 7 days' approval. Cash or CAGE BIRDS deposit system. If anyone doubts my rights for the title of Linnet King, look up back numbers of CAGE BIRDS, and see the prizes I have won; a continuance of 1st, 2nd and 3rd every week. Thanking you all for patronage.—Harry Allen, Bird Specialist, 42, Brown Hill Crescent, Harehills, Leeds.

SANDIFORD'S FAMOUS NORWICH.

1st, 2nd, 3rd, &c., CRYSTAL PALACE, 1907.

1st Unlighted Yellows, class of 30 champions, all bred by me; also won just on 40 firsts last season. Blood will tell. This strain has cost me hundreds of pounds in cash, and I claim to have the best blood in the world. See wins already this season at Peterboro', Dulwich, Stoke, Chesterfield, Coventry, Leeds, etc. Won more prizes in Norwich this season than anyone in England. Have some marvellous prize-bred pairs from above winners at 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/-; pair odd cocks and hens, Yellows or Buffs, 10/-, 12/-, 15/-, 20/-, 30/-, 40/-; any on approval with pleasure. Send 1d. stamp for list of testimonials from winners I have supplied. They will surprise you. Mr. H. Ward, Charing, writes, Oct. 30th, 1907—"The cock Canary I had from you bred me three grand birds, which won 1st and special, 2nd and reserve at Ashford, Kent. See last week's CAGE BIRDS." Mr. Jarvie, Glasgow, Oct. 28th, 1907—Sir, Send six Norwich cages and a good Goldfinch for enclosed. Mr. Young won medal for best hen at City show; the Yellow hen he got from you is its mother." Mr. Cook, Wellingboro'—"Sir, very pleased with the Yellow Norwich cock, and also the way you despatched him. The Yellow hen you sold me has won me 1st and special Wellingboro', 3rd Burton. I bred from her a Buff hen, which was 1st in a class of 13 at Wellingboro', also 3rd at Crystal Palace in class 32." Mr. J. D. Hird, Macduff—"Sir, send me four cage fronts, 20 by 12. The variegated cock you sold me won 1st at all our shows round here." Mr. J. D. Jones, Pontordawe—"Sir, Norwich cock arrived safe; well pleased; he won 1st and two specials here." April, 1907. Mr. H. McIver, Livingstone Buildings, Port Glasgow, writes—"Sir, the Norwich I had from you won 1st and special in class of eleven against all colours at Greenock." Mr. Fisher Cardendon, Fife, March, 1907—"Sir, I took 1st, special, and 2nd at Cowdenbeath with birds I had from you." Breeders 27 years.

200 SINGING CANARIES.

We now have a splendid lot of Norwich, Yorkshire and Hartz Mountain Roller cock Canaries, all in full song, 5/6 and 6/6 each; hens 2/6 and 3/- each; cage 2d.; cock Goldfinches, 2/- each, sent on approval. J. Thorn, Bird Specialist, Plumstead Road, Woolwich.

WHY INCUR THE DANGER of a bad bargain when you can purchase Rollers of the best quality from us on seven clear days' approval entirely at our own risk; our first consignment of pure Seiferts Rollers have just arrived from Germany with pure deep sweet soft bass rolls, water-bubble runs, etc., bell, harp, and gong notes, Nightingale, Woodlark and Titlark notes, perfect little music boxes, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, and 12/- each; hens, 2/-, 2/6 each, also our first consignment of Hartz Mountain Rollers, pure day and gaslight, with good loud clear song, 5/-, 6/- each, hens 1/6 each, 2/6 couple; proper made Roller singing cages 1/6 each, all on seven clear days' approval.—Parker and Wilden, Bird Merchants, 257-258, Farm Street, Birmingham.

CASCADE ROLLERS.

See what delighted clients say:—"Hy. Batchelor, 27, St. Helens-rd., Dorchester, Nov. 5th, 1907. The Cascade Roller is perfectly satisfactory." "Nov. 3rd, 1907. W. Montgomery, 74, Prince Albert-st., Crosshill, Glasgow. Cascade Roller to hand, quite safe and healthy; I am perfectly satisfied with him. He started to sing beautifully this morning. I will recommend you to all my friends." These letters are taken at random from the pile, and show conclusively the quality of birds sent. I don't want to use flowery language. I want you to put them to the test, free of charge, distance no object; every bird packed with seed and water in a splendid British Roller singing cage, with all necessary appliances; one price only, 10/-. The Cascade Roller does not perform those wonderful crackjaw notes that were never heard on land or sea; but for purity, sweetness, and true Roller quality they cannot be equalled under £2 2s. Terms cash with order, or deposit with CAGE BIRDS; seven days' approval.

PEARSON, ONLY CASCADE ROLLER IMPORTER, GREENWICH.

Real St. Andreasberg Rollers
Pure Hartz Rollers.

Direct importer. The finest Seiferts strain from Germany, with pure Nightingale, Woodlark, Titlarks, Waterbubble, and bell notes; marvellous songsters; 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 12/- each; on approval. Now, hurry your orders up for first choice. Hens, same strain, 2/- and 2/6. Wholesalers, write for terms. Just a few testimonials picked from hundreds. These have come from birds I have sent hundreds of miles from Preston. Mrs. Downs, Chelmsford Road, Dublin, writes, Oct. 30th, 1907—"Thanks for the beautiful Roller. He arrived safely about 11 today, none the worse for the journey. He is a beautiful colour, and has a lovely voice. I like him well; he is singing over my head this moment. I want a nice cage for him; send on price of one." Mr. Glenny, Bachelors' Walk, Dublin—"Sir, am pleased with Roller, which arrived safe. He is singing continually night and day since he arrived. Scores of testimonials like this. If above not proof enough, send for catalogue and scores more testimonials. Mr. J. Patterson, Cork, Ireland—"Sir, I think it only right you should know that the Roller you sent me won the All Ireland Roller Singing Contest, held here November 8th and 9th." Mr. McConquodail, Greenock, Scotland—"Sir, received Roller and box cage safe; he was singing half an hour after I got him. He is the best songster I ever had. The cage is most suitable." Mr. H. Brooks, Wakefield, Yorks.—Sir, the Hartz Roller to hand. He is a splendid bird and sang under three minutes after caged. He sings in the gaslight; first thing in the morning. I have given twice as much for German Rollers not half as good as this from you." A few real Hartz Rollers—not Belgians, price 5/- and 6/- each; hens, 1/6, two 2/6. Proper singing Roller box cages, 1/6; enamelled inside and out, inlaid fronts, sand drawers; beauties, 1/10 each; approval with any; established 1879.

IT SAVES WHERE OTHERS FAIL.
The greatest remedy ever brought before the Fancy, and has the largest Sale of any similar article by far. Beware of Imitations! For all lung affections it is marvellously efficacious — not a liver burner, but both soothing and healing. Thousands of testimonials received for this article alone. 9d. and 2s. 6d. per bottle, post free. Once used, always kept ready for any sudden attack.

"EGGERTINE"

It is the best, purest and greatest bone and muscle forming food ever known, as the analytical reports of most eminent authorities prove. It is a genuine egg food made with fresh laid English eggs, with white, of course, included (and NOT foreign preserved yolk of egg) with other valuable properties combined. Tins, post free, 1s. 3d.; large size, 2s. 6d. There is a saving in the larger size.

During the present dull weather your birds naturally require a pick-me-up. There is nothing in the Bird World that can compare with RUDD'S

BOOKLET FREE.

Finest Talking Parrots. I only deal in Parrots that will make first-class talkers; no rubbish. I am willing at all times to send my Parrots on four weeks' trial and three months' talking guarantee. Why? Because all my Parrots are young, strong, and reliable. My lifetime has been spent among grey Parrots, both at home and abroad. I guarantee every customer every satisfaction. Grey Parrots are my special fancy. I have trained them, know their wants, and can give every purchaser a bird that will please him in every way. I can supply grey talkers, not thinkers, that will say almost anything, at reasonable prices. Before you purchase a grey or green Parrot, send for my Booklet, entitled "Talking Parrots." All my birds are sent on four weeks' trial, at my risk. Send postcard for catalogue.—Mrs. Forster, Princes Park Aviaries, Violet Street, Liverpool.

PARROT PROBLEM

solved. For full proofs send postcard at once for my large book, "Parrot Prattle," now containing 108 pages. This is the most wonderful book ever offered free of all charge to all Parrot fanciers. (This "Parrot Prattle" is registered copyright, and all infringers and imitators will be proceeded against). It contains hundreds of testimonials from all parts with full names and addresses, many interesting facts, and gives valuable advice and hints to all parrot buyers. Full details of our original system of selling Parrots on four week's trial, at our risk, which we were the first to introduce. We sell Parrots of all descriptions on four weeks' trial, at our risk, before settlement. Cheapest and best in the Kingdom, and any Parrot sold by us, and not giving full satisfaction, will be exchanged any time within twelve months. Remember we lead and others try to follow. Write to other dealers as well as us, and judge for yourselves. Lists of Parrots for sale and above book post free on receipt of postcard.

SINGING CONTESTS.

LEWISHAM.

Usual Saturday evening contest held at the Coach and Horses, High Street. The birds were certainly disappointing, or it was the visit of the police which frightened them, especially the stern countenance of the inspector, who took full stock of the sports. Results:—1, Barber, 3 score 4 chalk; 2, H. Austin, 1 score 11 chalk; 3, Cartwright, 1 score 4 chalk; 4, E. Robinson, 1 score, 1 chalk. Eight pairs were eventually put on the nail.

LEEDS.

Usual weekly contest for quality singing of Linnets held at the old bird house, King's Head, Shannon-street, when 22 of the best birds sung for four good prizes given by Mr. W. Tillotson. Some extra good singing was heard before a crowded house. 1st prize, Hardcastle; 2, Summers; 3, Tillotson; 4, Johnson. Judges, C. Cooper and T. Rineson.—T. SUMMERS, Hon. Sec.

Usual weekly Linnet Singing Contest, for quality singing, held at the oldest bird house, King's Head, Shannon Street, when 25 of the best birds in Leeds sung for four good prizes given by Mr. W. Tillotson. One bird, if he had sung in the match as he did afterwards, would have been easily first: 1, T. Johnson; 2, 3, J. Thompson; 4 was shared by J. Nicholls and J. Grant. Judges, C. Cooper, Chadwick, T. Crane.—T. SUMMERS, Hon. Sec.

YORK.

First contest took place at the Crown Inn, North-street, York, when 22 Linnets were hung up for four good prizes given by Mr. J. Smith. Some very good singing was heard, with the following result:—1st prize, J. Firth; 2, W. Wilson; 3, J. Stothard; 4, A. Kirby. Mr. Perry officiated as judge, and Mr. Stothard as timekeeper, giving every satisfaction.

CLUB REPORTS.

LLANELLY AND DISTRICT C.B.S.

Meeting held Nov. 2nd, Councillor D. R. Jones presided over a good attendance. Mr. T. W. Richards, Narberth, was elected vice-president. Six new members were elected. Messrs. Parry, 44, Ann's-street; T. H. Davis, 6, Caerelma; W. Williams, 28, Forge-row; J. Jones, 49, Llewellyn street; Portsmouth, 41, Brynmor-road, and J. Saddler, Glyndwr-cottage, Waunclyn, Trimsaran.—J. SIMON, sec.

DIPTON AND DISTRICT C.B.S.

Monthly meeting held October 25th, at which there was a large attendance to witness washing exhibition by a member, Mr. Jas. Stringer, Pelton Fell. Mr. Stringer showed amateurs how to make a bird look well and fit for the bench. All were well satisfied. The next two meetings will be held on Tuesday, November 26th, and Monday, December 2nd.—MATT. MASON, Sec.

NORTHERN BRITISH B.M. & F.B.C.

Special meeting, held Oct. 30, at Lockhart's Cafe, 65, Grainger Street, to consider application from Sunderland for the club patronage. There was a good number of members and the patronage was granted on condition Sunderland gave two classes for Foreign birds. We also enrolled 9 new members from Carlisle, Sunderland, Darlington, Crook and York. Anyone wishing to become members can do so on sending their names and addresses to 115, Stanhope Street, Newcastle-on-Tyne.—J. R. SLACK, hon. sec.

GLASGOW AND WESTERN COUNTIES N.B., ETC.

Monthly meeting held November 2nd, 122, Ingram-street. Fairly good muster of members present. Mr. Peter Pettigrew, president, in the chair. Messrs. Wm. Melrose, Hugh Anderson, Wm. King, D. S. Vallantyne, Wm. Wilson, John Moffat, and James Peters, were admitted members. Mr. Malcolmson then proceeded with his washing exhibition, showing the different positions and processes in washing, which was delightful to the young members. Mr. Malcolmson was accorded a unanimous vote of thanks, on the motion of Mr. Young. A washing competition will take place at next meeting, Nov. 30 when three special prizes will be competed for. Mr. Malcolmson will give an exhibition of cage-making as well.—JOHN BOULSTON.

YORKSHIRE UNION OF C.B. SOCIETIES.

Meeting of the Council held at the Victoria Hotel, Sandy-lane, Allerton, Bradford, on Nov. 2nd. In the absence of the President, the chair was occupied by Mr. John Gleaves, vice-president. The Council dealt with an objection by the Great Horton Good Intent Society to exhibit No. 23 in Class 16 at their open show on October 26th. A sub-committee appointed to examine the bird agreed that certain tail feathers had been cut. The Council ordered that the owner refund prize money won at the show, in addition to forfeiting all points. They also debarred the bird from competing during the next six weeks. An application by the Huddersfield Society for an extension of time for receiving entries for their forthcoming show, on account of the intervention of Christmas Holidays, was granted. It was decided that in cases where an assistant judge is required for the Yorkshire Classes, the same be selected from those already voted upon by the Union members, who have not received an engagement. A resolution by the Huddersfield Society, re railway charges, was placed on the agenda for next meeting.—FREDK. HAMMOND, hon. sec.

CITY AND SUBURBAN A.C.S.

Meeting took place at headquarters, October 28th. A report of the meeting of delegates called to discuss the London definition of a novice and the proposed Federation was submitted by the Association's delegates, Messrs. R. L. Crisp and A. C. Burn, and adopted. Mr. R. L. Crisp was unanimously elected a delegate to formulate a committee for the London Federation. With one amendment, the Council's recommendation for the alloting of diplomas for the annual show was adopted. A hearty vote of thanks was accorded to Mr. W. Shepherd for the handsome silver-plated cup, which was on view. The result of the draw for competition for the McGrutter Shield was Cinnamons, and failing three competitors as per rule, Crests and Crested-breds. The Yorkshire judging competition then took place, and attracted a brilliant gathering of forty-three and an entry of forty-six (21 Yellows and 25 Buffs) Yorkshires, this speaking volumes for the high esteem in which Mr. R. L. Crisp, the judge, is held. Speaking afterwards in that prepossessing manner and accomplished style, he held his audience spellbound whilst he imparted to them his great knowledge acquired by personal experience of the breeding of Yorkshires. At the close a hearty vote of thanks was accorded, to which Mr. Crisp suitably replied. The winners of the silver medals were P. G. Cooper (champion), A. C. Burn (amateur), and G. Bryant (novice). The special prize given anonymously for the most entries was won by Mr. W. Page with 11 entries. A vote of thanks to the chairman closed a very pleasant meeting.—VICTOR WYNN, Hon. Sec.

THE SHOWS.

CLEATOR MOOR.

Show held in the Market Hall on November 2nd. There were 14 Canary classes, two Hybrid, eight Brit., one For., and three Sell. classes—in all, over 200 entries, not quite up to last year's grand total, but still very good considering the geographical position not being surrounded by towns and cities on all sides. A good classification of Yorkshires brought together some fine birds, notably those of Messrs. Stewart, Douglas, Tweedie, Brown, Bradley, and Ferguson. Border Fancy classes contained 24 birds of high-class merit, and some of the cracks of Messrs. Ellwood, Dixon, Hopper Bros., Leavson, Wilson, Plaskett Bros., etc., were on view. Norwich, though not so numerous, were a very nice lot taken altogether, being best represented by Messrs. Younghusband, Wilson, Moffatt, Lowthian, Atkinson, Sumpton, and others. Hybrids contained some capital birds, shown by Messrs. John Dixon, W. M. Hill, Bertram and Bell, Johnston, and Percy Davies, while British were a very nice lot, though some of them will be much superior in finish and condition in a week or two; the winners were birds of exceptional merit. Messrs. Kearton and Winter accounted well for the Goldfinch class. Bullfinches brought three very fine specimens out amongst the lot, and Mr. Hill and Mr. Laidlaw had superior specimens. The Linnet class was once again the creme de la creme of the show, and 28 birds of rare good merit were staged. The winner turned up from the owner of last year's champion, and though this year's winner is not yet quite so perfect in finish and condition as the last year's winner, it is one which has all the essentials of a "top-sawyer." It took a lot of time to separate them, so near was the running, and some of the best birds in the class a week or a fortnight short of being ready. It is unusual not to have a fine display of Softhills here. By some unaccountable circumstance not known as yet, Mr. Walsh's big team of fine birds only arrived at the show at 3 p.m., after the judging, and if not the exhibitor's own fault it would be a good case for C.B.U. to bring home to the railway companies concerned in the transit. Mr. J. E. Byrne and his very able staff of workers and committee, did all in their power to make the exhibits happy, and the prompt manner in which they got through their work speaks volumes of praise for them, and fanciers would do well to keep in mind such liberal treatment. A fine list of specials was offered. Mr. A. Hirst judged Canaries, and Mr. Charles Houlton the remainder. YORKS. CL. YARMOUTH.

This Eastern fixture, which was not under C.B.U. rules, was held in the Winter Gardens, a splendid place for the purpose on November 6th and 7th, but the entry was not over good, only totalling 165 in the twenty-two classes scheduled. Although the entry was not great, some very choice birds put in an appearance, and quality was well to the front in most of the classes. Well versed in show management, the Yarmouth fanciers attend well to the exhibits, and nothing is left undone by the committee that can be done to ensure the welfare of the birds entrusted to their care. Mr C. H. Wells, the chairman, kept a watchful eye over all, as did his most able lieutenants, Mr. W. J. Benns, the vice-chairman, and Mr. C. L. Saul, the treasurer. The stewards of our section were Messrs. J. Shearman, H. J. Smith, and W. Tiptod and a better trio one could not desire. Mr. F. C. Davies, the hon. secretary, is a host in himself, and right well did he carry out the duties pertaining to his office. Mr. C. A. House made the awards, and we heard little grumbling.

NORWICH.

The Norwich Alliance All-England C.B.A. has added yet another to the list of splendidly successful shows standing to the credit of the "Ancient City." The exhibition held on November 2nd and 4th, in the very fine hall attached to the Assembly Rooms, was a shining example from start to finish of what can be accomplished by a society of standing, containing many tried "old hands" and a good leaven of young blood, one and all vieing with each other to ensure perfection of working. And that the show now under notice came as near perfection in point of management as one can hope to get, no unprejudiced observer could question. The officials had struck a happy idea in the arranging of the staging. This made things very comfortable for visitors, and ensured the exhibits being seen in the best possible light, some rows being arranged cross-wise from the windows, others lengthwise of the room. Every tier was covered with spotlessly white cloth, and the fine hall has never looked more attractive. The officials are most willing and obliging, and hard-workers every one. The birds are unpacked and despatched, fed and watered in the best possible style, there being no lack of stewards and helpers, always on the spot. The genial chairman, Mr. J. Stark, is a good leader, always busy, here, there, and everywhere, planning and arranging. The vice-chairman, Mr. J. Morrison, and treasurer, Mr. W. W. Freestone, also "take their corner" with the best of them when the work is about, though this is true of all the officials, including the trustees, Messrs. E. Clarke and A. Payne, and the auditors, Messrs. F. Cullington and H. Smith. It would be difficult to find any society better officered, Messrs. J. Barbee, H. F. Bartram, E. Bennett, A. Brewster, J. Calver, J. Carlton, A. Clapham, J. Cutmore, W. Daynes, W. Fish, E. Green, E. P. Gilbert, W. Havers, A. Holmes, W. Johnson, W. A. Johnson, T. Miles, J. E. Nicols, J. Parsons, E. Revell, A. W. Russell, F. Schulen, H. Seppings, R. Thompson, J. Thompson, and R. Wigger, who form the committee, are all good fellows, and true fanciers, genuinely interested in the advancement of the hobby of bird-keeping. The secretary, Mr. R Roll, we have had occasion to eulogise several times in the past, and it is sufficient to say that the present show served to strengthen the high opinion of everyone concerning his ability as a secretary and organiser. The arrangements were excellently conceived, and everything went on with clock-like precision. He offered, by the way, six prizes to the lads attending his old school, St. Mark's, Lakenham, for specimens of freehand drawings of birds. A large number of excellent drawings were sent in for competition, and they evidenced a great deal of skill, in some cases being quite works of art. Another scheme (of the committee's) which aroused great interest, was the presentation of a Canary and cage to the captains of the Norwich (the "Canaries") and Watford football teams, playing in the city on the day of the show, also to the scorer of the first goal. These were presented during the Saturday evening, amid a scene of enthusiasm.

At the opening ceremony, performed by Mr. F. J. Crotch, the chair was ably taken by Mr. Stark. Mr. Crotch remarked that it gave him great pleasure to say a few words on behalf of one of the finest fancies in the world. They in Norwich, in his judgment, did not value the Canary fancy as much as they should do. The citizens seemed to think more of things away than they did of things at home, but it could not be denied that Canary breeding was one of the best assets of the city. The birds were the embodiment of everything that seemed to be good. The society was maintained principally by working-men, and Canaries were a source of great income to the working classes. The citizens should weigh the fancy in the true balance, and then he felt sure the hall would be well filled with visitors.

The judges were Messrs. W. E. Greeves (Crests), Robson (open Canaries, Brit. and For.), Woollard and Freestone (amateur and novice classes), and they had the cards out in good time, while their awards seemed to meet with general favour. The quality put in front of them was of a very high order, especially in the Norwich and Crest classes, where some magnificent specimens were staged. The amateur Crests and Crestbreds were truly wonderful, and pleased Mr. Greeves so much that he generously gave several extra prizes out of his own pocket. The Mule and British sections were, unfortunately, extremely disappointing, very few putting in an appearance. One of the Linnets was catalogued as a "talker," but though we hung about patiently in the hope he might get on "speaking terms" with us, he declined to gratify our curiosity or to answer any questions. The attendance of visitors was excellent, and we trust the Norwich fanciers may find their show as great a success financially as it was in all other respects.

The Open Canary Classes.

Gaze; very close run with these seven, good all-round class. PAIRS (12): 1, Fish, splendid pair, well shown, lovely buff cock and yellow hen, takes Rudd's medal for best yellow hen in amateur classes; 2, 3, Williment, two well-balanced pairs, little to choose between them; 4, Scott, another good pair, badly shown, cage not suitable; vhc, F. Schulen; hc, W. Mason; c, A. H. Smith. CREST YELL. (8): 1, W. M. Gaze, very promising young varieg. hen, fine body, big, neat crest, shade short at front, yet good for a yellow, lovely quality; 2, Gilbert, also a fine hen, good frame, nice, neat, shapely headpiece; 3, Pauling, cock, real good bird, well-shaped, expansive crest; 4, Snowdon, trifle small, yet very neat crest, niee droop and quality. BUFF CK. (26): 1, W. M. Gaze, wing-mkd. dark, a clinker, grand sweep of crest, lovely droop and wide frontal, neat, though not quite finished at centre, splendid hody; 2, Snowden, also a fine specimen, clear body dark, grand substance, topped by a big, round, neat crest of excellent quality, well drooped; 3, Cooper, wing mkd. dark, good frame, crest of exeellent size and quality, little loose at centre, could be improved in the staging, nice droop; 4, Mrs. Galloway, good chest, neat, round headpiece, slightly grizzled, fine texture of feather, little too long in body; vhc, Mrs. Walpole (thick-set Nor. type), Olden, Thorpe Bros., W. Thompson a trio of good ones; hc, Gilbert, Curtis, Holmes, Smith Snowden; c, Morris, Wicks, Pauling, Mrs. Crow, Pooley. HEN (24): 1, Mrs. Gaze, wing mkd. buff, very sweet bird, good, thick-set hody, fine, big, round crest, very veiny feather, neat and thickly built; 2, 4, Snowden, two more classy exhibits, 2, a splendid-bodied hen, expansive crest of good texture and droop, hardly so well finished at sides as winners, 4, has also a fine big round crest, little penny in centre yet; 3, W. M. Gaze, excellent frame, thick-set, particularly neat, nicely drooped headpiece, not far behind winner; extra, 3, 4. Pooley, well worth their places, though we certainly consider them marred by the colour-feeding they have had, former very hot colour, fine quality of feather, round, expansive crest, well built up, loose in centre yet, latter a splendid, big green, fine headpiece; vhc, H. Smith (2), Pauling, Coman; hc, Brown, Mrs. Galloway; c, Carlton, Holmes, Gilhert, Wicks. CREST-BRED YELL. (11): 1, Parsons, cap mkd., somewhat slim in hody, hut a grand one for feather, fine dome-sheaped skull, good entrance; 2, W. M. Gaze, lovely clear, good size and shape, splendid wide dome skull; 3, Snowden, rare good green, broad, rising skull, fine quality featber; 4, Carlton, good lightly varieg., smaller in bead, but excellent turn-over; vhc, Corke, Wicks (2), A. Thompson; hc, Smith. BUFF (20): 1, Mrs. Gaze, variegated., very warm exhibit, marvellous entrance, extra width of skull, nice rise, beaps of quality feather, fino body, wins hands down; 2, Ong, clinking good clear, fine size and shape, lovely wide cushion head, plenty of feather; 3, vbc, Pooley, colour-fed green, rare substance, grand texture of feather, very good head, close up; 4, W. M. Gaze, mkd. can and wing, lovely wide head, also excels in substance, not quite in form yet; vhc, Potter, Cooper, Holmes, H. Smith, A. H. Smith, Mrs. Galloway; he, Parsons, Carlton, W. Thompson, R. Brown; c, Alden, Coman. BUFF HEN (14): 1, Mrs. Gaze, wing and eye mkd., extra good wide cushion bead, well lashed and clothed, grand body, what a team this lady has; 2, Corke, sweet, lightly varieg., grand texture of feather, big body, wide rising skull, good one; 3, Mrs. Crow, clinking green, bold, good-shaped bead, finely clothed and lashed; 4, vhc, H. Smith, grand bodied green, fine shaped skull, good rise and brow; vhc, A. Thompson, Pooley; hc, Curtis; c, Snowden, Carlton. PAIRS (14): 1, H. Smith, very good and neat wing-mkd. dark crest ben, with a grand beaded green Crest-bred; 2, Mrs. Gaze, splendid grizzle-cock, fine headpiece, and a stout, well-feathered e.b.; 3, Crowe, two real smart ones, the crested partner being much above the ordinary; 4, Potter, good-headed e.h., mated to a smart Crest, very expansive, shade flat; vhc, Alden, Pauling; c, Crowe, Holmes, Snowden, Coman. A.O.V. (18): 1, W. M. Gage, excellent Jonque Cinn., good shape, substance and sound colour; 2, Daynes, another really fine Cinn.; 3, vhc, Deacon; 4, Mrs. Galloway, both these we unfortunately missed; hc, Daynes, junr.; c, Crow. NOVICE YELL. NOR. (Limit 20/-) (15): 1, 2, Robinson, full of colour and quality, win well, 2, nice head and neck, well coloured, unfli.; 3, Martin; 4, Alden; 5, vhc, T. F. Smith; hc, c, Green; all these were very close together, and good, considering the limit in price. BUFF (Limit 20/-) (8): 1, 4, Harrowven, hen full of quality and type, lack colour, just wins; 2, 3, 5, James Freeman, 2, a good one for type, little long in flight, others very good considering price; vhc, Smith; hc, Rush; c, Burm; all the birds in the Novice Classes were well staged, considering the owners must not have won any prize, or been breeders more than five years.

Hybrids British and Foreign.

CHIPPENHAM.

Show held in conjunction with the Chrysanthemum Show on Nov. 6 and 7, and proved very successful. Quality was very good indeed, the classes being well filled, both in Canaries and Brit. Some ideal specimens were staged. Foreign Bird class was a real good one, some very rare and attractive specimens being on view. Mr. C. P. Arthur exhibited a fine team and carried off premier honours with an Indian Magpie. The opening day was fine throughout, and the show was well patronized. Mr. Wills, the Secretary, was most courteous and obliging, and had excellent support from his committee. Judge, Mr. C. P. Telling, whose awards seemed well received. N. MORECAMBE.

Held Nov. 6th in the Winter Gardens. Ample shelving against the wall in three or four tiers gives abundance of room to stage the birds comfortably. A very smart committee was composed of Messrs. J. Bailey, W. Wilson, W. Jackson, R. Bond, J. W. Wilkinson, Dr. Herd, T. Dixon, W. H. Pickles, Toole, Walker, and Satterthwaite, with Mr. J. H. Ireland an able and courteous secretary. A very liberal schedule had been drawn up, and competition was very keen throughout, high-class exhibits turning up to do battle for the spoil. The Nor. classes filled well, and some rare quality came out, Messrs. Sandiford, Haigh and Son, Dr. Herd, J. H. Ireland, Winn, Hinde and others taking their share. Yorks saw Messrs. Ambler Bros., Ogden Bros., Hawkes, Holmes, Dawson, and others accounting for the prizes. Borders made an excellent show, and Mr. Ferguson handled them in good style. Hybrids brought out some very smart birds, notably Messrs. Jackson and Bond's crack team, their clear Buff Goldie securing special best Hyb. and special best bird in show. The same owners' Siskiu-Greenfinch won the "Ireland" Cup for the best bird bred by a member—a charming bird, beautiful size, shape, colour and markings. Runner-up was a lovely Yell. Nor. hen, bred by Dr. Herd, a gem. It should be stated that Mr. Walsh had entered a big team of British, which for some reason or other failed to put in an appearance, also Mr. Senior's failed to arrive. Special for best Hardbill went to Mr. Axe's grand Bullfinch; Mr. Walker special for Sofe Bill with a good Nightingale; best for English Border Cup went to Mr. J. S. Wilson; best hen, Messrs. Hopper Bros.; best Scotch Cup, Messrs. Reid and Phillips; best hen, Mr. J. Brown. Mr. J. H. Ireland did his level best to make the show an ideal one, and fulfilled his part admirably; he is a great worker, and a most liberal fancier and enthusiast. Everything went off without a hitch. Mr. H. W. Battye judged Nor. and Yorks, Mr. Ferguson Borders, Sell., and A.O.V., and Mr. Houlton Hyhrids, Brit. and For.

PAISLEY, BURGH, TANNAHILL AND OLD COMBINED SHOW.

The twenty-third annual exhibition and competition of the Paisley, Burgh, Tannahill, and Old Ornithological Clubs was held on November 2nd in the George A. Clark North Minor Town Hall. There was a good entry of young birds, and the quality was well up to former years. A large number of people visited the show in the afternoon. The amalgamation prize for the best bird in show was won by J. Smith, of the Burgh Club, the second by H. Powell, of the Tannahill Club, and the third by J. Kennedy, sen., of the Old Club. The following is the complete prize list:—

WALTHAMSTOW.

For a members' show solely, the annual event of Walthamstow F.S. will compare favourably with most others of its kind. The large hall at the Public Baths is an ideal place in every respect, and as to management, it goes without saying, that Mr. C. W. Mead and his excellent committee leave no stone unturned in order to please and secure success. The committee, too, consists of fanciers who have "been through the hoop"—many of them, to wit, Mr J. S. Clarke (chairman), Mr. C. A. House, Mr. C. Burton, Mr. E. J. Voss (a former secretary of the society), and many others Everything was in order, entries good, the stewarding A1, and, best of all, the reward was sure—a good gate. The cups of the society held solely for members were all in competition, and the event proved the wisdom of holding a members' show, apart from the annual open event. This year the cup for best bird was awarded to a very fine Crest-bred, the property of Mr. R. Farmer, and the award seemed to be a popular one. Yorkshires were a very nice show, and the Norwich mustered in force and quality. Mr. Geo. Gardner judged. YORKS. CL. TKD. (8): 1, Jones, good feather and shape, shows plenty of leg and travels well; 2, Penton, also smart, a neat bird; 3, Morris Bros., very neat, grand quality; vhc, Forse; hc, Baldry; c, Meads. BUFF (4): 1, 2, Jones, both birds of good position; 3, Forse, nice one, full of nerve, fine drawn; vhc, Rolph. TKD., ETC. (11): 1, spl, Jones, stylish, quick-nerved, fine quality and good coloured specimen ,stands well; 2, Morris Bros., another gem, very stylish and nicely drawn; 3, Burbridge, typical specimen, hardly so finished as the two leaders, but a good one; vhc, Mead; hc, Forse; c, Morris Bros. HEN (13): 1, Forse, yellow, gem for shape and style, possesses quality in plenty; 2, 3, vhc, Jones, former buff, close-fitting feather, good model, stands up well, 3, a Cinn. tick, fine texture of feather; hc, Mead; c, Clarke. NOR. CL. YELL. (7): 1, spl, Miles, bonny bird, full of quality and level in colour, typical and nice carriage; 2, 3, Marley, snapely, grand quality, as was also 3, a very neat one; vhc, spl, hc, Roberts; c, Williamson. BUFF (10): 1, 3, Marley, leader best shape, full of quality, rich undercolour; 2 Mein, typical and very smart bird; vhc, Carr; hc, Griffin; c, Williamson. TKD., ETC., YELL. (10): 1, vhc, Marley, winner a varieg. of that rich buff texture of feather, full of high quality; 2, Miles, varieg., rich tone of feather, neat shape, good colour; 3, Carr; vhc, Marley; hc, Watcham; c, Handscombe. BUFF (7): 1, spl, vhc, Miles, winner a bouncer, full of Nor. properties, wants his perches placing a little further apart; 2, Marley, very sweet, full of quality, level back and wing covering; 3, c, Griffin, another bird of high quality; hc, Williamson. HEN (8): 1, hc, Miles, yellow, of type and quality, rattling colour, and well shown; 2, 3, c, Marley; grand team of hens, one and all of shape and quality; vhc, Williamson. CRESTS (7): 1, spl, 3, hc, Farmer, the winner bird of merit, nice droop, dense, and neat centre, good body, 3 very pretty and well groomed; 2, c, Watcham, grizzle, plenty of feather, needs a little preparation; vhc, Miss Gilbert. C. BRED (7): 1, 2, cup, vhc, Farmer, leader rattling clear, 2, Green that will, with maturity, easily turn the tables on the winner; 3, hc, c, Watcham, nice head, well covered. GOLDFINCH, ETC. (7): 1, Morris Bros., steady, nutty coloured, well-marked Linnet; 2, 3, Marley, Goldfinch and hen Bullfinch, respectively; vhc, Hellens; hc, Spowage; c, Willmott. GREENFINCH (4): 1, 3, vhc, Hellens, colour, shape and closeness of feather; 2, Marley, also very compact, but hardly colour of first. HARDBILL, A.O.V. (5): 1, Morris Bros., very nice Hawfinch; 2, Spowage, beautiful Brambling, ran the winner hard; 3, vhc, Marley, former pretty Siskin; hc, Hellens. SOFTBILL (7): 1, spl, cup, 2, Morris Bros., leader hearded Tit, in fine plume, and very steady, 2, a Flycatcher, in good feather; 3, vhc (2), hc, c, charming Pipit, rattling Thrush (that can win in its own class), a fine team. SELL. 15/- (4): 1, r, Watcham; 2, Forse. MULES, LIGHT (4): 1, spl, Morris Bros., Goldie-Canary, plenty of size, good feather; 2, Mead, very smart; 3, Baldry. DARK (7): 1, cup, 2, Morris Bros., leader Goldfinch-Bullfinch, very nice colour, 2, Linnet-Canary, large and nice feather; 3, vhc, Marley; hc, Mead; c, Spowage.

PORTSMOUTH.

Held in Drill Hall November 6th and 7th. This, the twenty-first annual, must be considered one of the best. Some of the classes failed in numbers, but they came up well in quality—we don't know when we have seen a nicer collection of birds at Portsmouth. Mr. Woodhouse, jun., took over the secretaryship, which his father had held for 20 years or upwards, and well he carried out the duties; we hope he will keep in harness as many years as his late father. He was backed up by a capital committee, which did all they could for the comfort of the birds. The entries were about 260, including members. The judges were Messrs. J. Robson (Canaries) and J. F. Hills (Brit., etc.). Catalogues with awards in margin were out by 2 o'clock.

NOR. CL. YELL. (4): 1st withheld for lack of entries, not for merit, as 2nd, Miles, was a good representative of the breed, short in wings and tail, beautiful level colour, lovely quality; 3, Lowe, trifle long sided, still a very nice exhibit; vhc, Schneider, another nice bird; hc, Thomas. BUFFS (6): 1, Saunders, a gem for type, very good quality, not quite level in colour on flights, still will want a bit of beating; 3, Lowe (2nd withheld), lovely shaped bird, one of the very best, but we suppose he was kept back for his habit of crossing his wings at times, otherwise he was the winner; vhc, Stroud; hc, Miles, only loses in size. TICK, ETC. (12): 1, spl., 2, Strond, former grand ticked head yellow, 2nd almost an equally fine Buff, hard to separate; 3, Saunders, very taking exhibit, well merited his card; vhc, Lowe, red hot in colour, good shape; hc, Miles, we heard took leading position in London only last week, a good Norwich; c, Saunders. HENS (6): 1, spl., Stroud, yell., very big, free in feather, although she carries it well, has rather a "locky" appearance, but we suppose the judge satisfied himself on this; 3, Lowe, vhc, Miles, were two sweet hens, the type we admire, and many thought deserved more than they got; hc, Sanders. CRESTS (16): Really grand class. 1, spl., Marshall, very thickly thatched head, extra good frontal, very fair radiation; 2, Gale, very good grey, fine body and head, we like to see them encouraged; 3, Haysom, almost green, capital Crest, splendid frontal, we thought the same owners; vhc, 827, a splendid formed Crest, we take to be a hen, and a thorough good one; c, Gale. We made 834 quite one of the best, while 830 we also liked much. CRESTBREDS (16): Another fine lot. 1, Haysom, very massive, fine-headed bird, well lashed; 2, 3, Gale, rare head, nice cushion shape, plenty of feather; 3, another of the right sort, plenty of timber; vhc, Upton and Button; hc, Smith; c, Marshall. YORKS., YELL. (9): 1, spl., Silk, most beautifully drawn bird, scarcely a fault; 2, Lovell, another very typical Yorkie, and well put down, as was also 3, Parrott, only loses a bit in length, excellent quality of feather; vhc, Burtenshaw, very nice; hc, Warr; c, Broome. BUFFS (7): 1, Warr, good bird all over, gets into position very quickly, a fine Yorkie; 2, Lovell, another of the right stamp, not quite the length of winner, rare stand; 3, Burtenshaw, capital position, very nice quality of feather; vhc, Broome; hc, Young; c, Joiner. HENS: 1, spl., Broome, truly a grand one, typical all over; 2, Lovell, ticked buff, another nice hen; 3, Parrott, also a first-class bird; vhc, Warr; hc, Broome; c, Parrot. A.O.V. (4): 1st withheld; 2, spl., Lowe, yell. clin., nice quality of feath r; 3, Silk, pretty, even marked yell. Nor., well balanced in marking; vhc, Morris; hc, Lowe, very pretty Lizard, we thought could have beaten the same owner's cinn. BRIT. GOLDFINCH (17): We could not follow the judge in this class. 1, spl., Carrier, certainly a very nice Goldfinch, as was also 2, Herbert; but 3, Carter, seemed to us the gem of the lot, simply streets ahead of anything in the class; vhc, Hooper, Lowe; hc, Hinde; c, Smith, Joiner. BULLFINCH (10): Nice lot of house-moulted birds. 1, spl., White, fine Bullie, beautifully got up, very steady; 2, Jupe, better colour, but not so large; 3, Prior, another excellent Bullfinch, many preferred; vhc, White, Fellows, Lovell; hc, White, Hedges; c, Carter. LINNET (10): 1, spl., Lovell, real gem, wins all the way, beautifully pencilled, nice nutty-brown, good wings; 2, same owner, not far behind; 3, Prior, another grand Linnet, and close up; vhc, Smith (2), good birds; hc, Long, Joiner. TWITE, ETC. (10): 1, spl., Prior, one of the best Twites we have seen; 2, Long, grand Siskin; 3, Young, very nice Redpoll; vhc, Carter, Long; hc, Botting, Hedges, Lovell. A.O.V. FINCH (13): 1, Prior, lovely Hawfinch, almost perfection; 2, Lean, Bramhling, very steady and good in markings; 3, Feltham, Chaffinch, sweet bird; vhc, Lowe, Kilhury, Loasby; hc, Prior, Joiner, Lean, Kilbury. BLACKBIRD, ETC.: 1, spl., Carter, grand Spangled Starling, shown in A1 condition; 2, withheld; 3, Alderman, Thrush, nice condition; hc, Lowe, same variety, most beautifully spotted, we heard was one of the old Midland champions; vhc, Stevens, Lean, A.O.V. SMALL: 2, spl., 3, Lean, two fine exhibits, Wheatear and Chiffchaff, shown in excellent form; vhc, Hinds, Lean. FOREIGN PARROTS, ETC. (5): 1, withheld; 2, spl., Guy; 3, Crosbie, both nice exhibits; vhc, Barnes, Webb, Flowers. SMALL (8): 1, Millsum; 2, Hopwood; 3, Botting, three lovely exhihits, and did their owners credit. A.O.V.: 1, Wilford; 2, Cooper, 3, Learmouth; vhc, Wilford, Thomas, Downer; hc, Croshie. SELL. (20/-) (14): 1, White; 2, Lowe; 3, Marshall; vhc, Joiner, Saunders; hc, Clements, Ninness. DO. (12/6) (14): 1, Jupe; 2, 3, Saunders. MEMBERS and Local Classes contained some very good birds indeed; in fact, we doubt if there was a better Norwich in the show than the tick bird shown by Mr. Bickell, which soon found a new owner at catalogue price. CLEARS (10): 1, Saunders; 2, Lowe; 3, Ninness. TICK. ETC.: spl., 1, 3, Bickell; 2, Saunders. YORKS. YELLS. (14): spl 1, Joiner, good bird; 2, Chitson; 3, Jackson. A.O.V.: 1, Jupe; 2, Lavis; 3, Clements. A.O.V., CAN. (11): 1, spl, 2, 3, Marshall, excellent Crests. GOLDFINCH (10): 1, spl, Smith; 2, 3, Carrier; vhc, Jupe. BULLFINCH: 1, Carrier; 3, Lean. A.O.V.: spl, 1, 2, 3, Lean.

MARYHILL.

The thirty-first annual Scotch Fancy Show of the Maryhill and District O.C., held in the Burgh Halls, on November 2nd. Hon Presidents, Messrs. Bailie, A. McInnes Shaw, and ex-Bailie C. J. Cleland; President, Mr. Leslie K. McCormick; Vice-President, Mr. Thos. Stirling; Secretary and Treasurer, Mr. Cliff Bell. Judges, Messrs. Robert Finlay and Alex. Clark. Unfortunately, it was a poor show, so far as numbers went, most of the members having had an unfavourable breeding season. There were, however, a few grand birds on the bench. The coveted prize, the M'Innes-Shaw Cup, was won by Mr. Robert Baird, with his Yell. Foul Hen, 1st Derby, 3rd Paisley, and 1st City. This bird also won the Jardine Cup for best young hen. The medal for best young cock was also won by Mr. Baird with a Buff Foul Cock, brother to Yell. Foul Hen. During the afternoon Mr. Bailie A. McInnes-Shaw and Mrs. Shaw presented the prizes. The arrangements were excellent, and reflected credit on all concerned. YELL. COCKS (4): 1, 2, Young, nice pose, good drive, just to small side; 3, Stirling; 4, Usherwood. BUFF COCKS (5): 1, McCormick, good shoulders and drive; 2, Young, nice head and shoulders, thin below; 3, Bell, largest bird in class, hut rather wild; 4, Young; 5, Aitkenhead. FOUL, ETC., COCKS (6): 1, Baird, grand bird, shade small, extra well set, good shoulders, fine hack and drive; 2, Stevenson, another good one; 3, 4, Young; 5, Bell. BUFF PIED COCK (6): 1, Wilson, grand hird, good size, back shoulders and drive, very wild, think this best young cock in show; 2, Jardine; 3, Anderson; 4, Wilson; 5, Stevenson. YELL. HENS (2): Rather poor class. 1, Stirling, nice shoulders and drive; 2, Anderson. BUFF (3): 1, Jardine, splendid hird, hut small wings, finely set, clean front, nice drive; 2, 3, Young, good pair, much larger than 1st, good thickness, shoulders hard up, hut carry head high. YELL. PIED HENS (3): 1, Usherwood; 2, Ferguson; 3, Anderson. FOUL, ETC., HENS (7): Best young class in hall. all good hirds. 1, Baird, best young hird in show, grand size, hard up, good thickness shoulders and drive; 2, Usherwood, another good one, fails only in size to 1st; 3, Martin, larger than others, splendid shoulders and drive, hut thin under; 4, Baird; 5, 6, Young. BUFF PIED (4): 1, Martin, fair bird, nice neck and drive; 2, Stevenson, very wild; 3, Young, large, good thickness at shoulders, fine body, hut carries head high; 4, Ferguson, nice bird, hut small. SELL. COCKS (5): 1, McCormick; 2, Usherwood; 3, Stirling; 4, Paterson; 5, Wilson. HENS (4): 1, 2, Wilson; 3, Bell; 4, McCormick. OLD COCKS (8): Splendid class. 1, McCormick, neat head, good style, reach and body; 2, Bell, ran 1st very hard, larger, fine shoulders, hard up, good drive, runner-up for cup last year; 3, Jardine, another good one, fine body, neck and drive, last year's cup winner; 4, Geddes; 5, Martin; 6, Paterson. HENS (5): 1, Martin, grand hird, large, good thickness, shoulders well set, good drive; 2, Jardine, another good one, hut small; 3, Anderson, very stylish splendid action, hut small; 4, Usherwood, grand hird, nice head and shoulders, well up on others; 5, Paterson.

Cage bird fanciers are to be congratulated on having such an enterprising paper as CAGE BIRDS. The show map you gave last week is particularly useful for exhibitors, and should be in all bird rooms. I trust your new venture ("The Poultry World") will be as successful as "C.B." I see you mention "The Fanciers' Gazette": this takes me back to the time I was a boy, and used to fetch it every week for my father, who was at that time a big Brahma breeder, as well as a Canary and British bird fancier.—A. S. TREASURE (Cheltenham).

TO SHOW SECRETARIES:

Owing to the heavy pressure of Work in this office in the early part of the week, receipts for monies paid will not be dispatched until Friday.

TWITTERINGS.

Swansea show I won 4th in Norwich Yellow, not Pritchard; also 5th in Buff Norwich, not Hodder, writes Mr. G. L. HARBER.

We have got 84 specials, including 13 silver and plated cups, for our annual show, writes Mr. V. WYNN, Sec. of the City and Surburban A.C.B.

The business carried on by me at 95, Waterloo Street, Hull, writes Mr. H. Dean, has now been transferred to Miss Parker, at the same address.

Report of City of Glasgow show states that Graham was 4th in the Large British Bird Class, whereas I had that honour.—R. GILMOUR (Kircaldy).

Messrs. Ambler should be winners of Challenge Bowl A.O.V., not T. J. King, as in the Glouecster show eatalogue, writes Mr. W. G. WILLIAMS (Gloucester).

Wolverhampton Show: You credit Mr. Oldroyd with 2nd prize in Class 35, whereas I was 2nd, and I hold the card for same, writes Mr. A. HARPER (Bilston).

Had over 30 replies to my advertisement in last week's CAGE BIRDS re Siskin, writes Mr. J. Esplin (Bonnybridge). Kindly say it is impossible to reply to all.

I wish to thank your most valuable paper, CAGE BIRDS for the result from my advertisement, as I sold all the birds I advertised, writes Mr. T. SUMMERS (Leeds).

Mr. Blaekie, St. Boswells, writes: In the report of the Dulwich and Peckham show the 2nd in the Border Fancy Yellow Cock was myself, not Mr. Thompson as reported.

In your report of Gloucester Show (Softbill Class), writes Mr. Charles Burrows (Stratford-on-Avon), you say 1st Poole, Lovely Wyneck, etc. This should have been Burrows, etc., owner.

Mr. P. McCarthy (Limerick) writes: With referenee to my advertisement in last week's CAGE BIRDS re "Linnet Wanted," kindly thank all who answered; am unable to reply to all, having received over 70 letters; undoubtedly CAGE BIRDS is a wonderful paper to advertise in.

The birds entered by Mr. Rowles and myself at Swansea, October 30th and 31st, were absent through some blunder on the part of the railway officials, writes Mr. Sydney L. Cocks (Peterboro'), as they were returned to Peterboro' about three hours after they were due at Swansea.

It was a very pleasant surprise on Friday morning, writes Mr. E. S. Lugg (Lewisham), on opening CAGE BIRDS to find my Yellow Norwich gracing the front page of our foremost fancy paper. I beg to thank you for the honour you have done me, and look upon it as practical encouragement. He is the only bird I reared out of a nest of three, and is much better and bigger than either of his parents, both coming from good exhibition stock.

Messrs. Bagshawe and Swarbrick, joint secs. of the Tideswell and District C.B. Improvement Society write:—The committee wish to draw readers attention to the fact that we have no connection with poultry and other sections. Some years ago we added poultry classes to our schedule, but owing to various grievances the whole of the cage bird fanciers left the poultry society. Amongst our members are many old and experienced fanciers, and exhibitors may depend on their exhibits having proper attention. The show will be held on December 7th, in the Bagshawe Hall, a well-lighted and commodious room, quite free from draughts. We trust that cage bird fanciers will rally round us on the occasion.

Report of the Battersea Show reads Linnot, H.C., Maxwell. My bird won the card.—E. R. TEMPLE (Chelmsford).

I shall be pleased to receive schedules of shows from secretaries, writes Mr. A. E. Bishop, 9, Barry Road, Worcester.

The report of Barnstaple Show gives 1st in the 21s. selling class to J. Symons; it should be Hammett and Son (Barnstaple).

Please note change of address to 77, Barton Street, Macclesfield, writes Mr. F. Broadhurst, Secretary of the Macclesfield and District C.B.S.

We hear that the next Members' Show of the Macclesfield and District C.B.S. is fixed for November 30th, when Mr. W. Bowyer, Leek, will judge.

My bird was awarded H.C. in the Unflighted Yorkshire Class, Gloucester Show, writes Mr. W. H. Lohr (Carmarthen), not Lovell, as given in report.

Battersea Show report credit Mr. Mabey with cup for best Unflighted, whereas my bird secured that honour, writes Dr. J. E. Sidgwick (Queen's Road, S.E.).

The Blaydon-on-Tyne Show, writes Mr. D. A. Ogilvie, the Secretary, was a record one both for entry and gate, which was three times that of any previous show.

Gloucester Show report says Yorkshire Unflighted 2 and 4 Bailey and Swanger, writes Mr. E. J. Banks (Cardiff), which should be 2 Bailey and Swanger, and 4 Banks.

The Annual Open Show of the Hugglescote and District F.S. will be held in the National Schools, on January 1st, Mr J. N. Harrison, judge, writes Mr. F. Haywood, Sec.

The entries at Penzance and District Show, writes Mr. J. Pearce Sampson, Sec., do not average one per class. We must extend to Monday morning post, November 11 next.

Kindly inform your readers that I have removed from 50, Tivoli Place to 6, Hawes Road, Little Horton, Bradford, writes Mr. A. Brayshaw, of Messrs. Brayshaw and Jowett.

Owing to unforseen circumstanees the next monthly meeting of the Stoke Newington F.S. will be held on Tuesday, November 19th, instead of the 12th, writes Mr. GEO. DOWDEN.

I have read Mr. H. T. Davies' article on the Shama in your interesting supplement last week, and I ean second all he says about this bird as I have had one for years.—E. TARRATT (Stonehouse).

On a recount I find that Mr. Hodder won the speeial for most points in Open Norwieh Classes, at Dulwieh Show, writes Mr. Woolhouse, the show manager, and not Mr. Morris, as previously stated.

I hope exhibitors will send this popular fixture a bumping entry, writes Mr. Jewiss, the Secretary of Gravesend Show. The committee being all prominent fanciers, the exhibits are always well cared for.

Clapham and District Members Show at the Avondale Hall, London Road, Clapham, today. Grand entry, reeord number of specials. All fanciers in London invited.—S. Baker, Sec., 11, Foulser Road, Upper Tooting.—ADVT.

A sample of wild seed mixture reaches us from Mr. A. E. Cross (Knaphill), for which he has had many repeat orders from well-known fanciers, a fact which causes us no surprise, as examination shows it to be quite one of the best we have ever inspected.

At the recent Newtown St. Boswell's Show, the leading exhibit in the A.O.V. Brit., the property of Mr .G .MeWilliam attracted considerable interest. It is a Fieldfare, and has now won 47 cash prizes and is in his fifth show season, looking just as fit as ever.

Our first show held 30th October turned out a success, writes Mr. E. C. Parnell, Hon. Sec. of the Torbay O.S. Local exhibits were delivered same night, and others despatched by 9 a.m. train next day. After discharging all liabilities we shall have about £6 to start our next show with.

Mr. Brownlie (London) offers a special of a silver-mounted gent's umbrella for the Border classes in connection with the international contest at Gateshead Show, writes Mr. T. Taylor, the Seeretary, and I take the opportunity on behalf of my committee of thanking him for his handsome gift.

I wish to thank all exhibitors who supported me with entries on October 25th and 26th, writes Mr. J. J. Dooley, Hon. Sec., Chesterfield Show. I have received numerous letters thanking me for our prompt payment. All exhibits were got away in good time, and not a single complaint has reached me.

At Luton Show, November 13th (cage birds only), entries don't average one per class. We are compelled to extend until Saturday, November 9th, and ask fanciers to send their entries on, when I will classify. 59 classes and good specials in every class, with popular judges. Fanciers please help us.—E. CHERRY, Sec., 4, Peel Street, Luton, Beds.—ADVT.

Mr. W. F. Heaton (of Nantwich) has been ill of late, writes Mr. William Heaton, junr., and sailed on Saturday last on the "R.M.S. Lusitania" for the States. He hopes he will soon get better. Will secretaries please note he will be unable to fulfill judging engagements? Business as usual through myself, at 42, Princess Road, Moss Side, Manchester.

The entry of members' young birds for the forthcoming Derby Jubilee Show, made at a recent meeting of the club, was not a very large one, the members having again had a very bad season, writes Mr. W. H. Bamsey. It is to be hoped they will have better luck next year, when a silver challenge cup will be competed for as a points' special, the winner each year to be presented with a gold medal, and return the cup at the end of twelve months.

Mansfield Show is fortunate in having the services of that very enthusiastic British and Foreign Bird fancier, Mr. W. Roslyn, a true fancier in every sense of the word, and who makes a capital president.

Fanciers throughout Lancashire and Yorkshire are invited to hurry up with their entries for Blackpool Show. Good prize money and specials. Spend a week end at this famous resort and help to make the show a success.

The genial president of the Derby C.B.C. was elected a member of the Derby Town Council on Friday last by a majority of 220. Mr. Hill's enthusiastic admirers, we hear, carried him shoulder high from the Town Hall to the Liberal Club.

Report of Wolverhampton Show states that Mr. Tonks wins second prize in CAGE BIRDS competition with his 3rd prize Goldie-Greenie, which is incorrect, as my Bullfinch was the only 2nd prize bird entered in your competition.—G. OSBORNE (Wednesfield).

Mr. D. H. Tedstone.

Mr. D. H. Todstone (Brecon), is Hon. Sec. of the Welsh Cage Bird Club, the members of which presented him with a testimonial at Swansea Show, held on Wednesday last.

Mr. H. W. Battye (Huddersfield) and Mr. Booth (Hyde) will judge at Pendleton and Salford Open Show on December 13th and 14th, writes Mr. W. Jaekson, the Hon. Sec. Our schedules will be ready shortly, and there is a good classifieation.

At Mansfield Show was to be seen that well-known and highly-respected Crest breeder, Mr. W. Simms, of Sutton-in-Ashfield. He is beginning to look himself again, after his serious illness, and it was with pleasure we heard of his fast progress towards complete recovery.

Kindly thank all those who answered my advertisement last week as I had so many replies that it is impossible for me to do the same. I had answers from all parts of the country, which shows CAGE BIRDS is a valuable paper to advertise in.—W. SALMON (West Hampstead).

I was not showing at Norwich this year owing to the cutting out of three of the British Bird Classes, writes Mr. W. Lowne (Yarmouth), and I know of other exhibitors not showing for the same reasons. Last year with two elasses, one of Linnets and one Redpoll Siskin or Twite, they had 18 entries. Surely they might have put them together and given them another trial, as variety is what the public want, not all Canaries.

I see in last week's exeellent double number an aeeount of a washing exhibition supposed to be given by me, writes Mr. J. H. Winn, of Lancaster. Now I want to contradiet it, and say that it was put together by the secretary, and not by me. I might say there is searcely a thing he mentions except what is contrary to my method, which I will give you at some future date. Sickness in the house prevents me just at present.

Sligo Show exhibitors please note that the following specials are not ineluded in schedule, writes Mr. C. J. Mulligan, Secretary, as they came to hand too late:—Five shillings, presented by Mr. W. Tate (Belfast) for most points gained in Norwich Plainhead classes; silver medal with gold centre for best Yorkshire hen in show; and silver medal with gold centre for the best Norwich Plainhead hen in show, both presented by Mr. T. F. O'Reilly (Dublin).

The question of the open show was fully discussed by a large number of fanciers aud visitors present at Berwick Members' Show, writes "One who was there," and it is to be hoped that Berwick will regain her old position in the Canary world, as the society is composed of genuine fanciers. The equal of the hall secured cannot be found, and the train service is the best in the country between London and Aberdeen, so fanciers should remember this show on November 28th.

I have for a long time been trying to arrange cheap tickets for Bristol F.A. Show, writes Mr. G. T. H. Maggs, the Hon Sec., and have only just succeeded in obtaining the concession, when it is too late to include a coupon in schedule. The great Western and Midland Railway Companies will issue return tickets at a fare and a quarter from any point within 60 miles of Bristol on production to the booking clerk of ticket of admission to our show. It remains for fanciers by availing themselves of this concession to show the Companies that it will pay them to continue it. I shall be glad to supply tickets to intending visitors, who will much assist by making early application.

Who's Who?

Who was that well-known Long Eaton fancier who journeyed to a certain Midland Show not knowing the samo had been cancelled, and transforred to a future date, and who had to return homo a wiser, but sadder man? His comments on the situation are said to have been warm enough to havo colour-fed a room full of Canaries.

A British Rara Avis.

A fino specimen of the Richard's Pipit (Anthus richardii) was eaught by a bird-catcher on the Denes, at Great Yarmouth, on October 21st, writes Mr. W. Lowne, the well-known naturalist, and is in my possession, much improving in feather, as it was not through the moult when caught. This is the first I have met with during the 26 years of my experience as an ornithologist.

London to the Fore.

The successes secured by metropolitan exhibitors were an outstanding feature of the recent Dulwieh and Peckham Show. In all departments fanciers residing in London provided outside fanciers with some hard nuts to crack—too hard in many instances. Even in Borders, Mr. Aberdeen, who is quite a young fancier, scored a first against the Northern cracks, and Mr. Brownlie put a fair number of prizes to the great City's credit. In the Norwich Plainheads, Messrs. Morris, Hodder, and Boydon scored very heavily. In Yorkshires, Mr. Crisp had a regular "field day" (four firsts and challenge shield), and Mr. Tyson stood first in both Crests and C.B.'s. Among the British and Foreign, Messrs. Maxwell Prior, Francis, Cook, and others well held their own.

USE OUR PICTURE POSTCARDS.

Last year, at our open show, writes Mr. H. Schneider, of Winchester, was the first time I ever exhibited a bird. Naturally, I was unsuccessful, yet I noticed how it was done. Then I started taking in CAGE BIRDS, and I decided to get rid of all my old stock, and went in for a new lot. I was lucky enough to get hold of two good pairs of birds, well matched. Now, thanks to CAGE BIRDS (through which I have become quite an expert), I have been very successful. I give you my warmest thanks.

A correspondent of the "Daily Chronicle" writes to that journal as follows.—"Paying a visit to a fashionable milliner in a fashionable street, I expressed my surprise at the number of delicate little osprey plumes in her window. 'I am surprised,' I said, 'after the Queen has asked her subjects to give up wearing them that you should still display them.' 'Madam,' she said, 'there are ladies who will insist upon having them.' I never wore one in my life, and always look upon them with detestation, and hoped their reign was done."

The new Plumstead, Woolwich, and District C.B.S. has arranged a nice little programme for its first season. Washing and cage making demonstrations, shows, and lectures. The rules are concise, practical, and eminently workable. The membership has now reached a total of thirty-two, and each meeting finds the number increased. Much enthusiam is being manifested by the members, and the Society seems to be meeting a much felt want in the neighbourhood. Mr. W. Pawley, 13, Olvin Road, Plumstead, is the hon. sec., and will be pleased to give any information concerning the Society.

Mr. Ernest E. Pass, of 9a, Carlingford Road, Hucknall Torkard, Notts, has just put on the market a useful speciality in the form of an improved drying cage, of which he is the sole manufacturer. It is fitted with zinc tank, tun dish, air valve, emptying tap, loose wire front and glass back, etc. All the fittings are of brass, and the tank can be emptied of water whilst the birds are in it. The price is 10s. 6d. There are others costing only 4s. 6d. each. Either would be worth a trial, Mr. Pass's productions being of the best.

"Storey's Price List" has just been issued. It is a nicely-arranged and well got up catalogue, with index, of the things supplied by Miss L. Storey, bird specialist, Crowle, near Doncaster. The front illustrations show Miss Storey's Yorkshire and Norwich Canary breeding room, and the Roller Canary training room. In her letter of introduction Miss Storey says that the sending of every bird and all appliances on approval is the method she relies on to ensure her customers being perfectly satisfied with their purchases. Roller Canaries are a leading line, while Yorkshires, Norwich, Plainheads and Crests and British birds are also a speciality. Besides birds, Miss Storey provides for the wants of birds, her breeding and show cages, aviaries, netting, and all manner of appliances being of the best quality, and cheap into the bargain. A price list may be had free on application.

Mr. J. Hill has been elected treasurer and myself secretary of the Wombwell and Darfield C.B.S. I may say that we intend bringing this Society to the front. It really ought to be one of the best societies going. I am fully aware of the valuable help to be had from your paper. I am only a novice, this being my first year's breeding (Norwich). I have obtained most of my information from your paper, and have got 18 young, all in the pink of condition from 4 hens and 2 cocks, and have been informed that I have six or seven extra good birds for the show bench, with which I intend having a "pop" this season.—WALTER ROSS, hon. sec., Wombwell and Darfield C.B.S., 69, George Street, Low Valley, Wombwell.

ALLEGED POISONING OF SHOW BIRDS.

TWO SENSATIONAL CASES IN SCOTLAND.

Having heard that four birds belonging to an exhibitor at the recent Arbroath Show were alleged to have died as the result of being given poison while in the show room, we at once requested the secretary Mr. J. S. Napier, to send us the particulars, and he has kindly forwarded the appended letter—(Ed. C.B.):—

"The birds supposed to have been poisoned at Arbroath Show are the property of the president of the Society, Mr. James Strachan, a well-known breeder and exhibitor of the Scotch Fancy Canary. Mr. Strachan had 14 birds in the show, and on the Sunday after the show four birds died, with every appearance of having been poisoned. Since then another has died; but as there were no other birds affected, it would seem to be a vile act of personal spleen. The case is now in the hands of the police, so it will not do to say very much about it. I may also add that Mr. Strachan has offered a reward of £10 to anyone who will give information which will lead to the detection and prosecution of the guilty party.

Another poisoning case is said to have occurred at the Broughty Ferry Show, which came off a fortnight before our Arbroath Show. The bird alleged to have been poisoned was the property of two well-known Dundee gentlemen, who while going round the show in the afternoon, saw a party handling one of their exhibits. Going up to the bird, it is said they saw it drink from the water-glass, then drop off the perch to the floor. One of them took it out of the cage, and it died in his hand. They put the water into a bottle and sent it to an analyst, who told them there was enough poison in it to have killed all the birds in the hall. There was no other bird interfered with."

Mr. C. Campbell will judge Novice and Limit Class in Plainhead section at the Glasgow and West of Scotland Show, November 15th, writes Mr. J. Brown, secretary. Class 17 should read "Limit Class Cock or Hen, any colour," not Novice and Limit as stated in Schedule; and "Special 94 is open to every exhibitor in Yorkshire classes.

Mr. F. Wyse, a member of the City and Suburban A.C.B., writes us from Flowerburn, Fortrose, N.B.:—I have been up the far North now ten weeks, but shall be returning to London very soon now, for the winter. I have been watching the wild birds here in the woods; there are no end of Chaffinches, Chiff-chaffs, White-throats, Tits, and Wrens, and several kinds I have never seen before. I soon got to know exactly what the majority of them were, by looking up CAGE BIRDS' plates and paper, which I get every week from our secretary, Mr. Wynn. I am very pleased to tell you I have found many readers of CAGE BIRDS up here, and they have told me a good bit of the doings of birds in these Northern parts. I forgot to mention that plenty of Siskins and Redpolls breed here in the Pine Woods.

Scarcely Scarce!

We not infrequently hear a cry raised as to the scarcity of judges. In this connection it is interesting to note that when revising the "Judges' Initials" for this season's list of guaranteed shows it was found necessary to add no fewer than fifty-two fresh names to that feature, over and above the number which appeared last year. The list of judges now bears a very formidable appearance, and this despite the fact that many names have had necessarily to be deleted therefrom.

Special Winners at Dulwich.

Mr. G. F. Woolhouse (Dulwich Show) writes: The winner of the Society's challenge cup for most points is Mr. C. W. Mabey (second time). The Goodwin trophy for runner-up, Mr. W. Morris. Silver rose bowl, best unflighted, Mr. Crisp. Most points in champion section, Mr. Mabey. Most points novice, Mr. J. Johnson. Second, Mr. Hollands. Mr. Waterman, special most entries in novice. Mr. Wall, runner-up. Mr. Brownlie, most entries open classes. Most points British (open), Mr. Maxwell; members, Mr. W. Francis. All birds were delivered to the railway company within four hours of closing show, and have received many letters from exhibitors stating their birds arrived home in good time. Mrs. Goodwin and local ladies' stall for the Lord Mayor's Crippled Children Fund realized £12.

Coventry's Youthful Bird Artists.

The drawing competition promoted by the Coventry O.S. in connection with their recent show, attracted a splendid lot of pencil pictures, no fewer than 340 efforts reaching our Mr. G. E. Weston, to be adjudicated upon. The merit was so level that the task of selecting the winning efforts was no light one. In opening the show, Alderman A. H. Drinkwater said: "I would particularly commend the effort to enlist the interest of the younger generation in birds, so that they may regard them as creatures of life and feeling and beauty. I am sure that every boy who has given thought and attention to the object of his drawing, will feel some admiration for the beautiful form of the bird, and have a better understanding of its place in the world The fact that 340 drawings have been sent in must be very encouraging to the society, and it is a special feature of their work which I hope will be crowned with further success."

OUR FOREIGN BIRD ESSAY COMPETITION.

THE RESULT.

We are pleased to be able to announce the complete success of our recent competition for essays dealing with the keeping of Foreign Birds. Not only was the entry good in point of number, but the judges appointed to select the winning article report that the standard of merit was exceptionally high throughout, and that it was only after prolonged consideration they were able to decide on the essay entitled to first place and our prize of One Guinea. This eventually fell to

Mr. H. S. Davies,
32, New Road,
Llandilo,
South Wales

for the paper entitled "Suitable Foreign Birds for the Novice Exhibitor," printed in our illustrated supplement of last week. We have to announce, however, that in view of the evenness of merit, and the general excellence of the efforts of those who competed, we shall publish from time to time the other essays, and pay for them, as stated in the original conditions, at our usual scale for such matter.

The judges, to whom our best thanks are due for their conscientious and extended consideration of the efforts of competitors, were Stanley M. Townsend, Esq., well-known as a lover and exhibitor of the rarer Foreign species, and honorary show secretary of the Foreign Bird Club, and Frank Finn, Esq., B.A., F.Z.S., whose name and writings will be familiar to all our readers.

The most delightful and appropriate Postcards for Bird Lovers on the Market are those published by "Cage Birds."

CANARIES.

NORWICH PLAINHEADS.

Strengthening the Yellow.

J.R.R.—If you are anxious to strengthen the yellow in your stock, I should strongly advise you to use green blood in preference to cinnamon. The latter would improve the quality of feather; that is, if the birds introduced were good in this respect, but it would not improve the colour. In selecting Greens, see they are of a good rich bronze shade of colour, and not the grassy Greens, as these are not colour producers such as you require. If you cannot procure good Greens, good heavily variegated Yellows will answer.

Poorly Since Breeding.

A Heron.—(1) Give the hen in drinking water fresh daily for a fortnight fifteen drops of Syrup of Tolu, ten of Paregoric, and five of good whisky. (2) Let this hen have in a little egg food three times in one week as much Aromatic Confection as will lie on a threepenny piece. Then give in the drinking water, fresh daily for a week, ten drops of Tincture of Quinine, and after on alternate days for a fortnight. (3) Have you got hold of a lot of old stock that have seen the best of their days? It seems such is the case, and I feel strongly inclined to advise you to have a general clearance, for birds that are in the state you say yours are in are not likely to be of much use for breeding next season. Is the place you are keeping them in quite free from dampness and draughts?

YORKSHIRES.

Redmite.

H.K. (Coventry).—If your cage is thoroughly infested with redmite, I should advise you to get a new one, and, before putting your bird into it, dust it well over with good insect powder. Then wrap the bird up in a strip of cotton about six inches wide, all except the head; you may dust the head as well, but don't wrap it up. Let the bird remain in the cloth five minutes, and then put it in the new cage. Do this in the daytime, as then the mites will be mostly in the crevices of the cage, and not on the bird's body. When you have done this, burn the old cage, as this will be the best plan, and the cheapest in the long run. Give the bird a bath on bright days, two or three times a week. Scald a few quassia chips, and put a half teaspoonful of the liquid in the bathing water.

Birds for Breeding.

J.E.H.—Very pleased with your frank and fully descriptive letter. It is a pleasure to reply to anyone who tries to make himself properly understood. In reply, I would not advise keeping the birds you describe, but rather selling them for songsters, if you can, buying a pair to breed with from some breeder whom you know. You might get a decent pair anywhere from 10s. to 30s. Much depends on the quality and standing of the breeder as to the price charged, but until you have had a little experience, I should not advise buying expensive birds. You may try my plan on the one you suggest, viz., buying two hens and breeding songsters for a season, and then try your hand on some better-class stock.

Food After Moult.

A. E. Price.—Try the following mixture: 1lb. best Summer Rape, 1½lb. Gold of Pleasure, ½lb. Inga, ½lb. Maw Seed, half a teaspoonful Pea bird. Each day give a liberal supply of clean, sharp, gritty sand, and give in drinking water, fresh daily, five drops of tincture of steel.

Preparing for Shows.

Anxious.—Stop the Hemp, Watercress, and mixture you are using in the water, and give only half the quantity of colour food, mixing half a teaspoonful of Maw Seed with the food and a little soft sugar. Give six drops of Parrish's Chemical Food in the drinking water fresh daily. There are many birds besides that are not through moult yet, and yours will probably come all right shortly.

A Squeaking Cock.

J. Kennealiy.—Keep the bird in a nice warm place, free from draughts, and give in the drinking water every morning 20 drops of Whiskey, 10 of Paregoric, and 10 of Glycerine. Give fresh every morning, and in the way of food White Seed in the hopper and a little milk sop about noon every day for a fortnight, well mixing with same a little honey.

CINNAMONS.

Answered by J. NORTH.

Asthmatical Hen.

Only a Novice.—You have nosed, or diagnosed, as the medicos would say, this disease with precision. Well-bred birds are very liable to develop it, and especially so at this time of year. In all probability there is a hereditary predisposition to it; a regime of too much food and too little exercise will complete the mischief. Add 10 drops of antimonial wine to drinking water. Discontinue seed of a fatty nature, such as hemp and maw, giving chiefly Canary seed and a very little German rape. Fruit, such as sweet apple; salad, such as watercress; vegetables, such as boiled carrot or beet root, may be given liberally, but not all of a heap, and the hen would do better in a 30in. breeding cage than in a cubicle, even if she had to rough it with a few other ladies.

A Withering Toe.

J.P.—It is difficult to advise in this case, as the toe has been already cut, but not sufficiently. All one can advise is in the way of relieving pain and to aid recovery of the wound, and for these purposes there is nothing more suitable or easier of application than the Fluid Extract of Witch Hazel, which can be bought at any chemist's, and applied with a brush once or twice every day. From my point of view, it does not appear to be necessary to cut it again. Try suggested remedy first, anyhow.

ROLLERS.

Answered by "SCHOOLMASTER."

Hoarse When Singing.

C.H.—A very simple remedy for Rollers a little hoarse (if given in time) is a little fresh butter (not salty), chewed in the mouth into a little stale bread, and stuck on the perch end; or, better still, given in the finger drawer. Instead of the bread, a tiny piece of Osborne biscuit may be used. This "tip" is kept a sort of family secret by many old Roller fanciers. If a bird has a cold, however, it should be kept cosy, in a warm, even temperature, and be given a small teaspoonful of the following, fresh daily, well stirred into two tablespoonfuls of drinking water: Best glycerine and honey, two ounces of each, well mixed together. A piece of sugar candy the size of a small nut dissolved in the water will often also cure hoarseness.

When to Buy.

Grapho.—The best time to buy young, home-bred Rollers, is after they have moulted, and been educated to produce a good song. This would vary with individual birds, of course, but you certainly could get some stock now, quite ready. Birds with a really good song, that is, fit to enter at a show, are always of considerable value, and you might pay from 20s. to 50s. for really good performers. Imported contest birds would cost you more, if guaranteed fit to win at the shows. If you don't want a finished contest singer, then the price would be very much lower. Every breeder ought to have at least one specially good old bird in his room to train the youngsters under.

Roller Moulting.

Snip.—Possibly the changeable damp weather is the cause of the trouble. The bird will get over it all right, seeing he bears it so well up to the present, and be quite fit to breed with the coming spring. Keep him strictly out of draughts, and give in two tablespoonfuls of drinking water, a small teaspoonful of Parrish's Chemical Food, fresh daily. Let him have a little good, soft food daily—Canary-bread, or some good patent food, as advertised in "C.B."

Very Hoarse.

A.R.S.—You did not give the medicine strong enough; one small teaspoonful to two tablespoonfuls of drinking water is the correct dose. Leave out the lemon juice. You must keep the bird very cosy and warm, covering the cage at night. It is quite correct to give the soft bread. Give the medicine for another ten days or so, the revised strength, and then let me know if there is no sign of improvement. It is very rarely that it fails, if proper attention is given to the surroundings of the patient. I presume you have had the bird some time, and know that his song is naturally good?

Several Matters.

Ceegee.—1, It is against the rules to give addresses in these columns, but if you sent your communication in a stamped envelope to the Editor, he no doubt would have it posted to the gentleman you name. 2, If the loud, noisy singing is part of the natural song of the Roller, you can do nothing to check it, and I advise you to get rid of the bird, as it will infect any high-class stock it comes in contact with—the best of birds will pick up freely the bad notes it hears. Canary seed doesn't alter a bird's song, and it is not a forcing enough food to make them sing louder. Rollers will sing more shrilly when the pairing fever is on them, but they sing good notes, and don't lapse into "chopping" and other abominable noises. 3, The canary seed seems very decent stuff, but I should not look upon it as best Spanish. 4, The rape seed is most certainly not genuine German "rubsen"—it has quite a hot, mustardy taste when chewed.

Canary Seed; Linnet Mixture.

Trombone.—1: I'm bothered if I could see much difference in the two samples of canary seed. Neither could be considered of really high quality, and I don't think you could go far wrong whichever you decided upon. Better is to be bought, undoubtedly. 2: A good seed mixture for Linnets would be canary three parts, teazle two parts, summer rape, charlock, and linseed one part each. A feed of maw seed and a little hemp can be given occasionally, as a change; also a good wild-seed mixture. Cracked hemp (fresh made every day) should be given freely to fresh-caught Linnets; likewise maw seed. Let them have plenty of ripe, seeding shepherd's purse and chickweed if you can get it, also thistle, etc., heads. I should say that where a door is always open, there is bound to be a draught.

Goldfinch Moulting.

Junior Dick.—A Goldfinch cannot be expected to get over the moult in a month. The blaze is always the last part to moult—just the same as in other species the head is the last spot. Further, the colour of the new blaze is always peculiar at first, just when the pen feathers are clearing out of it. This need not alarm you, however, for as the bird throws off the effects of the moult, his blaze will come up in colour (or "darken down," as many fanciers term it), and quickly turn to the deep scarlet it was before he struck into moult. If a bird seems very slow in getting rid of the last few "pens" in its face, the removal may be accelerated by gently brushing (or grooming) the blaze every day for a few minutes with a camel-hair tooth brush dipped in fairly warm water. Always brush downwards, the way the feathers lie, and keep the bristles out of the bird's eyes. After the pen feathers have disappeared, the blaze should be groomed daily with a corner of an old, soft silk handkerchief, which has had one drop of pure olive oil rubbed into it.

Linnets and Canaries Dying.

R. Howells.—You do not give any particulars to help one to form an opinion—no facts about the feeding, or anything. On the face of it, the case looks very like one of bird-fever, or other infectious trouble. Your best plan would be to send a dead body to our Mr. North for post-mortem examination (see rules). If you have had a bird suffering from fever at any time, then one's cages can become infected and communicate the disease to any further birds which may be housed in them. The best remedy, really, is to burn them and buy fresh. For replies direct note our rules.

Diet of Chaffinch.

E. A.—Green food and hemp seed make up a queer diet for a Chaffinch. As a matter of fact, hemp should be given but very sparingly indeed, as an occasional treat. Let the stock mixture be: Canary and teazle three parts each, linseed, sunflower, summer rape, and charlock one part each. Maw, wild seed mixture, niger, thistle, dandelion, etc., can be given now and again, as a treat, with a mealworm or two every day or so. A little ripe fruit is often relished. I have never found Chaffinches very keen on green food, personally, though sometimes they'll nibble at a sprig. All sorts of live foods (flies, etc.) they delight in.

Class for Siberians.

Siberian.—If the word British were not specified in the schedule of a show, then a Siberian Goldfinch would compete in the ordinary Goldfinch class. But where the latter obtains the class heading generally reads "Goldfinch, any Nationality." In most cases, where plain "Goldfinch" is set down, this comes directly under the section heading of British Birds, and where this is so, only English Goldies are eligible. When the Goldfinch class is restricted to British Finches, then all Siberians must go into the class for "Small Foreign Birds." Sometimes one gets a class especially for Foreign Goldies and Bullies.

Skylark's Peculiar Moult.

J. R. C.—Are you sure the Skylark has not broken the tail-feathers off short? If so the stumps would be noticed on examination, and these should be extracted, when the tail would be reproduced in about six weeks forward. Cases of erratic moulting are by no means uncommon, and it may be that your bird will go tail-less until the next moulting season comes round. Mix 3 drops of Parrish's Chemical Food amongst its daily allowance of soft-food, and gradually increase the quantity to 8 drops. Keep this up for a fortnight at least. The roughness of the body plumage can be put right, providing it is not due to some defect or other of the feather, by a course of the following treatment—often one trial is sufficient. Spray the bird, not too heavily, with water which has had the chill removed. When he is looking fairly wet, take a handful of fine, but gritty sand, and thoroughly dust it over him. Keep him in a warmed room, out of draughts, until quite dry again, and he has preened himself well. For getting Larks, and similar species into "exhibition form, this simple treatment, so far as the look of the plumage is concerned, cannot be beaten.

Goldfinch "Hung Up" in the Moult.

W.A.—You are making a very grave mistake in leaving the bird out-of-doors all day, especially seeing the damp, abominable weather we have been having. Take him into a warmed room, out of all draughts at once. Cover cage over at night. For one day dissolve in the drinking water as much sulphate of soda (get an ounce from the chemist) as will lie on a shilling. Repeat it after a day's interval on plain water. Let him have plenty of maw and niger seeds to eat. Have never used terebene in a bird's drinking water, and don't think I ever shall. I should certainly stop it. Write me again in 12 days' time. I think you will have found the symptoms you mention have vanished then.

A Queer State.

Z.W.V.—Trouble with insect pests, if at all severe (and it soon reaches this stage when neglected) will certainly cause birds to go bare in places, and even to look practically stripped of feathers. I believe it is established beyond question that one mite liable to infest birds can quickly destroy the web of feather. Birds in "soft moult" may either die, or they may reproduce the plumage again the same as in the ordinary moult, and be none the worse for the experience, although it usually weakens them. A confirmed feather plucker in an aviary, can soon render the plumage of other birds most unsightly. I have myself seen cock Bullfinches stripped by another cock Bullie of practically every feather except the tail and wing flights. And the owner all the time was puzzling his brains as to the cause of the apparent lapse from good taste of certain of his Bullies. Is your friend sure the birds were not being worried with mites or lice of some kind or other? Such things will sometimes multiply at an astounding rate among birds kept in warmed living rooms, and oft times entirely unsuspected by the owner of them. It would not stop birds from breeding, providing they were freed from the pest, of course. The new plumage may go the way of the old if the latter be not done.

Mainly About Bullfinches.

O. E. B.—1, and 2: You could keep a cock and hen Bullfinch and a hen Canary together through the winter in a good-sized flight cage. But your cage 18 ins. long by 8 ins. wide is really only large enough to make a stock cage for one bird—certainly not for three. I don't think for a moment the cock Bullie would mate with the two hens at the same time. It is probable he would not fertilize the eggs of either, for cock Bullies are not reliable breeders in captivity at the best of times. 3: The neglect of the bath is the cause of the dull, coarse-looking plumage. You can only spray the bird daily. Don't make him too wet, or the result may be serious. If in a larger cage, he might bathe freely. Bullies are very fond of the tub, as a rule. Bullies want plenty of wild seeds and berries (black, privet, etc.), to help the breast colour along during and after the moult. 4: Bullfinches do not sing, that is, in the sense that Linnets and Canaries sing, but only "pipe"—making a queer combination of sounds not unlike the melody emanating from a rusty gate hinge—a hinge, however, blessed with a rather uncommon percentage of more-or-less pleasing notes.

A Variety.

Byker.—Such a book as you enquire about will probably be published very shortly from this office. For three or four days well stir half-a-teaspoonful of dandelion juice (taraxacum, from the chemist), in two tablespoonfuls of the Linnet's drinking water, mixing it afresh every day. Give plenty of maw seed daily, and put a piece of cuttlefish, or old mortar, or even ordinary chalk, between the cage wires, for it to peck at. Roller hens are good breeders, as a rule, but you cannot expect to produce very large or handsome Mules from them, and especially from buffs.

Larks Breeding in Captivity.

J. T. Nuttall.—Yes; Skylarks have been bred in captivity, and accounts of the proceedings have appeared in CAGE BIRDS. One gentleman, living at Birmingham, had considerable trouble, he said, in supplying food on which the old birds would rear the young—gnats, flies, etc. I was shown a nestling Lark this summer, however, which I was told was bred in an ordinary rough-and-ready outdoor flight-cage, and which its parents reared, with others, on the ordinary food supplied to the species.

Canary Seed Sample.

W. W. H.—The canary seed looks all right, and tastes very well indeed. Have seen it bigger and holder, but this does not say that yours is not good enough to give to the birds.

A "Sick" Goldfinch.

H. Knight.—I think you are mistaken; the Goldie is not "sick" in the sense that you intend the term. No Goldfinch would have "vomited food on to the perch for the past three months" and still have kept in "lovely" condition. The vomiting, (or, rather, regurgitating) of the food is more likely to be the usual sign of breeding condition in the Goldfinch. To moult erratically is quite a common thing with captive birds, and you really need not be surprised at your Finch's conduct in not casting a feather as yet. You should try a sudden change of temperature for a spell—if kept in a cold room, transfer to a warm one, or vice versa. This is very effective, usually, in bringing on the moult.

FOREIGN BIRDS.

Answered by WESLEY T. PAGE, F.Z.S., M.B.N.H.S.

Pekin Robin with Canaries, &c.

Pekin Robin.—I cannot gather from your query whether your cage is already fully occupied, but, providing they are not overcrowded, no harm will come of keeping these birds together; neither will the soft food for the Pekin harm the other birds, though there is a possibility of the Pekin taking more seed than is good for him. Diet for the Pekin: Soft food, either one of the mixtures advertised in our food columns, or equal parts of the following: Ants' eggs (good), sponge cake (crumbled), dried flies, crushed Osborne biscuits, and a few scalded grocers' currants; make crumbly moist for use. Also supply greenfood, ripe fruit, and two or three mealworms or other insects daily. You are likely to succeed better with six to eight birds in the cage than with a larger number; the cage must be kept strictly clean, and grit and cuttlefish regularly supplied.

Illness of Grey Parrot.

Beginner.—Give the bird for one day only one teaspoonful of Dinneford's Magnesia over its boiled maize; repeat the dose as may be necessary to keep its bowels moving freely, but not loose. Get from your chemist following mixture: Ipecacuanha Wine, Oxymel of Squills, and Glycerine, in equal parts; take one teaspoonful of the mixture to each ounce of the drinking water, and let the bird have only this to drink for the next few days, with the exception of a few sips of clear water once a day. In the case of any running at the nostril developing, spray same with diluted Glyco-Thymoline twice a day, while trouble lasts. Keep the bird warm and out of draught, and its cage strictly clean. Unless your bird is very young, it will be better without the boiled maize, but don't make the change suddenly; gradually wean it from the maize as soon as you find it eating heartily of the dry seed mixture. I should recommend you to use the following mixture: 1 quart canary, oats, and 1 pint each wheat, dari, hemp, and sunflower seeds; well mix, and always keep supply in the cage. Continue to tempt with ripe fruit, nuts, green food, and plain biscuits. It will ultimately take to them. Keep a piece of cuttlefish in cage. Do not give table scraps, sops, slops, or any kind of animal food. Report progress in about ten days.

Birds for Out-door Aviary.

Stanley.—You have ample accommodation for 40 birds the size of a Norwich Canary, but as you want some breeding results, I should advise not more than 10 to 12 pairs. As regards kind, I take it you have not had much experience with keeping Foreigners, and should recommend the cheaper and hardier kinds, such as Zebra, Ribbon, Sufous-tailed and Gouldian Finches, Spice Birds, Silver Bills, Java Sparrows, both White and Grey variety; also a few Waxbills such as Grey, Orange Cheeks, Golden-breasted, and Common and Green Avadavats. A pair of Diamond Dover (very small) would make a pleasing variety; they are almost certain breeders, and would not interfere with the smallest Waxbill. All the above would thrive on canary, millet and spray millet, with a few oats and a little "Paddy" rice, also green food, grit, cuttlefish, and water ad lib. for drinking and bathing. A little of some good soft food mixture would be required when there were young to be fed, and regularly a few ants' eggs scattered in the aviary form a valuable addition to the aviary bill of fare.

What Parrakeet?

A.T.C.—Your bird is a Plum or Blossom-headed Parrakeet, and from its demeanour it is evidently a female. I see no reason why it should not breed with the Ring-neck; by all means leave them together, and there is a strong probability that you will get young, but you may possibly have to wait a twelvemonth for them, as your Blossom-head is evidently still immature. At any rate, supply them with a log nest, or a nest box of suitable size with a concave bottom, and then, apart from attending to their wants, leave them to themselves. Hope you will have luck with them.

Sexing and Breeding of Budgerigars.

C.B.H.—The cock Budgerigar has a blue cere, that of the hen being brownish buff, when they are in breeding condition; the cere is the part surrounding the nostrils. Diet: Canary and millet, with a few oats once or twice a week, green food, cuttlefish and water ad lib., though they are but small drinkers; when they have young to feed, oats should be supplied daily. The cage should be of the box type, and a minimum size of 2½ by 1½ by 1½ feet; in exceptional cases I have known them to breed in quite a small cage, but such procedure is not to be recommended, as frequently the young, or some of them, do not develop properly, and in some instances are deformed. Having a cocoa-nut husk at each end of the cage and leave them to themselves; they require no nesting material. They should commence nesting in the spring, and usually then go on bringing up brood after brood till stopped by the moult. Sometimes, when only one pair is kept, they take a little longer to settle down to nesting.

Cardinals, Java Sparrows, etc.

M.F.M.—(1) Yes, the Red-crested Cardinal will agree with Budgerigars, Cockatoels, and Java Sparrows. (2) The White Java Sparrows will winter out of doors safely providing they have already been outside for most of the summer, and that your aviary gives ample space for exercise. The Red-crested Cardinal is a hardy species, and you need have no fear for this bird. Both species do well, both winter and summer, in my garden aviary, and are hardy and enduring, i.e., long-lived under these conditions. The Cardinal should have access to ripe fruit and a few mealworms or other insects, in addition to their other diet. As regards fruit, I have found banana, orange, apple and pear all equally favoured, providing it was ripe. It should not be given in any other condition.

POST MORTEMS.

Mr. J. North, 435, Oxford Road, Reading, will examine cage birds for a fee of 1s. 6d. each bird; for a report direct, 2s. 6d.; analysis, 21s. Subjects for post-mortem examination must be sent packed in a box direct to J. North, with fee. Any sent to the office of this paper will be thrown away, and if a fee is enclosed the loss will be the sender's.

Canary (C. Harrison).—Inflammation of lungs and apoplexy, possibly of an infectious nature. See answer to B.J.J., pages 247 and 273.

Canary (E. Hulock).—Chronic softening of liver, feverishness, acute inflammation of lungs, and apoplexy. Follow advice given above, if necessary.

GENERAL.

Addresses (Anxious).—The addresses you want are Mr. W. H. Shackleton, The Paragon Aviaries, Girlington, Bradford, and Messrs. Bailey and Swanger, Sandy Lane, Alleston.

Foreign Bird Essay (A. Ladenburg).—The announcement made this week will answer your question. The article you mention is sure of securing insertion in the near future.

Society for Shildon (J.H.E.)—We shall be very pleased to help you if you will send your name and address, and let us know exactly what you would like us to do.

"Poem" in Broad Scots (J. Steel).—Your dialect is as strong as some of Scotia's mountain dew, and made our brain whirl like a laddie in a Highland fling. If our printers will stand it, and they happen to have a "braw laddie" on their staff, we shall hope to find the "poem" a corner one of these days.

Club Notice (H. T. Lucas).—If your society is holding meetings weekly until the end of the year, we shall, of course, willingly insert the notices of same in the usual column.

White Owl (Jaques).—Thanks for cutting you send us, for which we shall hope to find a vacant corner.

Cutting (H.T.L.)—We are extremely obliged to you for sending the cutting, and agree with all you say concerning the matter.

Our Coupon Scheme (E. Rogers).—Both birds in open and members' classes are eligible to compete for our coupon scheme prizes. As a matter of fact, many birds in members' classes have already annexed the cash at coupon shows.

A would-be Poultry Farmer (A. Livvenden).—As your query relates to poultry, we have handed it over to the editor of the "Poultry World," who will doubtless deal with it in the next issue. In the meantime, we should suggest your communicating with the town clerk of Southend-on-Sea, who will gladly supply many of the particulars you require.

The Care of Young Scotch Fancies

When the young come forth, the day before they are due a small dish containing egg food should be put into the cage. Always leave plenty of egg food in the cage overnight, so that the parent birds can feed the young at daybreak. While the hen is sitting it is well to disturb her as little as possible. After the third or fourth week the young birds can as a rule look after themselves so far as feeding is concerned, and when a month old can safely be transferred to another cage. They should be fed with egg food, also a little boiled rape seed mixed with it, and is at this stage they require all the attention you can bestow upon them. When the young are three days old a little green food will do no harm. I will now draw this paper to a close, but might warn the beginner not to work his hens too severe. A common thing is for a hen to have three or four nests in the season. If you wish to preserve them for future seasons I would advise you to stop them at three, and you may consider yourself lucky if you manage to rear one half of the birds you get produced. This season, so far as I am concerned, has been very disappointing, and no doubt there are others with similar experiences, the weather being far too cold.—J. RENWICK (Glasgow).

UNDER THE WHITE ROSE.

THE Yorkshire Union held a delegates' meeting at Sandy Lane Show on November 2nd, the principal item being the objection by the Gt. Horton Good Intent O.S. to a bird in the novice classes for alleged clipping of tail feathers at their show on October 26th. The bird objected to was taken charge of by the secretary of the show, Mr. A. Holden, and was brought by him to the delegates' meeting. Three experienced fanciers were nominated to thoroughly examine the bird and give their opinion as to the alleged clipping. Their report was against the exhibitor, holding that the feathers plainly showed they had been tampered with. The owner disclaimed all knowledge of the matter, and this, we understand, had much to do with the sentence being very light, viz., to forfeit the prize-money (12s. 6d.) and points (7) gained at that show. The bird is to be suspended for six weeks. The latter part of the sentence has caused some comment in the Bradford district, many saying it is practically no sentence at all, in fact, only just the time he required to get the bird in good trim again.

BRADFORD CITY held a members' show on November 2nd, "birds to be staged at 8 p.m." But owing to the usual room being engaged by a party of Oddfellows, who refused to budge, thus allowing their "oddity" to prevail, the birdy men had to make shift with a smaller one. Thus they could only unpack about two or three classes at a time, and these had to be judged and then packed up again to make room for the next classes. This contretemps, however, will not occur again, as the Oddfellows were vested in a new order by the landlord, this being "The Order of the Push."

THE shows at present are receiving very good support from exhibitors. At Sandy Lane no less than 479 birds were staged, and at Bramley 468 were on view. The British and Mules, etc., at the latter show were a grand sight. A few from Bradford sent entries to Darlington. Altogether, therefore, last week-end was a lively time for the birdy men.

I am very pleased and interested with CAGE BIRDS special number supplement.—A. TARRANT (Stonehouse).

A FEAST OF BIRDS.

A REMARKABLE SIGHT TO BE SEEN AT NORWICH.

On the occasion of the recent exhibition held at Norwich, a representative of CAGE BIRDS had the pleasure of spending a few hours with that bird specialist of world-wide repute, Mr W. Rudd, who showed him over the splendid bird rooms, aviaries, and workshops utilised in the course of the vast business done by him in every variety of the Canary family, and in bird room requisites and foods, to say nothing of the British birds, and birds from foreign climes. Mr. Rudd's is a personality that impresses one at once—his every word betokens the keen, up-to-date business man, just as every method he employs shows clearly that the best only is what he consistently endeavours to provide for his customers.

Mr. Rudd has extensive grounds and rooms at his large private residence in Park Lane, but it is at a specially fitted, very spacious and substantial house close by that the chief bird rooms, with workshops at the rear, are situated. To this we wended our way, and first of all had a peep at some interesting rarities reposing in glass cases in the office—the latter, by the way, typical of the whole building, very cosy and comfortable, yet designed to allow a great amount of work being got through at high speed. A wonderfully big Siberian Bullie made a fit companion for what at one time must have been a champion 4-pointed Goldfinch Canary Hybrid, of rare size and very lightly marked. There were several Pied Bullfinches here, two of which once belonged to the Royal family, coming direct from Windsor-Castle to Mr. Rudd, and also a grand black Bullfinch, dense jet black, and with a coat like silk. We also saw a splendid Crested hen, and many other rare and fine examples, all of which must have been a treat to look upon when in the flesh.

At the back of the private office is the general office, a roomy place wherein a staff of clerks deal with the heavy correspondence, and the proper despatching of the birds, etc., the latter under the watchful eye of Mr. Rudd himself. It is worthy of note that above the principal's desk, and along one side of this room are arranged the cages of the high-class Roller Canaries, where they can be seen and heard singing, and their qualities duly noted, thus ensuring customers getting exactly the bird they require, and one unquestionably in full song. A similar procedure, I may say, is gone through with all the Mules and every variety of Canary sold for songsters, so that there is no possibility of Mr. Rudd's customers, who want singing pets, getting anything not at the time of sale actually in song. Here, also, is kept the stock of books and periodicals issued or sold by Mr. Rudd, and these occupy a very considerable space.

Out in the workshops we saw every conceivable pattern of cage, both stock, breeding and show, in the course of manufacture, and a fine stock of seasoned wood, and other "raw materials." Any and every kind can be had to order, made in the best style and at reasonable prices. The number of travelling boxes ready at hand, made me stare—there were thousands and thousands of them stacked from floor to ceiling. A collapsible breeding cage (which folds up into about three inches depth!) and show cage are very ingenious and practical, and should be a boon to foreign customers.

The sight upstairs in the bird rooms, almost beggars description. We knew that we were bound to see a wonderful collection, but that it would be of such an extensive nature as was disclosed, we had never imagined. Mr. Rudd is specially proud of the fact that every bird he from time to time may advertise (and readers of CAGE BIRDS know what this means!), he has actually in stock at that moment. Others may go out and buy just as the demand requires. But that is not Mr. Rudd's way. He knows that by that method he cannot hope to give his customers exceptional value at a low figure—the rock on which he bases his whole business. He buys from the best breeders, frequently in very large quantities, and keeps the stock "in the pink of condition," awaiting customers' requirements. He lays himself out to supply either first-class show and stock birds, containing the best blood of the day, down to the good, but humble-priced pair, mated to suit the pocket of the working man, or the beginner in the hobby. Every room is beautifully fitted with stacks of first-class cages, and every floor laid with linoleum, while that the staff is made up of expert bird-keepers, the condition of rooms and birds alike give ample proof. We saw many show birds, including some dozen Crests to make any man's mouth water, one or two of the hens being real gems, fit to compete anywhere, while the Crestbreds were equally good, excelling in size, feather and skull. The show Norwich Plainheads, including a smart 4-pointed, and the Yorkshires are also particularly choice lots, beautifully colour-fed, and every one of standard type. As we passed from room to room high-class Scotch, Belgians, Borders, Lancashires (both Coppys and Plainheads), Lizards, Cinnamons, and some wonderfully good Dutch Frills, just imported direct from a celebrated Continental breeder, caught our surprised and delighted eyes. Mr. Rudd pays every attention to the selection of suiable stock birds, and breeding pairs properly mated. There were to be seen here hundreds and hundreds of desirable breeding hens, and typical breeding cocks in all varieties of the Canary tribe. Then there were Mules and Hybrids (including many grand light Goldie Canaries) a choice assortment of British for show and Moulting, and some splendid foreign birds, notably exceptionally fine Grey and Amazon Parrots. Mr. Rudd has a rarity in a charming cinnamon-coloured cock Linnet. Curiously enough, when we expressed our astonishment to Mr. Rudd at the extraordinary extent and variety of his stock, he only smiled and said: 'This is nothing. You just want to come and look round in a few weeks time, when I have completed my arrangements for coping with the breeding season rush." And so we bade good-bye to Park Lane, Norwich, which surely contains one of the most marvellous collections of birds ever gathered together.

IN THE COURTS.

A JUDGE'S "LOATHING."

Remarkable Address to the Jury.

At Reading County Court, on October 31st, Judge Russell delivered a remarkable summing up to the jury in a case in which John Iles, a Reading bird catcher and fancier, sued Police-Constable Hopkins for £25 for wrongfully and unlawfully stopping him, searching him, and arresting him and taking him into custody. The Prosecution said that on four occasions the police had prosecuted the plaintiff for offences alleged to have been committed in his calling, and on one occasion Iles successfully complained of a wrong done to him by a member of the Berks Constabulary, and was awarded £50 damages. In his evidence Iles showed that he was arrested by Hopkins and conveyed to the police station at Twyford, although he had informed the defendant that the birds he had with him had been in his possession for some months, and that he was delivering them to a customer at Twyford. His evidence was corroborated by two independent witnesses.—Addressing the jury Judge Russell observed (according to the "Daily Chronicle"), "You were summoned to hear this case, the verdict rests with you; but I will say what I have not said to a jury before, that if I had to decide this case I would, without the slightest hesitation, decide in favour of the defendant. The case presented to you for the defendant showed there was no imprisonment at all, and that, if you believe the constable, no such thing did occur. But, on the other hand, if you believe the plaintiff's version it is another thing. I may take a prejudiced view because Iles is a bird fancier. He belongs to a calling which I regard with the greatest possible loathing."—The jury disagreed. The case will be retried.

A Washing Competition.

A washing competition on 24th October at the "Bay Malton," Great Portland-street, W., proved an enjoyable and instructive display. The competition was divided into two classes—champion and novice—and two handsome silver-mounted pipes were offered by the association as prizes. The arrangements made for the washing were admirable Messrs. Williams and Morrison supplied the birds, and Mr. Williams the drying cages and implements. Upon the chairman calling for the names of the competitors, Messrs. Shakespeare, Bell, and E. Pretty entered as champions, and Messrs. Stacey, Orme, Hammant, and Hawes as novices. Messrs. Sam Smith and Oldaker kindly acted as judges. There was no denying Mr. Shakespeare's prowess and all-round ability in the washing art. It was an eye-opener to those who have not had the privilege of seeing him wash birds before. The dexterity with which he handles the bird, and the quickness and thoroughness of the washing called forth the admiration of all. Messrs. Bell and E. Pretty also gave a fine display, and deserve every credit for their performances. The turn of the novices then came, and though they lacked the long experience of the champions, the display all round was very creditable. Messrs. Stacey and Orme ran each other very close for premier honours, with Messrs. Hawes and Hammant hard on their heels. The judges declared Mr. Shakespeare the winner of the champion section, and Mr. Stacey of the novice section, the chairman congratulating each on their success in a few suitable remarks. The judges were then beseiged with questions all round. Replying to Mr. Hawes, Mr. Oldaker said it was very necessary to well rinse the bird after washing so as to remove all traces of soap, otherwise the feathers were liable to get stuck. This was especially important round the neck, as the feathers were very likely to get twisted, it being a most difficult job to set them right again. On the question of fatigue, Mr. Oldaker said that this entirely depended on the staying powers of each individual bird; some would stand washing easily, but others, with highly nervous natures, wanted most careful handling. If a bird became too exhausted, he advised rolling the bird in a soft cloth, laying it on the hand and holding it in front of the fire, tail to the heat. So long as the human could stand the heat it was all right for the bird. This often had a most beneficial effect on nervous birds, prior to their being transferred to the drying cage. Mr. Williams asked what was the best soap to use? Mr. Oldaker said he believed strongly in curd soap, but any soap, not too strong, was suitable, some more than others. Sunlight soap he would never advise using on account of the strong soda element in it, though in the case of an extremely dirty bird a little used judiciously would have a good effect. On the question of brushes versus sponges, Mr. Sam Smith said that in his opinion nothing was better than a good quality hair shaving brush, as it enabled one to work well into the feathers in a much shorter space of time than if a sponge were used. The President asked if rain water were good for use in washing? Mr. Oldaker said that if he could get pure clean rain water it would be a most excellent thing on account of its softness; soft water was better at all times, and he would advise Londoners to put a small quantity of washing soap powder into the first water, which has a very good effect in the softening of hard water. The President announced that several more "specials" and medals had come in for the autumn show, and there would be novel conditions laid down in the winning of the medals. He hoped all the members would make a big attempt to insure the success of the show. Hearty votes of thanks to Messrs. Williams, Morrison, Smith, Oldaker, and the chairman, closed the meeting.

The Breeding Season and Its Results.

By W. EVINS.

A Paper read before the Exeter and Dis. C.B.S., on September 3rd.

The position of a birdroom, to my mind, is not of any great importance, so long as there is plenty of light and air. Most fanciers advocate a south room, but from practical experience I would as soon have one facing north for the reason that the temperature does not vary much, and you have nearly a level heat night and day. We find a south room alters considerably, being high at mid-day, and dropping as much as 20 degrees in the night. Now these extremes cannot be good for our birds, and I have also found the red mite much more plentiful in the south room than in the north.

DOUBLE CRESTING.

We have done very little at this. I think it usually results in a lot of rough crests. We have only had two nests, and have reared five crests, four are very disarranged, but one is perfect in shape. I don't see that I have gained anything, as I have better crests than have come from crest and crestbred. Double cresting, in my opinion, will not increase size, but only tend to thicken the crest. An ideal pair to double-crest with, would be two very large thin crests, perfect in shape, and with a well-placed, neat centre. Unless the right material is used double-cresting is best left alone, as it will only result in disappointment. Dense crests should not be used for this purpose. Now the moulting season is getting on, fanciers must begin to have a look around their rooms, and select the birds they wish to retain for next year's breeding. Take the old birds first, and keep all those that have bred you good young ones, but see that they are in good health. Some hens, after one year's breeding, are ruined completely in health, and not likely to be of any further use. Cocks that have not fertilised many eggs, and hens that have been shy in laying, should not be retained, as they are likely to do badly again. Select from among the young ones the birds that are nearest to the ideal of the variety you go in for. Do not keep a poor-looking specimen because he came from good ones, or from birds you have paid a good price for. It is only by keeping the equals, and improvements on the old birds, that we are likely to make any headway in the fancy.

INTRODUCING NEW BLOOD.

Now is the time to find out if we need to introduce any new blood into the stock. If so, carefully decide on what you want, and get it. Go to a honest breeder, and pay a fair price, but do not expect to buy a good bird for little money. The end of October is the best time to purchase birds, most breeders will have a roomful, therefore you will have a good selection to choose from. Now to our younger members who are just taking up the fancy, I would say: Whatever variety you are going in for, get something decent to start with, remember good birds do not cost more to feed than common ones. Crests, to my mind, are the most interesting variety, and when you have any surplus birds to dispose of, they soon find a purchaser, and good prices can be obtained for good birds. I know of a breeder who refused £30 for a crested cock last year. Another fancier had an offer of £15 for a young crestbred cock, but would not part. These are only two cases within my own knowledge, and no doubt many more instances could be given. Good Crests and Crestbreds, from £5 to £10 apiece, are in great demand, and easier to sell than medium ones at about 20s. Anyone going in for Crests should first acquire a knowledge of how to breed birds, by keeping a few pairs of common Canaries. Then get a Crested Cock and two Crestbred hens to start with. Go to a reliable breeder and pay about four or five pounds. For that three useful stock birds should be obtained. You will not get birds that will do you any service at a less price. If you can pay more, all the better, so long as you get value for your money. Do not buy birds with a long pedigree which are nothing to look at. Crests, I consider, are worth exactly what they appear to be. A bad Crest is a bad Crest, whoever bred it, and is likely to produce bad ones. Therefore have a bird that is something to look at. More care is required in selecting a good Crestbred. Make sure he is bred from good Crests. In addition he should possess long, leafy feather, rising from the base of the beak, and the longer the better.

HOW TO FIND THE CASH.

Some of you will say how is a working man to find the money to purchase the necessary birds to commence with? To these I would say, there are many working men breeding good Crests, and what has been done can be done again, but remember success will only be obtained by going in for the right material, and hard plodding. When you have bred a good bird, a good plan is not to be tempted to part with it, at least, until you have bred a better one. There are many points to be considered in breeding Crests—size and formation is of course the first; a crest cannot be too large. Quality of feather is of great importance, one wide, leafy feather is worth three or four thin, narrow ones. Size of bird is another point which must not be overlooked. There are many good little 'uns about, but the good big 'uns are few and far between. Young fanciers should get all the information they can about birds, and gradually work up a system which will lead to success. Find out where you fail, and try to remedy same.

Birds of a Feather, etc.

All Corvine birds consort together and show a fondness for each other's company. Jackdaws are frequently found with Rooks, and a family of Magpies may occasionally be seen with them.

Do Swifts Roost on the Wing?

The roosting habits of the Swifts are somewhat mysterious. One never sees them retiring for the night in the same manner as other birds. They have been found clinging to the wall of a house, and the trunk of a tree, but these cases have been looked upon as quite unusual. During the summer and autumn one can frequently hear them overhead when it is too dark to see them; there certainly appears to be no reason why these powerful winged birds should not be capable of taking a certain amount of rest while hovering in mid air.

Signs of Migration.

As the summer passes we ocasionally notice signs of the impending annual migration of birds from our shores. In their passage to the coast, which they apparently perform in easy stages, birds will stay for a short time in any favourable spot. This accounts for our noticing strangers in the garden and along the country hedgerows. It must be an extraordinary instinct that causes a given species of bird to meet at the same place, coming as they do from all quarters. Along the downs, near the sea coast, one can see some wonderful sights of feathered life. One day it will be scores of the lovely little wood warblers, birds that we only meet occasionally in our daily rambles during the summer. They may be quite alone, or mixed with them will possibly be a dozen or so of Wagtails or Wheatears, and if one watches carefully these numbers will increase, or perhaps a certain species will vanish altogether, and in its place will be seen a huge company of tiny Wrens, or some other bird that we seldom see in flocks. It is this gathering of non-gregarious birds that so absorbs our attention; one feels never tired of watching them.

The Solitary Woodcock.

Few of our birds are more solitary in their habits than the Woodcock. The only time when they appear to associate with their fellows is during the period of migration. But as soon as the journey is over they evidently separate, and each bird sets off to its own particular haunt. The Woodcock is a big plump bird, with a long beak, and the eye set very high in the head. His plumage is beautifully mottled. On account of his size and plumpness his flight is somewhat laboured, but he is clever in threading his way between the branches in a wood. He does not fly far, but drops into the nearest, suitable cover. When in flight his long beak and head are carried pointing downwards. He feeds during the night, and remains securely hidden while daylight lasts.

THE SHOWS.

SWANSEA.

Seventh Annual Show, held Nov. 6 and 7, at the usual place, the Working Men's Assembly Rooms. The place is an ideal one. The committee and members as a body are mainly composed of working men, with years of experience in the Fancy. The exhibits were put down with extreme taste and the show as a spectacle was very pretty. The classification was liberal, particularly in Mules and British, and the committee were well rewarded by getting both quality and quantity.

The exhibits numbered nearly 500, and many cracks were represented by their best teams. The Norwich were a good section, the unflighted class sporting 27 birds, and not a poor one amongst them. Yorkshires were up to the usual standard, many cardless birds being fit to win in ordinary competition. Scots were fine, while Swansea is noted for Borders, and they rolled up in splendid fashion.

In Mules and British the Welsh reputation was well maintained, the classes being worth going a long way to see. The committee worked well together. Exhibits were nicely catered for, and placed in comfortable positions. Mr. Alf Hutchings, although new to the work of sec., showed his true worth, and for civility and despatch of his various duties he deserves the success which has attended him. Messrs. P. Jenkins and T. Gamage, the show managers, both of tried experience, did well, and everything worked as smoothly as possible.

Swansea has had the courage to bring out new judges, each one being a specialist in the variety he undertook. This turned out a complete success. The gentlemen who officiated were Nor., J. Pritchard; Crests, R. Waters; Yorks, T. H. Mellhuish; Scots. and For., J. H. Jones; Bor., D. H. Tedstone; Brit. and Mules, A. Howe. The awards gave entire satisfaction.

NOR. YELL.: 1, vhc, Dummett, a blazer for colour, neatly clothed, best of wing and tail carriage, wins nicely; 2, Harber, excellent type for a yellow, staged in splendid order; 3, Eynon, bold, large specimen, splendid model, good headed one; 4, Jones; hc, Hutchings; c, C. YORK.

Show held on Nov. 5 and 6, in the Exhibition Buildings, in one of the best rooms for the purpose we have seen for some time; in fact, we could not wish for a better. The management, under the direction of the able Secretary, Mr. Boyle, and his assistant, Mr. Wand, well backed up by the energetic Chairman, Mr. Richardson, and a willing little band of stewards was really good, and we are only sorry to say the entry was hardly worthy of their efforts, but hope the gate will do something towards filling up the breach. The show was honoured by the presence of the Dean of York, he having kindly consented to perform the opening ceremony, which he did before a goodly company. The entry in Lululhead Norwich was only a little over 10 per class, while Yorks. were very little better.. Brit. came up fairly well, as did Mules and Hybrids, the quality throughout being excellent. Mr. Roe judged Nor., Cinn., Mules, and Sell., Mr. Battye the rest. NOR. CL. YELL. (6): 1, Wright, hot colour, good shaped body, not over fine in quality of feather perhaps; 2, Harland, better head, finer quality, equal in chest, we liked for 1st; 3, Wilson, bit thin and not quite full enough in head; vhc, Mennard; hc, Richardson; c, Boyle. TICK, ETC., YELL. (3): 1, Harland, grand colour, fine type and carriage; 2, Boyle, not quite so stout built; 3, Hope, nice bird. CL. MARKINCH.

Thirty-fourth annual show of the Markinch O.S. was held on 2nd Nov. Cage Birds section had an entry of 330, much the same as last year, and were staged in the Masonic Hall, which was well lighted and was in every respect suitable for a Cage Bird show. The exhibits were well looked after by the President, Mr. W. Forrester, and a large committee, who spared no pains for the comfort of the birds and visitors alike, who turned up in large numbers despite tbe dull and cold day. In Mr. Geo. Mitchell the Society has tne right man in the right place, and one who gets through his arduous duties in a very efficient and businesslike manner. Tbe judge in tho Scotch Fancy classes was tbe veteran Mr. Webster, of Greenock, who seemed quite at home among his favourites . In the Norwich, etc., classes, Mr. Jas. Miller, of Riccartors, had a hard day's work in getting through the 33 classes—far too many for one man to tackle—but he worked like a Trojan and got through in good time. The awards seemed to give general satisfaction. SCOTCH CL. OR FOUL YELL. NEWTOWN ST. BOSWELLS.

Newtown St. Boswells held tbeir first exbibition Nov. 2nd, in the New Hall under distinguished patronage, and a most successful venture it turned out. The Hon. Sec., Mr. Robert Robertson, who is a well-known and respected fancier, performed his duties in a whole bearted manner, and a hard day's job he had. He deserves great praise for the courteous and painstaking way in wbicb he managed things in general. Mr. John Black, as assistant secretary, rendered good service, as also the following fanciers who composed the committee:—Messrs. W. Dick, G. Inglis, T. Forsytb, J. Buchan, T. Curle, W. Turnbull, R. Laidler, M. Muldoon, G. Cochrane, J. Cochrane, W. Cockburn, A. Wood, A. Laing, J. Hume, R. Watson, T. Millar, J. Alexander, J. Clark, J. Blackie, W. Pbilip, W. Scott, R. Murray, and J. Hardie, as tbe old-established Hawick Ornitbological Society were not holding their exhibition this year, it was felt this would be a good opportunity of holding a good sbow nearly in the same district, as St. Boswells is very centrally situated, and easily reacbed from all parts. Entries came up well, and totalled 267. Scotch Fancies were fairly well represented, and some really good specimens were on view. Norwich were good in quality, and tbere were not a few good hot ones. The feature of the sbow, bowever, was the Border Fancies, witb 11 classes provided, they totalled 143 entries. Quality was splendid tbroughout, and some eye-openers were on view for the first time this season. The Border Fancy Club Medal was won by tbe well-known fancier, Mr. H. Bennet, Kelso, with a clear buff ben, teeming with quality, and with feather polished like a Java. Mr. John Watson, Selkirk, had the handling of the Borders, and Mr. M. Craig, Glasgow, the rest, tbeir awards giving general satisfaction, although a few of tbe Borders in the money were just a sbade on the beavy side for our ideal. The show was well patronised by visitors, and it was difficult to move about at nigbt time. We hope tbe Society bad a good draw of door money.

LEICESTER HAND-IN-HAND.

The Leicester Hand-in-Hand C.B.S. scored yet another huge success at their Annual Show, which was held at the White Swan Hotel on Nov. 2, and 4. Not only were the entries good, but the quality was tip-top in nearly every class. The Norwich Plainheads were quite a show in themselves. Here we had birds full of quality, with abundance of colour and size and the correct type. We were pleased to see but very few of the coarse heavy feathered birds that were so prevalent a few years ago at many of the shows. For the first time a couple of classes were added for Yorkshires and several nice birds were put down. That old fancier, Mr. G. Lawrance (Coventry), staged a grand Canary-Bullfinch Mule and captured the special for best bird in the show. The selling classes were strong, many cheap birds being staged, and we have no doubt many changed hands. The exhibits were nicely arranged round the room, and down the centre, in tiers, and were at a convenient height for viewing, while the staging was nicely draped, the whole having a very spick and span appearance. We need hardly say that, with such a body of genuine and enthusiastic fanciers as is composed in the Committee, all the exhibits received the very best of attention, and were as comfortable as they would be in their own rooms. Once more Mr. C. Draper held the secretarial "ribbons," and he handled them with consummate ability, his genial smile bearing ample testimony to the fact that he felt his efforts had met their reward in having such a grand show. The names of the committee of management are Mr. A. W. Gibbons, who makes one of the best presidents we have had the pleasure of meeting, while he has good understudies in the Vice-presidents, Messrs. F. J. McCarter, C. W. Walton, Jno. Allen, and the committee, Messrs. V. Sarson, Geo. Lander, H. Noakes, J. Needham, W. Hales, A. Bent. The cards were placed by Mr. J. H. Payne, and we heard no grumbling.

AVONBRIDGE.

Avonbridge O.S. held their fourth annual show and competition in the Avonbridge Public Schoolroom on 2nd Nov., under distinguished patronage. President, Mr. John Cowans; Vice-President, Mr. Thomas Graham; Secretary, Mr. Vivian Young; Treasurer, Mr. Robert Gentlemen; Committee, Messrs. R. Binnie, G. Lamont, J. Whiteford, A. Coplaw, Isaac Whitefield, R. Dunsmore, M. McFarlane, and Arnott J. Shields. Judge, Mr. Kean, Edinburgh. There was a handsome silver cup given for most points over all sections, the gift of the ex-Vice-President, and a handsome gold-centre badge for the second most points over all sections. The silver cup was won by Mr. J. Shields, the runner-up being Mr. Dunsmore, jun., and winner of the gold-centre badge. Sec. Young is the right man in the right place, assisted by an able committee of fanciers. Everything was in the pink of condition and order, the entries exceeding last year's total by about 100—a very satisfactory result. And the quality of the exhibits all round was much better than in the previous year. For want of support there was no class for Scotch Fancies. There were 21 classes in the Cage Bird section. Border Fancies were a splendid turn-out, some typical Borders being staged, the quality being good. There was also a fine turn-out of British and Norwich. The A.O.V. Softbill class was also a fair exhibit. There was a very large turn-out of breeders and visitors to the show, being quite a gala day in the village. Owing to the smallness of the hall or schoolroom the accommodation afforded was fully taken up, and some little inconvenience was experienced by visitors in viewing the different exhibits. The room being divided into three sections for school purposes, made Sec. Young's task a rather difficult one. The show, however, was a pronounced success, and every credit is due to the Secretary and his able assistants. Mr. Kean's awards met with approval, there being little or no grumbling heard. YELL.PL. (4): 1, Sharp, var., lovely sizo and feather, grand quality, wins easy; 2, 3, Foster, nicely built cl. yell., nice feather and colour, good bird, 3rd cl. yell., nice head, smaller, good type; 4, Gordon, var. bird, fair type, shade small to winner. SLEAFORD.

In connection with the annual show held under the auspices of the Sleaford F.A., a nice little display of cage birds was seen in the Corn Exchange on October 31st. The building is admirably adapted for the purpose, being well lighted and free from draughts. The exhibits were limited to £3, and in some districts two or three of the winners would not have returned home. The arrangements were admirable, capable enthusiasts having charge of the arrangements, whilst Mr. H. Castle, the secretary, worked hard for the success of the venture, and ere this, each exhibitor will have received his prize money. Mr. J. N. Harrison judged. NOR. YELL. (6): 2, Schofield, clear, nice colour, good colour and featbers; 3, Spray, heavily variegated, neat shape, nice colour, and head; 4, King, minus some feathers in its tail, which no doubt handicapped it, otherwise a good one; r, Atkin; vhc, hc, Wilson. SELL. 10/- (20): 1, Atkin; 2, Tams and Son; 3, Wing; 4, King.

I regret we have a Cinnamon Canary, Class 56, No. 7, gone astray from our late show. Will the exhibitor in whose case it was packed kindly return it at once so that I can forward it to its owner.—A. S. Treasure (Cheltenham Show).

GOVANHILL.

Govanhill and Dist. (confined) O.A., held their second show, and competition of Scotch Fancy and Norwich Canaries, in the Dixon Hall, Cathcart Road, November 2. President, Mr. Wm. Tennant; Vice-President, M. A. Buchanan; Sec. and Treasurer, Mr. Charles C. Watson, who worked nobly to make the show a success. The judges were Messrs. James Carlow, James Watson, for Scotch Fancy, and Andrew Malcolmson the Norwich. The club are to be congratulated upon their success in enrolling 35 new members during the year, and in adding two more classes this year, there being 8 classes for Scotch Fancy, and two for Norwich. The club have reason to feel satisfied at their success in the additions. Sec. Watson had the exhibits well staged, and had everything in apple-pie order. Scotch Fancies were a good class, some good birds being staged, the most successful winners being the Brothers Rennie, who had some typical birds forward. Norwich were a medium lot. The best bird in the hall was a foul buff, CK., belonging to Mr. R. Rennie, a bird of all-round merit, and an easy first in its class. The runner-up belonging to Mr. Wm. Wilson, was shown in lovely feather, but was a shade small to first, but a grand type. There was a large turn-up of visitors, ladies being much in evidence, the hall being at times a shade overcrowded. The Hon. Pres., Dr. Garey, presented the prizes to the successful winners, making a few racy remarks. The judges' task was rather prolonged, the result being that the admission of visitors did not take place till 3 p.m. instead of 1.30. The Committee have arranged to add two additional judges in future to the number, and thereby relieve the pressure, experienced on the present occasion. SCOTCH FANCY: FELL. CK. (14): 1, W. Rennie; 2, R. Rennie; 3, C. W. Wilson; 4, Houston; vhc, hc, Buchanan. BUFF OK., CL. OR FOUL (11): 1, spl., 2, R. Rennie; 3, hc, A. Wilson; 4, Michael; vhc, Houston; c, G. Wilson. BRAINTREE.

In a splendidly lighted hall, and under admirable conditions as to staging, the show of cage birds at the annual exhibition of the Braintree and Dis. F.S. was an excellent one. Notwithstanding a sad family bereavement, the secretarial duties were most efficiently carried out by Mr. F. A. Bumpable, who received an excellent backing from other members of the executive. The show was opened by the president (Capt. J. N. Harrison, J.P.), and there was a very large attendance during the afternoon and evening. The entry was a good one and the quality of a high order of merit. Members' cup, for best in show was won by Mr. Strutt with a very smart buff Yorkshire. Mr. J. F. Hills judged. NORW. (67): 1, 2, Outten, the leader a yell. of very rich colour, beautiful tone of feather, well packed wings and tail, nice wing covering, just a trifle long in tail, 2 a buff, typical, plenty of under-colour and nicely frosted; 3, Collicott, yell., fine feather, not so close together as first, but a bird of quality; vhc, Cassidan; hc, Turner, Wicker, Wilson; c, Puxley, Strutt (2). YORKS (11): 1, cup, 2, vhc, hc, Strutt, winner a neat straight well-packed buff, stands well and goes up nicely; 3, Parsons, neat, typical specimen; hc, Lucking (3), Clayden; c, Lucking. A.O.V. (4): 1, Collicott, very fine shapely crest, has substance, good body; 2, Bumpable, green crest, of fair shape and substance; 3, Surrey, grizzle, neat, but short; c, Herrieyen. A.O.V., 1907 (12): 1, Outten, yell. Nor., grand quality, fails just a trifle on head, otherwise excellent; 2, Clayden, another very decent Nor; 3, Collicott, crest neat and fairly good; vhc, Clayden, Puxley; hc, Wicker, Strutt; c, Lawrance. BRECHIN.

Forty-fourth annual exhibition November 2nd, in the Temperance Hall, which is without doubt the finest in the district for a cage bird show. Mr. John Stirling (President), Mr. Geo. Walker (Vice-President), and Mr. Geo. Mitchell (Secretary and Treasurer), ably assisted by Mr. Wm. Aikenhead, had everything in readiness for the judges to start by nine o'clock. The light was not of the best, as the morning was very dull, but as the day got older things got brighter. The secretary must have worked very hard to pull together such a large entry, over 400 facing the judges. The Norwich were the outstanding feature of the show, some old winners coming to the front again, and we were informed that it was the best show of Norwich ever seen at Brechin. It was very pleasing to see such well-known fanciers as Mr. Wm. Aitchison and Mr. Colin Martin, from Edinburgh, and also Messrs. James Sandison and S. Will from Aberdeen; Milne, the British bird fancier from Keith; and many other familiar faces. The judges were Mr. Jas. Calderwood (Norwich), Mr. Wm. Mossie (Border Fancies), Mr. J. J. Watson (Brit. and For.), who made their awards in a masterly manner, and gave every satisfaction.

The Norwich and Borders.

BLANTYRE O.S.

Blantyre and Dist. O.S. held their annual show in Mr. Blakely's Hall, a very suitable place, being well lighted and free from draught. The exhibits were of a very high order, especially in the Norwich classes, which turned out strong, the Scotch Fancy section, although few in number, were not back for quality, as the first prize, Buff Hen and cup winners, owned by Mr. Allan, was easily fit for stronger competition, being closely pressed by Mr. Hannah's Clear Buff cock, a gem for style, free worker, throws body well back, grand shoulders and reach, a nice drive, a gem of the first water, lost in size only to cup winner. The Norwich cup was won by the secretary, Mr. D. Berry, with a nice variegated buff hen, closely pressed for premier honours by Mr. Wilson with a nice clear yellow cock. The Border Fancy cup was won by Mr. White, with a yellow cock, the same owner's buff hen being runner up, which was some fanciers choice for premier honours in this section, as it was looking the better later in the day. Mules and British Birds made a good show, notably the winning Greenfinch belonging to Mr. W. Wilson, gaining premier honours, and well deserved his place. The following gentlemen judged:—Scotch Fancies, Mr. Allerdyke (Overtown), well known in Scotch Fancy circles; Border Fancies, Mr. D. Hamilton (Hamilton), who judged the late City show and gave general satisfaction. Norwich and British and Mules were ably judged by Mr. G. Marlin, Hamilton. The following are the awards, which gave all round satisfaction:—SCOTCH. YOUNG CK.: 1st, spl. and 2, S. Hannah; 3, J. Allan. YOUNG HEN: 1st, and spl. and cup, 2 and 3, J. Allan. OLD CK: 1, 3, Allan; 2, S. Hannah. HEN: 1, Allan; 2 and 3, Hannah. SELL.: 1, spl. and 2, Hannah; 3, Allan. NORWICH, YOUNG YELL. CK.: 1, spl. and 3, W. Wilson; 2, D. Berry. BUFF CK.: 1, spl. LYE.

Fifth annual show in connection with now well-known and flourishing society was held in the Congregational Schools, a grand place for a show, plenty of top light. Exhibits were staged in a very nice height, so that the birds were seen to the best advantage. Mr. Green and his men, as hon. secretaries, had everything well in hand. Judging soon over, the show was opened by Alderman C. King, of Stourbridge. The room was packed to excess with visitors, so that success was again assured. The committee would be wise another year if they would see their way to advertise more in our CAGE BIRDS. They would then get a much larger entry. Our section turned up well, the class for British birds being of high merit. Mr. James, of Birmingham, judged. CANS.: 1, spl., Oakley, Buff Norwich bird, nicely shown; 2, 3, Fallows, yell. and buff Yorks, in order named, yell. neat head and neck, well balanced wings, good tail, 3 long way behind, frill on breast; r, Hingley, blue var. Nor.; vhc, Capewell. BRIT. AND FOR. (Amal.): This class caused some dissatisfaction amongst exhibitors, they not agreeing to the amalgamation. 1, spl, Hingley, very nice pair Black Goldfinch Finches, in splendid bloom, a credit to their owner, held same position at Wolverhampton last week; 2, vhc, Jones, Wryneck and Blackcap, both well known winners, need no further comment; 3, Bullingham; r, Hingley; c, Aston; vhc, Mrs. Hyrons. MULES: A fine class. 1, Hingley, very nice Goldfinch Bully, in good condition, nice col. face and breast, bit small; 2, 3, Bodley, Siskin Mule and a Goldie Bully in order named, both well known winners, and shown in splendid condition; vhc, Jones, light Goldie Mules.

DUNDEE LOCHEE O.A.

The Dundee Lochee O.A. held a very successful club show in the City Assembly Hall on November 2nd, and over 100 birds were staged, the quality being well above the average. Mr. Merrilees won the cup for young cocks with a bird of good quality, good top and drive; and Mr. Ramsay accounted for the Hen Cup with a gem, good size, grand top and gets her head well down. The judges were Messrs. T. Allison (Aberdeen), C. Berwick (St. Andrews), and Robt. Whitton (Broughty Ferry), and their awards were well received. The officials are a good lot of fanciers, and the birds were staged and the arrangements carried out in high-class style. YELL. PIED OR GREEN HEN: 1, Ramsay, the cup winner, good size, already described; 2, McGregor, another good hen, fine size; 3, Merrilees, a sweet hen, good top. BUFF: 1, 3 and 4, Merrilees, a good team, first good size and top, nice drive, third smaller, but all there for style; 2, McGregor, good size and thickness, nice drive; 5, McHaughton. CK., A. C.: 1, Low, the old champion, often described; 2, Maxwell; 3, Symons, useful bird. HEN: 1, D. Low, nice green hen, good neck; 2, Maxwell, good hen, nice drive; 3, Merrilees, good old hen, fine neck. CREST, CK., YOUNG: 1, C. Low, even mark., good spread for a youngster; 2 and 3, J. Wallace, two Greens, not far behind; 4, McDonald, nice Grizzle. CREST-BRED: 1, Wallace, good entrance; 2, C. Low, hardly finished, will improve; 3, Brown, good size and length of feather; 4, C. Low, nice hen; 5, McDonald. PLAINHEAD: 1, 2, 5, McKenzie, well fed, good type, second buff, nicely mealed; 3 and 4, Milne, two serviceable buffs, good size. BORDER CK.: 1, Low, nice. HEN: 1 and 2, McKenzie, nice type, could have been better staged; 3, Low, good type. CREST: 1, Low, green hen, nice size and spread; 2, 3 and 4, Brown, hardly ready, will improve CREST-BRED: 1, 3, 4, Low, first good skull, nicely lashed, third good size, nice head; 2, Wallace, good substance; 5, Brown. HYBRID: 1 and 2, Nicoll, two good Goldie Mules, well fed; 3 and 4, Maxwell, both Siskin Mules. LINNETS, ETC.: 1, Routledge, nice Linnet leading, good size and pencilling; 2, McKenzie, nice Siskin, good size and cap; 3, 5, McDonald, good Linnet, fine colour; 4, Routledge, lesser Redpole, good markings. A.O.V.: 1, J. Nicoll, Bullfinch, good cap, rich breast; 2, 5, Routledge, nice Goldfinch, good buttons, fine square blaze; 3, J. Nicoll good Bullfinch; 4, Wallace.

AIRDRIE AND COATBRIDGE O.S.

The annual show of Scotch Fancy and Norwich Canaries, under the auspices of this enterprising Association, was held in the Trades' Hall, Airdrie, November 20th. The hall is admirably adapted for an exhibition, being comfortable and commodious. There was a grand turn-out in all the sections, and the quality was far above the average for a district show, exhibits appeared here that were likely to win in the keenest of competitions. Fanciers in the district are devoted to the hobby, and have succeeded in producing splendid style; what is wanted is size, and retaining the model they are working upon. Mr. Fairley, the president, is a born leader, he is highly respected, and carries the members with him; in the secretary, Mr. A. Murdoch, the Association are fortunate; he is most capable and courteous, and has a firm grasp of business. Both gentlemen were backed up by an energetic and hard-working committee. The arrangements were all that could be desired, and the event was much appreciated. The members have every reason to feel encouraged to go forward and improve their institution. There is likely to be an accession to the membership, and at the dinner a suggestion was put forth by one of the judges that classes might be added for Border Fancy Canarics. The show was well patronised, and everything passed off satisfactorily. The judges were Messrs. David Brown (Edinburgh) and Thomas Smith (Glasgow), for Scotch Fancy and Mr. Moreland (Falkirk) for the other sections. They were careful and painstaking, and did their best to place the exhibits in the order of merit. The judges expressed themselves well pleased with the quality and the show generally. In the Scotch Fancy section Mr. Main, of Coatbridge, won the cup with a meritorious yellow hen, and the runner up was an exceptionally stylish yellow green cock bred by Mr. J. Prentice. The cup in the Norwich section was awarded to Mr. D. Clark for a lovely crest cock.

STRATFORD-ON-AVON.

Stratford-on-Avon F.S. held their Annual Open Show in the Corn Exchange, Nov. 5. This building is admirably adapted to the needs of a Cage Bird Show, being excellently lighted, roomy, and quite free from draughts. Stratford is the Mecca annually of a large number of Midland fanciers, and we noticed well known faces from Birmingham, and other towns. The conduct of the show by Messrs. A. M. and W. H. Bailey, secs., was excellent; they were backed up by a hard-working and painstaking committee, consisting of Messrs. Mather, Archer, J. Bush, F. Bush, Edge, Jackson, Smith, Bider, Hoyles, Wyatt, Berry and Savage. The chairman, Mr. Mather, opened the show before a distinguished gathering. Entries were not over numerous, but the quality of the exhibits was excellent, and the competition very keen. The classes for Crest, Crest bred, Norwich hen, Mules, and selling were cancelled, and the four Yorkshire classes amalgamated into two. In Norwich, Messrs. Irons and Symonds and Son were to the fore, and in Yorkshires Messrs. Paddock, Burke and Churchill staged some typical birds. Mr. G. E. Russell judged and gave general satisfaction. NOR. PL. YELL., ETC.: (6) 1, Irons, splendid ck. of good quality, nicely braced wings, good head and neck, wins well; 2, Symonds and Son, shade hotter in colour, nice quality, fails to leader in wing carriage; 3, Broadhurst, vari., of fair quality, good head and neck, inclined to cross wings, when we saw him; vhc, Gilbert; hc, Mullis; c, Maillet. BUFF (8): 1, Symonds and Son, big bouncing bird of good colour, good head and neck, rather hollow at shoulders; 2, Irons, grizzled on back, beautiful quality bird, nice back and front, looksd a bit rough at thighs when judged, or might have won; 3, Lees, nice chubby bird of good quality, fails somewhat in head to 2; vhc, Gilbert; hc, Broadhurst; c, Mullis. UNFLI. ALNWICK.

Third annual show of the Alnwick and Dis. H.S., was held in the Town Hall, Alnwick, November 2nd. It is a pity this society could not see its way clear to increase the classification, their prize list being quite a novelty, and with better classification the show should make a name for itself. Some splendid exhibits were staged, giving the judge some trouble to sort out the winners; but such was done, evidently to the satisfaction of all. In the Canary class, Messrs. Thompson Bros.' Buff Scotch Fancy cock had hard lines in meeting a Clun. of exceptional merit, and might have won, had it shown itself off as well when judged as it did in the afternoon, when we took our notes. Everything was in apple-pie order under the secretarial direction of Mr. Thos. Tennant, who worked hard for the success of the show. Let us see a few more classes another year, with an advertisement in CAGE BIRDS, and so make Alnwick the show of the North. Mr. A. Hay, Berwick, judged. CANARY (30): 1, spl, and spl for best in show, Atkinson, Clnn. grand deep colour, nice type, not a feather out of place, but hard pressed by 2; spl, Thompson Bros., Cl. Buff Scotch Fancy, rather lazy when judged, grand drive, and gets tail well under, could have won if it had showed itself; 3, spl, Miller, Cl. Buff Nor., lovely head and body, close up, but broken feather in tail told against it; r, spl, vhc, hc, Rennison, grand trio of Nor., r, grizzle cap Buff hen, takes spl for best bird confined to Alnwick; c, Weatherhead, Cl. Buff Border, a grand class, several birds standing cardless, worth a ticket at any show. A.O.V. (except Linnet) (21): 1, spl., Atkinson, grand var. Buff Goldie Mule, grand size, nicely marked and in pink of condition; 2, spl., Rennison, Bramblefinch, graudly spangled, the best of polish and condition; 3, Heslop, Goldfinch, grand blaze and nut-brown back, nice bars; res., Miss Wood, var. Buff Goldie Mule; vhc, Knox, Bramblefinch; hc, Robson, Goldfinch; c, Paxton and Luke. LINNET (23): 1, spl., 2, Atkinson, 1st nice size, nutty-brown, fine pencilling, steady as a rock, 2nd falls a trifle pencilling; 3, Pringle, grand colour, but shows rather a bad claw on left foot; res., vhc, Robinson, r the largest in class but very wild; hc, Robson; c, Miss Robinson.

SANDY LANE.

Annual Open Show, held on Nov. 1st and 2nd, under the rules of the Yorkshire Union, and the patronage of the Y.C.C. and the C.M.Y.C. Entries totalled 479, and the number of exhibitors 141. The open classes had an average of 16 per class, and the novices an average of 23 per class. The room is a good one for a show, but not by any means too big for the great influx of visitors, and at times it was hard work to get near the exhibits. Mr. R. Butcliffe officiated as judge, and being expert on Cinnamon marks would no doubt be very gratified at the excellent entry in these classes. The secretary, Mr. Buckle, is a hard worker, and was ably assisted by the President, Mr. Wilson, the vice-Presidents, Messrs. Drake and Shaw, the Stewards, Messrs. Coates, Edmondson, Shaw, and Watmongh, and a whole bodyguard of willing assistants. Some grand specimens were on view, amongst the most noticeable being Shackleton's cl. yell, Bailey and Swanger's tick. buff, Wilcock's uneven-marked, Milburn's heavily vari., Dyson's unfli. buff, Wadsworth's buff hens, and Hartley's cinnamon marked buff hen. In the Novice classes some grand birds were put down, many out of the cards being good enongh to win at some open shows. A grand innovation at this show was the providing of refreshments, which was greatly appreciated by many of the visitors.

BEDFORD.

The fifth annual show of the Bedford and Bedfordshire C.B.S. was held in the Town Hall on October 31st, and was an unqualified success. Between three and four hundred birds faced the judge, who was of opinion that many of them were good enough to compete at our best shows. Norwich plainheads were a very fine lot, and must have caused the judge considerable trouble in selecting the winners, especially as there were over 20 in several of the classes. The hardworking committee, consisting of such well-known fanciers as Messrs. Gentle, Keech, Wilmot, Millard, Sharp, Corrie, Markham, Gould, Smith, and the very excellent hon. secretary, Mr. E. T. F. Wiggins, had the allair well in hand, the birds being staged and ready for the judge at 10 o'clock. A string band was in attendance, and W. A. Attenborough, Esq., M.A., J.P., played selections on his cornet. This gentleman also opened the show, and gave an interesting address on his experiences in ornithology, not only in England, but also in other parts of the world. There was a capital attendance, and no doubt when the committee come to balance up, the financial side will be found to be satisfactory. We must not forget to mention the excellent show of Foreigners, which were indeed a nice little lot. Mr. Timeous' superb Tanager, and Mr. Cooper's Blue Bonnets (first in their respective classes), were especially fine, while most of the others came in for much admiration. There were special prizes in all the classes. Mr. J. Robson judged. NOR. CL. YELL. (22): 1, Gentle, very fine, large bird, excells in head and body, and good colour throughout; 2, Millard, teeming with quality, grandly made bird, beaten in substance only; 3, Osborn, fine large bird, of the right stamp, hardly so good in head as winners; 4, Millard, another good one, wants another fortnight before he is in his prime; vhc, Wiggins, Osborn, Griggs; hc, Markham, Grlggs. TKD., ETC., YELL. (17): 1, Millard, rare size and type, full of quality, an easy winner; 2, Markham, not quite so cobby as winner, otherwise a really good all round specimen; 3, Mortimer, rare bird, with grand head, perhaps a wee bit long; vhc, Osborn, has good head and general appearance, not quite so hot as winners; vhc, Markham; hc, Corrie, Osborn; c, Gentle. CL. BUFF (21): 1, 3, Markham, 1, really a very fine bird, with good typical head, body, wings and tail, one of the best we have seen this season, 3, similar to first, just beaten in colour; 2, 4, Keech, two splendid type, full of quality, beautifully mealed, hardly so tight as winner; 4, excellent quality, nice type; vhc, Gentle, Mortimer; hc, Millard, Mortimer; c, Sharp. BUFF (21): 1, Litchfield, rare size and quality, correct type, and will improve yet; 2, Centle, tight as wax, and full of bloom, beaten only in size; 3, Wiggins, very nice bird of excellent quality, shade smaller than winner; 4, Osborn, good quality bird, carries wings rather too high; vhc, Keech, Markham; hc, Millard, Wiggins, c, Smith, Keech. YELL. WESTON-SUPER-MARE.

Held in the Drill Hall on October 31st. The entries came up well, and constituted a record, numerically for this society, while quality was well to the fore. The Norwich and Yorkshire classes contained many birds of high merit, and the competition was very keen. Mr. C. E. Brown took the special for best in the former section with a ticked Buff, a well known winner. In the latter, Mrs. Garland won with a very smart and stylish clear Yellow, after a hard tussel with Mr. Lovell's ticked Buff. The cage bird exhibits were nicely staged at one end of the hall, and they were thoroughly well attended to by a good committee of genuine fanciers. Mr. G. W. Read, the popular and energetic hon. secretary, had everything well in hand, and was most obliging and courteous. The arrangements reflected credit on all concerned. Mr. J. H. Payne made the awards, which were well received. NORWICH CL. F. CARL, "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet St., London

DARLINGTON.

Canary and British Bird Association held their Second Annual Show in the Corn Exchange, Nov. 2. The room is very lofty, well lighted and free from draught. The Hon. Sec., Mr. R. S. Block, had the birds staged in good time, and all cards were placed by 1.30 p.m. The committee, who helped in the management of the show were Messrs. Hawkins, O'Connor, Wilcock, Sutton, Cooper, Tolson, Wildsmith, Clear, Cuthbertson, etc. In the Yorks. section some beautiful birds were staged. Mr. J. Cuthbertson's Cl. Yell. taking 1st in open classes, 1st, best Members, and winning the bowl for best Members' bird. Mr. G. W. Cuthbertson, of Heighington, took 1 and 2 in the Buff classes, with two beauties; also 1st in yell. ticks. In the Unfli. Messrs. Long, Green, and Bolton, were the winners, with some typical birds that will pay for keeping over another year. Norwich were a grand lot, Messrs. Hill and Stewart, Hesp, Carter and Dalgetty staging some typical birds. In the Hybrids, Mr. T. Marwood, live pointer Goldfinch Canary, won; this bird is a marvel, we heard that it was eight years old, and it looks like a young one, feather like wax, and as lively as a kitten. The Britishers turned up well. Messrs. Duncan's Goldfinch, Wildsmith and Hawkins' Linnet, and Barwell's Bramble were grand birds, put down in the pink of condition. We were pleased to see that good old fancier, Mr. T. Cleminson, present. Mr. W. Mundell judged.

YORKS. YELL. (11): 1, J. Cuthbertson, racy bird, full of quality, rich colour, long flight and tail, grand position, won bowl for best Members' exhibit; 2, Rand, straight as a pencil, grand wing carriage, nice piped tail, somewhat badly shown; 3, G. MANSFIELD.

First open show of Mansfield C.B.C. took place on Nov. 1 and 2, under C.B.U. rules. The Victoria Hall, in which the exhibits were staged, commends itself to us as being a most suitable place, being nicely lighted, fairly spacious, free from draughts, and in close proximity to the station. Excellent classification was provided. Entries totalled 330, staged in capital style. Nor. Plainheads made a nice display. Outstanding birds were the clear Buff cock owned by Mr. W. Vardy, the tick Buff of Mr. W. Twine, and the yellow hen of Mr. W. N. Midgley. Other exhibits of high merit were benched by Messrs. Winterbottom, Deverill, Butler, Marshall, and Vaughan, Adnitt and Driver, Moakes, Beardall, and Walker. Crest and Crestbreds were not over numerous, but for quality were all that one could desire. The Buff Var. D.C., shown by Messrs. Riley Bros., was voted a topper, and also the yellow Crestbred owned by Mr. H. Marshall. Other notable exhibitors were Messrs. J. Gilbert, T. Smith, C. and H. Twine, G. Brown, and A. Mason. Yorks. were few but nice, several possessing true characteristics. Neat birds were shown by Messrs. J. Haigh and Son, Green, Shilling and Stringer. Mules, Cinns. and Lizards supplied several choice creatures. The Buff Goldie-Canary (almost clear) shown by Messrs. Tams and Sons we liked, and the Goldie-Bullie, same owner, found many admirers. British were a magnificent lot, not a feather being out of place; in delightful bloom. Slashing exhibitors were Messrs. Roslyn, Milne, Duncan, Mason, Sparkes, Hoshaw, Pitt, Osborn, Goode, and Leam and Stinson. Special mention might be made of the Greenie staged by Mr. W. Henshaw, and the Gold Crested Wren benched by Messrs. Leam and Stinson. Foreign, with their gaudy dress, gave tone to the exhibition, praise being due to Messrs. Roslyn, Baker, and Wormall for the manner in which they staged their choice ones. Members' classes contained a goodly number of specimens of exceedingly high merit, many of which could run a tight race in the upper circles. Grand ones were shown by Messrs. Jackson, Seagrave, Barwise, Millott, Sparkes, Wormall, Meeds, Sadler, and W. Roslyn. Mr. W. Roslyn is president, and the vice-presidents are Dr. A. Hunnard, J.P., Alderman D. H. Maltby, J.P., Messrs. W. Cooper, J. Whitaker, J.P., F.Z.S., and W. J. Chadburn—all generous supporters. Mr. T. Garnham acts as treasurer, and the committee of management consists of Messrs. J. Sparkes, W. Barwise, J. S. Hinchliff, H. Meeds, H. Seagrave, J. Smith, F. Stansall, T. Sadler, A. Wormall, J. Jackson, H. Morley and F. Somerton. Mr. J. H. Duckworth, the worthy secretary, is the right man in the right place, working like a Trojan, always ready to assist, keeping well on top of his duty, much of the honour certainly belongs to him for so excellent an exhibition. Messrs. J. C. Barnes and J. Richards had the placing of the cards, and we heard no grumbling. NOR. CL. YELL (12): 1, Vardy, capital colour, full of quality, nice size and shape, good wing carriage, clean cut, sweet specimen; 2, Winterbottom, superior feather, rattling shape, not one of the biggest, but one of the best; 3, Deverill, slashing colour, soft silky feather, good substance, worth its place; vhc, Moakes, A1 quality, good type and colour; hc, Hare; c, Twine. BUFF (20): a grand class; 1, 2, Vardy, couple of grand birds, winner, rare substance and shape, splendid head and neck, best of wing carriage, second red hot in colour, rich silky feather, well up in size, A1 type; 3, Butler, wonderful quality and type, showing good substance, nice carriage, beaten a shade in colour, good 3rd; vhc, Revill, slashing shape, beautiful quality; hc, c, Beardall and Walker. BERWICK-ON-TWEED.

The 19th Annual Club Show, held November 2nd. Entries were considerably down in numbers, owing to the bad breeding season experienced in this old and romantic seaport town, which still receives more than the usual storms that prove disastrous to the Canary breeding fancier. Scores opened the programme, but only 14 faced the judge. Some, however, will make themselves known in stronger competition. The Cupwinner was found in this section, and proved to be a yellow pied cock, the property of Mr. Newbiggin, a very large bird for a youngster, grand frame, fine lengthy side, good top end, with grand reach, and very free worker, won on its remarkable action, which should make it a frequent winner. It was closely followed by a gem of a buff Hen, grand depth throughout, lovely reach and nice length of side, throws itself well back on leg, and drives to perfection, grandly filled up on back and shoulders, but rather slow in action, which put it back to-day; with handling will greatly improve, the property of that well-known breeder, Mr. J. Elder. Messrs. Gardner and Middlemiss had on view some nice specimens, which were only beaten in size for specials. Norwich contained some nice ones; there Mr. Marshall supplied the spl. winner, with a good var. buff hen, shown in grand form, combined with size and quality. Borders were the strongest show, and some toppers were on view, this being the residence of that well-known English exhibitor, Mr. J. Smart; he had one of his extra strong teams out, and accounted for the majority of the spoil, capturing spls. for best in section, with a gem of a Foul yellow hen, put down in fine order, body perfection, size correct, position and wing carriage, A1, head a picture, one of the best I have seen out this season. His winning yellow cock is also well up for type, grand shape and rare position, but rather badly frayed on wings. Greens were a good lot, Mr. Marshall winning in the Cocks with a good buff green, well pencilled and sound in colour, and Mr. Lugton in hens, with a smart Jonque, grand markings and shape. Mules were nice, Mr. Elder accounting for all the prizes with a good team of darks, but inclined to be a little wild. The show was judged by Mr. J. W. Bruce (Coldstream), and we did not hear a single grumble. Mr. Elder held the secretarial reins, but as he has had over 20 years' experience at this game, words can hardly describe his business-like methods. To sum up, he was par excellence. He was ably assisted by Mr. Gardner as steward, and other members contributed their share to make the show what it is hoped it will prove to be, a financial success.

BRAMLEY.

Bramley and District O.S. held their second annual open exhibition on November 2nd, under the C.B.U. rules. The Good Shepherd's Schoolroom, in which the exhibits were staged, possesses nice light, is roomy, and free from draughts. Grand entry of 467 was obtained, comprising a magnificent lot of Yorkshires, which was to be expected, Bramley being so near to the "hot-bed" (Bradford) of this graceful variety; also a fine array of Norwich, which were voted a superb collection. British added to the attraction of the show, and one could select several topping specimens. In the Yorkshire section magnificent specimens were shown by Messrs. Cawgill, Spencer, Furnar, Radley (E.), Bearpark, Hodgson, Chew and Stokoe, Haigh and Son, H. Radley, Hewson, and Denton. Other exhibitors who were represented by birds far and away above the average were Messrs. Yelland, Widdop, Kemp and Son, Cartwright, Cooper, Taylor, Gibbons, Hardaker and Sample. The Ticked Yellow Norwich owned by Mr. J. Sandiford was a real gem. The Clear Buff, shown successfully by Mr. D. Hope, one was bound to admire, as also the Clear Buff hen staged by Mr. F. Coventry. Meritorious specimens were those, the property of Messrs. H. E. Wilkinson, Tweddle, Mennard, Haigh and Son, Stead, and Waters. In the British classes were birds in full bloom and beautifully staged. Mr. H. W. Axe's Hawfinch appeared in his best clothes, and looked quite a dandy. Mr. F. King's Goldfinch was voted a "good 'un," while other grand ones were benched by Messrs. Thorpe, Thompson, Almond, Hukes, and Mrs. C. Hunt. Novice classes provided good numbers and rare quality, many of which could hold their own. Mules provided a capital "mixture," some toppers being present. Mr. J. D. Leigh had two of his choice ones, Greenie-Bullie and Yell. Marked Goldie-Canary, standing first and second, and right well did they deserve their position. In the variety class, Mr. D. Hope (Bull) won with a magnificent Buff, marked D.C., a well-known winner. Grand exhibits were those belonging to Messrs. Parkes, Hallet, Galling, Shoesmith, Farrar, McDade, and H. Porter. Special for best Yorkie shown by a member went to Mr. A. Tate, his Buff Cinn. Mk. doing the needful. Norwich ditto was captured by a Clear Yellow shown by Mr. H. E. Wilkinson. The president is Ald. G. Peckover, a very generous supporter of the club. Vice-presidents are Dr. G. Bennie, and Messrs. A. Riley, C. Mathers, A. Smith, A. Tate, A. Chew, W. Bennett, and J. Sowden. All assist beneficially. The Committee of Management are a band of most willing and practical fanciers, who know how to control an open show as it should be controlled. Great praise is due to the following for the manner in which they manipulate:—Messrs. H. E. Wilkinson (chairman), A. Tate (vice-chairman), B. H. Wilson, H. Parker, W. Winn, A. Chew, J. Hargreaves, A. Dale, J. Houldsworth, E. Craven, and E. Fletcher. The worthy secretary is Mr. Jas. Metcalfe, the right man in the right place, and one who is always on the move, doing all in his power to bring matters to a successful issue. Bramley is lucky in having such an enthusiastic worker in their midst. Judging was over in good time, and cards displayed promptly by the stewards, all of whom are practical fanciers, doing their work in a most business-like way. Mr. J. C. Barnes judged Yorks and Nor. and Mr. Beswick the Brit. and Mules, and their awards gave general satisfaction. YORK YEL. (15): 1, Cowgill, clear, slashing feather, nice tone of colour, beautifully drawn, A1 position and length, well on leg, a beauty; 2, Spence, thigh tick, full of quality, straight as a rush, capital wings and tail, lengthy and leggy, close up; 3, Farrar, clear, grand colour and feather, stands well, good back and wing carriage, very bonny; vhc, Hardaker and Sample, unfli, nice wings, pipe tail; he, Ormondroyd, unfli, promising; c, Gibbons. BUFF (20), a nice class: 1, Bearpark, clear, lovely salmon tinged colour, delightfully frosted wonderful length and position, stands well, one of the best; 2, Hodgson, clear, tight as a Java, stands like a guardsman, fine position, beaten a little in length, yet a beauty; 3, Radley, tick neck, slashing quality, full of nerve, rare stand, worth its place; vhc, Taylor, clear, another true Yorkie, feathered to perfection, one we liked; he, Kemp and Son, stylish; c, Chew and Stokoe. A New Hat Ornament.

While shooting in one of his meadows, at Newington, Doncaster, Mr. George Grooby, cattle dealer, was somewhat startled to find a white Owl alight upon his hat. Putting up his hand, the bird flew away, but he shot it, and found it to be one of the large and rare Owl species. He is having the bird stuffed.

BLACKBURN.

The 11th Annual Show of the Blackburn and Dist. C.B.S. was held Nov. 1st and 2nd, in the Orange Hall, Richmond Terrace, Blackburn, a good room for the purpose, but rather small for a show of this importance. Entries came up well, numbering nearly 500. We were sorry to see the Crest Class cancelled and cannot understand why Crest fanciers come forward so badly. Norwich were a very level lot, size, type, colour and quality being pre-eminent in every class; the specimens staged by Messrs. Hirst, Seed, Edward Trengove, and Wade being birds of exceptional merit; Yorkshire classes were well filled, the specimens staged by Messrs. Barton, Hirst, Hilliary and Knowles, being gems of the first water. Cinnamons made a good show, the principal winners, though being, as usual, Messrs. Godley and Bormer. The British Bird Section (under the patronage of the N.B.B. and M.C.), although not strong in numbers, was all there as regards quality, especially the birds of Messrs. Ward, Bower, Murdo, Kilner, Hunter, Almond and Fuderwood. In the Novice and Members' Classes the birds of Messrs. Tetley, Gregson, Barnes, Marsden and W. E. Seed showed great promise and several held their own in the Open Classes. We were very pleased to see the show was well patronised by the public, there being a grand attendance whilst we were there. Amongst those present we noticed Messrs. Trengove, Seed, Parkinson, Cook, Hartley, Hayhurst, Godley and Ridings. The Secretary, Mr. Marsden, a very courteous and obliging gentleman, had everything well in hand, and received able assistance from Mr. Fairclough, Ass't. Secretary, Mr. J. Lyons., Chairman; Mr. R. Haworth, Vice-Chairman; and Mr. S. Tweddle, Treasurer; who were mainly responsible for the success of the show. The judges were Messrs. J. H. Roe (Canaries), and J. Walsh (British Mules and Foreign), and their awards were well received.

The Norwich and Cinnamons.

Nests of Birds, Poultry, etc., should be regularly sprinkled with KEATING'S POWDER, especially when hens are sitting. Don't forget to do this just previous to the eggs hatching, to destroy the Red Mite. It kills all Insects, harmless to everything else.

ROCHDALE GOOD INTENT.

The Rochdale Good Intent Show was held on November 2nd in the Parish church schools, which are very conveniently situated as regards railway facilities. Of the bowdoom itself we cannot speak too highly, it being everything that a committee could wish for—grandly lighted from top, perfectly free from draughts, plenty of floor space, and with the one exception of the staging being a little low, was a perfect room. The committee are fortunate in being able to secure such a room, and we were informed they intend securing it again for next year's show. A goodly number of visitors attended, among many others whom we fail to remember, being Mr. Green, that enthusiastic fancier of the Lancashire, who held his ground on the show bench in this, one of the strongholds of the saints of the Canary tribes, Messrs. Garner, Booth, Broughton, Preston, Hampshire, and Collinge. The management was really first-class, and in Mr. Sam Clayton the society has a secretary who is a thorough master of his work, and carries it out in workmanlike manner—obliging, but firm in his actions. He is the right man in the right place. He had able assistance from Messrs. Horsman and Gaskill, as stewards, while Messrs. Leach, Lord, Law, Lees, Holden, Banks, McCormick, and Silway, who formed the committee, vied with each other in their efforts to make things run smooth and well. We must not forget the ladies, who provided teas for visitors in true hospitable Lancashire fashion, and at a reasonable price; we hope they did well financially. Coming to the exhibits, the schedule opened with six classes for Lancashires, and these brought together a nice total of 67, giving the excellent average of 11 per class. In this section we were pleased to see a decided improvement on some years ago in the manner the birds were put on the show bench, many of them being spotlessly clean; there were not so many dirty ones as we have seen on former occasions in the Lancashire classes. The teams of Messrs. Hardy, Green, Lowe, West, Mills and Adams were a credit to all of them, while in the two novice classes Messrs. Jones, Brooks, Oldham, Riseley, Laycock, and others put some down that would have stood their corner in the champion classes. Lizards, with four classes, had an entry of 39, and some grand spangle backs were on view. The teams of Messrs. Dewsnap, Rukin, Butterworth, Turners, Hampshire, Martin, Smith and Sellars were grand specimens, full of delightful spangling, beautiful colour, neat shape, and jaunty carriage; they were indeed a pretty sight both to the casual visitor and the experienced fancier. Crests with one class introduced us to a couple of good ones, put down by that well known breeder, Mr. J. Collinge, he capturing 1st and 2nd with ease. In Crestbreds Mr. Hardy performed the same feat with a couple of good ones. Yorkshires were a grand lot, and well displayed their type, style, and quality, with 103 in six classes—an average of over 15 per class. This section did well, and birds of superior type and quality were staged by Messrs. Ogden Bros., Broughton, Cuthbertson, Binns, Greenwood, Faulkner, Wilkinson, Clayton, Norris, and Beseoby. Norwich, with four classes, had 46 entries, and though quality and type were well represented, the numbers were hardly satisfactory. The team put down by Mr. Booth was grand, he taking most of the spoil. Good birds were also staged by Messrs. Beswick, Wrigley, Braybrook, Lees, Hindley, and Greenwood. The A.O.V. was a nice class, while the Selling and the one British classes were distinctly good. Probably the society may see their way another year to extend their classification in this section. We hope the show will prove as great a financial success as the committee are worthy of, as they are all genuine fanciers. Messrs. H. W. Battye and R. Barras, judged and gave every satisfaction.

Mr. Barras's Classes.

LANC. COPPY YELL., ETC. (9): 1, spl., Hardy, neat well spread Crizzle Coppy, fine length, and stand clean and well staged, wins; 2, F. J. BUFF (12): 1, Garner, great length, good shape, and stand very neat and clean, well staged, good one; 2, Hardy, grizzle back of head, not quite so heavy in coppy and hugs perch; 3, 4, spl., Mills, both grizzle on head, both neat feather for this variety, fine length and shape; vhc, he, West; c, Adams. YELL. PLAINHEAD (11): 1, Hardy, masterpiece, big massive bird, clothed with an abundance of fine feather, of grand head and neck, stands well; 2, Lowe, big fine bulky bird, hardly the length of 1st, and not the finish, good bird though; 3, 4, spl., F. J. Green, 3rd good skull, though not the width of leaders, 4th grand length and carriage, slimmer in build. BUFF (9): 1, Hardy, regular bulldog, immense head, thick neck, well lashed, and nicely staged; 2, Green, another giant, hardly the condition or so good in head properties, good nevertheless; 3, 4, spl., West, both long, fine built birds, grand in feather, but beaten heads by leaders; vhc, Turner; he, Rowbottom; c, Hartley. NOVICE COPPY (13): 1, Jones, nice, neat, cl. yell. coppy, grand condition, fine length, stands well, nicely staged; 2, vhc, spl., Riseley, leader grizzled coppy, fine long bird, stands well, hardly so good in head or so well staged; 3, he, Laycock, 3rd tick, back of head, stands well, plenty of feather and fine length; 4, Smith and Sellars, fine build and size, dark coppy, nicely spread; c, Oldham. PLAINHEAD (13): 1, c, spl., Brooks, yell., grand head, fine length, well built, good carriage and condition; 2, vhc, Oldham, buff, big massive bird, good skull, not so well staged, or must have pressed hard on winner; 3, Whitworth, nice head and carriage, bit thin in comparison to leaders; 4, Riseley, another romper for size and skull, worth its place; he, Entwistle; a good class of Norwich birds. LIZARD CL. CAP GOLD (10): 1, Turner, hot colour, well rowed, full of work, and nice ground colour, grand specimen; 2, vhc, spl., Hampshire, flat in colour, in nice order, and teeming with work all over, well rowed; 3, Garner, good colour, hardly so good on back, and fails a bit, wings and tail tips nice condition; 4, Lowe, nice one, we liked for 3rd place, nice Lizard; vhc, Hampshire; he, Nuttall; c, T. Holt. SILVER (11): 1, c, Butterworth, nice warm colour, good shape and size, nice rowing, fine condition; 2, he, Hampshire, looks like a hen and has not much colour, grand spangling all through, more distinct than first, really good Lizard and well worth its place; 3, 4, spl., Dewsnap, third good ground colour, nice colour, not so nicely rowed as leaders, fourth we liked for third place, nice specimen; vhc, Martin, good class. BROKEN CAP GOLD (7): 1, 2, spl., Rukin, in mass of spangling, not much cap, fine colour, well rowed, good one, second plenty of work, hardly so neat in rowing as first; 3, Turner, grand back, fine condition, not the colour or finish of leaders; 4, Dewsnap, another dark cap, not quite so distinct in rowing; vhc, Leach; he, Holt; c, Woodhead. SILVER (11): 1, spl., Dewsnap, another beauty, full of grand work all through, wins; 2, Hampshire, lacks colour and not quite so distinct in spangling on back as leader, still a good bird; 3, Martin, again behind in colour, nice backed bird and worth its place; 4, Smith and Sellars, not so distinct in rowing; vhc, Butterworth; he, Brierley, we liked fourth; c, McKimm. CREST NORWICH (7): 1, 2, spl., Collinge, leader heavily vargtd. with good sized crest, well formed, fair centre, good droop, wins easy, 2nd wings and breast, nice lovely crest hen, and though not so massive as first, still a nice one; 3, Fitton, one wing and breast, nice centre and formation, fails to leaders in frontal; 4, Radcliffe; vhc, Law, grizzle crest, we made a good fourth; he, Carr. CREST-BRED (12): 1, 2, spl., Hardy, leader lightly vargtd., fine entrance, good skull, heaps of dense feather, 2nd like dome shaped head, good feather, not so good in entrance; 3, Collinge, yell. vargtd., good one for a yell., nice entrance and skull, might have gone up one; 4, Mussey, light mark, beaten entrance, plenty of feather; vhc, Radcliffe; he, Smith; c, Ogden.

Mr. Battye's Classes.

YORKS CL. YELL. OSWESTRY.

Oswestry P. and F.A. Show held in the Cross Market Hall on October 31st. The cage bird section came up stronger than last year—about 30 more entries throughout. The classification was not very extensive, being held in conjunction with poultry, pigeons, rabbits, etc.; nevertheless, some 250 birds or more graced the benches. The open classes contained some lovely Norwich, most typical, and excelling in quality. Yorkshires were very grand, particularly the Yellows, and far and away the strongest classes; the winners were great, and the Yellow which won special best Yorkshire is a treat. Hybrids, light and dark, produced some of the present day champions, the clear buff from Liverpool winning special for best bird over this section. The dark class brought out Gold-Bull (2), Green-Bull (2), Canary-Bully, Green Can., Linnet-Canary, etc., and again the Liverpool champion Gold Bull led the way, followed by pretty Canary-Bully and Green-Bull respectively. Britishers were very good, but not quite so numerous as usual. The winning Goldfinch, Bullfinch, Linnet, and Nightingale were superb, and fit to battle for a kingdom. The runners-up in most cases were well up, and some very tight competition resulted. Foreign birds were led by a nice pair of Conures. The local champion section was well patronised by a good entry of high-class exhibits, and as usual some good Norwich, Yorkshires, Goldfinches, and Bullfinches turned up. The novice section was well filled by some very promising birds, and a little perseverance and coaching up should bring some of the birds well to the front, notably several fine Goldfinches. A good number of birds in each section were soon chimed, which speaks well for the quality and value of the exhibits. Lots of cash, specials, medals, cups, and various articles of value were given, and fanciers lucky to win had quite a field day. A fine list of patrons is secured for the support of this annual event, and a regular Derbylike day is looked forward to every year for miles around. A fine set of officers and committee carried out the arrangements, and, with such names as Major Bull, Messrs. A. Gough, G. Inglis, G. H. Finney, Hughes, Lloyd, England, Bert Gough, etc., with Dr. Cartwright (chairman), Messrs. Morris Smith (vice-chairman), R. E. Hughes (treasurer), G. A. George (hon. sec.), and last, but by no means least, G. A. Doody, as secretary, it was no wonder that success obtained. Mr. Doody is a master man in carrying out all his work in the most up-to-date and finished style. Mr. A. Gough judged the local classes, and Mr. Chas. Houlton judged all open classes, and their awards were well received.

NOR. YELL. (9): 1, Turner, var., thick-set typical bird, fine neat head, compact wings and tail, very rich level colour, put down in fine condition; 2, vhc, Brotherhood, slashing big bird, fully long enough, grand head, full of colour and quality; 3, Lover, cl., looks like a hen, very chubby, typical Nor., grand feather, carriage and condition; r, Jenkins, var., body, grand type, trifle heavier, feather round thighs, otherwise a gem; he, Callear; c, Wells. TREHARRIS.

Cage Bird Section, held October 31st, in the Galleries of the Public Hall. Owing to not being under C.B.U. Rules, and also to there being so many shows clashing, entries were not numerous, but quality in some instances was tip-top. The Committee would do well to cater more liberally for the Cage Bird Section, and engage a popular judge. The galleries are a suitable place for staging the exhibits, light being good. The secretary, Mr. W. J. Davies, is an ideal one and most obliging, backed up by a hard-working committee. Mr. J. Breeze, Nelson, Glam, judged. YORKS. (13): 1, 2, and Cup, Williams, thigh ticked yell. leading, well drawn, nice position for a Yorkie, little long in feather; 3, loses length and colour, yell. again; 2, Beran, another yell, cl. good length and type, loses quality; res. and vhc, Evans head tick., yell. leading, good length and quality, not quite ready; 11 and 12, Carter, wrong class, two topping Nor. NORWICH: 1, 2, res. vhc, Eynon, 1, cl. buff, nice type and quality not quite ready; 2, cap and wing mark, yell., lovely quality, type and colour, will improve, might have won; res., buff, wing and neck marked, good quality bit long in barrel; 2, Anstee, wing, cap and neck mark, buff, nice quality loses head and neck. A.O.V. CANARY (2): 3, Anstee, cinn. mark, Nor., might have been wrong classed. A.O.V. (4): 1, 2, withheld; 3, H. S. Davies, Llandilo, the noted Lorrie in tip top form; res, Castree, Ring Ouzel, good size, distinct crescent, very steady, will be heard of again; vhc, Williams, very fair Bramble.

HOUSE'S
CANARY MANUAL
Price ONE SHILLING. Post Free 1.2.
Superbly illustrated by the Champion Canary Artist Mr. H. NORMAN. EVERY BIRD DEPICTED IS A VERITABLE MODEL, and shows the breeder what to aim for. Some idea of the popularity of this Practical Manual may be gathered from the fact that under the title of "The British Canary," it has passed its Third Edition, entering upon a Fourth Edition of 5,000 copies under the new title of "HOUSE'S CANARY MANUAL."
MR. HOUSE has thoroughly revised and brought this work up-to-date and incorporated a chapter on the "Roller or Singing Canary."

BLAYDON-ON-TYNE.

The fourth annual show of this society was held in the Co-operative Hall on November 1st and 2nd. The room is well lighted on both sides by large windows, not too high up, which is sometimes the case in large halls. A comfortable temperature can be maintained in any kind of weather, and there is ample floor space. The show had the patronage of the Northern Crest Club and the Northern Yorks C.C., and the entries were 500, which is 50 more than last year. Mr. Godley (Rishton) and Mr. W. J. Taylor (Newcastle) each sent a large team, and had a close run for most points, Mr. Godley scoring 85, winning the special, and Mr. Taylor 81 points. Norwich had 89 in nine classes, and amongst them were some real good ones. Crests were a great success, 87 in nine classes, and the quality was excellent. Mr. T. Taylor's (Gateshead) young Crest "King Edward," won the bronzes for the best bird in the show. It is a wonderful exhibit, and is the best young Crest ever bred about the district. It is quite as great a surprise as Mr. Toward's "King of the Season" was in his day. He has a larger crest than any of the old birds, with perfect formation, not a feather wrong, good centre, and lovely droop. Mr. Lister's young Crest-bred is also a grand bird. The Crest-bred cock class was the best we have seen for some time. Yorkshires and Borders were good, and Mules and Hybrids excellent. Mr. J. Maddison put down some grand ones, and took most of the prizes. British and Foreign were also good. The show was formally opened at 3 p.m. by the Hon. President, F. Simpson, Esq., J.P. He takes a great interest in the society, and in a short speech congratulated the show committee on having such an excellent oxhibition. He said he considered it was a very nice hobby for men to take up, and hoped they would go on making progress by having a larger entry next year. Col. C. W. Napier Claver ing also said a few words, and Mr. Ogilvie, hon. sec., suitably replied. Mr. T. S. Crawhall acted as chairman. The Blaydon fanciers are fortunate in having such an able, courteous, and energetic secretary as Mr. Ogilvie. He was splendidly assisted by good stewards, who gave every attention to the exhibits. The arrangements were first-class. The judges were Mr. J. Robson and Mr. J. Trengove.

MAIDSTONE.

When one considers that the area of the Maidstone Fanciers' Society's Show is restricted to six miles, the local enthusiasts must be congratulated upon the result of their efforts, which were to be seen in the Corn Exchange on November 1st and 2nd. The show altogether had the excellent entry of over 800, towards which the cage bird section contributed 113, and for such a show the array of merit was good. The most level classes were those for Yorkshires, but the best bird in the show came from amongst the Crests, and the winner of Messrs. Hyde's special was the winner in the Norwich class. The British were not numerous, but amongst them were one or two very fine specimens, notably Mr. Jenner's Redstart and Mr. Terry's Goldfinch. Arranged on top of the Rabbit and Bantam pens in a good light, the cage birds presented a very nice appearance, and added interest to the show. All the arrangements were ably carried out by the committee, of which Mr. G. Barney is chairman, and Mr. Paul Lancaster vice-chairman, the other members being Messrs. E. F. Todman, R. Woodhams, B. Harvey, E. E. Frowd, W. Curtis, A. Stanley, A. Mecoy, and F. J. Whibley. All of these know how to work a show, and they do it in good form. Messrs. Day and Hayman, the secretaries, are a capital pair of officials, and worked hard and long to ensure the success of the fixture, whilst the president of the society, Mr. G. Tyrwhitt-Drake, was keeping a watchful eye over things generally. Mr. C. A. House judged.

NORWICH (7): 1, Hyde's spl., Andrews, large, shapely yellow, grand head, not one of the hottest, but a true Norwich; 2, Jenner, much more colour, grand quality, nice head; 3, vhc, Hills, very nice shape, ticked yellow, level colour and good quality; res., hc, Lambert. NON-FED, CL. (8): 1, hc, Hood, very nice shaped yellow of good feather; 2, 3, Moon, nicely feathered buff and a yellow, of good shape; res., Jenner; vhc, Conway; c, Froud. TICKED (13): 1, spl., Lambert, very handsome, neck ticked yellow, capital shape, and grand feather; 2, Jenner, grand bodied buff, rare quality; 3, res., Moon, very smart yellow, nice feather; vhc, Andrews; c, Harvey. CREST (7): 1, spl., and spl. best bird in show; 3, res., Jenner, varicgated, large well drooped crest, neatly centred and nice quality, 3rd very nicely feathered green Cresthred; 2, Conway, green Crest, not quite so large, but very nicely drooped and radiated; vhc, Mrs. Downer. KENT COUNTY (DOVER).

The second annual show of the Kent C.B.A. (under C.B.U. rules) held in the Templar Hall, Dover, October 30th and 31st, was a great success. Entries numbered 300. Quality was of the best. The hall was well lighted, and the birds were staged at a comfortable height. Congratulations are due to the hon. secretary, Mr. G. Sanderson, and the other members of the committee upon the excellent arrangements. Judging was over in good time, prize cards up, and catalogues of awards on sale in the hall very shortly afterwards. Special for best bird in the show was won by Mr. Brett's beautiful great grey Shrike, recently described. Mr. Geo. Gardner judged, and his awards appeared to give general satisfaction. NOR. CL. YELL. CORRESPONDENCE.

CITY OF GLASGOW SHOW.

SIR,—I sent two entries to the above show, enclosing with my entrance money sevenpence for catalogue, which, according to schedule, would be sent as early as possible after the awards had been given. I received my birds back at 10.30 on Sunday, but no catalogue. I wrote a letter to Mr. Muir drawing his attention to it, but up to the present he has not even replied to my letter. I don't know what he thinks, but I think it is rather shabby after you send them entries to be treated this way. I think when you send sevenpence for catalogue (which in my opinion is far too much), you ought to know the results before you get your birds back again. Hoping this letter will bring an answer to mine of the 20th.

T. H. COOPER.

[We hardly think 7d. is too much for such a catalogue as the City of Glasgow.—Editor, C.B.]

MULES FROM HEN BRITISH BIRDS.

SIR,—Last breeding season I thought I would try and rear young Siskin Mules from a hen Siskin and a cock Canary, which I did with great success. First of all I paired up the two birds in the beginning of the season, but the hen never laid until nearly the end, although she was building her nest and pulling it out all the season. She laid an egg in the bottom of the nest pan. After I had built her nest with hair and feathers, she pulled it out and broke two eggs. After that I took the nest and glued three pieces of cloth in the pan, which she could not pull out, and then she laid two more eggs, sitting on them herself. She reared the Mules as good as any hen Canary could have done, feeding them herself. I reared both birds (cocks) all right. They are finer than if I had paired a cock Siskin and hen Canary. Has such a thing happened before to other readers, for some bird fanciers can hardly believe that I reared them from a hen Siskin.

THE LITTLE OWL.

Sir,—After the large number of these, both young and old, taken this year from this district, they are still very numerous, and can be seen at night from 8 to 12. They can be heard in all directions, plainly showing that there are still plenty about. A friend, who had been at night near the woods, told me that they were there in abundance. I am glad to hear of this, for they are most useful birds, and no doubt in time they will be plentiful all over England. At the present time they are plentiful in Northamptonshire, Huntingdonshire, and Cambridgeshire. As they are such prolific breeders, they are sure to become numerous. From what I have seen of them in cages they are great pets and easily tamed, not at all like the larger family. I expect before long to see them grace the show bench. They are often met with in the daytime both flying about and on trees, a friend of mine seeing three on trees a few days ago. This shows that they do not always keep in their holes during the day. They do not seem to be at all shy. Would continual inbreeding have any effect on them? They most certainly do inbreed with a vengeance, and nest after nest is taken yearly from the same holes and nesting places.

THE SEX OF ROSEATE OR ROSE-BREASTED COCKATOOS.

SIR,—After reading Mr. Arthur's letter in your last issue, I looked up Greene's "Parrots in Captivity" to refresh my own memory, and for the benefit of your readers I reproduce the paragraph in question: "There is no difference in size or colour between the sexes, but the female can always be distinguished at a glance from her mate by her eye, which is chestnut brown, the iris of the male being jet black." I may say I have never kept this species, neither do I expect to, at any rate while I live in London; the noise of the Roseate is certainly more than my neighbours would stand, and the "powers that be" indoors I am sure would not. I would remind readers that the above sexual distinction would only apply to adult birds. In reference to Mr. Arthur's plaint re practical knowledge, I would remind him that to-day practical knowledge is valued almost before any other. Some, perhaps much, of it is lost, because published in papers without an index, and so it remains untabulated; and the human memory-box is a frail concern without some such help. Personally I have always esteemed Mr. Arthur's practical articles, and they have always received an interested and careful perusal at my hands. That I have on more than one occasion acknowledged Mr. Arthur's practical knowledge is well known to the Editor of "C.B.," in common with others, and Mr. Arthur himself must also, I think, be aware of the fact.

THE JUDGING OF NOVICE CLASSES AT YORKSHIRE UNION SHOWS.

SIR,—I was glad to see Mr. Kaye's letter in your last week's number, as I think it is a question that wants taking up, re the judging of the Yorkshire novice birds in the Yorkshire Union shows. Here is a judge who has to judge a show of between three and five hundred entries. He commences his task between nine and ten o'clock, and takes the open classes first. By the time he gets to the novice classes it is dark, and the officials have to light the gas. What chance has the poor novice with classes with 30 and 40 birds in? I think, for my part, with entries like the Yorkshire Union shows get, they ought to run a separate judge for the eight novice classes alone.

NEW SOCIETY FOR LEWISHAM.

SIR,—A very successful inaugural meeting was held on November 4th at 202, High Street, Lewisham, the headquarters pro tem. of the above society, some enthusiastic fanciers attending, letters also being read from others unable to attend. Mr. Lugg took the chair, and the business of the proposed society proceeded at a brisk pace. Officers for the remainder of the year were appointed, and a committee was formed, the subscription being fixed for this year at 1s., and entrance fee nil. All members joining after December 31st next will pay 1s. entrance fee and an annual subscription of 3s., payable first meeting night in January next. Now, then, Lewishamites, join now and make this society a success. Don't delay till January.

AN OLD DISCOVERY MADE ANEW.

SIR,—That there is nothing new under the sun is an old, old axiom which is brought forcibly to my mind by seeing a supposed new discovery given to fanciers regarding the real nature and botanical identity of that much-discussed seed, Inga, and the plant that produces it. The new discoverer has evidently grown the plants from seed in the past summer, and publishes the result as something quite new. Surely honour should be given where it is due, and in this case it is, I believe, due to my old friend, the late E. P. S. Elfick, who was probably the first, in this country at least, to make this discovery and to publish the information for the benefit of fanciers, which he did something like ten years ago. He grew the plants in his garden at Deal, from seeds, and these were subsequently identified and named by the authorities at Kew Gardens, and the supposed new facts now published are precisely the same in substance, if not in words, as those given by Elfick so many years ago. Therefore let us not neglect to pay this well-deserved tribute to his memory.

CHARGES FOR CARRIAGE.

SIR,—I should like to know the experiences of some of the exhibitors re railway charges. I will give you mine for the last two weeks. By the Great Northern I sent a Paradise Whydah to Peterborough Show, cage and case weighing 10lbs.; carriage there 1s., return 1s. 6d. By the Midland I sent a Parrakeet to Caterham, cage and case weighing 24lbs.; carriage there 1s., return 1s. 8d. Another I sent to Dulwich, cage and case weighing 22lbs.; carriage there 9d., return 1s. 9d. Of course, I went to inquire the reason of the officials and to pass a few remarks, but I could not get any satisfactory answer, except that they charge for collection at the other end, and that the companies have been "had" so much by reason of the birds dying en route that they have ordered to charge an extra 50 per cent. on all small birds. But if anything should happen to them, you cannot claim anything more than the magnificent sum of 5s., unless insured. What I want to know is, how is it the charges are so much heavier for the return journey? It was exactly the same last Season. I have not had the pleasure of sending a bird to a show yet that has come back for the same charge as that for which it was sent. I may say I sent one to Grimsby, and they have forgotten to charge at all for the return journey as yet. I am sending a pair of Parrakeets to Manchester. Package, etc., will weigh 24lbs. I inquired the price of carriage yesterday, and on the Great Northern the charge is 1s. 11d. This company call a Parrakeet a large bird, but on the Midland they call the same bird a small one, and their charges are 3s. each way, so with 6s. carriage, 2s. entrance fee, 7d. catalogue, and if I should be so successful to get a first prize, I shall be doing myself a bit of good. I have been told the C.B.U. were going to try and alter all this sort of thing; I am certain there would be some grand entries at most of the shows if the charges were at all reasonable for the carriage of the birds.

GREYPATES AT THE WELSH NATIONAL SHOW.

SIR,—Being an exhibitor at the recent Welsh National Show, held at Swansea, I exhibited a Greypate in the Greypate class. I see in catalogue it was marked down "wrong class." I beg to differ. It was not in the wrong class, which I will willingly prove to any competent judge by sending bird for him to see for himself that he is a Greypate. He has got his baby song on him now. He was hatched out June, 1907, and hand-reared by self. Report says: "Wing bars colour fed." I am not going to say whether he has been colour fed or not. Any exhibitor has a perfect right to give any food he might think fit to try and improve the beauty of plumage. As to his "white legs," being hand-reared the legs always come more or less white. Anyone who has hand-reared Britishers can prove this. I am inserting this for the benefit of other fanciers as well as myself.

ALLEGED UNFAIR PRACTICES AT A MIDLAND SHOW.

SIR,—At a certain Midland show, held last week, one of the committee entered some birds in a selling class, in which they took first prize. Immediately the prize-tickets were up, someone went to claim the birds, but was told that they were already sold, having been purchased by the exhibitor himself! Now, sir, I wish to ask if a man can buy his own property? As a matter of fact, the birds were worth many times the value fixed for the class; and this disgraceful transaction was to help to swell the exhibitor's score of "points." This same committee-man actually won a prize at the same show last year with a bird which he had purchased only a few days previously; although one of the rules at that time was to the effect that all exhibits must have been the property of the exhibitor at least three months prior to the show. Since then this rule has been abolished—apparently, to favour this extremely selfish individual. I understand that if he continues in office next year some of the other officials intend to resign. But that would be a pity. Why is the offender not "drummed out of camp?"

ALLEGED SHOCKING TREATMENT OF SHOW BIRDS.

Is it a Case for the C.B.U.?

SIR,—In common with a large number of other bird lovers, I was horrified upon reading in CAGE BIRDS this week the revolting particulars contained in the letter signed "C. E. Brown," alleging that five of the writer's birds arrived home from Plymouth Show dead, with the cages smashed all to atoms, and I sincerely hope the unfortunate owner will at once place all the facts of the case in the hands of the C.B.U. Council, with a request that the matter should be probed to the very bottom. Indeed, I think it is imperative that the C.B.U. should promptly have a thorough investigation made into this case, especially seeing that the first object of the Union, as laid down in the book of rules, is "The protection of the interests of exhibitors generally, and the suppression of cruelty to cage birds." Should the Union authorities fail to obtain satisfaction from the railway company concerned, then its solicitor should invoke the assistance of the Board of Trade, which Department, I feel certain, would cause a full inquiry to be made into the matter. If the Union would take up this unfortunate affair it would, in my opinion, confer a more lasting and real benefit upon the fancy at large than to keep, with monotonous iteration, dangling Rule 17, like the Sword of Damocles, over the heads of Cage Bird Societies and fanciers generally. I hope C. E. Brown will keep fanciers informed through the columns of the Press (which I feel sure will be thrown open in an important case of this sort) as to his success or otherwise in this matter, and all lovers of our feathered pets will hope that the perpetrator of this heinous offence, if brought to book, will be very severely punished.

JOHN B. WATERMAN.

SIR,—In last week's issue of your esteemed paper Mr. C. E. Brown, of Bristol, gave particulars of the lamentable loss he sustained through an accident to one of his cases returning from Plymouth Show on October 24th last. He says that the cages were smashed, whilst the outer case seemed to be undamaged. Thinking, perhaps, that under these circumstances some readers may be inclined to suspect that the damage was done prior to delivery to railway company at Plymouth, I should like to make it plain to your readers that, so far as our Society was concerned, the birds were, when they left the exhibition hall, perfectly safe. On reference to the checking out card, I find that they were packed by one of our oldest and most experienced members, himself a well-known Norwich exhibitor. The cages were packed in a hamper, and I believe it is quite possible to almost flatten out a hamper and afterwards to right it again without leaving much trace of its being damaged. I am assured by the G.W.R. parcel officials at Plymouth that the birds were sent away from Plymouth on October 24th at 8.20 a.m., so that there must have been considerable railway delay—as Bristol is on the main line—and the train reaches that place at 12.2, and Mr. Brown did not get them until 3.30. As to Mr. Pool and other exhibitors, I have had but one complaint, and that was a case of railway delay.

THOS. POPE,
Hon. Sec., W.C.O.S. (Plymouth).

SIR,—I think it a serious matter for Mr. Brown's birds to come home dead from Plymouth Show. We sent two exhibits to Plymouth Show, which closed on Wednesday night, October 23rd. We received our birds back on Friday, the 25th, at 11 a.m., going to the station three times on Thursday and once on Friday morning. Bramblefinch came nearly dead. The other, being a Starling and a stronger bird, stood the exposure better. We sent one to Manchester a few weeks ago, and that one came home dead in its cage. Not much encouragement to send birds to shows, this.

DO HAWKS DRINK?

SIR—Quite recently some one asked me if hawks drank water. The common idea is that these birds require nothing to drink because their food mostly contained blood and is generally soft. It is some years since I possessed any of these birds, but I have had several at different times, and well remember one Kestrel (which was picked up in a field with a broken wing, and afterwards became exceedingly tame) that was very fond of its bath, and whenever it was supplied with one would take a good drink of water before bathing. Doubtless Hawks generally drink but little, and can possibly go some time without water, but that they do drink is quite evident.

SOFT WATER FOR BATHING.

SIR,—The value of baths for keeping a bird's plumage in perfect condition is pretty well understood, but I doubt whether sufficient importance is placed upon using only clean soft water for the bath. There is absolutely no comparison between an ordinary supply from a main and clear rain water, if the latter is filtered, so much the better, otherwise it should be allowed to stand until it is quite clear. The latter will preserve the quality and bloom of the feather, which "hard" water only too often helps to destroy. Many fanciers living in town, are at a disadvantage in this matter, as soft or rain water is not always to be obtained. But even they may procure an excellent substitute at any time by filtering and well boiling the water before use. Boiling causes it to deposit a large proportion of the mineral salts which are the cause of the "hardness" and thus materially soften it, whilst if one then stirs in a little oatmeal and allows the water to stand until the next day, then pours off the clean water, it will be practically equal to the best rain water for the bird's shampoo.

A SWIFT SEEN IN OCTOBER.

SIR,—On October 30th I saw here at Billingshurst a Swift. It was flying in company with a few Swallows. I have never seen a Swift before at this season of the year, and I have been a careful observer for nearly 30 years. Has any other reader seen the like so late?

THE CLASS FOR SCARLET TANAGERS.

SIR,—I beg to thank Mr. Arthur for calling my attention to the careless error which occurred in my reply to a querist in your issue of October 19th on above subject. Owing to working at great pressure, I failed to check over my query column for one or two weeks, consequently I had failed to note the error. I can only say my intent was to say "Foreigners smaller than a Cardinal"; that is, of course, answering the query according to the prevailing custom. I can only hope my apparent carelessness has not caused H. B. T. any annoyance, and if by any chance he should have so entered and been disqualified, if he will send me the catalogue of show concerned and the amount of his carriage, I will send him a P.O. for the amount. PROMPT PAYMENT BY THE WELSH NATIONAL SHOW.

SIR,—We have heard a lot just lately about prompt payment of prize-money, but how is this for being bang up to date? I entered four birds at the Welsh National Show last week, and was lucky enough to get into the money. I paid a visit to the show on the first day, and before leaving I was asked to take my prize-money home with me, and also that of all my fellow-Cardiffians who had likewise been successful. This, of course, I was very pleased to do, and was able to hand the cheques to all those fanciers present at the meeting of the Cardiff C.B.S. on Thursday night, really before the Welsh National had closed their show. After this, surely some of those who, I hear, had their doubts as to the stability of this new society (and for this reason boycotted the show) ought to be convinced that these men intend going on with the objects which prompted them to form the Welsh National Society, viz., better classification and increased prize-money. I understand they have suffered a big loss on their first venture, but I sincerely trust that next year they will have a bumping entry and come out well on the right side.

E. J. BANKS

ALLEGED LACK OF MANAGEMENT AT DULWICH & PECKHAM SHOW.

SIR,—In answer to Mr. C. F. Woolhouse, he is quite out of his reckoning in saying that he expects it was a disappointed exhibitor urging Mrs. Reeves to write. Not so; it was I, Mr. J. E. Reeves, who suggested sending the letter, to let the Fancy know how their birds were treated. Mr. Woolhouse says his indignation was somewhat modified when he found that your correspondent was of the feminine gender. May I ask if he is in the habit of addressing all married women as "sweet madam"—a very ungentlemanly way of addressing another man's wife, and for which I shall expect him to apologise. It is not very gentlemanly for him, either, to hold his own wife up to ridicule. He asks, Were the birds unpacked? They were, and stacked under the staging and on the floor, as he well knows. He says he feels sure Mrs. Reeves' eyes must have tremendous magnifying powers; why not admit that he made a muddle? I say again that the champion classes and the Borders were the only classes staged when I left after five o'clock. The rest of the birds were in a mixed-up condition. He refers to bad light; does he think it fair, judging till ten o'clock at night? He denies that the C.B.U. representative complained to him on this point. He says that he can scarcely believe what the representative said. Well, there are two of us he told it to, and he said it was not a nice thing to have to do, to report a sister society, and we remarked that it was his duty, and he should do it without fear or favour. Now your correspondent says that Mr. C—— is quite capable of looking after himself. I quite agree with him on this point, but he says that if I can prove there were twenty birds absent from judging he will give £1 to the Lord Mayor's Crippled Children's Fund. I am going to do my best to win that £1, and trust the judges will help me in the matter. Mr. Woolhouse cut it very fine when he said he did not wish to infer that there were not one or two overlooked. In Class 23 there were five marked absent, and on going over the catalogue I find over forty marked absent. I am sending cage numbers for exhibitors to see for themselves. He says the owners will be compensated; how can he do this? These birds should have competed for the prizes, and might have won first. His advice to Mrs. Reeves I think he needs for himself. The complaint is not against the Dulwich and Peckham Show, but against the management. By the way, he does not dispute the fact that the water was knocked over the birds, which should not have been on the floor at all. The birds I mean were under the table at the far end of the hall (British birds). As for the birds that were knocked over, I can bring proof of this, and I trust any visitor that saw this incident will also make it known in the Fancy Press. He does not deny that some schoolboys were trying their hand at staging the Crests and Crest breds, mixing the classes 16, 17, 57, 59. Here are the numbers marked absent: Cage number: 373, 447, 448, 449, 455, 456, 461, 464, 464a, 473, 476, 483, 488, 492, 499, 504, 529, 557, 597a, 606, 609, 615, 616, 622, 643, 656, 667, 673, 684, 723, 878, 879, 931, 932, 933, 954, 958, 963, 988, 991, and 1,007. He must know that many fanciers send many miles to these shows, trusting him, as a fancier, to look after the birds. See how he has carried out his trust! Many fanciers spend all their spare time getting their birds ready for the shows, and to get them spoilt before the season has hardly begun is very hard lines. Now, 41 absent is a record for his show, and I have been over the catalogues of the National Shows at the Crystal Palace for some years back, and cannot find half that number absent, although the entries are nearly twice the number of his. I trust he will pay up and look big.

(Mr.) J. E. REEVES.

WAS IT IN ITS RIGHT CLASS?

SIR,—Allow me to call your attention to Brighton F. and F. annual show. According to C.B., October 26th, in the A.O.V. class, someone gets first and special with unevenly marked Norwich. There appears to have been a class for "Var." Nor. Don't you think the judge should have "wrong classed" this? C. P.

BREEDING RESULTS IN THE JARROW DISTRICT.

SIR,—Breeding results amongst members of the Jarrow and District C.B.F.A., considering the bad season, are very satisfactory. Mr. George C. Hagen commenced with 11 pairs of Yorkshires, and had 79 young ones, some very good show specimens amongst them, which will be heard of again. Mr. William Hornsby, who is a very keen fancier and an old hand with an experience of about 50 years, had very good results. Commencing with six pairs of Norwich and Yorkshires, he was able to breed 49 young birds. Mr. R. Thompson commenced with six pairs of Norwich and Borders, resulting in 26 young. Mr. J. Medcalf, who is a novice, commenced with two pairs, which resulted in breeding 12 young. Mr. J. Richardson had some good fortune, too, with his team of seven pairs of Norwich, breeding 50 young, some real good ones. Mr. C. W. Alty, another good Norwich breeder and exhibitor, out of his team of five pairs bred 32, some of which will be heard of again. Mr. W. Thompson, another old and true fancier and exhibitor, out of a team of three pairs of Yorkshires and two pairs of Norwich, was able to breed 32, Mr. H. Maughn, with eight pairs of Borders and Cinnamons, breeding 20 young. Mr. W. Bowen, from five pairs Borders and Norwich, had 12 young, and Mr. J. T. Carrick (eight pairs Yorkshires) 23 young. Mr. R. Sanderson, another old fancier and exhibitor, out of his 14 pairs Cinnamons, Crests, Norwich Plainheads, secured a total of 28 young. Mr. B. Blore's team of three pairs of Borders bred 17 young. Mr. J. Campbell (five pairs of Yorkshires) breeding 19 young. Those I have mentioned are only a few of the members of the Jarrow and District C.B.F.A.

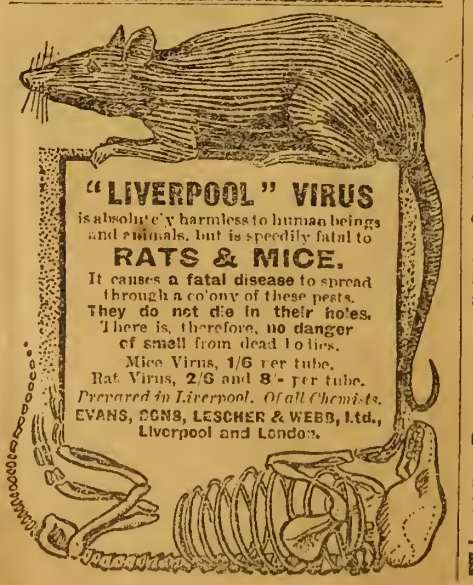
Canary Notes in Brief.

By CLAUDE ST. JOHN.

AT THE END OF THE MOULT.

This term, of course, is intended to be applied individually and not collectively, as it is extremely doubtful if any fanciers ever did or ever will have a stock of birds that all began or ended their moult simultaneously. Therefore during the progress of the moult one needs to keep a sharp eye on the birds, not only to vary the strength of the colour food as required, and as we have already pointed out, but to add a little of some preparation of iron to the water or soft food, which is primarily intended to act as a kind of mordant to the colouring matter in the feathers, and make it more permanent, but has also a good effect in bracing up the bird generally and tightening the plumage. For this latter reason iron should not be given in the early stages of the moult. When the birds appear to have cast a good part of their head feathers and the colour food is reduced in strength for the last time, will be time enough to give iron.

A NOTE OF WARNING.



Don't take the birds off colour-food too soon is by far the most important "don't" of the present time. Remember that for some time after a bird appears quite fine and has ceased dropping feathers, there are many quills left to develop which may cause a bird that is level in colour to become patchy a little later on. The colour-food in a weak form must be continued until the latest shed feathers are fully grown, which will be from a month to six weeks after they are shed. At any rate it is not safe to quite drop the colour-food in less than a month after the feathers have ceased dropping off.

THE DREGS OF THE MOULT.

To a certain extent this term should be a meaningless one, as with healthy and robust birds the after effects of the moult should be practically non-existent. But this ideal state of things is too often wanting, and the dregs are not infrequently an important matter. Weakness is very often the cause of a lagging moult, and where this is the case one will generally find that frequent bathing is almost invariably followed by the birds becoming wheezy. In all such cases the birds should be kept in a warm corner of the room until the moult is left well behind, and the bath should only be given on bright sunny days, in the morning, and even then, if the water be very chilly to the touch, a little warm water may be added with great advantage—not enough to make it perceptibly warm, or cause a vapour to rise, but just enough to remove the sense of chilliness—otherwise I would withhold the bath altogether in such cases, notwithstanding its great utility for strong and healthy birds.

TO TONE THE SYSTEM.

If the birds are down in condition, as they usually will be in the cases outlined, good generous feeding will be of more service than drug treatment, which should always be avoided if possible. A small spoonful of egg-food daily, with a goodly proportion of yolk of egg, or even a little finely chopped yolk of egg without any other admixture, is an excellent conditioner either for Canaries or soft or hard billed British, but care must be taken that it is always freshly prepared. A sprinkling of maw or a little scalded rape may be added for British Finches to get them to take it more freely, as many of these birds, especially when caged alone, do not take kindly to any kind of soft food. A little insect food for the seed-eaters is also invaluable as a pick-me-up. Where the weakness is at all pronounced a few drops of emulsionised cod liver oil mixed with the egg food is of very great benefit, and it may also be used as a substitute for insect food where the latter is not readily obtainable.

THE FORM OF IRON TO USE.

Perhaps it will be best not to write the "best form," as many fanciers have their own particular idea on the subject, and will stick to their convictions even though they be reposed in the comparatively useless and out-of-date rusty nail in the drinker. The pure sulphate of iron is, perhaps, as serviceable as any, and the form I rather prefer—but it must be accompanied always with an aperient on account of its constipating effect. A few drops of pure glycerine stirred in the drinker at the same time as the iron will suffice to counteract this effect, which is common in greater or lesser degree with all forms of iron. Failing the use of sulphate I should unhesitatingly give first place to the syrup of phosphate—more commonly known as chemical food, or Parrish's Chemical Food, which may be bought at a few pence per ounce at almost any chemist's or druggist's shop. The saccharated carbonate of iron—which is an impalpable powder—may be given in the soft food, and if readily eaten will help the colouring process. But although this preparation is strongly recommended by some users, my experience is that Canaries will not readily eat any food containing it. Of course if one adopts the practice of removing the seeds whilst colour-feeding, the birds have no option, but this practice of compelling the birds to eat that which they would gladly reject, is one which I neither advise nor countenance.

THE STAPLE DIET.

As my last remark will show, I am no advocate of removing a bird's seeds at any time. Even when colour-feeding is in progress the seed-box should always be kept replenished with good, sound Canary seed, of which the birds should always have an unlimited supply. (If they will not eat the "feed" voluntarily and with relish when the seed is at their disposal, rest assured there is something wrong with the "feed.") Now when the moult is nearing the end, and one begins to give iron two or three times a week, a pinch of linseed should also be added to the dietary. It is a good plan to give this as often, and to alternate it with the iron, when it will serve a two-fold purpose, i.e., to put a gloss on the new plumage, and to help the aperient effect of the glycerine in removing the constipation which otherwise arises from the use of iron.

LINSEED AND DYSENTERY.

Although fanciers are not very generally agreed as to the value of linseed as an article of diet for Canaries, there is no question about its utility towards the end of the moult to act as a kind of natural feather polish. In some quarters it has long been accused of setting up dysentery, or something which is called by that name, but whether it is identical with that complaint as it affects mankind need not concern us here. Personally I think there is very little ground for the assertion. It is not unlikely that simple looseness of the bowels whilst colour-feeding is in progress may have been mistaken for the more serious complaint. If used injudiciously, or in too large quantities, it will certainly cause undue looseness, which is more or less pronounced according to the individual and the circumstances under which it is kept. For example, it will generally be found that during a spell of warm weather, or with birds kept in a heated room, linseed will have a decidedly more relaxing effect than under the reverse condition. In such circumstances it is best to limit the supply to a few grains per bird, and to accompany it with a few grains of hemp, or a pinch of maw seed, which will help to counteract its purging qualities. If too much looseness still exists, the quantity of linseed given is excessive, and should be withheld until the droppings return to a normal condition, and then given in smaller quantities. But do not attempt to make it a permanent article of a Canary's diet, or even at any time a perceptible portion of it. It is, indeed, a seed to be used purely as an occasional tit-bit. A piece of cuttle-fish is also a very good preventative of looseness arising from any relaxing item of food.

KEEPING UP THE COLOUR.

In all the colour varieties, and especially specimens that have been properly fed, one must not forget to supply a wee bit of colour food at least once a week all through the show season if they would have their birds finish up the season with a good warm tone of colour. This, and preserving them from strong sunlight, are the only secrets for the preservation of a good colour until the end of the show season.

BEGINNERS read THE ANNUAL

British Birds.

A Lecture given before the Pendleton and Salford O.S., Sept. 23rd.

BY BARKER CLEGG.

It gives me great pleasure to speak a few words under the wide and fascinating title of British Birds. By this subject is readily understood for your purposes as an Ornithological Society, the birds termed insectivorous and seed eating. We in England have a greater variety of visitors than all other countries, being so situated geographically as to render our island a winter resort to the birds; we have high latitudes in winter, and the reverse in the spring and summer, for the birds from the tropical countries, where the heat is so intense. All the birds we cage are therefore "Strictly British," and it is the generally accepted idea, that if a family or variety promulgate their species in our islands, they are British.

Growth of Interest.

There are many writers on British birds who have included specimens of which we have no record as to British breeding. We have about 60 varieties of summer visitors, and 40 of winter visitors. There are some splendid publications dealing with British birds which show what a growth of interest there has been since the appearance of Yarrell's publication in 1840. We have many good and cheap books to-day that will assist us in gaining a knowledge of this subject, and there is also our weekly CAGE BIRDS, which enables us to ask for any information required. Of course you will not want me to occupy your time by discoursing upon the natural habits of British birds at any great length. I presume the idea of a society man is to procure a good specimen, and then be able to exhibit the same and win.

How to Successfully Exhibit.

You all know that success in many cases depends on the purse; still if you are determined to take up with British birds, you may become a successful exhibitor at a moderate cost, the time and trouble of attending your specimens being the main asset. Let me advise you in the first place not to take up Britishers, unless you can find a suitable place in which to keep them—a place with plenty of light and fresh air, and with no artificial heat. The best room is that where the window can always be open, covered with a wire in the warm months, and in bad wintry weather at dark with strong canvas. The birds must have plenty of fresh air, if you want them to keep healthy and in good plumage. Supplying yourself with the birds is the first consideration. It is astonishing, sometimes, how easy you can become the possessor of a grand bird. I remember some twenty years ago I sold a gentleman some Canaries; he was so pleased with them that he told me if I would accept it, he would send me a pretty little Goldfinch, which had been caught in his garden. Of course, I accepted it. The little fellow arrived, and turned out a good singer. I moulted him in a flight cage along with some Canaries, and noticing the beautiful plumage, style and size that he had developed, I caged him in a separate box cage, and felt quite proud that I was the owner of such a grand bird. Looking out for a suitable show, I ventured to exhibit him for the first time at Carnarvon show, 100 miles journey. After anxiously awaiting the result, you may be sure I was delighted when I knew he had won 1st prize in a class of twenty. The bird also won several other prizes, but I lost him through an accident in my bird-room. I could tell you many other stories of fanciers I have known unexpectedly becoming winners in British birds exhibits.

Hardbills.

We must now turn our attention to the methods of procuring and keeping them in health, etc.; commencing with the Finches or Hardbills, which is a large family, and includes some beautiful plumaged birds, such as Goldfinch, Linnet, Chaffinch, Bullfinch, Bramblefinch, Hawfinch, Greenfinch, Sparrow and Crossbill. These so-called seed eaters at certain periods partake of insects, larvae, fruit and berries; hence it is necessary to study this point, so that you may supply food suitable to the bird that you have in confinement. The best time to take Finches is after the frost has destroyed all the insect life on country-sides, as these birds then begin to feed off the ground, that is, by picking up the seeds that have fall'n from the weeds. The term we use in reference to newly-caught birds is "meating off." If the birds are taken when there is plenty of food to be found, they are certainly in good order, but it is heartbreaking to know that 90 per cent. of them die. It is only the experienced fanciers who know the class of bird and the district they come from, who are able to meat off these early-caught birds successfully.

The Species Considered.

GOLDFINCHES: Supply these with egg-food and a variety of seeds, thistle, etc., that is, if you take them when feeding off the ground. As an exhibition bird we must have shape well proportioned, head fairly large, wide skull, wing bars large and bright, buttons regular. One of the greatest features is the blaze cut square, but the most important of all is shape, style and activity. Never let a Goldfinch get mopey; he must be active. If he is in the habit of getting on the wires, keep him off. He must show himself well off.

BULLFINCH: This is not so popular as an exhibition bird; there are few shows that make classes for them alone. Of course, we all know you have at times to show against foreigners. Give him plenty of food, plenty of raspberries, blackberries, black currants, etc.

LINNETS: These are becoming very popular. You must have a large one for a show specimen; small ones are of no use. He must be in good plumage, a very rich brown. Very easy to moult. Do not forget the bath; if he will not bathe, spray him. We have three acknowledged varieties of Linnets—brown Linnet, Redpoll, and the mealy Redpoll, all belonging to the one family.

BRAMBLEFINCH: This bird is not truly British, he is, in a sense a relative to our Chaffinch; his habits being the same. Found in the Hebrides, he only comes to our country when the weather is severe. Makes a splendid exhibition bird, the plumage being very rich. Colour-feed him a little, and it will have a beneficial effect.

CHAFFINCH: This bird is thought more of by the Germans than by us. They teach him to whistle tunes, and it is said they can whistle the Rhine song better than does the Bullfinch. A bird whistling this song will easily fetch 16s. 8d., and one whistling various tunes will sometimes fetch as much as a cow. He makes a splendid exhibition specimen, and looks well in a cage. You have very often to show this bird with other specimens.

YELLOWHAMMER: This makes another nice show bird. Country people know him by his calling, "A little bit of bread and no cheese."

Softbills.

It was here that Mr. Clegg stated that he remembered the first Nightingale shown in Manchester, and, what was more, after the show was closed, he had the pleasure of hearing it sing.

WAGTAIL: This is another bird coming into prominence. They want a great deal of time and trouble. Feed them on mealworms, worms, ants' eggs, spiders, and some egg-food. Egg-food and ground dog biscuit makes a splendid softbill food.

WAXWING: This is not a British bird, and has never been known to breed in England.

WARBLER: This is a delicate bird. Feed on plenty of insect food. A heated room does not do for them, but they cannot stand the cold; it should be about 55 degrees throughout the winter.

SEDGE WARBLER: It is perhaps interesting to note that this bird bred in Peel Park, Salford, in 1861. Forty different species of British birds built their nests and reared their broods in Peel Park at the same time.

REDBREAST AND REDSTART: Another very interesting family. The Robin in America is called the blue bird, and our Thrush is the American Robin Gold Crest. He is an exceedingly pretty bird, and is better at liberty. He is never very successful, and I should advise you not to go in for him.

COAL TIT: You cannot keep this bird in health, and your chance is not worth the trouble.

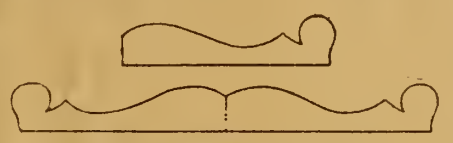
LARKS: These are mostly kept as songsters. As an exhibition bird, the Lark does not pay his way. Very few shows make classes for them.

WHEATEAR: This is a bird which has been exhibited successfully. It is easy to keep, and you can very often fend them somewhere about the money. They will eat hemp seed and canary seed, supplied with a soft food as well.

At the conclusion of the lecture the chairman, Mr. O. Stringer, declared the meeting open for discussion. Numerous questions were asked and answered, among them being "Will you please tell me a good Thrush food?"

Answer: Ground puppy biscuits damped with chopped lettuce, celery or grated carrots, with occasional mealworms, ants' eggs and dried flies. One member stated he had kept a Thrush for over twelve months on bread and milk alone, and at present it was in the pink of condition. Time was now getting short, and the chairman, with a few well-spoken words, thanked Mr. Clegg for his very able lecture, Mr. Clegg suitably responding.

ILLUSTRATED IDEAS



Under this heading we shall illustrate weekly some ideas useful to the bird-keeper. Readers are invited to send us particulars of any novel and practical appliance of use in our hobby, either in cage, bird-room or aviary, with a rough sketch of same where possible. Every "Illustrated Idea" used in this column will entitle the sender thereof to a postal order for two shillings and sixpence.

MAKING CAGE PEDIMENTS.

Sent by W. Hardie, 129, High Street, Dumbarton.

Here is a method for making any kind of design for the top part of cages, or for removable show cage fronts. It would be very easily acquired by anyone who, like myself, makes his own show cages. The idea is simply to take a piece of paper the same breadth of the piece of wood to be cut, then double it in two, and with a pair of scissors start and cut your design from the centre. Then open it out and lay it on wood and mark it off with pencil. It is then easily cut out with pocket knife or fret saw.—W. HARDIE.

No. 152.

A USEFUL DRINKING TROUGH.

Sent by V. Freeman, 88, Oliver Street, Kingsley Park, Northampton.

I have found the following answer very well in large flights for drinking troughs. You take two tins, say one a treacle tin and the other a cocoa tin. You then cut the first-named down to about 1½ inches high with a pair of shears (or scissors will do, if your wife does not see you). Then make the edges smooth with sand paper. Take the lid off cocoa tin and solder in on the bottom of the one cut down, as shown in Fig. 1. You will find that it keeps any dirt that accumulates on the bottom of cage or flight from getting into the water. It also looks very neat when enamelled.—V. FREEMAN.

"YORKSHIRE CANARIES:

How to Breed, Manage & Exhibit.

By H. W. BATTYE,
President of the Yorkshire Union.

This work, which deals fully with the Yorkshire and its sub-varieties, should be in the hands of every breeder of Yorkshires. It gives instruction upon Pairing, Breeding, Moulting, Exhibiting, and how to treat both in health and disease.

WILD BIRD LIFE.

Rare Feathered Birds.

A reader, E. J. Langford, sends a note of a Cinnamon Blackbird, curiously marked with splashes of white, having been captured at Loughborough, together with a white Robin, at Gerrard Cross Common, Bucks. No doubt both birds will in time be exhibited at some of the shows.

Wasteful Birds.

A little flock of Stormcocks was feeding greedily upon the hedgerow berries, although grubs and worms and beetles are still plentiful everywhere. The Thrushes take no heed of to-morrow; sufficient is the daily feast for these fine bold birds. Why not leave the berries (they will keep), and feed upon the insect food? It is just the same with the Starlings and Blackbirds, the windfalls of the orchard are eaten voraciously, although if left alone they would afford food for weeks, when the fat grubs and beetles are snugly tucked away for fear of frost. Possibly the Thrushes and Starlings are tired of such food, and fruit and berries come as a welcome change. Nature's great storehouse is full, and even with wanton waste there should be enough and to spare, for the harvest is plentiful.

The Birds of Yorkshire.

The big county of Yorkshire is rich in wild birds, for it possesses miles of arable land, vast tracts of moors, hills, and dales, and an extensive coast, in a word all that birds desire. A work recently published upon the subject tells us that, excluding rare visitors, the country has a list of 325 birds, and of these about 125 are native. Many which once were well known have quite disappeared, of these the Greylag, Goose, Shag, Avocet, Hoopoe, Montagu's harrier, and marsh harrier, were the largest. Many well-known summer visitors to the South barely reach Yorkshire; of these the Nightingale, Wryneck, and Reedwarbler are most interesting. It is pleasing to know that the gentle cooing of the Turtle Dove may be heard in some of the woods of the country, and in the clearings the matchless Woodlark pipes his mellow note.

Rooks and Walnuts.

Rooks are very general feeders, and will eat almost anything that it is possible for a bird to digest. Just now they are particularly keen after the walnuts. We have several fine old trees in the park, and the birds are constantly seen flying away with one of the nuts. How they manage such a huge beakful is hardly discernible; possibly they pierce the outer shell with the beak, and carry it in that way. Taking the dainty to some quiet spot they eat it at their leisure—that is, providing their companions do not follow them and want to share in the find. It would be interesting to watch one of these birds opening a walnut. How do they accomplish it? My tame Magpie used to hold it with his foot firmly to the ground, and hammer away at the centre until he split it in halves. Experience had taught him where to try and pierce it.

THE YOUNG NATURALIST.

Prizes of 1s. and two of 6d. each will be given after next week for the best three anecdotes about birds written on postcards. Competitors must be children under sixteen years of age, and must state from where stories are taken.

Two stars indicate the Winning Contribution; one star the runners up.

"His Master's Voice."

Our Linnet is nicely marked, and is a sweet singer. My father reared him by hand. One day he got away, and father called him as he did when feeding him, and he knew the voice, flew on to the wall, and was caught and put in the cage.—Sent by MABEL BOUCHER, 25, Wellington-street, Lincoln; age 9.

A Tame Redpoll.

My brother has a Redpoll which is very tame. We call him Dick, and he will follow us about like a cat. He never tried to fly away, but flies about the garden. We have had him for five years. One day we forgot to feed him, and he flew away, but after a time he came back.—AGNES JACKSON (aged 9), 16, Bilston Road, Wolverhampton.

The Bramblefinch.

My father keeps a lot of canaries, and I help him in his bird-room. I have a Bramblefinch. I got it when it was very young, and it was so wild that I thought I should never be able to tame it. After I had had it a short time it was quite tame, and it will eat off my hand, it is very fond of flies and other insects. I catch flies for him, and he comes to the cage wires and pecks them off my fingers. He is a very beautiful bird; he has a loud song, but not sweet; if he gets a good moult. I shall enter him in your show. Wishing CAGE BIRDS every success.—Jane Richardson, age 12, 15, Stanley Terrace, Morpeth.

*The Wild Birds' Repast.

Feeding wild birds in winter is a pleasant pastime. The severe frost at the beginning of the year caused flights of Chaffinches, Linnets, Redpolls, and the impudent Sparrow to leave the woodlands and seek their food around our place. We get some of our father's Canary seed and scatter it in a sheltered nook in the garden. We then retire behind a privet hedge and view the scramble. How nimbly they hop about, and with keen delight pick up their fare! Some of the big ones try to bully the lesser ones. It is a rare treat to see the varied species of Hardbills while they dine. JOHN C. ANDERSON (age 13), Hillside Cottage, Bonnybridge, Stirlingshire.

IN MY OPINION
satisfied customers are the best possible advertisement a man can have, therefore my sole ambition is to give every customer the fullest satisfaction possible, and to do this I send everything I sell on approval entirely at my own risk, and refund every penny of your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with goods I send you. If you would have the best catching appliances, as used by all the leading professional bird-catchers, I earnestly solicit a trial and as I am supplying all the large catchers throughout England and Continent, I am certain of pleasing you; clap nets made from genuine thread, ¾ inch mesh, 3 yards long, 4/- pair, 4 yards 5/-, 5 yards 6/-, 6 yards 7/-, 7 yards 8/-, 8 yards 9/-, 9 yards 10/-, 10 yards 11/- per pair; all are 5 feet 6 inches deep and fly 4 feet. Each pair clap nets have two nets to the pair, and are complete with birch, stave, poles, beech pegs, hemp lines, geared all round to hang level and work true, and are fitted with every requisite ready for immediate use; bat folding Sparrow nets, fitted on 10 feet bamboo poles, 6/- pair complete; loose netting, made from genuine thread, specially for bird nets, ¾ inch mesh, 7 feet deep, 3d. yard, 9 feet deep 4d. yard, 12 feet deep 5d. yard, post free. This netting must not be confused with the thick American cotton netting now being sold as bird netting; mine is very fine, but strong, and does not show on ground. Pure hemp pull lines, strong as boat lines, 65 yards long, 1/4 each, carriage paid. Stave poles, pegs, store cages, etc., all in stock, real Japanese bird-lime, absolutely strongest made, guaranteed to hold a Hawk, or Rook, and will hold birds in frost or rain, ¼ lb. 6d., ½ lb. 10d., 1 lb. 1/6; sample 3d., all post free. Self-acting spring net traps 24 inches long, 1/- each, 18 inches long, 9d. each. These net traps are by far the largest and best traps on the market, and are guaranteed to catch and hold any bird from a Wren to a Rook. They cannot get out of order, and a child can set them. Single trap cages 6d. each, 4/6 dozen; double ditto 10d. and 1/- each, 7/6 and 8/6 dozen; treble ditto, 1/3 each, 12/- dozen. All have separate compartment for call bird, in addition to the traps. Patent self-setting and self-acting trap cages, guaranteed to reset without any attention immediately a bird is caught, 1/6 each. Round or square topped call cages 3d. each, 2/6 dozen; 27/- gross. Goldfinch and Linnet cages, 6d. each, 4/6 dozen; Lark runner cages 6d., 8d., 10d., and 1/- each, 3/6, 4/-, 4/6, and 6/6 dozen; singing box cages, 10d., 1/- and 1/3 each, 8/6, 10/- and 12/- dozen. Bright all metal drawing-room canary cages, with cut glass round, 3/6 and 4/6 each. Solid brass ditto, with ruby glass round, 5/6, 6/6, 7/6, and 10/6 each. Parrot cages from 4/6 to £10 each. Penny tin drinkers, absolutely neatest and most durable made, three doz. 1/3, six doz. 2/3, or 4/- gross; zinc ditto, same size, 9d. doz., three doz. 2/-, six doz. 3/6, or 6/- gross. Black enamelled drinkers for show cages, 1/- doz., post free, halfpenny tin drinkers, three doz. 10d., or 3/- gross. Dealers should send stamp for trade list of cages, prices and sizes will astonish them. See following testimonials. Little Eaton, near Derby, October 10th.—Sir,—Received netting this afternoon; many thanks for same; it is stronger than I expected.—Yours, F. Moss." "Milton, near Northampton, October 10th. Sir,—Please send ½ lb. lime, as I cannot get any good about here.—Yours, John Green." "19, Victoria Street, Buckland, Dover, October 8th. Sir,—I am very well satisfied with the nets, they are far better than I expected. Yours, R. Buddle." "2, Hollingdrake Yard, off James Street, Doncaster. October 7th,—Sir,—I received netting, and think it is the best netting I ever had, and I have tried all the other firms, as I should know. Please send another 12 yards.—Yours, A. Croxford." (On October 14th Mr. Croxford orders another 20 yards.—W.G.) "23, Clarence Square, Gosport, October 7th. Sir,—Birds, cages, nets, etc., to hand, and I am very well satisfied with all, thanking you for promptness.—Yours, W. Buxton." "47, Bells Road, Gorleston. Dear Sir,—I like my nets very much; indeed, they work splendidly, they are so light and fine they enmesh the birds so well, it's a pleasure to use them.—Yours, E. Morley." "1, Field Cottages, Rassau, Mon. Sir,—Please send following netting, etc. The last netting I had from you was grand, I caught a number of birds with it, and then sold it for treble the price I paid you for it.—Yours, W. Hayward." "Gedney, Holbeach, Lincs.—Sir,—Your netting is as superior to other firms' stuff as gold is to copper.—Yours, C. Cubley." "46, George Street, Altofts, Normanton. Sir,—I am very pleased with nets you sent me, and I only wish every other advertiser would be as honest as you have been to me. Please send on the following.—Yours, Ben. Siddaway." "Greenfield House, Redwas, Mon. Sir,—Received netting and am quite satisfied with it; please send 3 more yards same as last.—Yours, A. Davies." "89, Cumberland Road, Reading. Sir,—I am very pleased with netting received from you before; it gives every satisfaction, and I recommend it to all my friends. Please send on the following.—Yours, G. Bowyer." Please note some of the above letters are from expert catchers, who probably catch more birds in one season than most men see in course of their lifetime. For full printed list of all catchers' appliances, send stamp, and don't forget that everything I sell is guaranteed exactly as represented, and sent on approval, entirely at my own risk, either cash or deposit system, and money fully and freely refunded if every satisfaction not given. See British Birds, and also Roller Canary columns, for further advertisements.

MATTHEWS, LINNET KING.

Exhibitors, Mule-breeders, and Contest-singers, I have the largest and healthiest stock of British birds than any man in England. All large healthy birds, having been selected from hundreds of dozens, which I guarantee to sell every week. This enables me to send you the largest and best coloured specimens you can possibly get. Having supplied winners in Open All England shows for the last five years, at working men's prices, also patronised by all the leading exhibitors, Mule-breeders, and Contest-singers, if you want a bird to win you must send direct to me, and have it selected from my large stock, not merely from a dozen, and you will never regret it. All fanciers who wish to obtain a fierce singing Linnet or a few good large show birds should send or call and inspect my British bird buildings, the largest in England, specially built and construeted for British birds only. Over fifty called last week, and were delighted with my large stock and also the class of birds I keep. As everyone receives my best attention, I keep every variety of British bird, so anyone who wishes for a first-class team should send at once and state what they require, as I defy any man to have any better class of birds—no rubbish, all guaranteed the best. I have the finest and largest selection of Linnets in England, some big, fine healthy Linnets with nut-brown backs, spotted like Thrushes, nicely pencilled Norwich type, 2/- each. I have a few massive giant Linnets, beautifully pencilled and marked, ready for the keenest competition, 2/6; these specials are the best you can possibly get, and are honestly worth double. I have a large stock of fierce singing Linnets, been specially selected and kept under by old noted champions, and are in nice song; sacrifice, 2/-, or with beautiful singing cage and a packet of my special seed, secrets how to feed, 3/-. Every intending Linnet singer should send at once for one of these special birds; a few used to catching, 2/-. Goldfinches, Goldfinches. Real peartree Goldfinches, the largest and best coloured birds you can possibly get; all guaranteed to have been properly netted from the Cheshire orchards and fruit gardens—not so-called peartree Goldfinches, but real peartree Finches. Being a constant advertiser for the last few years of these special birds, I have a grand lot of big, fine, healthy Goldfinches, large, good, full-coloured, well buttoned and mooned, nicely tanned, with feathers like silk, 2/6 and 3s. each; also a few specials in perfect show condition, with good square scarlet blazes, well buttoned and mooned, nicely tanned, etc., 4/- and 4/6 each, real bargains; a few good call birds, 3/- each; also a grand lot of Welsh and Shropshire Goldfinches, real good birds, ready for exhibition, 3/6 and 4/- each, real bargains. Bullfinches, Bullfinches, Bullfinches, through their moult, with blood-red breast, good broad black cap, nice wing bars, in perfect show condition, 2/6 and 3/- each. Extra large giant Greenfinches, like Canaries, 1/- and 1/6. Large Redpolls, well laced, good deep bibs, 1/-. Splendid Chaffinches, 1/-. Large Cheshire Larks, nicely on song, 1/- each. All birds sent out exactly as described, and are sent on seven days' approval. Gentlemen, could fairer terms be offered? Others are following and copying me, as you can see, so beware of worthless imitators, as you get the real birds from me. Send direct to the catcher. Gentlemen, read what others say about the class of birds:—"60, Montrose-street, Brechin, N.B. Sir,—The Goldfinches I got about a fortnight ago are good birds, and I took second prize with one last week at Arbroath Show, first time shown, so please send me the following. I am perfectly satisfied." From Mr. Hutton to Linnet King from 7, Rosslyn-terrace, Pilrig, Edinburgh, Scotland. "Sir,—The team of birds arrived quite safe last night in the pink of condition. Am very well pleased with them indeed, they are all grand birds, and am sure they will turn out well. The Goldfinch and Linnets I am extra well pleased with, and I am perfectly satisfied. Kindly send the following at once. I have written to the Editor to forward you cash. Wishing you every success." From Mr. Cannon to Matthews, Linnet King. From 129, High-street, Dumbarton, Scotland: "Sir,—Goldfinch arrived quite safe after his long journey. He is a grand bird. Perfectly satisfied." From Mr. Hardie to Linnet King. So if you want some real good birds send to the fountain head at once. Any kind. State your wants, and you will be perfectly satisfied. All on approval. Cash or deposit.—Matthews, Bird Catcher, 44, George-street, Hyde, Cheshire.

BIRD CATCHERS.

Buy from Maker, and get best value obtainable; it would never pay me to send out cheap and blown together goods. I have been in the trade for years, and still sell more nets than all other so-called makers combined. Every article is sent out on approval; cash or deposit system; if not thoroughly satisfied return them and your money will be refunded; not a single article has been returned this season, but testimonials come in, by every post, although I seldom publish them. Here is one selected from scores, guaranteed unsolicited:—"Great Baddow, Chelmsford, Essex. Dear Sir,—Please send me a pair Clapnets, as per CAGE BIRDS, 18ft. by 4½ft.; amount enclosed. I had a pair of a Birmingham man which were practically useless.—Yours truly, S. G. Crisp." You can't afford to keep buying, but take my advice and buy a genuine article. Big fine cock Goldfinches, well buttoned and mooned, good broad heads, 2/6 and 3/- each; extra picked birds, real beauties, steady as rocks and ready for show, 3/6 each. I have a few extra gems, with extra good well-cut blaze, grand buttons and wing markings, feathers like silk, 4/6 and 5/- each. All been caged months; not fresh caught rubbish direct from the catchers' nets. Having supplied numerous winners to exhibitors, I can highly recommend my gems as the finest cock Goldfinches in England. 71, Lambhill-street, Glasgow. Sir,—Received Goldfinch in perfect health and very steady. Am well pleased with him. I know now where to send.—G. Sharp to H. Allen. 31, High Millais-street, Larkhall. Sir,—Received birds all right. Am very well pleased with them. Will send again when wanting more. Mr. Ewing was well pleased with his Redpoll.—R. McMillian to H. Allen. 17, Wilson-street, North Shields. Sir,—Received birds all right. More than satisfied. They are a grand lot. There is one you will hear about shortly.—R. Watson to H. Allen. I have hundreds of testimonials from exhibitors, Mule-breeders, etc. If you want a first-class show bird, send to me, as I have the finest British in England. If you have a bird at home that does not sing, send P.O. 1/6 for my Book of Secrets. With this method I have my birds singing at empty cages daylight and gaslight. £5 to anyone if not true. Four packets of my special mixture, 1/-. Once tried always used. Please state wants. Correspondence a pleasure. All my birds are on seven days' approval. Cash or CAGE BIRDS deposit system. Having won more prizes than any three men at contests, and supplying more winners for exhibition than any dealer, I defy anyone to say I am not the original Linnet King, so beware of worthless imitations. Win when you like. See singing results. Thanking you all for patronage.—Harry Allen, Bird Specialist, 42, Brown-hill-crescent, Harehills, Leeds.

DESPITE THE MANY

assertions to the contrary, I am the originator of approval system in connection with wild birds, and during the whole 16 years of trading have never dealt on any other terms. I send everything, I sell on approval at my risk, on CAGE BIRDS deposit system, and guarantee every satisfaction or money returned in full. If you want sound, healthy stock at a fair price, give me a trial; but if you want fresh-caught weeds, don't apply to me, as I will not supply them. Genuine Worcestershire cock Goldfinches, big bold birds, in pink of health and condition, 2/- each, three 5/-, six 8/6, or 16/- dozen. Specially selected larger cocks, for show or muling, and in splendid song, 3/- each, three 7/6. Few superb specimens, fit for keenest competition, 4/- and 5/- each; hen Goldfinches, 1/- each, three 2/6. Two-year-old white-legged cock, guaranteed bred Mules last season, 7/6. Grand large cock Brown Linnets, with nut-brown backs and red breasts, three 1/6, six 2/6, or 4/- dozen. Specially selected cocks, in song, 1/- each, three 2/6. These Linnets are guaranteed exactly same as supplied by me to contest singers, fanciers, and dealers throughout Yorkshire, etc., and which are often re-sold by them at big prices. Absolutely incomparable for size and song. Splendid clean-moulted cock Bullfinches, 1/6 and 2/- each; exhibition specimens, 3/- each; hen Bullfinches, 1/- each. Few very large, steady, rich-coloured hens, for show or breeding, 1/6 each; cock Greenfinches, three 1/-, six 1/6. Specially selected Yellow Greenfinches, for show, 1/- each, three 2/-; cock Chaffinches, three 1/6, six 2/6, twelve 4/-; exhibition specimens, 1/- each. Grand lot Snow Buntings, in perfect health and feather, cocks 1/6 each; hens, 1/- each, three 2/-. Few extra large light-coloured and well-marked cocks, for show, 2/0 each. These show specimens are picked from several hundreds, are almost white, and are kept in special steadying cages so as to be ready for immediate shows. Grand cock Skylarks, all big, plump cocks, not half hens, three 1/6, six 2/6, or 4/- dozen. Few singing nicely, 1/6 each. Two-year-old cock Goldfinch Mule, used to catching, pure Finch notes, and in full song. This is a regular "bell slammer," and just the bird for trick Finches, price 10/-. Expected next week, the first consignment of real Siberian Goldfinches, and, as in former seasons, I have already secured a grand lot; price for ordinary specimens, 4/6 each. Special exhibition specimens, 7/6 and 10/- each. These are the genuine Siberian Finches, imported in single wicker cages, not merely picked Russian birds, and my exhibition specimens will be real deck-sweepers, with full complement of show points, and as I have supplied hundreds of winners, I know exactly what to send out. Cock Siskins, 2/- and 2/6 each. Few well-marked Yellow cocks, with full bib, etc., 3/- and 4/- each; hens, 1/- and 1/6 each. See following few letters recently received and unsolicited. "14, Marine-terrace, Skinningrove, Yorks.—Sir,—Last lot Linnets I got from you were beauties, and as large as Larks. Please send another six, as your birds sell well here; they are far better than those that come from Lancashire. Yours, C. Hart." "65, Faraday-road, Northwich, Nov. 7th.—Sir,—Bird arrived safely. I am greatly pleased with it, and shall be pleased to have further dealings with you in the future. Yours, J. Murphy." "Morgan-row, Cwmbach, Aberdare.—Sir,—Cock Linnet arrived safe; he pleased me in every way. I have had Linnets from dozens of dealers before, but this is the boldest, sweetest, and prettiest I have ever had. Yours, D. Thomas." "Church-road, Mitcham, Nov. 4th.—Sir,—Goldfinches arrived safe, and am well satisfied with them. Yours, F. Tutty." "22, Kay-street, West Stanley.—Sir,—Thanks for birds received all right, and very satisfactory. I am quite pleased with them. Yours, J. Hutchinson." I have never before had such value for the money. Yours, W. Richards." "Chapel House, Witton-le-Wear, Nov. 1st.—Sir,—Received Linnets, and am well satisfied with them. H. Hill." "75, Sellar-street, Abbeydale, Sheffield, Nov. 1st.—Sir,—Please send three more Goldfinches. I was delighted with the 'lash you sent. Yours, A. Macefield." "Hilldrop, Oxted, Nov. 4th.—Sir,—Goldfinch you sent me few weeks ago has turned out a beauty. Please send another, also a Linnet. Yours, A. Wright." "West Newton, Aspatria, Nov. 5th.—Sir,—Goldie arrived safe and well, and I am greatly satisfied with him. Yours, J. Clarke." "Canniepairt, Tayport, Scotland, Nov. 7th.—Sir,—Goldfinches arrived in good condition, and I am highly pleased with them. Yours, J. Robertson." "21, Belgrave, Wilnecote, Nov. 7th.—Sir,—Linnets arrived in splendid condition. I did not expect such birds at the price. Please send following. Yours, D. Hare." "2, Testerfield-terrace, Lobmill, Todmorten.—Sir,—Please send following birds. The last Linnet I got from you has won several first prizes. Yours, Moore and Son." "4, Odell-street, Old Kent-road, London.—Sir,—Birds arrived safe, and I am highly delighted with them. I would not part with them, for they are a marvel at the price. Yours, E. Alderman." "21, Market-street, Tredegar. — Sir, — Received selected Linnets, and am very pleased with them. Two of them are singing now. Wishing you every success. Yours, A. Selvey." Please note all birds are guaranteed properly netted in county of Worcester, and are well caged, steady, and properly on hard seed before being sent out, and are sent on approval at my sole risk. Inspection cordially invited any time. See "Roller Canary" and "Appliance" columns for further advertisements.

SANDIFORD'S FAMOUS NORWICH.

1st, 2nd, 3rd, &c., CRYSTAL PALACE, 1907.

1st Unflighted Yellows, class of 38 champions, all bred by me; also won just on 40 firsts last season Blood will tell. This strain has cost me hundreds of pounds in cash, and I claim to have the best blood in the world. See wins already this season at Peterboro', Dulwich, Stoke, Chesterfield, Coventry, Leeds, etc. Won more prizes in Norwich this season than anyone in England. Have some marvellous prize-bred pairs from above winners at 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/-; pair odd cocks and hens, Yellows or Buffs, 10/-, 12/-, 15/-, 20/-, 30/-, 40/-; any on approval with pleasure. Send 1d. stamp for list of testimonials from winners I have supplied. They will surprise you. Mr. H. Ward, Charing, writes, Oct. 30th, 1907—"The cock Canary I had from you bred me three grand birds, which won 1st and special, 2nd and reserve at Ashford, Kent. See last week's CAGE BIRDS." Mr. Jarvie, Glasgow, Oct. 28th, 1907—Sir, Send six Norwich cages and a good Goldfinch for enclosed. Mr. Young won medal for best hen at City show; the Yellow hen he got from you is its mother." Mr. Cook, Wellingboro'—"Sir, very pleased with the Yellow Norwich cock, and also the way you despatched him. The Yellow hen you sold me has won me 1st and special Wellingboro', 3rd Burton. I bred from her a Buff hen, which was 1st in a class of 13 at Wellingboro', also 3rd at Crystal Palace in class 32." Mr. J. D. Hird, Macduff—"Sir, send me four cage fronts, 20 by 12. The variegated cock you sold me won 1st at all our shows round here." Mr. J. D. Jones, Pontordawe—"Sir, Norwich cock arrived safe; well pleased; he won 1st and two specials here." April, 1907. Mr. H. Melver, Livingstone Buildings, Port Glasgow, writes—"Sir, the Norwich I had from you won 1st and special in class of eleven against all colours at Greenock." Mr. Fisher Cardendon, Fife, March, 1907—"Sir, I took 1st, special, and 2nd at Cowdenbeath with birds I had from you." Breeders 27 years.

DEPOSIT NOW.

The celebrated Preston contest St. Andreasberg Rollers have arrived, and are better than ever before, and, seeing the great number of winners we supplied last year, this is saying a great deal, and although we are paying more for them to the breeders we shall not advance the price, but we expect to sell more than ever. The price of these birds is only 15/-, and we send them on 14 days' trial at our risk, and we don't want your money until you are fully satisfied with the bird. Deposit the 15/- now with the Editor of CAGE BIRDS and don't you buy a Roller or any other article on any other terms, no matter if the advertiser is a large advertiser or a small one. Always deposit your cash, and then you can't be imposed upon. Send for one of these masterpieces, which you can't equal if you give £2 elsewhere. A word to the wise is sufficient. German Hartz Mountain Canaries in full song, same as sold by others as Rollers, price, 5/-, 6/-, 7/-, and 8/6 each. Box cages for Rollers, 1/9 each complete. Anything alive bought, sold or exchanged. We have won thousands of prizes.—Northern Aviaries, Ormskirk-road, Preston.

CASCADE ROLLERS.

See what delighted clients say:—"Hy. Batchelor, 27, St. Helens-rd., Dorchester, Nov. 5th, 1907. The Cascade Roller is perfectly satisfactory." "Nov. 3rd, 1907. W. Montgomery, 74, Prince Albert-st., Crosshill, Glasgow. Cascade Roller to hand, quite safe and healthy; I am perfectly satisfied with him. He started to sing beautifully this morning. I will recommend you to all my friends." These letters are taken at random from the pile, and show conclusively the quality of birds sent. I don't want to use flowery language. I want you to put them to the test, free of charge, distance no object; every bird packed with seed and water in a splendid British Roller singing cage, with all necessary appliances; one price only, 10/-. The Cascade Roller does not perform those wonderful crackjaw notes that were never heard on land or sea; but for purity, sweetness, and true Roller quality they cannot be equalled under £2 2s. Terms cash with order, or deposit with CAGE BIRDS; seven days' approval.

PEARSON, ONLY CASCADE ROLLER IMPORTER, GREENWICH.

THE PINNACLE OF FAME

has been reached by our famous Schulze's strain of Hartz Mountain Rollers. We smile at the puny efforts of would-be competitors; they have to make up forty years' leeway before they can come anywhere near us for quality. These mushrooms come and go, but the firm of Augustus Zache and Co. is still here, situated in the heart of the West End. We have the largest, cleanest and most up-to-date stores in the country. We are proud of our reputation for honesty and fair trading. We do not claim our Schulze's birds to be the most wonderful on or off this earth; we do claim no better value can be had. We allow three days' approval; this is quite sufficient for our birds to prove their merits. Prices, 10/-, 12/6, and 15/- each; premier bandmasters, 21/- each. (N.B.—We coined the word bandmaster relative to our first-class Rollers years ago.) Don't imagine you can buy bandmasters under 21/-; it is too absurd. Anyone can advertise ordinary choppers and call them bandmasters at cheaper rates. Get the real thing from us, and save disappointment. All orders must have P.O., cheque, or cash enclosed. Our terms are cash with order only. We give you absolute value, therefore cannot wait clearance of deposit notes. Over 450 sold within ten days, and only one returned, the money being posted back within five minutes of bird's arrival. Satisfaction, or money back immediately. Testimonials can be seen here; all recent.—Augustus Zache and Co., Bird Importers, 218, Great Portland-street, London, W. Patronised personally by Royalty.

Real St. Andreasberg Rollers
Pure Hartz Rollers.

Direct Importer. The finest Seiferts strain from Germany, with pure Nightingale, Woodlark, Titlarks, Waterbubble, and bell notes; marvellous songsters; 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 12/- each; on approval. Now, hurry your orders up for first choice. Hens, same strain, 2/- and 2/6. Wholesalers, write for terms. Just a few testimonials picked from hundreds. These have come from birds I have sent hundreds of miles from Preston. Mrs. Downs, Chelmsford Road, Dublin, writes, Oct. 30th, 1907—"Thanks for the beautiful Roller. He arrived safely about 11 today, none the worse for the journey. He is a beautiful colour, and has a lovely voice. I like him well; he is singing over my head this moment. I want a nice cage for him; send on price of one." Mr. Glenny, Bachelors' Walk, Dublin—"Sir, am pleased with Roller, which arrived safe. He is singing continually night and day since he arrived. Scores of testimonials like this. If above not proof enough, send for catalogue and scores more testimonials. Mr. J. Patterson, Cork, Ireland—"Sir, I think it only right you should know that the Roller you sent me won the All Ireland Roller Singing Contest, held here November 8th and 9th." Mr. McConquodall, Greenock, Scotland—"Sir, received Roller and box cage safe; he was singing half an hour after I got him. He is the best songster I ever had. The cage is most suitable." Mr. H. Brooks, Wakefield, Yorks.—Sir, the Hartz Roller to hand. He is a splendid bird and sang under three minutes after caged. He sings in the gaslight; first thing in the morning. I have given twice as much for German Rollers not half as good as this from you." A few real Hartz Rollers—not Belgians, price 5/- and 6/- each; hens, 1/6, two 2/6. Proper singing Roller box cages, 1/6; enamelled inside and out, inlaid fronts, sand drawers; beauties, 1/10 each; approval with any; established 1879.

PERHAPS YOU THINK

that because my prices are so astonishingly low that the quality of my birds is low also, but to convince you that this is not so I ask you to peruse the unsolicited letters printed below. I import all Rollers direct and save all middlemen's profits, therefore can sell better quality at lower prices than most dealers. I have a grand stock of pure St. Andreasberg hollow Rollers, all direct from Leipzig, in full song day and gaslight, with long hollow and double rolls, sweet silvery trills, water bubble runs, soft roulades, piccolo trills, deep bass rolls, Nightingale jug-jug, bell, harp and du da pipes, etc., etc., and guaranteed entirely free from Titlark or any other harsh notes whatever, price 6/- and 7/6 each. Special Schoolmasters 10/- each. I also have a limited number of real contest masters, pure Seifert strain, price 15/- each. These contest birds are gems of the very first water and perfect masters of their art. Roller hens 2/- each, 3/6 couple. Ordinary loud free Hartz cocks in full vigorous song, 5/- each. Hartz hens 2/6 couple, 12/6 dozen. These Hartz cocks are often described and sold by unscrupulous dealers as Hartz Mountain Rollers at fancy prices. All Rollers sold by me are stamped on wing, "Hans Weber, Leipzig," and if you would have a genuine Leipzig Roller you must purchase from me, as I am the sole importer, and no other dealer can get so much as one feather of this strain, unless purchased from me. Following few letters give an idea of quality of the Leipzig Rollers, but to obtain better proof please have one on a week's trial from me. "33, Dorset-st., Burnley, Nov. 1st.—Sir,—Received Roller safe. I have written CAGE BIRDS to send you the money, as I am well satisfied with him, as he sings beautiful.—Yours, T. Bailey." "Dean-st., Oakham, Nov. 1st.—Sir,—Received Roller this morning and am well satisfied with it. Thanking you very much.—Yours, T. Carter." "37, Windbourne-rd., Liverpool, Nov. 2nd. Sir,—Birds arrived safely on Friday. I am more than pleased with the light variegated cock; it started singing immediately on arrival.—Yours, F. Edwards." "29, Astor-st., Bramley, Leeds, Nov. 4th. Sir,—The Leipzig Roller arrived in splendid condition, and no worse for the long journey, and he is singing well. I shall not forget to tell my friends where he came from.—Yours, J. Pratt." "Paris House, Portmadoc, Nov. 4th. Sir,—Please send Leipzig Roller cock. I bought one from you six years ago, and he is still singing as merrily as ever.—Yours, R. Owen." "9, Croft Terrace, Jarrow-on-Tyne, Nov. 5th. Sir,—Received Leipzig Roller alright, and have no hesitation in keeping him as he is such a sweet singer.—Yours, J. Young." "4, Brickyard Road, Hucknall Torkard, Nov. 5th. Sir,—Received Roller quite safe, and am quite satisfied with it. He began to whistle soon after arrival. We think it is beautiful, and are delighted. Wishing you every success.—Yours, W. Bradbury." "Thornbill, Dumfriesshire, Nov. 6th. Sir,—I had a Roller from you before; he was a splendid little fellow, and pleased me extra well. Hoping I may receive such another this time.—Yours, R. Davidson." "2, Bretway Road, Dinas Powis, Nov. 9th. Sir,—Roller arrived all right and in splendid condition. Lovely notes; am quite satisfied.—Yours, J. Hooson." "Port Talbot, Nov. 11th. Sir,—Received Roller safely, in grand condition, and singing nicely; I am quite satisfied, and shall deal with you again.—Yours, D. Gibbs." "54, Melbourne Street, Gorton, Nov. 11th. Sir,—Have you any Leipzig Rollers in stock? I got a cock and two hens from you last year and was very pleased indeed with them, and also your straightforward dealings. — Yours, J. Kay." "6, Bartonhall Row, Waterloo. Wishaw. Sir,—I got a Roller from you last year and it wasn't in the house half-hour before it commenced singing; five weeks ago I sent to another dealer for one and after waiting four weeks he sent me a hen full of asthma, which died. I am going to send for one of yours this week.—Yours, J. Halliday." "605, Berridge Road, Nottingham. Sir,—Roller arrived safe; was singing few minutes after arrival: a very good songster. I am quite satisfied; good value for money.—Yours, H. Richardson." "2, Johnson Street, Silverdale. Sir,—Roller to hand; I am highly pleased with him, being a well built bird with steady flow of notes. — Yours, J. Bibby." See back numbers of CAGE BIRDS for hundreds of similar testimonials to above, all of which are entirely unsolicited. Every Roller is guaranteed to be exactly as represented and all are sent out on full week's trial entirely at my own risk, either on receipt cash or CAGE BIRDS deposit system and money fully and freely refunded if every satisfaction not given. Wholesale prices on receipt trade card.—Note address, the largest Roller retailer in United Kingdom.

AMBLER'S champion Yorkshires. Blood will tell. At South Shields we won three firsts, three specials and third; also four firsts, three specials, silver medal, challenge bowl and special best Yorkshire, Gloucester. One of the oldest and purest strains in the fancy. For over a quarter of a century we have bred and sold more noted and champion winners than any other firm. We have for sale long, racy cocks, perfect shape and full of quality; hens full of style, plenty of length, and feathered to perfection; pairs matched to breed the best, from 15/- to 60/-; also a few exhibition birds, cocks and hens, real gems, can soon win cost back. These are classical Yorkshires, and all subject to approval; stamp particulars.—17, Lytton-rd., Bradford.

NO BETTER BLOOD.

Few pairs high-class birds for disposal, both Cinnamon marks and dark-eyed, bred from winners; pairs, 15/-; cocks, 10/-; approval.—J. Sheard, Sackville-street, Ravensthorpe, Yorks.

HIGH-CLASS YORKSHIRES.

Grand birds for exhibiting, 10/- to £5 each; pairs specially selected for breeding winners, 15/-, 20/-, 30/-; lovely songsters, 5/- and 7/6.—Harris, West Haddon, Rugby.

J. WILCOCK.

I have now ready some grand exhibition birds, both Yorkshires and Norwich Plainheads, for sale, any on 3 days' approval, satisfaction guaranteed or full money returned.—14, Chapel-st., Eccleshill, near Bradford, Yorkshire.

ONLY SIX PAIRS

of Yorkshires to part with this season; no better strain obtainable; clears, Yellows, or Buff marked Cinnamon, or Green, 10/6 per pair; one or two odd cocks, 7/6; no hens; stamp reply.—A. Allibone, Optician, 300, Camden-st., Birmingham.

SHOW AND STOCK.

Yorkshires. In consequence of my removal from Hanwell, and pressure of business, I have a number of really good birds for disposal at moderate prices.—J. Keyes, "Fair View," Murray-rd., South Ealing.

WOOLER IS GIVING UP THE FANCY.

All must be sold; cages and appliances; 60 high-class Yorkshire Canaries, Cinnamons, marked and clears, including birds that can win; have not exhibited last year, but have supplied many winners; exhibition specimens, £3; stock pairs to breed winners, 15/- and £1; or would sell in one lot, cheap, to effect speedy clearance; approval.—Wooler, Groger, Shelf, near Halifax.

Cocks, 4/6, 5/6, 6/-, 7/6, 10/6 up. Hens, 3/6, 5/6, 7/6 up. Pairs, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 15/-, 20/-, 30/- upwards. Cage 3d. extra. The above Birds include clear, green or cinnamon marked and variegated, also whole greens and cinnamons, and the value is unapproachable; undoubtedly the largest and best collection in England. See p. 335 last week's "Cage Birds."

Such indisputable facts are worth your attention, and by appointment you can see the same. I say by appointment, because my place is not a 6d. Bazaar, nor a shop for people to walk in and out, and look round as they please, nor are my assistants allowed to stop work for such a purpose. Personally I will give every facility, and fullest tram route with pleasure to anyone who wishes to pay a visit.

Kindly read the following up-to-date facts. For others see last week's "Cage Birds," also, page 325.

"ASTHMARINE"

IT SAVES WHERE OTHERS FAIL.

The greatest remedy ever brought before the Fancy, and has the largest Sale of any similar article by far. Beware of Imitations! For all lung affections it is marvellously efficacious — not a liver burner, but both soothing and healing. Thousands of testimonials received for this article alone. 9d. and 2s. 6d. per bottle, post free. Once used, always kept ready for any sudden attack.

"EGGERTINE"

It is the best, purest and greatest bone and muscle forming food ever known, as the analytical reports of most eminent authorities prove. It is a genuine egg food made with fresh laid English eggs, with white, of course, included (and NOT foreign preserved yolk of egg) with other valuable properties combined. Tins, post free, 1s. 3d.; large size, 2s. 6d. There is a saving in the larger size.

CELEBRATED TONIC DROPS

The most invigorating Preparation on the market. 9d. and 2/6 per bottle.

THE SHOWS.

KIRKCALDY.

Annual Show, held Nov. 9th, in the Pioneer Hall, and secured an entry of 400. Scotch Fanciers opened the programme, but unfortunately were down in numbers, though the quality was A1, some outstanding specimens being on view. Mr. McLellan had forward a fine team, and secured a goodly share of the spoil. Mr. Wallace captured 2 spls. with his yellow hen, a good one, grand size and style for a lady. The show on the whole in the Fancy section was grand, and fanciers were pleased to see such high-class specimens doing battle for premier honours. This variety was judged by Mr. Low, of Dundee, a great breeder and successful exhibitor of the Bird of Circle, and his awards were well received, as he spared no pains to get the various winners. The Norwich Crest and Crestbreds came under the eye of Mr. Patterson, and he secured a grand entry, many noted winners again meeting and contesting the various classes. After carefully weighing up their respective points, he found the majority of the winners to the satisfaction of the exhibitors. Borders were also under his jurisdiction, and again he had plenty to face the music, so many that Mr. Cochrane gave him assistance in some of the classes. The quality of these sections throughout was of a very high order, the winners in many cases being difficult to separate. However, after the task was o'er, very little could be found fault with. British Mules, etc., were judged by Mr. Cochrane, who had a fine varied collection. Hardbills were strong in numbers, and teeming with quality, and again satisfaction prevailed after the cards went up. The Mule section put on view two rarities, in the shape of two Siskin Mules, an almost clear and a var. yell., which have been unearthed in a Fifeshire village. The var. mule is a gem, fine size and a topper for colour, which should make up a good one, being very lightly marked, cap and neck only. Scotland can produce tho rare mules seemingly. The cups for members were won respectively by Mr. G. Arnott's 3rd prize Crestbred, a good one, all round, and Mr. Wilson's unfighted buff Norwich, a gem for shape, perfect in wing carriage, and put down in cfinking condition, a gem without a doubt, and a very popular win. The hall is an ideal one for a show, well lighted, clean, and free from draught, while the management was all that could be desired. The hard-working committee were ably assisted by a young lady fancier, Miss McNally, who came in for more than the usual share of congratulations on the manner her rather irksome task was performed. Tho society have secured as sec. and treasurer, an ideal gentleman, to whom labour is a love. Everything under Mr. Wilson's supervision was in applepie order, and the show of 1907 should prove to be one of the most successful ever held in Kirkcaldy.

GRANGEMOUTH.

Grangemouth O.S. held their ninth annual show in the Rechabite Hall, which is well lighted from three sides. There was a very large entry for all the sections, owing to a points cup being given Messrs. J. M. Aitken and T. Leitch deserve great praise for the able manner they got through with their work, and the staging of the exhibits, in which they were ably assisted by an efficient committee, headed by Mr. D. McFarlane, the President. Mr. A. Chambers (Kirkintilloch) made the awards in Scotch fancy and Norwich section, Mr. D. Gardner (Bathgate) in the remaining classes, and as a whole they were very favourable received. Mr. D. Maxwell had a runaway victory in the Scotch fancy section; Messrs. D. McFarlane and J. Walls divided honours in the Crested section; Mr. D. Smart led the way in Plainheads; Mr. J. M. Aitken in Borders; Mr. James Ovenstone in Mules or Hybrids; Messrs. QUEENSBURY.

Queensbury Show held on Nov. 9th, under Yorkshire Union Rules, proved a great success. Twenty-four classes were scheduled, the total number of entries being 426 and the number of exhibitors 144. Mr. A. Ambler was the official judge, but in view of the large entry, and the fact of its being only a one day show, and scheduled to open at 1 o'clock, it was decided to engage Mr. T. Bennett as an assistant, a good morning's work being allotted to each. Mr. Ambler judged Classes 1 to 12, Mr Bennett taking 13 to 26, and the awards of both were well received. Some of the cracks were absent, probably being engaged in the run for the Y.C.C. Cup at Sheffield. In the Novice Classes some grand birds were on view, the winners in all classes being of excellent merit. Mr. Jagger is the right man in the right place, and makes an obliging secretary, nothing being too much trouble for him to do. He was ably assisted by Messrs. Myers, Smith, Swaine and Allen, as stewards. In the evening all birds were packed up and sent away by 7.45, so as to reach home on the Saturday night. YORKS. CL. YELL. LUTON.

The second annual show of the Luton and Dis. C.B.S., held Nov. 15, in Corn Exchange, a spacious and well-lighted room, when over 400 birds faced the judges. Mr. Robson took the Canaries and Mr. J. Frostick the Brit. and For. classes. Several of the classes were short of entries, but instead of cancelling these, the committee decided to let them all stand (Aviary class excepted), and give half prize money. There was a good attendance of visitors in the afternoon and evening, and we hope the committee will be able to report a financial success. The committee is certainly to be highly congratulated upon the management, everything working smoothly and the show being well arranged. It consists of such well-known fanciers as Messrs. Bennett, chairman, T. A. Reddall, vice-chairman, L. Titmus, treasurer, H. Cooper, J Ward, F. J. Webb, Parkins, Horwood, Dullingham, Letchfield, and Aldridge. Mr. C. Cherry makes a thoroughly capable secretary, one ever courteous and obliging to all.

MONTROSE.

The Montrose C.B.S. held a highly successful Annual Show in the Corn Exchange, Hume Street, 9th Nov. This building is admirably adapted for such an exhibition, being high in roof and well-lighted. The staging was also very good, and fanciers had a splendid opportunity of seeing them without handling. We were sorry to hear that the entries were somewhat back from last year. Mr. John Clark, the Secretary, had everything in perfect order and managed to pull together close upon 200 entries. He was backed up by a hard working committee. Mr. W. B. Mackie, Aberdeen, judged Nor., and Mr. James F. Dewar, Edinburgh, Mules, Brit., and For., and their awards gave all-round satisfaction. YELL. EVESHAM.

Annual show held Nov. 13, in connection with the Evesham Chrysanthemum Society, in the Town Hall. It was a great success, and the surroundings of beautiful blooms helped to make a most pleasing exhibition. We think if the Executive would widen their classifications, even greater success would certainly follow. The Yorkshires were staged in too low a position, but with this exception everything was admirably arranged and managed, reflecting great credit on the secretary, Mr. G. Witts, and all concerned. Mr. Poole judged; there was no grumbling at his decisions. NOR.: 1, 2, Houghton, nice cobby var. buff, good head and neck, grand front and sheen, in fine bloom; 2nd another var., good bird, nice substance; 3, vhc, Lewin, nice quality buff, good head and back, scarcely so cobby as leaders; vhc, Hall; hc, Moore; c, Rowland. YORKS: 1, Maisey, buff, good size, quality, and position; 2, Fallows, tick yell., nice lengthy bird, good stand, fine quality; 3, Paddock, tick buff, good lengthy bird, full of quality, excellent position; vhc, Bishop; hc, c, Churchill. A.O.V: 1, Moore, green Crest, very nice exhibit, good radiation and droop, rich veiny feather, wins easily; 2, Midwinter, buff Crestbred, good size and feather, nicely lashed; 3, Bishop, green, fine body, fair sized Crest, of good droop; extra 3, Hall, yell. cinn., good sound colour, nice head and neck, excellent quality; vhc, hc, c, Roylance. BRIT. HARDBILL: 1, vhc, Baseley, splendid cobby Bullfinch, with good cap and breast, very steady; 2, Witts, shapely steady Goldfinch, not yet up in colour; 3, Wilton, another good Bullie, nice colour and shape. CANARY (6 miles' radius): 1, Sadler, var. buff Crestbred, good size and substance; 2, Burlingham, yell, non-fed Nor., nice type and size; 3, Eccles, gold Lizard, good quality, very well spangled; vhc, Sadler; hc, Andrews; c, Haines.

SOUTH-WEST LONDON.

This society held its annual members' show at the Plough Hotel, Clapham Junction, on November 9th. Entries were 50 more than last year, and this notwithstanding that the hon. secretary, Mr. H. Lilley, stuck tenaciously to a fixed date for closing. There were 210 entries, and this number taxed the capacity of the show room to its utmost. The light was good, and the arrangements wholly satisfactory; but this is not to be wondered at, seeing that "the man at the helm," Mr. W. Lilley, has had many years' experience in the Fancy, and knows how to preserve a smiling face to cover a stern and practical will. The show committee, who ably assisted Mr. Lilley were: Messrs. Harris, Graham, Mabey, Miller, M'Laughlin, Burgess, and Prout, and each and all of these showed their interest in a practical way. The increase in entries was made up chiefly in the amateur and novice sections, a cheering sign of the times, for it is here that the Fancy looks to find its men of the future. Brit., too, showed an increase. The British bird fancy is on the up-grade, and the South-West London Society is no exception to the general rule. A large number of fanciers visited the show. Amongst other points of interest was Mr. Mabey's strong team of Yorks, with which he accomplished the creditable feat of winning the Yorkshire cup outright with 152 points. In the Plainhead section Mr. Boydon fought Mr. Miles and others successfully, and annexed the cup with 68 points, although he had something to do to accomplish the win. Mr. Miles sending a rattling team. In Crests and Crestbreds, our old-time friend, Mr. W. Lilley, won Mr. Grant's cup outright in the champion section, and the win was a decidedly popular one. Mr. Mason came a good second, securing "Ally Sloper's" watch. Mr. Mason's team was a credit to him. In the amateur and novice classes, Mr. Palmer won the quilt given by Mr. Lilley for most points in Crests and Crestbreds, Mr. Gale taking Mr. Harris's silver medal. Mr. Vale won the spl. for most points in Brit. classes. He is an old and accomplished fancier of British, and staged a rattling fine team in his accustomed style. Mr. McLaughlin also won a spl. for British. Mr. J. Robson judged. The other class special winners appear in the prize list. It may be said with truth that in most cases the competition was keen. TWITTERINGS.

I have removed, writes Mr. J. W. Bancroft, from Bolton to 19, James Street, Sale, near Manchester.

I won he in Buff Marked Yorks Class at Cleator Moor Show, writes Mr. G. Shackley (Harrington).

Brechin Show, Buff Var. Cocks should have read 1 John Stirling, 2 John Craig, writes Mr. John Stirling.

Fanciers should see splendid classification at Dublin (Y.C.C. of Ireland). Entries close November 18.—(Advt.)

Fanciers should see splendid classification at Cambridge, November 27th and 28th. Sec., D. Driver, 17 Sussex Street.—(Advt.)

In Jedburgh Show schedule, Class 67 should read evenly-marked, and not unevenly-marked, writes the secretary, Mr. A. Frater.

Our exhibition was a grand success, writes Mr. J. Wilson, the secretary of Kirkcaldy Show, the entries beating all previous records.

Your last double number, writes Mr. Geo. Dowden, Secretary of the Stoke Newington F.A., was a real topper, good luck to you.

Entries are awfully short at Selby Show, held November 23rd, writes the secretary, Mr. J. H. Dixon, and I trust fanciers will help.

Entries for Inverness Show, on November 20th, writes Mr. Alex Urquhart, secretary, if posted on Saturday, November 16th, will be received.

Entries for Northampton Show will be accepted first post Saturday, November 16th, as they are very short, writes Mr. G. M. Larkman.

The cage bird section of the Gloucester Fancier's Society Show is not under "Cage Bird Union" Rules, writes Mr. Hugh Gunn, the hon. sec., as the Union would not grant our show a licence.

The Bolton and District Progressive C.B.S. has been broken up, we hear, owing to lack of interest on the part of the majority of the members.

Am glad to say that the results from my last two week's advertising have proved most satisfactory. Kindly repeat.—S. Martin (Rochester).

Kindly note that Gorgie Cottages, Edinburgh, will be my address on and after November 10th, writes Mr. Jas. Mackie, late of 60, Dundee Street.

Kindly thank all who replied to my advertisement in CAGE BIRDS, writes Mr. C. Nash, Chesham. They were too numerous to reply to individually.

We hear from the secretary of the Dover and District F. and F.S., Mr. A. S. Howes, that entries for Dover Show are extended to the 18th (Monday).

All exhibits at the late Preston Show were in railway company's hands before 7.30 p.m., and prizes paid out by the Wednesday, writes Mr. J. W. Cleminson, the hon. sec.

An excellent sample of wild seed mixture reaches us from Mr. T. Smith, 22, Highfield, near Headington, Oxford, which should find acceptance amongst lovers of British birds.

We are cancelling Classes 202 and 205, writes Mr. C. D. Reed, secretary Woolwich Fanciers Society. The list of specials on page 19 of schedule are for members of this Society only.

The secretary of St. Helen's Recreation F.S., Mr. J. Shufflebotham, appeals to cage bird fanciers to support their show with their entries, with a view of further catering for them another time.

Mr. John Waters, of Altrincham, won six specials, five 1sts, two 2nds, six 3rds, and four 4ths, in Borders at the recent Sale Members Show, making the highest number of points throughout the show.

At Norwich Show my two birds took extra 2nd and extra 3rd respectively in Class 48 Crested Buff Cocks. This was a very strong class, and the birds were bred by myself.—JOHN CORKE (Lowestoft).

Dulwich and Peckham Show, Class 29, Goldfinch (Brit.) 4th prize, was won by me and not Mr. Baker, writes Miss F. Brewer, East Dulwich. Through a printer's error in catalogue my number should have been 474.

I am glad to say membership is rapidly increasing, writes Mr. H. Thomas Lucas, secretary of the Lewisham and District C.B.S., and numbers 21, besides a number of promises. This result is distinctly gratifying.

We only have, at time of writing, 20 entries in 11 cage bird classes, write Messrs. Reed and Calam, secretaries of Kirbymoorside and Dis. Show, and are forced to extend the date of entry to first post Monday, November 18th.

OBITUARY.

MR. JOHN NOBLE.

Fanciers throughout Scotland will hear with regret of the death of Mr. John Noble, of Easthouses, Dalkeith, which occurred on the 11th inst., the result of an accident. Deceased was the only son of Mr. Jas. Noble, of Scotch Fancy fame, and was himself an ardent devotee of the bird of circle, and latterly of the Border Fancy. His cheery demeanour made him a favourite with all with whom he came in contact. His sad and sudden demise has cast a gloom over the Fancy in this district, and much sympathy is expressed for his sorrowing wife and children and aged parents.—J. STEEL (Dalkeith).

In addition to other classes in connection with the Leigh and District C.B.S. Open Show, writes the secretary, Mr. A. Parks, there will be an open class for Linnets, to be shown in their hop cages. Prizes are 8s., 4s., 2s., and entry fee 1s. per cage.

Accept my very best thanks for the excellent illustration of my bird in your last issue, writes Mr. R. L. Crisp. It does your artist great credit. I might mention at the same show (Dulwich) I had also the distinction of winning the cup for the best unflighted bird.

Several mistakes crept into the report of Walthamstow Members' Show, writes Mr. Forse, the secretary. Yorks. Tick., etc., 2nd, hc Forse; Yorks. Hen, 2nd Jones, 3rd Penton vhc, Morris Bros., hc, Jones, c Clarke, Mead; Nor. Hen, bc Mein; Softbill 3rd, vhc, bc, (2), C. Baldry.

Diss Show, writes the secretary, Mr. Gooderham, will be held in one of the finest halls in the Eastern Counties. It is lighted with the electric light, and warmed with hot water pipes, and fanciers need not be afraid of sending their most valuable birds, as they will be under my personal supervision.

Come to-day and visit the London and Counties A.C.B. Autumn Members' Show at "The Bay Malton," Great Portland Street, W. (private entrance in Clipstone Street), a few minutes' walk from Portland Road, Euston Road, or Oxford Circus tube stations. Motor omnibuses pass the door.—(ADVT.)

The Cockermouth Fanciers' Society, despite the fact that they have been declined a C.B.U. license, have adbered to the excellent classification for their cage bird section, and they ask us to appeal to fanciers to give them all possible support, so that their old-established show may be as big a success as ever.

The Tamworth and District C.B.S., being a young society, would be pleased, writes Mr. J. E. Brown, the hon secretary, if the secretaries of clubs within the 14 miles radius would persuade some of their members to help to fill up the classes at their show. All exhibits will have the strictest attention and care.

The London and Provincial O.S. have decided to offer for competition at the Palace National Show their usual challenge cups, and no less than 40 5s. cash specials, competition restricted to members of the L. and P.O.S. Exhibitors desirous of joining the Society for 1908 should apply without delay to Mr. H. Lambert Brown, 64, Manor Park, Lee, S.E.—ADVT.

Mr. J. Munro, hon. sec., Bristol Show writes: Entry received for Novice Class 16, with no name or address.

I made four entries for Sheffield Show, writes Mr. Stephen Tweddle (Blackburn), but received a postcard from the secretary informing me that the birds did not arrive until after noon on the Friday—too late for judging. As they were handed in at Blackburn Station at 5.30 on the Thursday evening, the delay is quite unaccountable.

Exhibitors remember Crook Original Cage Bird, Rabbit and Pigeon Society's Show, November 23rd. Splendid classification. Numerous specials. Judge, Mr. H. W. Battye. Any fancier not having received schedule kindly apply. Entries taken up to Tuesday morning's post, November 19th, A. Bowes, sec., Wilson Street, Crook.—ADVT.

We hear from Mr. David Jeremy, secretary of the Morriston and District C.B.S., that only one entry has been received for the show to be held November 21st, and that the Society has been compelled to extend entries until first post Monday, November 18th. There are 45 specials in 28 classes, and prize money will be paid promptly.

Mr. Peter McQuiston gained special for most points in British section at Dysart Show, October 26th, writes Mr. J. Logan, hon. secretary, and Mr. A. Wallace most points special. Kindly thank all fanciers for the support they gave to Dysart. I may add that CAGE BIRDS was the only paper we advertised in, which I think helped greatly to bring a good entry.

We regret to learn that Mr. W. H. Noakes (Leicester), of the well-known firm of Nor. Plainbead exhibitors, Messrs. Walton and Noakes, has to undergo the ordeal of an operation this week-end. His many friends will join in wishing him a speedy and successful recovery. He had been looking forward to attending Nottingham Show on Saturday next.

Notwithstanding we had a loss at Greenwich Show, all prize money to open exhibitors has been paid, writes the hon. secretary, Mr. Geo. Hill. All cards were up by two o'clock, and catalogues with awards to hand at four o'clock. The ball we decided to have again next year, it being one of the finest in London, very large, splendid daylight, and electric light by night, heated by steam, and free from draughts.

Lowestoft Show, November 21st and 22nd. Suffolk fanciers please note entries for the above show are very few up to the time of writing. Please help us with a few entries; will accept same up to first post Monday morning, November 18th. Prize money guaranteed. No classes will be cancelled or amalgamated. G.E. Railway Co. will run excursions to Lowestoft from Norwich, Yarmouth, Gorleston-on-Sea, Ipswich, Harleston, Bungay, and intermediate stations.—GEORGE FRANCIS (Hon. Sec.), South Wharf, Lowestoft.—(ADVT.)

Theft from Sheffield Show.

At Sheffield Show on Saturday last, November 9th,, some evil-disposed person stole an exhibit from its cage. The said exhibit was staged very near to where the gate-keeper stood, so that whoever the miscreant he was not without pluck of a sort. Pity he was not caught red-banded, and made an example of.

Proposed Welsh C.B.C. Show.

It has been decided to take a ballot of the whole of the paid-up members (only paid-up members will have a vote) as to the advisability of holding a club show; also as to how many entries they are prepared to guarantee. Any member who has not paid his subscription should send on at once, or he will not receive a ballot paper (which will be posted on the 18th).—D. H. TREDSTONE, Hon. Sec.

A Promising Outlook.

The outlook for our forthcoming show on December 13th and 14th, writes Mr. T. Taylor, secretary of the "Palace of the North" Gateshead and District C.B.S., is exceptionally hopeful, many very valuable specials having been offered and accepted, which should prove a source of great attraction to exhibitors. The Mayor and Mayoress have very kindly intimated their willingness to open the show, and Councillor Thubron has promised his support, while Mrs. Hannay, Heworth Hall, has written offering a valuable prize and intends, if possible, to be present at the opening ceremony. I believe the Mayor intends to exhibit in one of the classes, and we sincerely hope that his exhibit "will catch the judge's eye."

More Sensational Mules.

Scotland, the "land of sensational Mules," still upholds her reputation! There have been unearthed two gems in the shape of light Siskin-Canaries. Number one is a yellow, being, we hear, well up in size, marked on back of neck and cap (the pure Siskin lacing being distinctly visible), all the rest of the body being clear. Number two is almost quite clear, being slightly grizzled on the shoulder. But it is a shade smaller in size and pale in colour (though a yellow), and probably a hen. These birds were bred this season in a mining village in Fifeshire, and have been purchased by an enthusiastic young fancier, C. W. W. Paton, of Thornton, Fifeshire. The price paid was not an exorbitant one, and the breeder, our informant tells us, now realises he has missed a good thing in not holding them a little longer. Both were on view at Kirkcaldy show, and were held to be undoubtedly genuine specimens.

PRIZE MONEY PAID.—Newtown St. Boswell's, South Shields, Weston-super-Mare, Bramley, Stockton-on-Tees, Swansea, Cleator Moor, Hucknall Torkard, Watford, Preston.

OUR GREAT COUPON SCHEME.

10/-, 6/-, 4/-.

A list of these Shows is given below. Intending Competitors must apply to us for a Coupon to fasten on their Entry Forms. Every Coupon bought from us will entitle one bird to compete for our prizes. The price of the Coupon is 6d., and only birds entered for our prizes will be eligible. Prizes are offered for the Best First Prize Bird, Best Second Prize and Best Third Prize.

The Exhibitor who buys the most Coupons from us will have half the cost of them returned to him.

The Secretary who secures the most Entries for our Competition will be given £1 for his Society's funds.

Exhibitors must note that coupons will not by themselves entitle them to exhibit.

HOUSE'S
CANARY MANUAL

Price ONE SHILLING. Post Free 1/2.

Superbly illustrated by the Champion Canary Artist Mr. H. NORMAN. EVERY BIRD DEPICTED IS A VERITABLE MODEL, and shows the breeder what to aim for. Some idea of the popularity of this Practical Manual may be gathered from the fact that under the title of "The British Canary," it has passed its Third Edition, entering upon a Fourth Edition of 5,000 copies under the new title of "HOUSE'S CANARY MANUAL." MR. HOUSE has thoroughly revised and brought this work up-to-date and incorporated a chapter on the "Roller or Singing Canary."

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

DOUBTS AND DIFFICULTIES SOLVED BY SPECIALISTS.

For Rules see last issue.

CANARIES.

NORWICH PLAINHEADS.

Answered by J. H. Payne.

Heating for the Winter.

A. E. R.—Providing your room is a dry one, your Canaries will go through the winter all right. Canaries can stand cold, but not dampness or draughts. For those which you say have colds, give in drinking water, fresh daily, two large tablespoonfuls of water, fifteen drops of syrup of tolu, five drops of paregoric, and five of good whiskey. Keep birds covered over at night with a warm cloth.

A Swollen Foot.

M. C.—Should advise you to bathe the foot in a little tepid water, then dry with a little cotton-wool or some kind of soft material. Then apply with a camel-hair brush a little colourless tincture of iodine. I think if you do this for a few days the foot will soon be quite well again.

Loss of Feathers.

A. J.—As you do not say under what conditions you are keeping your bird, I am, of course, handicapped in replying in a satisfactory manner. If you are keeping it in a window, or in a warm place immediately above the gas, remove it at once to a place quite out of the way of any draughts, and at night cover over with a warm cloth. Give in the water, fresh daily, ten drops of tincture of quinine for three or four weeks. Three times a week give small teaspoonful of egg food, to which add six drops of Parrish's Chemical Food. Continue for several weeks. You may also give occasionally a small piece of sponge cake on which put a few drops of best sherry.

A Heavy Drinker.

Young Novice.—Give your bird, in a little egg food, say a small teaspoonful, as much aromatic confection as will lie on a threepenny-piece three times a week. In drinking water put ten to fifteen drops of Parrish's Chemical Food. Continue this treatment for a fortnight, and if the bird is not very much better by then, write again. Your feeding is correct.

YORKSHIRES.

Answered by H. W. Battye.

Asthma.

Cavendish.—Am afraid your bird is too far gone to cure, but you might try following in drinking water: ten drops each of antimonial wine and tincture of henbane. Take the drinking water away at night and give fresh each morning; also make a small pill with a little butter and hot cayenne, and push it down its throat. I have known this do wonders, but don't often recommend it as you may choke the bird. If it does not seem to get it down throat, throw bird up and let it fly, this will generally cause it to swallow the pill, which will quickly dissolve. Try above, and if not better in a fortnight, kill the bird. Should be pleased to know how the bird fares.

Sneezing.

A. Jones.—Your feeding is good, and I should advise you to mix a little honey or fine sugar in the milk sop. For two days also mix with sop six drops of syrup of buckthorn and afterwards in place of that, six or eight drops of Parrish's Chemical Food. Continue for a week, taking away all other food at night and returning it after the bird has had a feed from the sop in the morning. Also take away the water at night, and give fresh every morning, well mixing with it ten drops of the following: equal parts tincture of lobelia, syrup of squills; and in addition ten drops of good Scotch whiskey. Continue this till your bird is better; keep free from draughts and cover up at night.

A Lump on One Side.

W.S.W.—Am afraid you cannot do much for your bird, as you say it has a lump inside its mouth. This being the case, you cannot treat it as if it were outside. I think as good a plan as you could try, would be to bathe it as frequently as you can with warm milk on the inside, and paint it lightly with tincture of iodine perhaps. A surgeon might be able to cut the growth away, but if the bird is not a valuable one, I don't think I should go to the trouble of having this done; but if you are acquainted with one you might ask his opinion. This kind of thing is very difficult to deal with, and it is very doubtful if a cure can be effected.

A Severe Cold.

T.G.—Cover the cage down to the top of the seed box at night until the bird has thoroughly finished the moult. Keep him free from draughts and give in the drinking water, fresh every morning, twelve drops of the following mixture: equal parts of tincture of Lobelia, paregoric and whiskey. Your bird will probably get all right by this treatment in the course of a few weeks.

CRESTS AND CRESTBREDS.

Answered by W. E. Greeves.

Wheezy Crests.

Old Amateur.—I have found the best remedy for wheezing to be Syrup of Tolu. Either give direct into beak, or mix six drops with egg-food. In addition add 10 drops of whiskey to drinking water. In my opinion it is not contagious, at the same time the bird should be kept in a separate cage. Your hen that laid only one egg, from the description you give, is evidently out of sorts, what she requires is a tonic; try the Syrup of Tolu and whiskey first to get rid of wheezing; afterwards, to a little egg-food, every other day, add six drops of Parrish's Chemical Food. The dropping of flight feathers is caused through bad moulting. I doubt now whether you would be able to improve them. You might try bathing daily in tepid water. It would in no way interfere with its breeding, nor is it likely to be transmitted to young.

Enlarged Oil Gland.

Mona.—As you have already done what is usually recommended, I should advise you to bathe it well with water as warm as the bird can possibly bear, twice a day. Then dry with a soft cloth, and put a little vaseline over the part affected. I have found prepared chalk, as much as will lie on a sixpence, mixed with a little egg-food a cure for diarrhoea, when all the usual remedies have failed. If this does not stop it, give him lime water to drink, which can be procured from any chemist.

BORDERS

Answered by J. Patterson.

Ailing Birds.

Burger.—There is very little wrong with your birds, and the trouble is caused more through draught than poor ventilation. See reply to "T.W." Feed on the finest Canary seed, and every alternate day give a third German rape seed; on the other, half-a-teaspoonful of egg food with a pinch of maw seed added, and mix three drops of chemical food through it. Give in water fresh daily, five drops tincture of quinine. Should their bowels not be open, give once a week 10 drops syrup of buckthorn, and a small piece of boiled carrot; if relaxed, a piece of sulphate of iron the size of a split pea. Keep covered over with some thin cotton.

Various Matters.

T. W.—Sorry I was from home last week. Please excuse delay. Your trouble is from the bottom of door; all ventilation should come from above, and I would advise you to nail a piece of wood on the outside so as to keep all draught away when door is shut. You speak of a flue, and I take it to mean a chimney. If so, you have plenty of ventilation coming from it, and don't worry about the window. Are you sure there is no draught coming up from the scullery below? If so, you will find it around the skirting boards, which fill up with putty. Regarding wiring your door, I don't care for that. Your better plan would be to have the upper panel made the same as the under part of a stable door window, to push along and open and close, just as the weather or temperature changes.

ROLLERS.

Answered by "Schoolmaster."

Several Matters.

In Doubt.—I don't think there can be much doubt about this matter. You frightened the bird so thoroughly that it had a fit. I don't suppose it will recur; but be careful for a time how you handle the bird's cage, or even approach it. When you want to clean out the cage, or scrape the perches, run the bird gently out into another age until those operations are concluded. Feed generously with a little egg-bread daily; also dissolve in two tablespoonfuls of drinking water (fresh daily) as much citrate of iron and quinine crystals (from a chemist) as will just cover a threepenny piece. Keep the latter up for 10 or 12 days; (2) I don't think you could go far wrong in buying two (or even one) good imported cocks. Everything, of course, depends on their song, and that can only be judged by hearing them. It is just as difficult, however, to get really good hens (that is, from a good strain) as it is cocks. Faulty birds (singing their tours more or less faulty) are not objectionable. What one must never have are "choppers," and birds singing bad notes, for these spoil otherwise good birds, hence their exclusion from shows. When getting too loud (or free) in song, this can be remedied by closing the song-box doors, or covering down the cage.

Wheezing Night and Morning.

A.M.M. Anxious.—You must keep this bird out of all draughts, and guard as much as possible against extremes of temperature by covering the cage warmly at night. Feed on nourishing food, including a little maw seed and egg-bread every day. Put a cube of fresh suet between the cage wires. Get a chemist to mix you one ounce of oxymel of squills, glycerine, and ipecacuhana wine, and well stir a small teaspoonful into two tablespoonfuls of drinking water, fresh daily, for 10 to 14 days, and longer, if not cured at the end of that time. You could certainly try one or other of the advertised remedies, if you so choose. But you must persevere for some time, whatever you use.

More Wheezing.

Cymro.—For one day dissolve as much sulphate of soda as will just cover a shilling in two tablespoonfuls of water, and give this to bird to drink. Then carefully follow the treatment advised "A.M.M. Anxious" this week, which should eventually succeed in bringing the bird back to proper singing condition.

MISCELLANEOUS CANARY QUERIES.

Answered by "Old Judge."

Drooping Wings.

H.S.—It is really impossible to say why your bird droops his wings. You say he is in good health and sings well, therefore the drooping of his wings is simply a trick, seeing he only does it when at rest. If his breathing was hard and laboured, you might be alarmed, but I see no cause for any worry yet.

Swelling on Body.

Cantab.—You might try the effect of painting the lump every day for three days with tincture of iodine, using a camel hair brush for the purpose. Miss two or three days, and then paint again every other day till the lump is reduced. The great thing to watch is that the skin is not broken. Should it show signs of breaking, stop the painting at once.

Deformed Claw.

Fens.—You can do nothing with the bird's claw to make it keep in position. It should have been fastened back whilst the bird was young, and the bones and muscles not set. If you keep its claws cut short and use a triangular perch, instead of a flat-topped one, the bird may be able to grip it better. Don't leave the edges of the perch too sharp, round them off just a trifle.

BRITISH BIRDS, MULES AND HYBRIDS.

In an Aviary.

Tringa Canuta.—I really do not see any reason why you should in the winter stop the flow of water which supplies the stream running through your outdoor aviary. What made you think of doing so? I should leave it running just sufficiently to prevent the service pipe getting frozen. The trouble in an outdoor aviary during severe frost is to keep a supply of water therein free from a coating of ice; you stand a far better chance of doing so with running water than the fancier who has only the large dish, or large shallow receptacle ordinarily used. I don't know what part of the country you hail from, but as the aviary faces south, and is so well sheltered, I fancy you would winter Yellow Wagtails in it all right, and you would probably succeed with Blackcaps, too; much depends on the conditions and on the feeding. As regards the waders, personally I should try Ruffs and Reeves, Little Stints, Redshanks, Avocets, and Dotterels, in order named (if you can get them). They make lovely inmates for any suitable aviary.

Goldfinches; and Birdroom.

A.E.R.—Though difficult from the particulars you supply to gather exactly what is the matter with the Goldie, it seems to be nothing very serious, or he would not sing sometimes. I suggest you get an ounce of dandelion juice (taraxacum) from the chemist, and stir a small teaspoonful into two tablespoonfuls of drinking water for two days, fresh daily. Afterwards give two further half-teaspoonful doses with intervals of a day on plain water in between. Let him have plenty of maw seed every day, and a pinch of niger. The sketch of outdoor bird-room you enclose is of the usual type, and I think you will find it answer admirably. The window is a good size; one or two of the panes should be made to open outwardly, for use in the summer. The ventilator at top you will, of course, make to open or close, as may be required. Mind you have the flooring raised well from the ground. You will find the ventilation amply sufficient, especially if you have a wired frame made to fit in the outer door-frame—for use in the height of summer with the inner door left wide open.

Family of Three.

Nancy.—I did not discover any weed with your letter, so cannot say whether shepherd's-purse or not. Did you forget to enclose it? Goldie Mules are often very vicious when turned amongst other birds, especially those previously used to occupying a castle of their very own, so to speak. Otherwise, there is no reason why your three birds should not thrive in the Crystal Palace pattern aviary (at least, until the breeding season comes round). You need not be afraid to try the experiment; you could separate them before any damage was done. The Goldies would, no doubt, know how to take care of themselves.

Keeping Show Goldies Together.

Goldie.—A cage, 20 by 16 by 10 inches, would hold two birds the size of a Goldfinch well enough, though, at the same time, none too large as the stock-cage for a single bird. You will, however, be ill-advised to attempt to keep two show Goldies together in it (or any other cage) assuming them to be in high (show) condition. Goldies are pugnacious and quarrelsome at almost all times with their own kith and kin. When feeling in good form, they are specially prone to bicker with and peck at each other. A heakful of feathers plucked out of the blaze is a sad disaster, of course.

Show Items.

White Rat.—For spraying birds with after hand-washing them (or just before sending to a show), well stir one good teaspoonful (not more) of finest quality glycerine into a pint of clean soft, or boiled, water. You can spray them the day before, also on the morning of the day you pack them to go away (assuming you are not doing the latter in the early morning). Don't wet them too heavily. A Lark with the hind claw broken would not be disqualified, though the defect might handicap him when in competition with equally good birds. Some judges are more particular than others concerning such minor defects.

Bullfinch's Beak.

Mr. Push.—You don't quite make yourself clear. If the feather at base of the beak is rough (worn away), you cannot remedy it. If, however, the roughness described is on the beak itself, then you should carefully and gently draw a very fine nail-file over it (direction, from head to tip of beak only), afterwards polishing it with a corner of a silk handkerchief on which a spot or two of olive oil have been dropped. I have used a little "Monkey Brand" soap with success also, for a similar purpose. You must use your discretion, however, for, as I have already said, you really do not explain the trouble clearly.

Show Cage for Thrush.

J. Scott.—An inch or two either one way or the other makes little difference in the show-cage of a Song Thrush. It should be somewhere about 24 inches long, 12 deep, and 16 to 20 high. There are many patterns, some box shape, with inside sloping "ceiling," some with the slope outside as well, others partly open at top, like a Crest show-cage. You want to visit a show, look round, and so suit your own taste. The perches should screw to the cage back, and be of a length to just miss the front wires. Nothing beats either a very light blue or green for the inside and wires.

In an Outdoor Aviary.

Ambitious.—You could comfortably house 30 to 40 small birds in your aviary 12 feet long by 8 feet wide. If you desire breeding results, however, it will be necessary to restrict the number of inmates—though, if you use Canary hens only (the easiest and most certain way to proceed), you can keep more than if you are using hen British birds. You must just please yourself as regards keeping cock birds only, or otherwise. If you put in couples, see each species equal so far as the sexes are concerned—not two cock Chaffinches and only one hen, and so on. You will make a mistake if you try to mix soft and hard-bills—stick to the latter. I don't quite see how you can make a collection of Finches in an aviary like yours pay the expenses of their upkeep. If you stick to hen Canaries, and chance to breed some good Mules—an hitherto unseen cross, for example—you might achieve something towards that end. It is a dubious chance, however. Of the list you send, I should discard the Skylark, the Tree Sparrows (or the hen), and two of the Bramblefinches, likewise all the hens, and add a few more cock Goldies and Linnets and a couple more Bullies. It might also be well worth while turning in half a dozen very large hen Bullfinches.

A Supposed Cold.

R. H. W.—I don't think for one moment your Bullfinch really has a cold, consequently the cough medicine was hardly likely to do any good. I have often puzzled over the "gasping" you describe, and believe it to be merely a symptom of liver disorder, probably due to over-feeding and restricted opportunity for exercise. Your best plan is to give half-teaspoonful doses of dandelion juice in two tablespoonfuls of drinking water for two or three successive days; then a few further doses on alternate days. At the same time, change the diet thoroughly, offering plain canary seed, with some maw and teazle only, though one or two thistle-heads would be allowable, and ripe seeding shepherd's-purse. Also offer a little made insectivorous food daily (a first-rate brand), and a few small mealworms. Let the hen have a good fly round a large room every day. Write again after giving this treatment a lengthy trial, and let me know how she is progressing. Sorry to hear you were so unlucky with the fertile Bullie eggs. I might add that the average Bullfinch is not long-lived in captivity.

A Batch of Brevities.

Linnet-Green Singing Finch (Dunster).—I should not think it impossible to breed Hybrids between a Linnet and a Green Singing Finch. Still, the breeding of Foreign birds is not a strong point of mine, so I will hand over your query to Mr. Page, our Foreign bird expert, for answer in next week's issue.

Mate for a Linnet (W. Coates).—You can certainly pair a Green Crested hen with a Cock Linnet if you choose. She would be an unusual mate, however. Few fanciers care to breed Mules with Crests—the headpiece is usually poor, and the birds have a forlorn, ragged look. Possibly, too, they might be rough in feature. As songsters they would be as good as other Linnet-Canary Mules.

Cheveril Goldfinch (Mnler).—Judges differ in opinion as to the proper place for pied, or otherwise mis-marked birds. Some give them prizes in the ordinary classes; others (amongst whom I am one) will not accept them in the same. Rare-feathered birds conform to no standard; therefore how can one rightly place them amongst birds which are to be judged according to fixed (more or less) standards? The right place for all freaks is the "Rare-feathered Class"; the next best one the class for "All other British birds not previously mentioned."

Blackbird's "Nasty" Habit (E. Taylor).—I have heard it said that the habit of Thrushes eating the excreta arises from poor or more or less improper feeding. Have had no trouble from it with the larger Softbills I have kept. Do you give your birds a sufficiency of live food, mealworms, etc., a good enough staple diet, containing a fair proportion of meat-meal, a portion of grated raw carrot, fine-minced greenstuff, cold boiled mashed potatoes, etc. (varied)? If you omit these things, then the habit may arise out of the same.

Goldfinch Moulting Badly (H.J.B.)—Your only chance is to keep the bird in a box cage in a very cosy corner of a warmed room, covering front of cage warmly over at night. Under these conditions the moult will probably be completed all right. Feed him on plenty of maw, hemp, rape, canary, and niger seeds. You must be careful afterwards not to suddenly expose the bird to a low temperature—gradually "cool him off," or, better still, keep him in a warmed room until next spring comes round. You should let him have a few thistle heads frequently if you have any by you.

From the Thresher (J. E. Jones).—The sample of wild seed got from the threshing machine is really excellent. But I cannot pretend to name the kinds of which it is composed. I do not suppose anyone could do so. There are many seeds—known as "bird rapes"—that the most expert seed specialists cannot differentiate (unless sown, and seen in plant form). Goldfinches are not the keenest among the Finches for "wild seed mixture," but enjoy picking it over nevertheless.

Concerning Berries (N.Y.Z.).—It is only a week ago that I gave lengthy instructions for the keeping of berries through the winter—or for so long as they may be kept. Could you not look it up? Hawberries are good for any birds that care to eat them. They certainly do not contain the colouring properties possessed by ripe privet berries, however.

Thrush Weak on Legs (F. W. Stubbs).—You do not tell me how you are feeding the bird. I suspect, however, on a food containing insufficient nourishing properties. If so, you can depend that in this lies the root of the trouble. I recommend you to use a stock food of repute, and serve it always with a little of some vegetable ingredient or other; likewise to offer live food as liberally as possible. Get a bottle of tasteless cod-liver oil from a chemist, and commence by well mixing 5 or 6 drops amongst its daily food supply, gradually increasing the quantity to not quite a small teaspoonful. Keep this up for a week or two, and you ought to see an improvement.

Rape Seed and Goldfinch Moulting (Yorick).—In my opinion the rape seed you send is of excellent quality, and quite suitable to give to British birds. In last week's issue you will find an answer concerning moulting, etc., of the blaze of Goldfinches, which will give you the information you seek. I don't think hay saffron is of much use in the drinking water; I would sooner add a few drops of Parrish's Chemical Food.

Skylark not Moulting (Bird Lover).—No; it is not an uncommon occurrence for a Skylark to miss a moult. One of the biggest winners out last season was a bird which had failed to moult in the previous autumn. Your bird may drop into moult next spring; but is more likely to jog along in his old clothes until next autumn.

FOREIGN BIRDS.

Answered by Wesley T. Page, F.Z.S., M.B.N.H.S.

Birds for Finch Aviary.

H. V. Johnson.—In an aviary about one-third larger than yours, I have kept Grey, Pope, Green, and Yellow-billed Cardinals with small Finches and Waxbills out-of-doors all the year round, and so far (covering a period of some years) the Cardinals have not harmed any of their smaller fellow captives. So as to vary your series, in addition to the Cardinals, I would recommend you to get a pair of Diamond Doves; these are a lovely and diminutive species, and also free breeders; also a pair of small Quails, Harlequin or Chinese for preference. Of course, you must not put birds out-of-doors at this season, but all the birds named will thrive out-of-doors all the year round if put out at the beginning of May. I cannot hold out much hope of the Cardinals breeding, unless you can command an unlimited supply of live insects and can be at hand to give them some, every hour or so, during daylight, that is, when they have young to feed. At other times, seed mixture, soft food, ripe fruit, and two or three mealworms per bird daily, will keep them in robust health. There is not much difference in the Glossy Starlings, save size and sheen; their plumage is glistening black, with a lovely sheen, varying from steel blue to green, and bronze and greens, blues and purples. You must not keep more than one pair of such birds in your Crystal Palace cage.

Ring-neck Not Talking.

"Green Isles."—(1) Your bird should have talked 'ere this. At the same time, I should not care to say it will not, would not, or could not. Have you ever taken any trouble in training it? As you have had it so long, I presume it is tone; make a pet of it, keep it where it will hear plenty of conversation and also try by constant repetition to teach it such things as you want it to say, at first only a word or two; no other method, apart from this perseverance and unlimited patience. The market price is variable for these birds. I have seen them offered for 5/-, and often at 7/6, but an acclimatised specimen, even if not a talker, should be worth 10/6 to 15/-; (2) This query our rules do not permit me to answer. You must write to several, that is your best method, and then make your choice. I consider a healthy bird in good feather should not be lightly parted with.

Grey Parrot Losing Feathers.

Mrs. Coxon.—You must tell me how you have been feeding the bird before I can give you definite help. In the meantime, make its drinking water just saline with Epsom Salts, for one day; follow on with a course of Parrish's Chemical Food; well colour its drinking water with same, and continue this for a time. Keep a piece of cuttlefish in the cage. If the bird is pulling out its feathers, spray the parts affected with quassia solution every other day, keeping the bird carefully out of draughts till dry. Do not give tea, coffee, or milk; slops, or any kind of animal food whatever.

Parrot with Swelling.

W. W. Re your friend's Parrot, I cannot advise as to food, etc., till I am informed what kind of Parrot it is. As to the swelling under the eye, as the bird is tame and will let you handle it, foment the swelling twice daily with a warm decoction of camomile flowers, if it should not yield to this treatment and appears still soft and to contain humour, then carefully lance it, and afterwards cleanse with warm water and anoint with a little clean vaseline, zinc, or spermaceti ointment, which-ever happens to be at hand. Make its drinking water quite saline with Epsom Salts for one day. Be careful to keep the bird out of all draught.

Parrot with a Growth.

"Elsie."—It is very unsatisfactory attempting to advise in such cases without seeing the bird, and it is for the best to call in a vet., who can usually give prompt relief and save the bird needless suffering. However, if you still wish to treat it yourself, dissolve 20 grains of chlorate of potassium in two drachms of glycerine, and wipe out the bird's mouth with this mixture twice or oftener daily with a feather or small camel-hair brush for the purpose. Use a fresh portion of the mixture and well cleanse the feather or brush for each occasion. Also touch the point of the growth with tincture of iodine. Apply the iodine on a part of the growth where the bird will be unable to lick it off. If you follow this treatment, report progress in a fortnight's time.

Parrot with Inflamed Eyes.

R. West.—It is always best when referring to a previous reply to enclose same if possible. I do not remember the case fully. However, the best thing to do with the eyes is to foment them with a warm decoction of camomile flowers, keeping the bird carefully out of all draught. When a bird has been troubled with the running at the nostrils for some time, as I think was the case with yours, it does not immediately yield to treatment. Continue to use the glyco thymoline and also, when the nostrils become at all blocked, dip a small feather in olive oil, and carefully and gently pass this up the nostrils if possible use a fresh feather for each occasion. Do not let it have its water continually in the cage, but offer it a few sips of the following two or three times a day, stirring the water up on each occasion: 5 drops of tincture of opium. Use only a cock, glass, or china drinking vessel.

Parrot Picking Itself.

A. C.—As you tell me neither the kind of Parrot nor how you have been feeding it, I can only give you a preliminary reply till you supply these particulars. In the meantime, spray the parts it is in the habit of picking every other day with quassia solution; keep a piece of cuttlefish in cage; make its drinking water the colour of pale port with Parish's Chemical Food for the next month.—Give an aperient (see other replies) for one day only, repeating same after an interval of three days. You might with advantage supply it with a piece of wood to chew up and cotton reels to play with.

LEGAL.

Answered by A BARRISTER.

Compensation.

Curley Jim.—Your friend can claim compensation from his employers if his injuries were sustained through an accident arising out of and in the course of his employment. The amount to which he is entitled is half his weekly wage during the time he has been incapacitated; but he ought to notify his employers both of the accident and the claim. (2) His claim against the 'bus company would be for the negligence of the motor-'bus driver; and the onus would lie on him to prove that the 'bus which knocked him down was owned by the company. He had better consult a solicitor.

Complying with Regulations.

E. Barker.—It depends on the Association to which you affiliate your society. It is not a matter of law so much as complying with the regulations of the Association.

POST MORTEMS.

Mr. J. North, 435, Oxford Road, Reading, will examine cage birds for a fee of 1s. 6d. each bird; for a reply direct, 2s. 6d.; analysis, 21s. Subjects for post-mortem examination must be sent packed in a box direct to J. North, with fee. Any sent to the office of this paper will be thrown away, and if a fee is enclosed the loss will be the sender's.

GENERAL.

Answered by THE EDITOR.

Dealers' Names (Hardie).—It is contrary to our rule to give the names of any particular dealers. You ought to have little difficulty in making a selection from our advertisement columns.

Singing Contests (M. Booth).—In times of severe pressure like the present moment, it sometimes happens that items have to be left out. You can rest assured, however, that no favour is shown to anyone. We are always anxious to please every reader, or section of readers, without distinction.

Condensed (J. E. Reeves).—We really cannot—and we say it with all respect—see that the effectiveness of your letter suffered in the condensation. The list of cage numbers, in our opinion, answered every possible purpose. We are very severely pushed for space at this time of the year.

Cuttings (C. Spink).—Accept our thanks for cuttings. We will certainly utilise should space permit.

Distributing Specimen Copies (T. Harrison).—Many thanks for your kind offer to distribute specimen copies of CAGE BIRDS. This is the sort of practical help we appreciate, and a bundle of copies has been duly despatched to you.

Photos (A. A. Asbury; S. M. Clayton).—Thanks for your kindness in sending the photographs, which we shall hope to use in one of our special numbers.

Suggestion to Exhibitors (H. T. Davis).—We shall be very pleased to receive the letter you mention.

Club Notice (T., Duffield).—Your club notice did not reach us until Thursday—too late for insertion.

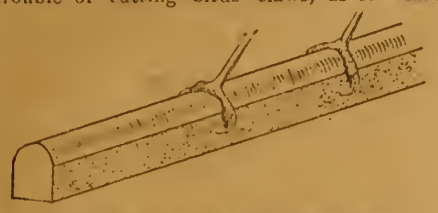
ILLUSTRATED IDEAS



Under this heading we shall illustrate weekly some ideas useful to the bird keeper. Readers are invited to send us particulars of any novel and practical appliance of use in our hobby, either in cage, bird room or aviary, with a rough sketch of same where possible. Every "Illustrated Idea" used in this column will entitle the sender thereof to a postal order for two shillings and sixpence.

No. 153.

A PERCH AND CLAW FILE.

Sent by G. C. James, 41, Henriotta Street, Blackburn, Lancs.

Enclosed is a rough sketch of a perch which I have used for some time, and which has great advantages. This perch saves the trouble of cutting birds' claws, as it wears them short in about two or three weeks. It can then be removed and replaced by ordinary perch. Any size can be made to suit the bird's grip, always having top rounded and smoothed off, and the sides covered with very fine sand paper.—G. C. JAMES.

No. 154.

A NOVEL SEED HOPPER.

Sent by W. Fenn, Green Lane, Wilnecote, Tamworth.

I have tried many places for a seed-saving feeder, but cannot get one that answers my purpose, so have thought out the following. Having got by me three or four tin tundishes, about 3½ inches deep, I started and made a hinged lid to each one. Then I made the small bent tube shown at the bottom of the sketch, and which opening I widened out a bit to give the birds better facilities when eating. I then joined the small bended part to the other, forming the seed fountain. The fountain holds enough seed for four or five days, and the lid keeps it quite clean, which is a good point in keeping birds healthy. I think this is an advantage, as when it is filled with seed it fills the small bent tube just full, and the bird eats from it and the husks drop on the cage bottom. They do not stop in the feeder and fresh seed follows down until practically empty. I think readers will understand my sketch and explanation.—W. FENN.

SINGING CONTESTS.

LEEDS.

Usual weekly Linnet contest for quality singing held at the Old Bird House, King's Head, Shannon-street, when 18 of the best birds in Leeds sung for three good prizes by Mr. W. Tillotson, first prize bird, singing beautifully running notes with plenty of turns. 1st prize, J. Grant; 2nd and 3rd, T. Stead. Judges, C. Cooper, T. Hineson.—T. SUMMERS, Hon. Sec.

Prince Albert Inn Linnet Association met on November 3rd to compete for three good prizes by Mr. J. R. Saynor; 16 birds competed. Judges, B. Jackson and G. Towers. 1st prize, H. Allen; 2nd, J. Chippendale; 3, G. Atkinson. Also a contest held November 10th, when some real good Linnet singing of very best was heard; 19 birds competed for three specials. Bird room was literally packed with visitors and friends, more than delighted to hear such quality singing, birds being in such splendid fettle. Once more Mr. Allen's birds completely ran away with the handicap:—1st and 2nd prize, H. Allen; 3rd divided between H. Allen and J. Chippendale. Judges, B. Jackson and W. Hinoson.—E. Wood, hon. sec.

YORK.

Usual weekly contest for quality singing held at the Crown Inn, North Street, when 22 birds were hung up for four good prizes given by Mr. J. Smith. Some good singing was heard before a good company. 1st prize, Firth; 2nd, Stothard; 3rd, Wilson; 4th, Lambert. Mr. Perry officiated as judge; Mr. Stothard as timekeeper; both giving every satisfaction.

LEWISHAM.

Fanciers rolled up in big force to hear contest at The Coach and Horses, High Street, Lewisham, November 9th. Scoring was better all round, the quality of song improving every week. Best scores were: Lob, 3 by 16; E. Robinson, 2 by 6; Iron, 2 by 2; Barber 1 by 17; Hill, 1 by 16; finishing with eight pairs being put on the nail.

UNDER THE WHITE ROSE

RUMOURS have been flying around this last few weeks that an exhibitor of Cinnamon Marks has been guilty of a dishonest practice, to wit, knowingly showing a cock in hen classes. These rumours reached a climax on Saturday last at the Queensbury Society's headquarters, where the Cinnamon Marked Y.C.C. held a meeting to enquire into an objection brought forward by Mr. A. Hirst, of Accrington, against Messrs. A. Cook and Son for "knowingly exhibiting a cock in hen classes at shows held under the patronage of the Club." Several witnesses were present and gave evidence, coupled with correspondence produced.

MR. HIRST (per letter) stated that at Manchester Show, while looking over the birds, he noticed the winner in the Cinnamon Marked yellow hens singing as lustily as possible, and that he drew the attention of several visitors to the fact. Mr. Hirst wrote the C.M.Y.C.C. secretary, Mr. R. Garnett, and asked for the subject to be brought forward. After a long wait the junior partner in the firm of Messrs. Cook and Son attended the meeting, and was examined at some length by the chairman, Mr. J. Greaves, and committee. The bird was said to be a year old (therefore its sex known). Had it been a young bird the offence would not have created such an impression, it being so very easy to be mistaken with a youngster.

ONE of the witnesses brought forward, Mr. T. Hall, stated that he sold the bird as a cock, and a certain cock; and another witness stated that Mr. Cook, jun., had told him he was feeding the bird on millet seed to keep it low in condition. Mr. Cook, jun., told the meeting that the bird was a hen, and had laid eggs, but on being acquainted of the witnesses' statements, eventually acknowledged that the bird was a cock, and that they had bred with it as a cock. In his remarks he made several accusations against the witnesses for illegal showing, but was told to make his complaint to the secretary of the C.M.Y.C.C. in writing.

THE sentence passed is: "To be suspended to the end of the C.M.Y.C.C. official year, March 31, 1908, and to forfeit all points gained so far this season." Of course, as the several Yorkshire Canary Clubs in various parts of England, and the Y.C.C. of Ireland, are under agreement to recognise each other's decisions, the offenders will not be able to exhibit at any shows held under the patronage of these various clubs. Probably the affair will be brought before the Yorkshire Union, as the bird, it is said, was shown and won at two of the shows held under the Y.U. rules, viz., Halifax and Windhill, and the disqualification may take effect with the Y.U. also.

STOCKTON-ON-TEES.

The Stockton-on-Tees and Dist. C.B.S. held a very nice show on November 9th in the Temperance Hall. The entry was a good one, though a bit uneven, some classes being very well filled, while others could have done with more. The class of the exhibits throughout, however, was of the highest, and the many friends and visitors who paid the show a visit were well repaid. We heard many expressions of pleasure at the trim state the officials had the room in, the latter being a really fine place for a fixture of this nature, and also with the good way in which the birds were staged and fed and looked after. Foremost in this good work were the chairman, Mr. F. Marwood, and the vice-chairman, Mr. A. Wake, both tried fanciers of the right stamp. They had a very fine committee behind them in Messrs. Nicholson, Yeates, Pace, Ducas, Freeman, Whitworth, Burton, Hanson, Cookman, Agheson, Sanford, Baker, Angel, Baines, Metcalfe, Johnson, Bean, Cox, Croft, Murray, Ingram, Robinson, Darno, Thornton, Simpson and Wallace, who one and all worked well together, and left nothing undone. The secretary is Mr. J. W. Lowes, who proved himself a very able man for the position, and one who knows how to carry out a show to the best advantage. He is very popular, on his merits, being affable to all and most obliging. The great success these fanciers' efforts met with was well deserved—the show was full of people the whole time. The room was closed prompt at 6 in the evening, and all birds were packed and in railway company's hands by 7 o'clock—extra good work this, with 450 exhibits. The sugar bowl for best in show was secured by Messrs. Nicholson and Sons' grand glossy Starling. Mr. Marwood (Thornaby), with his Song Thrush, a beauty, won the special for members' best. Hyde's teapot went to Mr. Freeman, who also took Ramsden's medal, while Mr. E. Cowling captured Sandiford's medal. The judges were Messrs. J. Stanger (Nor., Cmns., and Crests), J. Bailey (Yorks.), and J. Maddison (Hyb., Brit., and For.). Their awards right through seemed to please everybody.

(Owing to the discreditable action of a reporter, who after the show was over wrote to say he could not attend, we are unable to give a detailed critique of Messrs. Stanger and Bailey's classes.—EDITOR C.B.)

HUCKNALL TORKARD.

The Hucknall Torkard C.B.S., of which the Duke of Portland is President, held their 14th Annual Exhibition on Nov. 8 and 9. This year the venue was changed to the large room over the Coffee Tavern, a very suitable place, the show being just large enough for the room and the room just large enough for the show, besides being very comfortable. Hucknall, being situated in the heart of one of the richest coal fields in the world, it is no wonder the vast majority of the exhibitors are miners, and these hard-handed sons of toil are surpassed by none and equalled by few in their enthusiasm as fanciers, and there could be no surer proof that appearances are often deceptive than the fact that, hard as their labour and rough the life they are compelled to lead, yet in the handling of small birds they are "nulli secundus." The faultless way in which they wash and groom their exhibits and the staging thereof has filled many a fancier (whose hands ought to be more fitted for the work) with envy. The whole district is a great stronghold of the Norwich Plainhead, and, with Crests, may be said to represent the Fancy for miles around. Quality at Hucknall is always assured, and in Nor. quantity is well maintained. Another feature of the show is that there are no members' classes; they do not believe in them, and if their birds are not good enough to beat any outsider, then they take their beating like men and fanciers. There is always a great gathering of the clans at Hucknall, and many knotty points are discussed (if never settled) and much good fellowship is displayed. Amongst the many familiar faces we noticed Mr. R. Rhodes, paying attention to the Crests, Mr. Nutt (Clay Cross), Mr. Cowperthwaite and Mr. Cottings (Nottingham). The show was remarkably well managed, thanks to the officials and committee being practical fanciers, the secretaries, Messrs. Ashury and Pepper were well on top of their business, nothing was too much trouble for the stewards, and the treasurer, Mr. Pass, was ready, money-bag in hand, to pay all exhibitors who were present at six o'clock on the Saturday evening. Numerous useful and ornamental specials were tastefully arranged on a table for the visitors to see, and some ladies were evidently breaking the tenth commandment at the sight thereof. Messrs. J. Driver and G. Marshall placed the cards, the former taking all classes except Crests, and Crestbreds, and their awards seemed to give general satisfaction. Several birds of superlative excellence seemed to stand out from the rest, notably Mr. Vardy's yellow unfli., and Messrs. Beardall and Walker's unflighted buff, the Yorkies rent by Mr. Wall being also excellent. NORWICH NON-COLOUR-FED YELL. (5): 1, W. Twine, clear yell, nice type and well shown; 2, hc, leader capped and flighted, a true Nor., latter heavy var., rare stock bird; 3, Wagstaffe, a 4-point, good contour; vhc, Pepper, another clear. BUFF (5): 1, Doxey and Bowne, nice typical wing marked bird; 2, Beardall and Walker, very close up, fine type and quality; vhc, W. Twine, good bird, all quality. YELL UNFLI. Twine, bonny yell.; vhc, hc, Severn; c, J. Jacklin.

WAKEFIELD.

The City of Wakefield O.S. held their first annual open show on Novemher 12th and 13th in the Corn Exchange, than which a more convenient place one would have a task to find, being exceedingly spacious, lofty, well lighted, and cosy. The show room was very tastefully decorated with floral festoons, chrysanthemums, palms, etc. The staging had been very carefully and well thought out, and all the benches were neatly draped with red and white muslin. The entries totalled 315. The schedule issued was excellent, with 22s. per class prize money, specials in every clase, and cup for best bird in the show. Fanciers should note this, and not forget Wakefield another year. The Yorkshires and Norwich made a fine display, especially as regards quality. The Mules and British were a choice assortment, and the Foreigners a decided attraction. The novice classes, as is often the case, filled well, and provided more than one specimen quite capable of holding its own in higher circles. The Roller class was set apart in a side room, and during the time the show was on, these sweet choristers were to be heard singing in no half-hearted manner. The members' classes contained some very capital birds, and one could pick out several good enough to show in the warmest competition. Hyde's special went to Mr. P. Parker, his Yell. Yorkie doing the needful. The hon. president is E. A. Brotherton, Esq., M.P., who officiated at the opening ceremony in a very appropriate and encouraging manner. The chairman is Mr. S. Sheard, and a better man could not hold the position. He has heart and soul in the welfare of his society. The hon. treasurer, Mr. H. Blackhurn, is a useful and able official. The worthy secretaries are Messrs. Netherwood and Keeley, both true fanciers, exceedingly courteous and obliging, nothing being too much for them to do, and a more enthusiastic couple could not run in harness. They worked like Trojans. Mr. J. C. Barnes (Sheffield) judged, assisted by Mr. F. Oldroyd, in the Roller section. We heard no grumbling at their awards.

BEGINNERS READ THE ANNUAL.

BO'NESS.

Annual show of the Bo'ness C.H.S. was held on 9th Nov. The Society, which is only in its third year, has striven hard to make their annual exhibition one of the foremost in Scotland, and they have succeeded beyond all expectations, a fact which speaks well for the enthusiastic manner in which the officials and committee do their work. As long as they have two such fanciers at the head of affairs as Mr. W Whyttock, the enthusiastic president, and Mr. F. M'Gillivray, the very excellent secretary, the Society may look forward to still greater success in the future. The management was really of the best. The Drill Hall, in which the show was held, is not too well lighted, but as it is the only hall big enough for the purpose, the Society cannot help themselves. They could, however, impress upon the proprietors the necessity for putting in a few roof lights, which would at once make this hall second to none for a Cage Bird Show, as it is well adapted in every other respect. Entries totalled 490, an increase of 30 compared with last year. This is very gratifying considering the many shows held that day. Norwich classes were judged by Mr. C. Campbell, Stirling, who had ten classes, with an entry of about 80, many of which were birds of great merit and fit for the keenest competition. Scotch Fancy classes were judged by Mr. J. Carlaw, Falkirk, whose classes, although short in quantity, were of the best quality. The Border Fancy section was in the able hands of Mr. Andrew Gilchrist, Coldstream (who was out for the first time as a judge), taking the place of Mr. Duncan, who was unable to travel. Mr. Gilchrist, who had no easy task, acquitted himself with credit, as his awards gave general satisfaction. His choice for the B.F.C.C. medal, a yell. hen, belonging to Mr. Brockie, was a bird for type and quality with which no fault could be found. Mr. Logan had the biggest task in spotting the winners in the Brit. and Mule classes, as they were about the finest collection seen at any show this season. The Magpie which secured the special for the best Brit. was a magnificent specimen, in grand plumage, and in the pink of condition. During the afternoon the show was well patronised by the public, who turned up in large numbers. The judges' awards seemed to give satisfaction, as no grumbling was heard.

HINCKLEY.

The Hinckley and Dis. F. and F. S. held their 15th annual show in the Drill Hall, which is a very suitable hall for the occasion. The staging for cage birds was at one end of the room in four tiers, the birds making a very nice display. The arrangements at Hinckley are well-known to be all that can be desired. The secretary, Mr. A. Pickering, who is an ideal workman, had everything well in hand, and with the aid of a hard-working committee, everything passed off well. The officers, to whom credit is due, were: President, Mr. S. H. Pilgrim; vice-president, Mr. R. E. Hill; bon. treasurer, Mr. F. Osborn; Committee: Messrs. A. Colldge, R. Culley, H. Hewins, R. Hill, D. McNaughton, E. Sutton, T. Towers, W. Warner. Mr. J. Robson judged.

WALLSEND-ON-TYNE.

Third annual show held November 8th and 9th It proved a record for entries, 100 in advance of last year, and many well-known exhibits were on view. Norwich opened the programme, and although slightly down in numbers, contained some of the cream of the Fancy, the Plainheads being a lovely lot, birds of great size, but well moulded, the Bulfs being especially waxinko in feather and level in type. The classes must have given the judge some trouble to separate the winners. Mr. Gray had on exhibition some of his favourites, and accounted for a goodly share of the spoil, scoring in three classes, and making himself felt in the others; his Bulls were the outstanding feature. Mr. Godley had also present a grand team to uphold his reputation, and was well among the winners, landing on two occasions with a grand Yellow hen and a sweet Buff unfighted, both in clinking order. Mr. Brown accounted for the Yellow class with a gem for quality, colour, and shape. Mr. Rowell's winner in the mkd. class is a lovely-headed bird, containing plenty of substance. The non-lighted classes held many outstanding birds, but Mr. Robinson secured the "plum" in the Yellows with a beauty for colour and size and quality. Crests and Crestbreds are always a special feature at Tyneside shows, and to-day saw the usual regular "gathering of the clans," some great specimens being present. Mr. Lister was the only exhibitor to score twice in this variety, and he did it with a topping Crested cock, exceedingly well put down, and a beautiful young Crestbred. Other leading honours were secured by Messrs. Dobson and Son, McColl, Bewick, and Appleby, with birds of exceptional merit. The members' classes were keenly contested, Mr. Hermiston having down a grand team ,which secured for him the R. J. Dees Challenge Cup (carrying along with it a beautiful gold medal), for most points in members' classes. These varieties were judged by Mr. W. P. Barnes (Grantham), and his awards were well received, very few adverse remarks being heard from the large gathering of fanciers present.

In the Yorkshire section some very typical specimens were staged, Mr. Stewart put down a grand team of birds, his winning yell. hen a topper, well on leg, grand position and full of nerve. Mr. W. G. Cuthbertson staged some fine birds, his unfl. yell., which won the Members' Cup being a good bird, and another year should make a name for its owner. Mr. Rhodes' yell. hen was just the type of bird we like to see, full of nerve and quality, and a straight as a rush. Mr. Crawhall put down some typical birds, full of quality and type.

The Border, Mule, British and Foreign sections brought together a grand lot of birds, well in advance of previous years, and some toppers for quality were to be seen. Borders led, and were well represented, but unfortunately many good birds seemed to have been spoiled in the hard washing, which compelled them to take, in some instances, a back position. Some of the Border "cracks" had out teams, and accounted for a good few of the prizes, Mr. Gilchrist being the most successful, scoring on two occasions, with a very nice var. yellow cock and with a good even-marked Buff hen, put down in marvellous feather. Mr. Smart secured leading honours in the Yellow class, with a very neat all-round cock; Mr. Hawkins, in Bulfs, with a sweet positioned bird, of good quality. Mr. Rowell won in var. Buffs with one of rare quality. The gem of the section was considered by many to be the winning Yellow hen, the property of Mr. French. Correct size, grand in head and body, and with lovely carriage; she is a gem. Mules made a nice collection, Mr. Maddison having out a grand team in Lights, the winner being the almost clear Siskin, while Mr. Taylor accounted for the Darks with a topping Siskin, fed to perfection and of grand size and marking. The British were a show in themselves. Linnets made the strongest and best class in the show, Mr. Dunn scoring with a good one, not the largest, but of nice type and ground colour, and exceedingly well pencilled. The Goldfinches, Greenfinches, Siskins, etc., were also very fine. Larks, as usual, were a strong lot, the winner, the property of that well-known fancier, Mr. Alloway, being a beauty and well staged. The Softbills made a nice collection, the Large class being headed by a grand Starling, and the Smalls by a good Nightingale. The large class of Foreigners was headed by that gem of a Mynah, the property of Mr. Brown. The members' classes were especially good, Mr. Johnstone accounting for all the Border classes with some beauties, and secured the special for most points. Britishers were a fine collection, the best turning up in the lovely Bullfinch belonging to Mr. Allison. Mr. J. W. Bruce (Coldstream) judged these classes, and his awards on the whole were very well received.

The exhibition was held in the Co-operative Hall—a very good place, being nicely lighted and free from draughts. The genial chairman, Mr. McDonald was, as usual, very busy supervising the arrangements to the great assistance of Mr. Johnstone, the newly-found jewel of a secretary, who had his hands full of clerical work, and got through it in fine style. He was ably assisted by Mr. Cox. These two gentlemen have the welfare of the Society at heart, and that they long may fill their positions is the desire of all. The committee, which is composed of such well-known fanciers as Messrs. Evans, Cockburn, Hopkinson, Preston, Taylor, Langlands, Reeves, Thompson, Haickney, Hedden, McGinn, Hembergh, were all at their respective posts, and as stewards, etc., worked well and in harmony, securing for the Society an all round successful show. Mr. Ronald, the worthy vice-chairman, also gave his kindly assistance towards the management. Mr. Hyslop, the hon. treasurer, was busily compiling his list of specials and cash for the successful exhibitors, and he and Messrs. Harper and Chaister were very confident their duties would be the production and auditing of a favourable balance sheet. The show on the first day was visited by a large number of fanciers, many of whom attended the Dinner, and judging from the eloquent speeches made, all were unanimous that the Cage Bird Fancy is now well on the road towards a great future in the Tyne district..

LEAMINGTON.

The Leamington Fanciers held their 4th annual show on November 7th, in the Drill Hall. The show was held last year in the Winter Hall, which is a larger hall for the purpose; therefore the classes had this year to be cut down to suit the new place. The portion occupied by the Cage birds was not very large, the entry being rather poor. This is owing probably to so many shows being held at about the same time, and also to the fact that there was a 2/- entry fee. The arrangements, however, as is usual here, were of a most satisfactory character, reflecting very great credit on the officials. The chairman was Mr. A. H. A. C. Hunt, vice-chairman, Mr. R. Moore; hon. treasurer, Mr. W. H. Potter; Committee, Messrs. P. L. Stanley, G. W. Hassall, G. A. Moss, H. Wilks, G. Hall, W. W. Abbott, G. Wildsmith, W. Hems, C. E. Kent, A. Onslow, R. Powell. The able sec., Mr. F. T. Pritchard, worked well and deserves every praise. The show was opened by the president, Alderman J. Bennett (Mayor), who said that during the last two years he had had many duties to perform, most of them pleasant, but none had been pleasanter than those of the character of this. Although the entry was small, some very fine specimens put in an appearance in the Cage bird section. Mr. J. Bastock judged, and his awards gave general satisfaction.

WARRINGTON.

The twelfth annual show of the Warrington and District C.B.S. was held November 8th and 9th, in Drill Hall, Bath Street, a very large and spacious hall, lighted from the roof and by electricity. A thousand or fifteen hundred birds could easily be staged. The day was very dull, and it rendered birds of colour difficult to judge. There were 46 open classes, with four money prizes and a cash special per class for a 1s. 6d. entry fee, which was well responded to by a magnificent entry of over 500 birds. Twenty four members' classes were provided, but half of these failed to receive an entry—the remaining twelve classes contained 46 birds, so that, in round numbers, about 600 birds were staged. This must be counted a great success when we consider the number of important fixtures arranged for this week. Open Yorkshire classes brought together some wonderfully smart "straight 'uns"; nine per class is rather an awkward average for the funds. Norwich came up in slightly larger numbers, and some real gems were put down. Greens came up in most magnificent style, and were par excellence the feature of this show, there being the fine total of 168 birds in eight classes—four Yorkshire and four Norwich averaging over twenty per class—truly a great triumph for the Greens. Owing to the difficult light, etc., prevailing, some of the minor lights in the Yorkshire Greens shone, and some of the usual electric sparks were put out for the day. Interest is kept keenly alive in these classes in consequence. The Norwich Greens are truly making great strides towards perfection, and here was to be seen some marvels of type, colour, and neatness. More of the cracks appeared here, and on the whole Mr. Hirst found most of them. The Green Club members give proof that they are very much alive this season. Borders contained some very pretty typical birds of fine quality, while the Crest, etc., class saw a marvellous Crest-bred (H. F. Hardy) winning. It is a treat. Hybrids in two classes saw some noted cracks, and the Britishers and Foreigners came up well. The Open Noviee Canary—York hire and Norwich—classes were really excellent both in quantity and quality. About the best Yorkshire in show was to be seen here in the Yell. cock class. The three Yorks classes brought out 45 birds, and many of these would make rings round some in the champion classes. Nor. also found some rare cobby birds, flowing with quality, the three classes bringing out 52 birds. Linnet-singing class brought forward ten real beauties in their "hoppers," and it is very creditable to the owners to find these birds so perfect in all round condition. As tight as wax and steady to a degree in most instances. We heard it said that the members' classes would be better left for a purely members' show, so as to give all members a chance of making them successful. Mr. W. R. Knowles the popular chairman, Mr. J. Emmett, the very able secretary, and Mr. J. D. Leigh, a most excellent and courteous show manager, with a good staff of workers, including Messrs. J. Hampson, J. Potter, Stout, Johnson, Walters, Cowell, Dukes, Kinsey, Tyrer, Langley, Morison, Bowers, Billington, etc., kept the business well posted, when once the staging was complete, Mr. H. Cawley lending Mr. Hampson a willing helping hand. Mr. A. Hirst judged the Canaries, and Mr. C. Houlton the Brit. and For., their awards giving every satisfaction.

LONDON AND PROVINCIAL O.S.

Annual Autumn Show held in the Egyptian Court, Crystal Palace, on November 6th and 7th. This year the show was confined to members. Entries numbered 420. Great interest was caused by the appearance of two new Canary-Bullies, bred by the exhibitor, Mrs. H. S. Askham. Messrs. Crockett, Cooper, Mays, Maxwell, and Miller were represented by their well-known teams in the British and Foreign bird classes. The show was well attended, and a brisk business was done in sales, there being quite a demand for high-class Nor. Plainheads. Judges: Messrs. S. Cook (Brit. and For.), R. L. Crisp (Yorks), J. Dobson (Cinns, etc.), and T. Heath (Nor. Crests, etc.).

SHEFFIELD.

Sheffield annual All-England show took place on Nov. 8th and 9th, under C.B.U. rules. The schedule issued was a very good one, and entries totalled 823 in 34 classes. The function took place in the Temperance Hall, which is nice, light, fairly spacious room, and free from all objectionable draughts. The staging of the exhibits was accomplished in very neat style, and every specimen could be observed at a glance. The patronage of the Yorks C. and Nor. Plainhead C. had been obtained, which brought together the cream of the "long and slim" and "short and thick" varieties. The Yorkies provided a rare treat, with birds of wonderful length, and feathered to perfection—a most select collection, though not numerous. Many envious eyes were cast upon the clear yellow, the property of Mr. W. H. Shackleton, which is a gem of the first water. The ticked yellow shown successfully by Mr. J. Wilcock also found a host of admirers, likewise the buff hen owned by Messrs. Bailey and Swanger, a bewitching damsel. The Nor. Plainheads made up a good display; indeed, a finer has not been seen in Sheffield for a very long period. Mr. W. Booth's clear yellow was voted about the best in the open section, though the yell. tick, staged by Mr. J. Evans, and the buff hen so delightfully staged by Mr. S. Cook, came in for much admiration. Crests and Crestbred containing a few topping specimens, and provided one with an object lesson in what to breed for. The Crested cock, shown by Messrs. Norwood Bros., is one of the very best; also the Crested hen, the property of Mr. G. Colledge. Hybrids were very few in numbers, and only, unfortunately, of moderate quality. The British provided visitors with a pleasing assortment, while the Foreign, although not numerous, created no little stir, especially amongst the lady visitors. The special for best true pair, large Foreign, was gained by Mr. H. H. Cooper's Blue Bonnets, and that for Small fell to Messrs. Colton and Dawn's Parrot Finches. Ramsden's medal went to Mr. R. W. Mercer; Sandiford's was captured by Mr. F. Till.

The Members' Classes filled well, and the grand total of 711 birds was obtained. Five silver cups were for competition; the most important the large challenge cup, presented to the Society by Messrs. Mappin and Webb. At the two previous shows Mr. J. C. Barnes had been successful, and only needed to again come out on top to capture it outright. This he did, with a magnificent team of birds, and so is now the proud possessor of this handsome and valuable cup. The other four cups were for Norwich, Yorks, Crests, and British (not to be won outright). This year's winners were Councillor T. Hemmings (Nor.), W. Bingham (Yorks), J. Evans (Crests), and P. Walsh (Brit.). Most points throughout Norwich section went to Mr. J. C. Barnes (182), followed by Mr. H. W. Walton (69 points). Sandiford's medal went to Mr. J. C. Barnes, who also won two specials for unlighted Nor. Ramsden's medal fell to Mr. H. Taylor. Other special prize winners were: Messrs. Richardson, Bradshaw, Drabble, Evans, Siddall, Champion, Bingham, Bower, Moore, Spencer, Lindsay, Hemmings, Savoury, Walton, Somerfield, Walsh, Bishop, Coates, and Baxby.

The Committee of Management consists of well-known and practical fanciers in Messrs. Kelley, A. Bradshaw, Fletcher, Crookes, Menmott, Brewerton, Lindsay, C. Bradshaw, Lyons, Spencer, Tow, Barnes, Drabble, Walton, and Thorpe—with such a list like this, no wonder the exhibition was well managed. Mr. W. Oxley acts as treasurer, and a more genial member the Society does not possess. The auditors are Messrs. W. H. Dyer and R. Barker. The stewards were Messrs. R. Colton, T. Dawn, R. W. Fletcher, A. Somerfield, and H. Lindsay, five fanciers that know the proper working of a show, and who deserve great praise for the exertions they put forth. The worthy secretary is Mr. T. Bishop, who keeps the welfare of his Society ever before him, and a more courteous and obliging fancier it would be difficult to find. He worked like a Trojan, and much of the credit for the success of the function certainly belongs to him. The judges were Messrs. W. Vardy, A. Ambler, R. Rhodes, and E. E. Smith, who got through their work in capital style, and whose awards appeared to give satisfaction all round.

(Members Classes Next Week.)

GILLINGHAM.

We have a most successful entry this year, was the verdict, pronounced by one of the responsible officials of the Gillingham and Dis. F.S. to our representative, while standing surrounded by exhibits in the Public Hall, on November 7th. And, he added, the chief increase is in the Cage Bird section, where we have 50 more than last year. It is easy to discern whether things are on the upward or downward grade, by the countenance of a Show secretary or manager, and at Gillingham it was sunshiny enough. Messrs. C. V. Burlton (hon. sec.) and J. Lancaster (assistant sec.), with the able manager (Mr. Thos. F. Ramsey), had every arrangement well in hand. Judging commenced early, and was completed in excellent time, cards being up quickly. Much help was rendered by an excellent band of committeemen and stewards: Messrs. C. Wray, senr., J. Hide, H. Perkins, H. Baker, G. Grimsby, H. Gordon, C. Burrows, E. Legg, F. Tayler, A. Wimble, H. Wray, S. Pike, S. Wray, F. McCarthy and J. Nobbs. The show was opened by Alderman J. R. Featherby, J.P., the president, who spoke encouragingly and approvingly of the efforts of the Society. The quality of the exhibits was first-rate generally, and it would be invidious to particularise, although British were exceedingly strong and meritorious. The subscription bowl for British was won by Mr. Wickham, with his well-known Goldfinch, which came into his possession in exchange for the modest sum of 30/-; it is a beautiful bird. Other specials also fell to its share. Nor. made a good show, and we were pleased to note the advance of Border Fancies in the popular favour in the South. Mr. Geo. Gardner judged, and his awards appeared to give general satisfaction.

NOR. CL. YELL (8): 1, Taylor, very full-pointed bird of excellent Nor. substance, nicely carried wings, level back, silky feather, not a blazer in colour, but a good all round Yell; 2, Lugg, unfli. bird of good quality, stout body but little weak in head; 3, Gibbs, good quality, trifle slack in feather, and carried tail wide to-day; 4, Ward, very promising unfli; vhc, Stewart; hc, Kilby; c, Gibbs. BUFF (6): 1, 2, Gibbs, very similar, both typical and well shown, nice under-colour; 3, Kilby, full of quality opened a bit at chest, but a very good one; 4, Lugg; vhc, Stewart; hc, Reeves. TICK, ETC. (6): 1 2, Gibbs, tick Buff, leading, dapper, full of quality and under-colour, var. yell. of silky feather and good type; 3, Kilby, grizzle-tailed yell., of lovely quality, good shape, but looked slack at thighs as if it had been wild in cage; 4, Gibbs, tkd. yell., as good as any when well, looking a trifle slack to-day; vhc, Taylor; hc, spl, Lancaster, yell., well packed up, good shape and quality; 2, 4, vhc, Broad, leader, a shapely Buff; 3, Reeve, best quality of any, but carried wings badly across. YORKS. (5): 1, Gibbs, well-known yell; 2, 3, vhc, Wheeler, fine team, want little more training, grand position and quality; 4, Gibbs. CK. MKD.VAR. (7): 1, 3, Gibbs, leader, a tick. buff, nice position and quality; 3, tkd yell, might have gone down a peg later in the day when warmth had done its work with 4th; 2, Reeve, heavily var., full of nerve, finely drawn, good one, needs tightening up a bit, and then!; 4, Wheeler, slashing yell., slack at time of judging, but "told tales" later, when warmed up; vhc, hc, Casemore. HEN: 1, 2, Wheeler, two clippers, beautiful buff leading; 3, Reeve, very waxy in feather, just a bit thin in neck to winners. BOR. CL. YELL. (4): 1, 3, Seiraride, leader, very jaunty and stylish, none too close in feather; 2, Lockett, neat, tightened up better than either 3 or 4; 4, Bowes, as good as anything in class for style, but seemed limpy and open in feather as did several others when judging commenced, but told a different tale towards evening. BUFF (5): 1, Bowes, looked like the Kent County winner, very jaunty, clean modelled and waxlike; 2, Lockett, very sweet, but little soiled; 3, vhc, Sciranac, former lovely feather, but sitting thick at judging; 4, Strickland. TICK MKD. VAR. (6): 1, Bowes, Kent County winner, buff tick one wing, little gem; 2, hc, Seiranac, former, evenly mkd. yell, neat style; 3, Unstead, var. yell., very sweet; 4, Lockett, yell.; vhc, Strickland. A.O.V. CAN. (2): 1, Gibbs, well known even-mkd. buff Nor.; 2, Taylor, similar variety. MULES, LIGHT (7): 1, spl, Ward, six-pointed yell. Goldfinch Can., plenty colour, nice feather; 2, Wheat, buff var. of same cross, large, bold, close feathered bird; 3, Eastmead, lovely yell. var. Goldie Canary, large and good; 4, Ward; vhc, Casemore; hc, Miss Unstead. DARK (6): 1, spl, Taylor, Siskin-Greenfinch, in nice fettle; 2, Wheat, very nice, large, good coloured Linnet Can., in beautiful feather; 3, Eastmead, buff of same cross, large and good; 4, Ward, Goldie-Can, fails size; vhc, Lugg; hc, White. BRIT. GOLDFINCH (7): 1, Cup and 2 spls, 3, Wickham, winner, a grand Finch, big, square, well-cut lustrous blaze, markings well put on and chestnut rich, good bars and buttons; 3, another good Finch, not in full colour yet; 2, Casemore, not so wide, square cut or rich in blaze as first, but a good one; 4, Acland, will give a better account by and bye; vhc, Eastmead; hc, Casemore; c, Richardson. BULLFINCH (7): 1, Wickham, very rich in breast colour, might bo just a trifle stouter, but very deep ebony poll, which shone and shone again; 2, Carter, better Finch in some respects than first, but showed stockings a little too much; 2, Young, nice, but not so lustrous; 4, Martin, hardly steady enough, looked like a fresh caught one; vhc, Andrew; hc, Woodcock. GREENFINCH (6): 1, Pankhurst, best feather; 2, Osborne, will do well some day, rare shaped Finch, bit unsteady and slack yet; try sunflower seed; 3, 4, Miss Unstead, both very good, but lack colour of second; vhc, Fossett; hc, Acland. LINNETS (13), a lovely lot: 1, Pankhurst, said to be the Rochester winner and Dover second; a clinker for shape, colour, marking and steadiness; 2, spl, Wickham, another topper, just a little curled at throat, but a really high-class Linnet; 3, Carter, paler but typical, steady and in fine bloom; 4, Webb, another nice one for shape, well marked; vhc, Pool; hc, Wickham; c, Harris. SISKIN, ETC. (8): 1, Acland, bonny and shapely little Siskin, well marked, with nice cap and bib; 2, Pankhurst, nice rich coloured Redpoll; 3, vhc, Wickham, both Siskins, very good in colour; 4, Webb; hc, c, Miss Unstead. A.O.V. SEED EATER (5): 1, spl, Wickham, Hawfinch, good colour and steady, 2, Osborne, rich coloured, sheeny, lustrous, and well marked Chaffinch, lovely breast colour, not yet at its best; 3, Brett, Hawfinch, larger than first, but pale rin colour; 4, Acland, very nice yell. Bunting, very steady and glossy in plumage; vhc, Fossett. INSECT. (4): 1, Brett, Shorelark, well-known; 2, Fossett, very nice feathered Nightingale, bit thin in body; 3, Miss Hopwood, Nuthatch in good feather; 4, Webb, Blackcap, not in the best of trim. A.O.V. BRIT. (6): 1, Brett, great Grey Shrike, beautiful exhibit, needed a rest; 2, Lugg, magnificent Starling, glistening with lustre; 3, Acland, Missel Thrush, grand depth of colour, but had slightly damaged shoulders; 4, Eastmead, large and well spotted "storm cock," if it was a little better colour would take beating; vhc, Webb; hc, Eastmead. NOVICE A.V. (5): 1, spl, Lancaster, typical buff Nor.; 2, Miss Unstead; 3, Carter, Goldfinch Can. Mule; 4, Ward. SELL (15/-) (4): 1, Acland; 2, Wickham; 3, Chandler; 4, Casemore. (5): 1, Young, Atlas Weaver; 2, 3, Miss Conway Gordon, Pekin Robins and a Tanager; 4, hc, Miss Unstead.

HYSON GREEN (Notts.)

The Hyson Green and District C.B.S. (Nottingham) held a splendid Members' Show on Oct. 26, the entry, we believe, constituting a record. The arrangements were ably carried out by Mr. A. Ernest Garton, the hon. sec., and his enthusiastic committee. Mr. A. J. Gladwin judged, and his awards were generally approved. CL. YELL. NOR. (7): 1, Hill; 2, Sharp; 3, Banks. PORTOBELLO.

Fourth annual show of the Portobello C.B.S. was held in the Masonic Hall, on November 2. About 300 birds were staged, and Mr. James Patterson Chirnside, judged, his awards being very favourably received. Cup for best young bird in show and another for best Nor. P.H. went to Mr. Wm. R. Dunn. Cups for best Border Fancy went to Mr. Thomas Miller; best Yorkshire, Mr. Alex. Neilson; Crest or Crestbred, Mr. Alex. Crerar; Scotch Fancy, Mr. James Laird, and for Mules, Mr. John Newlands. At the close of the shows, the Cups and Specials were presented by Mrs. John Balfour, in introducing whom, the chairman, Mr. Daniel A. Cormack, in a racy little speech, traced the history of the Society, and complimented the members on the great success of the show. Baillie Carmichael also addressed those present, and Mr. Alex. Clark moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Balfour for her presence and support, Dr. Balfour replying on behalf of his wife.

"Cage Birds," 154, Fleet St., London

PRESTON.

Preston O.S. held their annual exhibition on Nov. 8th and 9th. The Assembly Rooms provided capital accommodation for the exhibits, being exceedingly spacious, finely lighted and devoid of draughts, a more convenient and adaptable place could not easily be found. The show was under the C.B.U. Rules. The patronage of the Yorkshire C.C. was obtained, (for Members residing outside Yorkshire), this encouraging a grand display of the "long and slim" variety. The schedule issued was of a most enterprising character, and CAGE BIRDS' great prize competition was also in force. Entries totalled close on 600, and for the manner in which the birds were staged (every one to be seen at a glance), great praise is due to those responsible. The catalogue opened with the Norwich Plainheads, and a most magnificent lot they were. Colour, feather, size and type one saw in almost every class throughout the section. Crests (Crestbreds void), although rather few in numbers, provided one or two rare exhibits. Cinnamons were not numerous, but of capital shape, and grand cinny colour. Yorkshires, the birds of "Grace and Beauty," quite charmed one when going over them, being a really magnificent lot. Borders, as pretty as paint, and full of life and action, made a pleasing show. This was the first time we understand that the "Bantams" had been catered for here. Of Mules and Hybrids (the "mixtures") several choice ones were on view. Our "national songsters," were strongly in evidence, and most of them appeared in full bloom. Foreign, as usual, gave the finishing touch to the exhibition. The Novice classes brought forward many most pleasing birds; more than one quite capable of running well in the upper circles. Hot competition was the order, 198 birds in 8 classes, giving an average of practically 25 per class. Hyde's special went to Mr. T. Dunn; Ramsden's colour-food special found an owner in Mr. S. Seed; Sandiford's Cups fell into the hands of Messrs. A. Hirst and J. Bailey. CAGE BIRDS' prize competition specials went to Dr. R. Herd, with a fine yellow Nor. hen, and to Mr. W. H. Pickles with a grandly pencilled Linnet. The "Lord Stanley" Challenge Cup was gained by Mr. S. Seed, his dark-tailed buffrighted buff Norwich, answering to the call.

The show was opened by the Mayor of Preston, W. Ord, Esq., whose remarks were of a very encouraging and most appropriate kind. Sir Jas. D. Hoghton, Bart., was also present, and by what one heard, enjoyed his visit immensely. Another very familiar face was Mr. E. Baker, from far-off Cowes. How the birds draw him, acting like a magnet! The genial chairman is Mr. W. Haworth, vice-chairman, Mr. W. Lewis, treasurer, Mr. J. P. Leeming, and auditors, Messrs. F. R. and J. Brown. The committee are all well-known fanciers, Messrs. Blackhurst, Coventry, Heap, Curwen, Hopkins, Lambert, Sherrington, and Wallace, and right well did they do their duty. The Show committee, Messrs. Haworth, Leeming, Blackhurst, Cleminson, Heaps, Curwen, Knowles and Parkinson. Each and everyone proved himself a hard and enthusiastic worker. They know the requirements of an open show. Last, but by no means least, comes the worthy hon. sec., Mr. J. W. Cleminson, who was assisted by a good understudy in Mr. J. T. Swarbrick. Both officials are most excellent, courteous and obliging, always on the move, having the Society's welfare at heart, and much of the success of the show was certainly due to the great exertions they put forth. The Judges were Mr. J. C. Barnes (Sheffield) and Mr. P. Robinson (Barrow), the former taking Nor., Yorks, Crests, Cinns and Novice classes, the latter, Bord., Brit., Mules and For., and their awards appeared to give general satisfaction. Stewards were the Rev. S. E. Cleminson, M.A., and Messrs. W. Lewis, J. Leeming, F. Coventry, T. H. Cooper, T. Seed (Bolton), Heathcote and Blackhurst. Judging was over in good time, and cards displayed quickly—management throughout par excellence. The Rev. Cleminson proved himself a most useful official.

Mr. J. C. Barnes' Classes.

NOR. YELL. SCARBOROUGH.

Scarborough F.S. Show held November 6th, this being the second time the society has included cage birds. Members should be encouraged to add more classes, as with five classes they secured 84 entries. The arrangements, under the able secretary, were very good, and everything passed off satisfactorily. YORKS. (15): 1, 3, Dixon, former good stock yell., hot and rather strong; 2, Watts, not quite so large, but nice type and feather; 4, Hunter, nice buff; vhc, Wilson; hc, c, Dodsworth; No. 3 very nice typical buff, might almost have been in prizes. Nests of Birds, Poultry, etc., should be regularly sprinkled with KEATING'S POWDER, especially when hens are sitting. Don't forget to do this just previous to the eggs hatching, to destroy the Red Mite. It kills all insects, harmless to everything else.

BODMIN.

The fifteenth annual show of the Bodmin and District Association was held in the Market Hall and Public Rooms on November 6th, and, while regretting there was a slight falling-off in the entries of cage birds, yet there were, in all sections, over 1,000 entries, and the efforts of the committee were crowned with success. The quality in our section was very good, many exhibits being put down that could hold their own in any company. The management of the show was all that could be desired, and the energetic and pain-taking secretary, Mr. A. E. Jago, must be congratulated upon the way he carried out his important duties, being courteous and obliging here, there and everywhere, always to be found when required. He was backed up by a large and enthusiastic committee of fanciers, who attended to their duties in the most praiseworthy manner—any exhibitor sending valuable specimens here may rest assured that every possible care is taken of them. The committee deserved to be well supported with entries, because there is never cancelling or amalgamation of classes, and full prize money is paid. The weather being ideal, there was a record attendance, the gate money amounting to £115. Cage birds were staged at the bottom of the market hall, being well lighted and free from draughts. Mr. R. B. Tope judged, the awards on the whole being well received. Judging was over before one o'clock, and everything worked with cluck-like precision.

ABINGDON (North Berks.)

Fourth Annual Open Show, held on Nov. 7th, in the Corn Exchange, a most suitable building, being well lighted and free from draught. Held under C.B.U.; the entries were not quite so numerous as last year's, due probably to the number of shows being held, but the quality was well above the average, this compensating for the two or three classes cancelled. Everything possible for the comfort of the exhibits was carried out, in fact, the arrangements were admirable in every respect. Mr T. Bowen, the hon. secretary, worked hard for the success of the show, and has a good word for all. He was well supported by the committee, of whom Mr. Frank R. Jackson is chairman, with Messrs. C. Pearce and W. Barnett, stewards. The CAGE BIRDS Prize competition prizes were awarded to 1st Mr. A. Lewin, Unlli. yell.; 2nd, Miss Gibbons, Nor.; 3rd, Mr. C. Osborn, very nice Chaffinch. For the nine special prizes offered competition was very keen, that for the best bird in Show, given by the President, and the best in Open Brit. Classes, being awarded Mr. P. F. M. Galloway's charming Goldcrest, a magnificent specimen, richly deserving all it got. Mr. A. Lewin's cl. yell. unlll. Nor. secured special for best Canary in open classes; this bird is a gem of the first water. Mr. C. Pearce exhibited two handsome Thrushes, one of which was awarded two specials. It was understood that these two birds were reared from one nest; the leader was 2nd at the late Palace Show. Mr. A. L. Loder exhibited a grand Black Redstart, which unfortunately damaged its plumage, otherwise it would have won hands down. Foreign bird classes also contained some grand specimens, notably Mr. G. W. Leaver's Paradise Whydah. Mr. T. J. Ambrose judged, and his awards appeared to give general satisfaction. NOR. PLAINHEADS (7): 1, Lewin, buff of rattling type and colour, hardly lined down yet; 2, Yates, another buff of nice colour and feather, just loses in chest; 3, and "C.B." spl., Miss Gibbons, yell., good colour, nice head and wing carriage, longer behind; res., Dale; hc, Holliday. UNFLI. (8): 1, "C.B." special, Lewin, cl. yell. of grand shape, nice soft feather, hot level colour, a good one; 2, Lewin, tick. side of neck, nice colour and feather, wings well packed, good type; 3, Jupe, dark tailed yell. of grand colour and feather, rather on small side, jaunty carriage, unlike so many Nor. that lug the perch; res., Loader; vhc, Midgley. YORKS. (9): 1, Maisey, buff, nice shape, feather, and position; 2, Hawes, buff, long bird with wings nicely braced and tail well packed, just lacks style and position of leader, needs little training; 3, Smith, yell., draws thin in neck, but for style, leg, and position a treat, should be a valuable stock bird to get, nerve, style and carriage; res., vhc, Yates. GOLDFINCH, ETC. (4) 1, Gough; 2, Tebbutt; 3, Holliday; vhc, Hobbs; all just fair and lacking rather in colour and bloom. A.O.V. FINCH (6): 1, 3, Pearce, winner Chaffinch in beautiful feather and steady, only needs more colour to be a bouncer; 3, Hawfinch, big bird, well marked, lacks colour and not yet in bloom; 2, Hobbs, very smart Bramble, in rare feather; res., "C.B." spl., Osborne, Chaffinch; vhc, Marshall. BLACKBIRD, ETC. (5): 1, 2, spl., Pearce, two topping Song Thrushes, leader best colour and mooning; 3, Loader, just loses in mooning; r, Winter. A.O.V. BRIT. (6): 1, 2, spl., best cage bird, Galloway, leader beautiful little Fire-crested Wren, in perfect feather, beautifully shown; 2, Tree Creeper, perfect feather, very steady, both grand exhibits; 3, Loader, nice Lark; vhc, Tebbutt. FOR. SMALL (5): 1, 3, r, Leavers, grand Long-tailed Wydah leading; 2, Mrs. Billett, Green Budgerigars, in perfect feather. LARGE (6): 1, Millsom, pair of rare Paraquets, in grand feather; 2, Miss Horsley, Blue-fronted Amazon, nice colour, well shown; 3, Taylor, Scarlet Macaw, loses in condition; r, Mooring; vhc, Miss Bultree, Miss Winter. SELL. (12/6) (17): 1, Mrs. Billett; 2, Jupe; 3, Mrs. Stock; ex-3, Yates; r, Miss Gibbons. MEMBERS, CANARY (7): 1, 2, r, spl., Pearce; 2, 3, Loader. BRIT. (8): 1, 2, Pearce; 3, Loader; r, Ivey; hc, Hemming, Slater.

GREENWICH AND DEPTFORD.

This year the committee of the Greenwich and Deptford C.B.S. secured the Borough Hall, Royal Hill, Greenwich, for their show, and a splendid acquisition it was. The building is fitted with the newest arrangements in electric lighting, and is heated by means of steam radiators, so that the temperature was even and genial. The hall, too, is lofty, well lighted, free from draughts—an exceptionally good one for such a show and the exhibition was held under the rules of the C.B.U. At opening time the arrangements having been duly completed, the show presented a very pretty effect, and redounded to the credit of all who had taken a hand in the work of staging and management. One particularly wise arrangement was that the tiers of cages were neither crowded in the matter of rows nor set too close together; the result being that the visitors who thronged the hall on the opening night were able to move to and fro and view the birds with comfort and pleasure. Too frequently the reverse is the case. There is not enough gangway space, consequently discomfort and inconvenience ensue to visitors. Mr. Hill, the hon. secretary, and his helpers avoided this, and as a result the number of visitors (represented by a £7 10s. gate), came, saw comfortably, and went away pleased. Entries were not quite so numerous as last year, but the quality was excellent in the Nor. classes In the Members' section quality was highly meritorious. We hear that the Society has thus early secured the hall for next year's show, a gentleman deeply interested in the welfare of the Society having promised to defray the cost of hire of same. Mr. S. Stiddolph is the president, while the vice-presidents are Sir T. Dewar, M.P., Dr. Sidgwick, Messrs. J. W. Rennie, and R. Glendining. The chairman is Mr. C. Meades, and as previously notified, Mr. G. Hill is the courteous and enthusiastic hon. sec., who carries out his duties with marked ability, and deserves a bumping show every time. Mr. J. Robson judged Canaries; and Mr. Dewhurst Brit. and For.

Open Classes.

NOR. CL. YELL. (6): 1, spl., Hodder, frequently described, has shape, fine feather, colour, and quality; 2, Spinner, beautiful feather, fascinating tone of colour, rather longer in barrel, wings, and tail; 3, Rennie, another fine quality bird; vhc, Cranfield; hc, Hill; c, Lowe. BUFF (6): 1, spl., Hodder, grand shape, wants some pegging back in any company; 2, Rennie, charming feather, scarcely so stout as first, but really good; 3, Spinner, fine fronted, goose-like texture of feather, but just a trifle heavy at thighs; vhc, Munday; hc, Cranfield; c, Spooner. TICK OR YELL. (9): 1, 2, spl., Rennie, tick yell., said to be the Manchester 2nd, massive body, good quality, a good big one; 2, Cranfield, lovely quality of feather, buff bird of quite a different type to 1st, good all round; 3, Holliday, tick buff, lovely under-colour and meal, differing again, but excellent; vhc, c, Hodder; hc, Holliday; No. 2, Spinner, tick yell., lovely bird for quality, and although not large, has carriage, flow, and Norwich points in plenty. HENS (10): 1, spl., Spinner, thick set, level, grand fronted lady, with queenly carriage and style; 2, Hodder, lovely feather, well-nigh evenly mkd. yell., not quite so short in body, but would not hundreds like her! 3, Rennie, very neat and pretty, but not quite so chubby as others; vhc, Daniell; hc, Woolhouse; c, Brownlie. NOR. 1907 (12) one absent: 1, spl., Spinner, grand quality, nice type, very bloomy on good under-colour, opens just a trifle at chest; 2, Woolhouse, has fine quality and rich nice colour; 3, Brownlie, pale in colour beside some, but really lovely feather and of good type, an attractive bird, as was also the same owner's unnoticed bird, which some liked as well as any; vhc, Rennie; hc, Males; c, Thomas. BRIT. GOLD, ETC. (8): 1, spl., Austin, Goldfinch, wide blaze, good shaped Finch of clean cutting, needs time to perfect blaze; 2, Baker, smaller, but fair coloured Goldfinch; 3, Vincent, Bullfinch, nice shape, good poll, steady, we liked; vhc, Mitchell; hc, Leaney; c, Lloyd. LINNET, ETC. (10): 1, spl., 2, hc, Evenden, leader a fairly well mkd. Linnet, good stamp; 3, Rouse, rich coloured, well mkd. Twite, a bird that pleased us; vhc, Austin; c, Rouse. A.O.V. CLYDEBANK.

Clydebank and Dist. O.A. twenty-first annual show of Scotch Fancies, held Nov. 9th in Lesser Town Hall. Clydebank has a thriving working population, and it is very encouraging to members to have practical support, headed by Lord Overtown. Were this spirit emulated generally, it would be a strong stimulus to carry on the work. In the afternoon exhibitors and visitors thronged the hall. Members turned out 168 birds, the quality being scarcely equal to that of last year; but there were some very fine exhibits. The chief honour, the Cup, was won by Mr. J. Bowman with a really good Buff Pied hen, the prize for the best cock being gained by Mr. R. Prentice with a nice Buff cock. Many well known fanciers were present in search of stock, and several sales were effected, but the best were retained. That course is in vogue all over, the demand for Scotch Fancies far exceeding the supply. The president was in evidence, and to his tact in a great measure the success of the society is due. The secretary, Mr. Kirkwood, is a splendid worker, he and his committee presenting most excellent arrangements, everything being in apple pie order. The judges were Messrs. W. Thornton, Edinburgh; D. Black, Govan; J. Watson, Glasgow; and W. Williamson, Renton, who did their utmost to place the exhibits in proper order of merit.

CORRESPONDENCE.

MR. CLARK'S RETIREMENT.

SIR,—The Linnet men of Leeds know that Mr. Wood is only a recruit in Linnet singing, that he knows nothing about a Linnet, and that he is to be excused. As for his old bird man, he must also be a recruit, or he would know different, as the Kingshead was a bird house for over twenty years. I hung a bird myself in 1893, fourteen years ago, and I can get a prize any time I take my birds out, either for singing or for showing.

JAMES CLARK.

A BRAMBLEFINCH-CANARY HYBRID.

SIR,—I should like to state, for the benefit of the general body of fanciers, especially those who attended at Norwich Show, that the bird exhibited by me as a Bramblefinch-Canary was bred by myself in the ordinary breeding cage, and paired up in the usual way. So this leaves me without any doubt as to its parentage. GEO. R. JAMES.

St. Ives.

(Our reporter at Norwich Show wrote:—"1, James, catalogued as 'Bramblefinch Canary,' we made it an everyday Greenfinch-Canary, and a very fair example of the cross, good both in size, shape, and colour." Mr. James is a well-known fancier, and we gladly publish his interesting letter concerning the exhibit.—EDITOR.)

ALLEGED CURIOUS HAPPENING AT WARRINGTON SHOW.

SIR,—Being an exhibitor at Warrington Show, held November 9th, I visited same, and found a very good exhibition. After having viewed the exhibits, I left the show to have some tea. You can imagine my surprise when I returned and found that my bird, No. 1 in Class 24 (Selling, 20s.), had been taken from its cage and replaced by another! I immediately made a search, and to the surprise of many, found my bird in Class 25, No. 5 (Selling, 12s. 6d.), an entry belonging to Mr. W. Mercer, of Prescot. How it got there still remains a mystery. When questioned on the matter, Mr. Mercer denied all knowledge of same. And there the matter stands. My reason for penning these few lines is to show that we need to be ever on the alert; also to try and bring the offender or offenders to justice. For if things like this are allowed to pass unnoticed it will not be safe to send our best birds away.

W. WILKINSON.

COCKERMOUTH SHOW AND THE CAGE BIRD UNION.

SIR,—My last letter you could not publish owing to its excessive length. Perhaps it was too long for one issue, but the bulk was correspondence I had copied for me, as I was too busy to give individual attention to it; otherwise it would have been summarized. Our impression of Mr. Lythgoe's first letter informing us that the two shows should stand was that no meeting of the C.B.U. Committee had ever been held to consider the matter—that it was the decision of one or a few individuals. His reply bore out that impression, for he states that the matter was settled by correspondence. Now we consider that such matters are of too much importance to be settled by such means, and that a national union like the C.B.U. should have more businesslike methods of conducting its affairs. It will readily occur to your readers why business by correspondence is unsatisfactory, especially in a case like ours, where a correct decision could not be arrived at without the possession of many details. Then we object to the tone of Mr. Lythgoe's letter, in which he draws an invidious distinction without any data between —— Society and Cockermouth. That portion of his letter I characterised as impertinent, and am still of that opinion. It was an attempt to belittle our Society, which, for number of entries, annual income, local support, broad classification, and good management, will compare with any similar institution in the kingdom. As I told him, we are not effete, but progressive, and we resent his remarks and the attempt to injure us by holding two shows on the same date most strongly. Another point we desire to make is that statements in his letters are contradictory—that is the mildest form in which I can describe them. As your space is limited, I will say no more. I think your readers will agree that as original members of the C.B.U., we should have had preference over a Society which applied for affiliation less than three months ago. That is our complaint, and though the C.B.U. deny us that preference, we look to the fanciers of the country to give it. Your advertising columns of to-day show that we have over 40 classes for Cage Birds—a bumper entry will be the best reply to the C.B.U.

GEO. OGLETHORPE,
Chairman of the C.F.C.

DATES OF KENT SHOWS.

SIR,—Would it be possible for all show secretaries next year in Kent and thereabouts to combine and fix dates, so that we do not get them all on the same dates? This year we had Tonbridge, Hastings, and Margate all on the same days, and in consequence the classes do not get filled, and the winners have to be content with half prize money. Surely it would be fairly easy to arrange so that each should get a chance of support B.

PROPOSED NEW SOCIETY FOR WALKLEY AND DISTRICT.

SIR,—A great number of bird fanciers in Walkley and District, Sheffield, are desirous of forming a purely Amateur Cage Bird Society to further the interest and gain knowledge in matters concerning the keeping and caring of caged birds. All those interested are invited to send in their names, so that the matter can be brought to a definite ending, and a thorough working society be started. EDGAR BROADBENT.

THE ALLEGED POISONING OF SHOW BIRDS AT BROUGHTY FERRY.

SIR,—With reference to the "Twittering" appearing in last week's CAGE BIRDS about a bird being poisoned at Broughty Ferry Show on October 12th, surely the writer must be wrongly informed, as I have heard nothing of a bird belonging to any Dundee gentlemen being poisoned at our show. Nor am I aware that any other bird was poisoned. As I have had no complaint from any exhibitor to that effect, I can only come to the conclusion that the report is not correct.

CHARLES MUIR,
Secretary Broughty Ferry C.B.S.

THE CHALLENGE SHIELD AWARD AT DULWICH SHOW.

SIR,—I saw it was announced in your paper hat Mr. R. L. Crisp had won with his Yorkshire the challenge shield for best bird in the show; also bowl for the best young bird at the recently-held Dulwich Show. Now, I know for a fact Mr. Vardy, who adjudicated on the Norwich Plainheads, went home before they had finished judging, and these specials had not been awarded. Now, I fail to see how Mr. Crisp's bird could have won them fairly, as there was no one to stand up for the Norwich. I should like to hear what other fanciers think about this.

W. MORRIS.

P.S.—I might also mention that I lost my best clear Buff after coming home from Dulwich Show.

(We understand that as Mr. Vardy had to leave in the evening to judge another show, he left the interests of the Norwich Plainheads in the hands of Mr. E. Baker (of Cowes) so far as the above specials were concerned.—EDITOR.)

ANOTHER INDICTMENT OF RAILWAY COMPANIES.

SIR,—At this time of year we read a good deal about mismanagement and neglect on the part of show secretaries and committees; what I have to relate, I am happy to say, is quite the reverse of the generally accepted idea that show managers want your entrance fees and nothing else. On the Tuesday evening I despatched two cases containing six birds, for the Swansea Show by the same train as that by which I sent my birds to the Welsh National (Swansea) the previous week, of course expecting them to arrive as on previous occasion, early on the Wednesday. You can imagine my feelings when, at 1.30, I received a wire from the show secretary informing me of the non-arrival of my birds. By this most thoughtful action I was able to set forces at work at each end of the line, and it was with great satisfaction some hours later I learned that my birds had arrived, and were being well cared for. Had it not been for this prompt action on the part of Mr. Hutchings, goodness only knows what my losses might have been, as my birds had then been nearly 20 hours without nourishment. Knowing my birds were safe, I next thought of compensation, so I wired on the hope of getting the judge's opinion. In this I was more fortunate, and I learn I would have had an easy first, two seconds, and two thirds, while the sixth bird was too soft to enable the judge to form an opinion. By the above you will see I not only lose the prize money and specials, but at least 29 points in club specials in W.C.B.C. and 10 points in E. and W. B.F.C. competitions. It is my intention to try and recover some portion of my losses from the railway company. I have always been treated most fairly by show secretaries, but it is these small courtesies that seldom come to light that shows a fancier's true worth. It speaks volumes for the management when the secretary notices that some birds are missing at one o'clock on first day of show, especially when he had 560 birds to look after.

NEW SOCIETY FOR COVENTRY.

SIR,—We have formed a new society in Coventry, called the Coventry Goliva Cage Bird Society. We held our first meeting on November 4 at headquarters, Chequer's Hotel, Little Park-street, when we enrolled 20 members. Anyone wishing to join can receive information from the secretary.—J. Blackshaw, chairman; W. H. Bray, secretary, 12, Berry-street, Coventry.

ALLEGED SHOCKING TREATMENT OF SHOW BIRDS.

SIR,—I beg to convey, through the columns of our fancy paper, "C.B.," my heartfelt thanks to Mr. J. B. Waterman and hundreds of other fanciers who have written me letters of sympathy re the above. I may say I immediately wrote the C.B.U. secretary, and received an answer from him last week (which I prefer to keep to myself for a time). I also immediately put the matter in the hands of our hon. solicitor, who is going thoroughly into the case. I may say J.B.W. may rest assured that I am not going to let the matter drop, and shall certainly inform brother fanciers (as the case goes on) through the fancy press. C. E. BROWN.

P.S.—I am having the read birds set up, and they will be on view at our Bristol C.B. Fanciers Show on November 20th and 21st.

AN ALLEGATION AGAINST JUDGES.

SIR,—Kindly allow me space in CAGE BIRDS to call the attention of exhibitors to an evil practice of judges. One of our best known judges of British birds officiated at a certain show last week, and immediately the judging was over the exhibitors and friends flocked, as usual, around the birds. One exhibitor of British said to the judge, "What do you think of this Yellowhammer?" The judge said, "It is a grand one; the best I have ever seen." The exhibitor then said, "Yes, it has already got a first and two seconds to its credit this year, being beaten on one occasion by a Finch belonging to Mr. A." The judge replied, "Yes, this is Mr. A.'s Finch which I have given first to-day." "Oh, no, it isn't," said the exhibitor, that Finch belongs to Mr. B."; upon which the judge replied, "Oh, I've been thinking all along that it was Mr. A.'s bird." Now, sir, what I want to point out is that, in my opinion, there is far too much of the evil practice of judges looking out for the birds of their friends, and awarding them prizes whether they are worth it or not The sooner the exhibiting fanciers take courage to expose such fraudulent practices through the columns of your valuable paper the sooner we may expect the C.B.U. to take the matter up with the object of trying to put a stop to them. FAIRPLAY.

CHARGES FOR CARRIAGE.

SIR,—In the past I have been the victim of excessive railway charges in the return journeys from shows of my birds, very similar in character to those enumerated by Mr. H. H. Cooper. Complaints made to the local railway officials were either treated offhandedly or else completely ignored. After one particularly bad case, where the railway charge was not only double, but 6d. added for special delivery, I took a receipt from the carman, and enclosed that, with the address label, to the general manager of the company, giving particulars of size, weight of package, etc., and claimed the overcharge. The effect was excellent; a week after a courteous railway official called with the excess, including the special delivery charge, and hoped things would be satisfactory in the future, etc. I waited expectantly for my next package from a show; it came—usual result, extra charge 9d. this time. More general manager, more apologies, and refundings. Eventually, after about half a dozen cases like this (always quoting in my letters to the general manager the "registered numbers" of the previous cases), I succeeded in getting the proper charges made for my packages. I have only to whisper "general manager" at our local station now to send them flying about like—well, not like railway officials.

Brixton. DAVID HALL.

SIR,—In reply to Mr. Cooper, Luton, I can quite sympathise with him on the charges, viz., more for the return journey than the forward. I will endeavour to explain this. The recognised charge is 50 per cent. more for a bird in cage than for an ordinary parcel; a parcel weighing (very) 6lbs., and going 12 miles, would cost 6d.; a bird in cage, weighing 6lbs., and going the same distance, 9d.; the extra 50 per cent. is not on the birds, but on cages, they being fragile goods. The reason of the carriage being more on the return journey is that the railway people, not knowing the exact distance by memory to the stations from which the birds were forwarded, charge the highest rates or distance to save the trouble and time of looking up their books, and because of the rush caused by so many coming at the same time from the show rooms, which alone entails a lot of extra work. With regard to the remark made to Mr. Cooper by the company's officials that the higher charge is for the carriage at the other end, this cannot be correct, as it covers the cost of delivery as well as of collection, with the exception of outlying country villages, which have no shows as yet. Still you have the remedy in your own hands, by asking the company's officials the distance and by not paying more than you did when you forwarded. Of course, this only applies providing the cage weighs the same on return. If the officials persist in overcharging, take a receipt and report at headquarters. I think, however, the Cage Bird Union should take it up. I should state that all cage birds come under the same scale, i.e., 50 per cent. over and above the ordinary carriage. I am sorry to have to write under a non-de-plume, a thing I seldom do, but being a railway man, I must.

ONE WHO KNOWS.

SIR,—Having read Mr. H. H. Cooper's letter under the above heading in CAGE BIRDS, I, like others, find myself of the same opinion, that shows would have better support if it were not for the heavy charges for carriage to and from shows. I sent a bird to Plymouth Show, to be forwarded direct to Battersea Show. The cost from here to Plymouth was 1s. 5d., from Plymouth to Battersea 2s. 11d., from Battersea to Mountain Ash 2s. 9d., with a broken cage in the bargain. There was a hole knocked through the zinc shutter in front of cage, and the bottom was splintered to pieces. This is the kind of "careful handling" our birds get when we pay 50 per cent. extra on the cost of carriage. Again, after you have gone to the expense of paying entry fees and carriage, your bird gets second prize, sometimes third, the first and second prizes being withheld owing to short entries; perhaps there are only four or five birds in the class, and who can blame the show committees when the majority of them are working men like myself, who can ill afford to pay ten or twenty shillings to help pay the debt of the show? Ye gods! this is honour at any price, and the sooner this extra charging business is thrashed out the better it will be for all concerned. The railway companies will take perishables at a very low rate; why cannot they take small birds at the same rate? They don't take up any more room than some perishables. Take cycles, for instance; you can send a "bike" from Land's End to John O'Groats for nearly the same price as it would cost you to send a decent-sized Thrush show cage from here to the Palace and back. I hope other fanciers will take this matter up.

A. IDRIS JONES.

THE HOMEWARD JOURNEY FROM THE SHOWS.

SIR,—Why do show managers advertise to send birds back by early trains on their schedules, then, when we send them our specimens, never think any more of their promise? I think show managers ought to be very strict on these matters. I, for one, sent six birds to Queensbury Show, and I also asked them if they would be good enough to let me have my birds back as early as possible. But, alas, all in vain! My birds did not arrive at Skelmanthorpe at 10 o'clock on Saturday night, the last train down. So I and a friend had to walk to Shipley, a distance of three miles, to catch the 11.10 p.m. train down. Here we were also disappointed. But the porters were exceedingly good, and wired to Huddersfield for us; and there the birds were, missed the last train down. They also informed us that the birds did not arrive in Huddersfield until 10.50 p.m. So we had to retrace our steps to Skelmanthorpe, then be off again the same three miles on the Sabbath Day—the Day of Rest. Not much rest for me and my friend! But what could we do? Could we leave our pets adrift and rest in peace? No; we could not leave the birds to be nearly starved to death in the porters' cold, draughty rooms. Sir, I am sure it is very unthoughtful of show managers. They do not try to oblige exhibitors as they should, for I feel sure that they could prevent a lot of this unnecessary labour.

HARRY LODGE.

UNIFORMITY OF SHOW CAGES.

SIR,—Lately at Shows one notices in the bottoms of bird cages a thick layer of sawdust, another of oat husks, another of sand, and another of canary seed. Now, if uniform cages are necessary, why not a uniform layer of something at the bottom? Canary seed is clean, and ensures the bird having enough food, so why not every cage alike.

ALLEGED LACK OF MANAGEMENT AT DULWICH & PECKHAM SHOW.

SIR,—I do not wish to enter into the correspondence about the Dulwich Show, but must call attention to the fact that my Hybrids, Nos. 615 and 616, which appear in Mr. Reeves' list, were really absent, as I was prevented sending them to the show at the last moment. —— M. H. ASKHAM.

SIR,—There is unfortunately some ground for the strictures which have been passed upon the management of the recently held Dulwich and Peckham Show, but there were extenuating circumstances, and I think when these are explained a lot of the misunderstanding that recent correspondence in your columns has given rise to will be removed. In the first place, arrangements had been made to secure possession of the show hall early on the day preceding the exhibition, so as to have everything in apple-pie order by the time the birds arrived. To the consternation of the committee, however, it was found at the last moment that the hall would not be disengaged until 9 p.m. By the time the show arena had been cleared of piles of chairs, etc., it was well on 10 o'clock, and the erection of the staging occupied about two hours. Meantime, birds from a distance had been unpacked in an ante-room, carefully watered and fed, and as quickly as the classes could be arranged the cages were placed on the benches. Then the committee unfortunately found themselves confronted with a further difficulty, as owing to a large influx of late entries—an experience not unknown to most show officials—the staging was discovered to be insufficient. This trouble, however, was speedily overcome, and by dint of hard work and very much self-sacrifice everything was got into order by the afternoon of the first day. Owing to the hitch in the arrangements, several birds could not be found in time for judging, and were in consequence marked absent in the catalogue. It will thus be seen, I think, that the committee were the victims of a series of adverse circumstances for which they were not wholly responsible, but the experience is not likely to be repeated, and the officials of the Dulwich and Peckham Society will do their best to retrieve the good name it has enjoyed in the past for the excellent management which has characterised its fixtures, and which has been held up as a pattern throughout the fancy. I notice that allegations have been made that the exhibits at the show were not properly fed and watered, but this statement is absolutely incorrect, for I imposed the duty upon myself of going over every bird, and seeing that it was well provided with food and drink. I was sorry to find many exhibitors had sent leaky water tins, but I made two special journeys home in order to supply new ones from my own room. On the evening of the second day of the show I personally saw that every bird was well supplied with water, so that it could have a good drink if it so desired prior to being packed up for the return journey. I hope this will reassure those fanciers who kindly entrusted their feathered pets to the care of those who undertook to bestow upon the birds "the same careful attention that would be given them by themselves," that their confidence was not misplaced. I notice it has been stated the staging of some of the exhibits was entrusted to some boys. Of course, this is absurd, though several young lads, sons of the officials, were found extremely useful, as they are at all shows; after all, they are the material out of which will be evolved the fanciers of the next generation. Amongst officials whom I saw working like Trojans during the show were Messrs. R. Brownlie, B.F.C.C.; W. Hodson (hon. secretary), Wall, Cranfield, Wetenhall, Norris (of Roller fame), Morris, Rogers, Dr. Sidgwick, Goodwin, Warley, Brooks, Rees, Harry, Meredith, Garlick, and Lugg. I am informed that amongst the visitors who lent a helping hand were Messrs. E. Baker (Isle of Wight), W. H. Howe (Wellingborough), F. J. Green (Redhill), and A. W. Warr (Hastings). It will thus be seen that the birds were in the hands of good, practical, and respected fanciers, and I may add that all the exhibits were packed and on the rail in a little more than three hours from the hall being cleared of visitors at 8 p.m.

Questions about Yorkshire Canaries.

With Some Answers by Expert Breeders and Exhibitors.

PURCHASING AND PAIRING.

(1) If you were asked to advise a beginner as to the purchase and pairing of birds to breed exhibition Yorkshires, what advice would you give?

INTRODUCING FRESH BLOOD.

(2) In matching the following year, would you recommend the introduction of fresh blood? Give reasons for and against.

DOUBLE-YELLOWING AND DOUBLE-BUFFING.

(3) Are you of opinion that any advantage is to be gained by double-yellowing and double-buffing?

EFFECT OF DOUBLE-YELLOWING.

(4) There is a general impression that double-yellowing results in a reduction of size. Is this your opinion? Do you think that the difference is in feather only, or does it affect bone or substance?

CHOICE OF COLOUR.

(5) Do you prefer breeding with a yellow cock to buff hen, or vice versa?

WHAT SHALL WE DO WITH HIM?

(6) Do you recommend that the cock be taken from the hen whilst sitting? If so, when would you put him back, and what are the advantages or disadvantages of such a course?

TWO WIVES OR ONE?

(7) Are you opposed to the use of two hens to one cock? If so, please state why.

FEEDING THE YOUNG.

(8) How do you feed from hatching up to six weeks old?

EARLY BIRDS OR LATE BIRDS.

(9) In your opinion are the best results obtained in the latter part of the breeding season or in the early part?

TOO OLD AT ——?

(10) At what age do you consider Yorkshires breed their best specimens?

THE CHICK IN THE SHELL.

(11) What is the longest period that fertilised eggs may with safety be kept from under the hen?

INFLAMMATION IN YOUNG BIRDS.

(12) How do you account for the so-called inflammation of the bowels from which so many young birds die? How may it be avoided, and what remedy do you recommend when it does occur?

TEACHING THE YOUNG IDEA.

(13) What, in your opinion, is the best method of training young Yorkshires to get them steady and used to the show cage?

WHO IS TO BLAME?

(14) Is it your experience that the hen is responsible for type and quality, and the cock for colour and size?

TO BE OR NOT TO BE?

(15) Do you consider that classes should be provided at all large shows for even-marked birds?

TICKLISH!

(16) What is your opinion of the present standard as laid down by the Y.C.C.?

THE VALUE OF PEPPER.

(17) Do you not think that a well-fed, even-coloured bird should take more than a five-point precedence of an unfed bird equal in other respects?

WE WONDER!

(18) How many years would it take, commencing with the Belgian, Norwich and Lancashire birds, to breed birds similar to the winning Yorkshire of to-day?

Mr. J. Wilcock replies:—

(1) Buy some extra good stock birds off an experienced breeder and exhibitor. You may have to pay more for them, but they will be the cheapest in the end.

(2) Yes; if you do not get fresh blood you may breed your birds too much akin. You may breed with half cousins, and this is near enough for birds not too small for show bench.

(3) I do not care to breed with two of the same colour, but if I did so I should prefer two Yellows, as I believe you get them rather shorter in feather. In double buffing you increase feather and substance.

(4) In double yellowing, I think you get them shorter both in feather and substance.

(5) I prefer a good big Yellow cock and a Buff hen full of style and quality, though I do not think colour makes much difference.

(6) It is best, as a rule, for he will sometimes upset nest and eat the eggs. If the hen will not sit you might let the cock be with her, letting him stay if she then sits all right. If a good feeder he will be of much use, but some hens will not feed with the cock.

(7) No.

(8) Egg food, consisting of hard boiled eggs and bread soaked in water as soon as the hen has hatched first egg. Squeeze water from the bread and mix with the egg to a paste, together with a little maw seed; dandelion or watercress as green food. When the young leave parents give as above until they begin to colour feed, when it should be stopped.

(9) The early part. In the latter they are rather less in size.

(10) Two or three years.

(11) Never kept them longer than eight to 10 days.

(12) Either through draught, bad seed, or too much egg. Best remedy is to get bowels opened as quickly as possible. Give a drop of castor oil, feed on crushed hemp, and put a little treacle in drinking water.

(13) When four or five weeks old put a show cage before the one in which they are kept, and let run in and out all day. Now and then, when any are in the show cage, lift up and gently play with. This will make very steady.

(14) Yes.

(15) No; out of every thousand even marked birds shown, not one is honest. Classes should be open to even or unevenly marked birds, and judges should go for best Yorkshire, and not for the best marked.

(16) The present standard is all right.

(17) No; five points are enough; if equal in all other respects, the coloured one should win, as it will have cost its owner more money and trouble.

(18) It might take eight or 10 years, or even longer, as they would keep throwing back.

Mr. W. A. Cowgill replies:—

(1) Go in, say, for four hens and two cocks, costing about £3 the two sets. Purchase from a reliable fancier, and leave the selection entirely to him.

(2) Not if birds bred from the stock are satisfactory; if lacking size, position, or quality, introduce fresh blood to remedy same. From these I should work up strain of my own.

(3) Yes, from both courses.

(4) Double yellowing, in my opinion, affects bone substance and feather, and should only be resorted to when birds are too strong in build or have too much feather.

(5) Have no preference, having found results equal.

(6) Take the cock away when the hen has laid third egg, putting him back when the young are about 18 days old. I find, as a rule, the hen works better alone but if she began to neglect I should put cock back and try the difference. Some hens feed better if the cock is with them.

(7, 17) No.

(8) With three parts stale bread to one of egg and one of Spratt's Cod Liver Oil Bird Cage Food. Give plenty of hemp seed and green food, chiefly dandelion, watercress, or chickweed, after three days old. On taking away give egg food as above, with crushed hemp and rape seed.

(9) Second round, best results.

(10) Two years.

(11) Four to five days.

(12) In many cases through sour food or stale water. Keep cage and food vessel thoroughly clean, see that every particle of table food is removed before giving fresh, give fresh water twice a day during hot weather, and quinine and iron as a tonic twice a week. In first stages give as a remedy two or three drops castor oil, and if no better on following morning give a milk sop with a little composition added. Have found this treatment to work wonders.

(13) Hang show cage in front of the ordinary, placing some seed in the locker or a sprig of green food in the wires. Keep the cage on for two or three days, so as to get them thoroughly used to running in and out, after which run them out in the usual way, taking every care not to frighten. To get them to stand well for the show bench run out whenever you go into the room, and handle them as much as possible.

(14) Not altogether, but as a rule.

(15) Yes.

(16) Drawing is too long from thigh to head, also in neck, and ought never to have been sent out, seeing the standard is 6¾ inches for length and the one submitted 7 1-16.

(18) Could, I think, produce a fair specimen in about six years, though I have never tried.

Variations in Birds.

By F. FINN, B.A., F.Z.S.

The subject of variations in birds is of the highest importance to all fanciers, who are indeed the only people who can be said to have scientific knowledge of the subject—that is, knowledge based on observation and experience; for it is by working upon variations that all results in the Fancy have been obtained.

Divisions of Variations.

We may divide variations in birds into two classes; those which may be called spontaneous, and those which are induced by circumstances. The former may be divided into two categories—individual variations, or the difference between one bird and another (such variations forming a continuous series), and abrupt or discontinuous variations, in which the varying individual presents a wide difference from others of its kind.

Examples of induced variation are familiar to everybody in the colour-fed Canary and those Bullfinches which become black by the use of hemp seed. Spontaneous and natural variation is, of course, familiar to all fanciers, for it is on these that one places the value of show birds. I may instance the Goldfinch as a bird which may vary much individually, whilst in the Java Sparrow the individual variations are almost imperceptible. There must be some difference, however, or the birds would not be able to distinguish their own partners.

Examples of abrupt or discontinuous variations may be found in such variations as the white Blackbird, Cinnamon Sparrow, etc.

These abrupt colour variations generally fall under three heads, the white, or more or less complete albino, the black type or melanistic, and the pallid type, which may be either grey or cinnamon. Such birds as the yellow Canary and the Budgerigar seem to represent the albino forms of Green birds, since white Canaries are almost unknown and white Budgerigars completely so. Intermediate variations between the albino and normal form are of course common, being the pied specimens of which the London Sparrow furnishes numerous examples. It is notable that intermediate forms between cinnamon and grey varieties, and the normal type seem very rarely to occur, although the pale or pallid form may be varied with white. Thus, in the little Japanese Finch, the Bengalee (Uroloncha acuticauda), you may get dark brown and white, which is the normal form with the addition of white feathers, and cinnamon and white, but not a mixture of dark brown and cinnamon.

Albino Variations.

For a bird to be a complete albino, the eyes, bill and feet should all be devoid of pigment, which results in the eye becoming pink; and this may happen in the pale or cinnamon variety, but, as you are all well aware, this is not always the case; for instance, white Jackdaws and white Java Sparrows do not have pink eyes, while white Blackbirds do. This is a point of some practical importance for the fancier to consider in buying an albino bird; for albinism is not always permanent; but the albino, on a bird's moult, may revert to the naturally coloured form. Such a change, however, appears only to occur in specimens in which the beak, feet and eyes retain the natural colour. I have never known a case of such reversion in a pink-eyed bird, i.e., in one which had flesh-coloured bill and feet. A converse change may also take place; that is to say, a normally-coloured bird may become partially white, generally on advancing age, which looks as if the phenomenon were analogous to grey hairs in our own species and in domestic animals. It is to be noted that in albino varieties any red colour found in the type is pretty certain to be retained; thus I have seen a white Goldfinch with the usual red face, and everyone is familiar with the beautiful pink-breasted white Bullfinch which was exhibited at the Crystal Palace this year.

Induced Albinism.

A peculiar form of induced albinism, and one not to be passed over without notice, is the whitening of the dark legs of our Finches in those specimens that have been in confinement for some time. It is most remarkable that this should take place, because, as everybody knows, the legs of the green Canary, although the bird is born and bred in confinement, do not become white, neither do dark-legged Foreign Finches change the colour of their understandings.

Another familiar phenomenon is the disappearance of the carmine-red colour in the Crossbill, Linnet and Redpoll; the same thing occurs in the nearly related Rose Finch, which from a carmine-red bird moults into a brown one with a touch of old gold in its plumage. A very little known species of the same group—the splendid scarlet Sepoy Finch of the Himalayas—moults into a bright yellow when in captivity.

Examples of melanism in birds are of this induced character in many familiar cases, such as in the Bullfinch and the Skylark, but, of course, poultry and pigeon keepers are familiar with birds which are black from birth, and black forms also occur among wild birds, especially in the case of some Hawks and Eagles. Generally speaking, melanism is much rarer in birds than albinism. Thus, no one has ever succeeded in astonishing the world with a black Canary.

Curious Varieties.

Another very curious and important form of colour variation must be here alluded to; it is when a variety is produced which is neither black, white nor pallid, so much as one which shows a distinct alteration of pattern. A most familiar case of this is what is known as the Japan Peacock. In this bird, which is known to be produced as a sport from the ordinary Peacock, the wings are black, with purple and green edgings to the feathers instead of the usual speckled colour. Nevertheless, these birds are born white, and only assume a dark plumage as they grow. The hens of the variety always remain white, with cinnamon quills, and with a black tail and a greater or less amount of black splashing or peppering on the upper surface. These birds will breed true if paired together; if crossed with a common Peacock, intermediate forms are not produced, but the offspring follow one parent or the other. Another case is in the now rare dark-throated form of the Gold Pheasant. In this bird the throat is sooty and the shoulders black, whereas the common Gold Phoasaut has a buff throat and red shoulders. The centre tail feathers in the dark-throated form are also striped like the side ones; whilst in the Gold Pheasant the centre feathers differ from the rest by being spotted. The hens of this variety differ from the common Gold Pheasant by being much darker in the ground colour, and especially in having the side of the face black; the chicks are also darker.

These forms have occurred in domestic types, but some time ago a very remarkable example of the Little Owl appeared in the wild state in Italy. Normally, this Owl has very light eyes and plumage mostly barred. In the new variety, which was found to be produced by parents of the ordinary kind, the plumage was more streaked and the eyes dark, and thus it had the appearance of an altogether distinct species, and might have given us some idea of how species arise, had the whole family not been exterminated by local ornithologists.

CHAPTER XI.

True Finches, Buntings, and Grosbeaks. (Fringillina).

Dr. Sharpe, in the British Museum Catalogue, vol., xii., divides this family into three sub-families, as follows (the figures denote the number of species in each genus):—

FRINGILLINÆ:—Fringilla 5, Procarduelis 2, Carduelis 2, Chrysomitris 27, Callacanthis 1, Loxomitris 1, Acanthidops 1, Acanthis 5, Montifringilla 18, Rhodopechys 1, Rhynchostruthus 1, Rhodospiza 1, Erythrospiza 2, Petronia 6, Passer 26, Poliospiza 3, Alavio 1, Serinus 30, Sycalis 5, Pyrrhopkctes 1, Carpodacus 26, Pyrrhospiza 3, Loxia 2, Pyrrhula 10, Pinicola 2, Propyrrhula 1, Uragus 3.

EMBERIZINÆ:—Urocynchramus 1, Pyrrhulorhyncha 3, Emberiza 34, Miliaria 1, Fringillaria 7, Melophus 1, Pleetrophenax 2, Calcarius 3, Rhyncophanes 1, Chondestes 1, Calamospiza 1, Zonotrichia 9, Cyanospiza 4, Porphyrospiza 1, Haplospiza 2, Amphispiza 3, Poorspiza 14, Junco 11, Spizella 8, Poœcetes 1, Passerculus 4. Ammondromus 9, Melospiza 4, Peucœa 4, Passerella 2, Hœmopilla 10, Chamœospiza 1, Pyrgisoma 7, Saltatricula 1, Atlapetes 2, Pipilo 8, Embernagra 10, Coryphospiza 2, Emberizoides 1, Spiza 2, Pseudochloris 7, Neospiza 1, Phrygilus 9, Idiopsar 1, Spodiornis 1, Xenospingus 1, Dinca 3, Coryphospingus 2, Lophospingus 1, Schistospiza 1, Tiaris 1, Rhodospingus 2, Paroaria 6, Gubernatrix 1.

COCOTHRAUSTINÆ:—Geospiza 9, Camarhynchus 5, Cactornis 4, Chloris 3, Eophona 2, Chamœproctus 1, Cocothraustes 2, Hesperiphona 2, Mycerobas 1, Pyenorhamphus 3, Pheucticus 6, Hedymeles 2, Guiraca 6, Oryzoborus 7, Loxigilla 6, Neorhynchus 2, Piezorhina 1, Spermophila 36, Dolospingus 1, Melopyrrha 1, Catamblyrhynchus 1, Phonipara 4, Volatinia 1. Amaurospiza 3, Pyrrhuloxia 1, Cardinalis 2.

It will be obvious that in the scope of this work it will be impossible to note every genus, and in many cases only sufficient notice can be taken for purposes of identification. This family should have a diet, of mixed seeds, canary, rape, millet, hemp, sunflower, oats, paddy rice, maw, etc., unlimited green food, and some live insects such as garden and hedgerow will produce, supplimented by meal worms. A saucer of some good soft mixture (vide second chapter) should also be in the aviary, or cage. If any young should be reared, an unlimited supply of insects would be necessary, as the young would be fed largely on these for the first fortnight of their existence. I have found green food (general garden weeds) an important element in the rearing of the young of this family.

THE TEYDEAN CHAFFINCH (Fringilla teydea).—This is an extremely rare species, but has been bred in this country by Mr. E. G. B. Meade-Waldo. He found it to be extremely pugnacious, the song of the male, which never fed either its mate or young, being similar to that of our Chaffinch, but of greater volume and more prolonged. It is a native of the Island of Teneriffe, and is of a fine and handsome appearance, and it is certainly regretable that this and the following species are not freely imported, as both species are very handsome and full of character.

Adult female: Above, olive-brown; wing coverts, primaries and quills, olive edged with grey; tail feathers dusky, edged with grey; head, olive; sides of face and under surface, pale ashy-grey; throat and ear coverts, brownish; under tail coverts, white; beak, horn colour, lower mandible much paler than upper; legs and feet, horn colour. Total length, 6¼ins.; tail, barely 3ins.

MADEIRAN CHAFFINCH (Fringilla Maderensis).—Some years ago I saw a pair of this fine and rare species in Dr. Butler's bird room, and very fine birds they were too, looking perfectly happy and contented in their roomy box cage; he informed me that their song was of greater volume and more varied that that of F. cœlebs. So far this species has not bred in captivity, principally I think from want of opportunity, specimens seldom coming to hand.

Adult male: Above, dark slate-blue, with the lower back and rump greenish-yellow; lesser wing coverts, black, with grey outer edges; median coverts, white, forming a conspicuous wing-bar; greater coverts, tipped with white, and quills outwardly edged with yellowish-olive; forehead, black; head and neck, dark slate-blue; sides of face, throat and chest, fawn colour, merging into white on the abdomen; breast and sides of body washed with pink; beak: upper mandible, slate-grey, lower mandible, white; legs and feet, light horn colour. Total length, 5⅝ins.; tail, 2⅞ins. The winter plumage of the male is but little duller than its summer garment, being more olive yellow above, and the hues of its lower surface not so pure; the bill is pale brown

Adult female: Much duller than the male; above, ashy-olive, with the lower back and wings greenish yellow; sides of face, throat and chest, ashy-grey; neck and sides of body washed with brown.

There are several other desirable species to which owing to exegiences of space only a passing notice is given.

F. moreleti: Similar to maderensis, but lacks the pink on the lower breast, and the under surface is washed with pale rufous.

F. canariensis: Similar to maderensis and morcleti, but has the yellowish-green of the upper surface restricted to the lower back and rump; has no black frontal bands, and is more fulvous than morcleti on the under surface of body and sides of face.

F. spodiogenys: Above, mostly yellowish green, the green being deeper on the lower back and wings; upper tail coverts, grey; lesser wing coverts, black edged with bluish-grey; median coverts, white; greater coverts, black, tipped with white; remainder of wing feathers, black, the quills edged with pale yellow; forehead, black; crown of head, sides of face and neck, slate-blue; coral streak, black; the under surface, vinous pink.

THE YELLOW THROATED ROCK SPARROW (Patronia petronella).—This is a handsome aviary bird, and one very likely to breed in captivity. It is a shy bird in a state of nature, only frequenting the towns for nesting and roosting purposes. The courting display or love dance is very similar to that of Passer demesticus, but looks very beautiful with the brilliant yellow feathers of its throat spread out fanwise. During the breeding season it should not be associated with birds smaller or weaker than itself; at other times they are amiable enough in any company. These birds both hop and run.

Adult male: Upper surface, including wings and tail, brown, mottled with black on the upper back; middle and greater coverts tipped with buff and margined with ruddy brown; quills edged with ruddy brown; tail feathers edged with whitcish-brown; crown, rich dark brown; eye streak, cream colour; under surface, brown, with abdomen and under tail coverts, white; a patch of rich canary yellow adorns the throat; beak, horn colour; legs and feet, brown. Total length, 6½ ins.; tail, 2⅜ ins.

Adult female: Slightly smaller and the area of yellow on the throat smaller and not so rich in colour as that of the male. Total length, 6¼ins.; tail, 2⅜ins. Eggs: Clutch usually 4, of a pale greenish-blue, thickly mottled and lined with brown and grey, somewhat variable in size and colour. Habitat: According to Stark, from Cape Town to Damara Land, eastward through Cape Colony and Natal into the Transvaal, northward to the Zambesi and Nyasaland.

CANARY NOTES IN BRIEF.

By CLAUDE ST. JOHN.

POINTS FOR NOVICE EXHIBITION.

Now that the show season has once more got fairly under way, it may not come amiss to devote these few brevities to a variety of minor matters which may be of much interest to the raw recruit in the exhibition world. The more advanced exhibitor will not require such trivial knowledge, neither will he, let us hope, begrudge the space devoted to the latest recruits on the bottom rung of the ladder.

A NOTE ON WASHING.

The actual process of washing and preparing of birds for show has already been very fully dealt with by competent authorities, but there is one little item that generally gets overlooked, although it is of considerable importance in turning out a bird in the best possible condition. It is the character of the water used for washing, its "hardness" or "softness" having a very considerable effect on the result. In some districts the only available water supply is extremely hard, and this not only requires the use of more soap to clear away the dirt, but has a more wearing and injurious effect upon the web of the feather than "soft water." If the water is at all "hard" it should be "softened" by allowing it to boil a few months before using, and then dissolving a little borax powder in the first and second bowls of water. This will render even the hardest water beautifully soft, and aid a great deal in removing dirt without injury to the feathers, but it will be best for the beginner to omit it from the last bowl in which the bird is finally rinsed, for the simple reason that with very soft water it is much more difficult to thoroughly rinse all trace of soap out of the feathers—a matter of the very greatest importance.

PREPARING THE CAGES.

These, of course, must be washed and made scrupulously clean inside before a newly-washed bird is placed in them. If the cage has been packed away for any length of time pay close attention to the inside portion of the wires. Neglect this and you may probably find a beautifully groomed bird smeared and smudged soon after it is placed therein. But whilst paying the strictest attention to all points concerning cleanliness and a suitable colour of dressing inside to contrast with the tone of the bird, be careful to avoid anything which could possibly be construed into distinctive marking, as this may place both yourself and the judge in a false position. Pay attention to any rules you may find in the schedule as to the covering allowed on cage floors, and when finally despatching the bird do not forget to send along a water tin on the cage, but do not leave water in it. Send it along empty; it will, or should, be filled at the show.

MINOR DEFECTS.

The question often arises as to the effect of minor physical defects upon a bird's chance of winning, and it is a somewhat moot point as to whether they should handicap a bird. It is a question that must of necessity be largely left to a judge's discretion, but in a general way it may be taken for granted that such defect will tell against a bird more or less according to the nature of the defect and the purpose of the bird. Thus, a bird, we will suppose, has twisted claws which prevent it grasping its perch properly, if it equals in all other typical points its competitors, the defect, being probably the result of some accident, should be only a slight detriment, yet, as the bird was otherwise no better, but only equal to, its competitor, it would suffice to put it in second place, whereas had it stood away from the rest in superior typical qualities it might with justice be given prior place. On the other hand, if the birds were competing in a class for breeding pairs, this defect should be given far more weight, and if it is sufficiently pronounced as to impede the bird's movements, such claws should be a disqualification. It is well to bear in mind always that a judge can only consider the birds placed before him on their merits, and as the prizes are conferredly given for the best and most perfect birds brought together, it is only natural to suppose that a physical defect, even though it does not alter or interfere with a bird's typical points, must of necessity handicap it when placed in competition with birds having no such defects. It is best for the novice to keep such birds at home unless they possess some quite superlative merits, and even then he should be prepared to lose.

WILD BIRD LIFE.

A Vanishing Species.

Improved drainage has been the cause of many species failing to continue to nest here. One of these is the Ruff, so called from the frill or ruff of feathers round the neck. This is at its full beauty during the breeding season, and therefore many are shot upon the Continent for setting-up purposes. I once had the opportunity of examining about forty skins of this species, and among them I failed to find two exactly alike; so much do they vary, that a flock of them has a very patchy, almost piebald appearance. At one time they bred regularly upon the marshes and swamps of the East Coast,, but it is doubtful if any manage to do so now, although possibly a few pairs try each season.

Blackheaded Gulls.

The Blackheaded Gulls now seen upon the ploughed land, always appear to be somewhat out of place. We generally associate these birds with the sea-shore and rolling waves. An old notion prevailed at one time that to see these birds inland was indicative of bad weather, and there might be in days gone by, have been some reason to think so, for it was only occasionally during the autumn and winter that we saw them; but now they appear to have increased so much that the different flocks have to spread themselves over the country to get a living, so that we note them regularly each year They feed much as does the familiar Rook, and it is a good thing for the latter birds that they do not nest In a similar manner, or our dark feathered birds would get pushed out.

A Rare Warbler.

Nearly every season we get reports of the nesting of that rare summer visitor, the Marsh Warbler. Nesting chiefly occurs in the West of England, and it was not until last season that a nest was found in Norfolk, a district that one would think well adapted to the wants of this species. Probably it has occurred before, but it has not been located. The bird has the same shy habits of the more familiar Reed and Sedge Warblers, with a rather bolder and more prolonged flight. Like many other marsh birds, it sings a little by night as well as by day. The nest located in Norfolk was found in a tussock of long sedge grass, and was placed well above the ground; the eggs are somewhat similar to those of the Reed bird, but are more decidedly marked with greenish-brown, and darker markings of purplish-black.

THE YOUNG NATURALIST.

Prizes of 1s. and two of 6d. each will be given after next week for the best three anecdotes about birds written on postcards. Competitors must be children under sixteen years of age, and must state from where stories are taken.

The Selfish Greenfinch.

Greenfinches are extremely selfish. An old cock bird of this species has been seen after drinking his fill, to stand in the middle of the water and defy, with open beak, every other bird that came to drink.—A. JACKSON (aged 12), 16, Bilston Road, Wolverhampton.

*The Beautiful Bullfinch.

The Bullfinch is one of the most beautiful British birds; its bright red breast makes it look quite majestic. Its song is more of a deep whistle; if taught carefully it can imitate most tunes. When wild you can only hear its note when close by. The female and male never part throughout the whole year. They may be seen wandering together in the hedgerow in search of food in the depth of winter, even when the snow is on the ground.—Sent by H. S. WELCH (aged 14), The Palace School, Bewdley, Worcestershire.

*Doctoring the Birds.

My father has a little Budgerigar which has not been well lately. Father gave it some magnesia first, but it did the bird no good, so he gave it some castor oil. You would, perhaps, wonder how he could give a bird castor oil, because it would not open its mouth like a human being. Father got a stick and put it into the bottle of castor oil and touched the bird's bill with it. The bird grabbed at the stick, and by so doing it got the castor oil. Father has always given his birds castor oil when they have been ailing, and he has brought many a bird round when we have thought it was quite done for.—FLORRIE CORNWELL (aged 14), 21, Bamboo Terrace, North Shields.

A Pet Kingfisher.

My father gave me an extraordinary bird. It is not much larger than the Swallow; the legs are disproportionately small, and the bill exceedingly long, the crown of the head and the coverts of the wings being of a deep blackish green spotted with bright azure. The whole underside of the body is orange-coloured; a broad mark of the same passing from the bill right past the eyes. Beyond that is a large white spot. The tail is short, and consists of twelve feathers of a rich deep blue. The feet are of reddish yellow. Father calls it a Kingfisher. It will eat little fishes which my brother catches for it, and which we put in a shallow bath; it flies over its prey and dives down to catch them.—Sent by SISSIE SPENCE (aged 12), 8, South Carnaby Street, Leeds.
